The Red Wings won the first game of the twilight double bill by 6-3 as Si Johnson went the seven inning route, limiting the Giants to seven hits. In the second game Rochester registered a 3-1 win, thanks largely to the five-hit pitching of Johnny Grodzicki.

The fourth place Syracuse Chiefs stretched their winning streak to five straight by taking the series opener from Buffalo, 3-2. A double by Barig, a triple by Taylor and a wild pitch by Bob Kline, losing pitcher, gave Syracuse all its tallies in the sixth.

Toronto Leafs also boast a modest three-game winning streak, the last link in the chain coming when they raked Newark's George Barley and Ivy Paul Andrews for 15 base hits and a 6-3 victory. Lefty Bill Weir of no-hit no-run fame scattered 11 Newark hits.

In the other game a tight mound duel between Baltimore and Montreal was ended in a scoreless tie by rain at the end of the fifth. Pete Sivess allowed the Royal two hits while his mates collected five from Marvin Duke.

WITH THE LAWN BOWLERS

by

GEO. E. WATKIN

Our club was officially opened on Wednesday by our President who told us in his opening remarks that we have to date thirty-eight new members, this is indeed a real boom, now it is up to our club to hold them. If these were lady members it would be no trouble at all.

Our President stole the glory in our opening tournament, taking first place with three wins with a total of 41 points, he had with him Mrs. Watkin and O. Hales.

Alf Symons came next with three wins with a total of 39 points, with him was Mrs. Zeran and Mr. Ford.

Geo. Woodley was winner for two games high, his team Mrs. Wonnacott and Rev. L. Wight.

E. Zeran was winner for one game high, his team Mrs. Ward and Mr. E. Trueman.

The greens were real good for so early in the season.

Of the new members who took part in the tournament and I came in actual contact with was Mrs. Rowe, Doug Rowe, Colonel Bonisteel, Mrs. Fry, E. Trueman, Mr. Ford, Mrs. C. Bishop and Ab Wonnacott, all these played a very good game and will make real good bowlers, if there were any other new members I have not mentioned it is because I did not come in contact with them.

Andy and Harvey handled the tournament to the satisfaction of everyone.

The secretary is talking dues—"nothing new".

It was very unfortunate that we were not represented at Madoc on Wednesday. Our games chairman tried hard to raise a team but without success, this can be accounted for by the late opening of our club. If we expect to get outside teams to our tournaments we will have to be represented at all of the provincial games.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz Associated Press Sports Writer).

New York, June 9 (AP)— How much longer are the top notch lightweights going to get away with dodging Sam Anott, the Louisville slugger....The tattlers have it Lew Riggs would be playing third for the Giants if Bill M'Kechnie didn't demand Jimmy Ripple in return.. Tony Galento put Nathan Mann and Harry Thomas to sleep faster than Joe Louis did—so what?

Bob Quinn, carrying the torch for a deader ball in the National League, says it will cut down accidents....Best long shot in the U.S. open: Bobby Cruickshank, the Richmond veteran. Some of the smarter pros think this can't help but be his tournament....Mrs. O. B. Keeler, whose golf sayings are almost as offical as her old man's, is around saying Patty Berg is a lead pipe cinch to overpower the field when the girlies tee off at Weeburn in August.

One minute interview with Billy Terry: "I asked the Phillies about Al Hollingsworth ...... Prothro astounded me by demanding either Bonura or Whitehead, plus Lohrman or Kampouris....Also they wanted the Giants to pay half of Bonura's salary if he was included. .....That floored me."

Personals: Young Bill M'Kechnie, who has a swell voice, was given a radio audition during the Reds' stay here....Tommy Loughran, the old light heavyweight, gives El Galento just one minute against Joe Louis ....Tony Lazzeri has no plans. But he can afford to wait till next winter when there'll be several managerial vacancies in each major loop.

So Lou Nova insists on Louis next? Well it's his funeral ......—The Texas Christian board of directors have ruled no other footballer shall ever wear No. 8, the numeral carried so gloriously the past two years by little Davey O'Brien.

P. MARCHILDON GOING GREAT FOR CORNWALL BISONS

Former Toronto Hurler Allows Only Four Hits in Defeating Gloversville

WHIFFS SIXTEEN

Marchildon Hits Triple to Drive in Pair of Runs to Help Cause

(By The Canadian Press)

Young Babe Marchildon, the Penetanguishene, Ont., pitcher who found double "A" ball just a little bit too fast for his first time up, is bidding for another trial with Toronto's International League Club.

The Maple Leafs sent Marchildon down to Cornwall of the Canadian-American League a couple weeks ago for more seasoning. And Babe, in gaining his second straight victory, showed he is just about ready to return.

He tossed three-hit ball last night as Bisons downed Gloversville 6-1 and set a season's record for strikeouts, whiffing 16 batters. Only his wildness marred what otherwise was a brilliantly pitched game. He gave seven bases on balls.

Cornwall got only seven hits, but five of them were for extra bases, a double, three triples and a home run. Marchildon hit one of the triples himself, driving in a pair of runs

Ogdensburg Colts climbed to within two games of first place with a pair of victories over Utica as the league-leading Oswego Netherlands bowed 6-3 to Rome.

Bill Hurley gave only three hits as Colts won the first game 2-1 while Frank McNally allowed only six for a 6-0 shutout in the second. Norm Stafford for Utica just about matched Hurley on the mound in the opener, allowing but four hits, but his mates didn't help him afield. Both runs scored on him were unearned as the Braves made four errors.

Ted Springer pitched and batted Ottawa Senators to their fourth straight victory a 9-4 decision against Amsterdam. He gave up 12 hits but scattered them well and got three hits himself to drive in a trio of runs.

In the game at Rome, Eddie Amend, after allowing the Nets three runs in the first inning shut them out the rest of the way while his mates picked up enough tallies in the third, fifth and seventh to win.

HAMILTOM REAL THREAT IN LOOP

Defeat Orillia Terriers 21-18 and Tie for Second Place

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton's threat in the Ontario Lacrosse Association senior series loomed more apparent last night as the Tigers moved into a tie with Orillia for second place in the league.

Mainly due to the uncanny scoring ability of four Indian players, the Ambitious City squad has the best record in the league to date, having lost only one of five starts.

Two of the quartette, Bill Isaacs and Jackie Jamieson, led the Tiger assault as they won 21-18 in a wild game at Orillia last night. Isaacs led another assault which police had to stop in the second period when he tangled with Westenfelt and all players joined in. The ringleaders were given 10-minute penalties.

Bore Brunt of Attack

Jack Williams and Coach Bucko McDonald bore the brunt of the attack as Orillia tried to surmount Hamilton's 10-6 lead at half-time. Terriers lagged 13-12 at three-quarter mark but could not overcome the margin.

It was a gentleman's game at St. Catharines where only three minor penalties were given each team as the Athletics took a one-game lead in the league by coasting home14-8 over Brampton. The winless Excelsiors held the Mann Cup holders 1-1 in the opening frame, but faded to 9-3 at three-quarters.

Mimico thumped Fergus 12-3 at home to jump into third place tie with the Thistles. After a slow first quarter, which they trailed 2-1, the Mountaineers were quick to rally before the great goal-tending of Ray Mortimer, and went far ahead. Fergus did not score again until early in the last session.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

Ken J. Colling

If Johnnie Bawden and the Shell "Oilers" are to be stopped in their apparent march through the local softball parade, it is apparently up to Chuck Barnett's Corbys A.C. tonight. In their initial meeting the "Oilers" won handily 10 to 2 being the final score. That was on May 22nd and Bawden has beaten every club in the league since. On May 31st Dracups were outlucked and lost to the Oilers 9-6, but even then Bawden was master of all he surveyed. According to street talk Bawden will be sent back against the hard-hitting Corbys tonight in an effort to chalk up his fifth consecutive victory of the current mushball season. Chuck Barnett feels with such sluggers as Art Cole, Harold Reid, Eddie Schrieder, the Barriage boys and Murray in their lineup, the Corbyville nine is equal to the occasion of stoping the Oilers and breaking Bawden's string of wins.

We understand Leo Goyer, who played defence for the Belleville 'Hi-speeds' last winter and centre field for "Red" Townsend's junior softballers thus far this season, pulled up stakes and left for Simcoe, Ont., early this week. According to rumour Goyer was offered employment in Simcoe, where he is expected to play hockey next winter, unless the trip turns out to be an excursion and pleasure jaunt. We also understand another member of "Toots" Holway's last winter squad is slated to leave Belleville early in the fall. With Goyer in Simcoe, Jim Pepper in England and still a third to leave town, the Holway-Cook-Yanover combination will have to do a little scouting on their own to replenish their ranks, especially on the defence. However, we believe Steve Hook, who hurls softball for the junior "milkmen" is a defenceman of parts, having seen service with the Waterloo juniors last year. It might be a little on the warm side to talk hockey these days, but maybe the thoughts of puck-chasing will cool us off a bit.

There'll be big doing's in the village of Cooperstown, in Oswego County in the Empire State of New York, next Monday when baseball's centenary will be observed and baseball moguls from the majors, minors and amateurs will celebrate the 100th anniversary of the birth of baseball in 1839. According to statistics Col. Toner Doubleday drew the first rules and regulations taken in part from an old English game known as 'town ball'. At any rate a memorial is being unveiled in honour of Doubleday at Cooperstown on Monday and an old time baseball game with the players wearing top hats and long flowing mustaches, the accepted dress for the game a hundred years ago. In the early days of baseball the pitcher threw underhand, as is the case with softball today. The first balls used were even smaller than the present baseball used in this modern age. Incidentally did you know that science has yet to invent a machine for sewing of baseball seams, which are still sewed by hand if satisfactory results are to be gained.

Local wrestling interests are endeavouring to hook up with Johnny Tunney, promoter and matchmaker for the Maple Leaf A.C. in Toronto, in an effort to stimulate professional rasslin' in Belleville. Every week top-ranking grapplers pass through Belleville enroute to Ottawa and Montreal or in reverse order to Toronto. They always stop in Belleville and stretch their legs about 4.00 in the afternoon. Many of these grapplers today travel in their own personal automobiles, taking a day off for travelling between bouts. Manager Norm Barriage, of the Hume arena, is trying to interest Promoter Johnny Tunney into having some of his better class wrestlers stop over in Belleville while passing through and be featured as headliners for future wrestling bouts in Belleville. The idea is not only practical, but one that should meet with popular favour, providing, however, it is put into practice soon.

An error appeared in the box score of the Belleville at Picton game when it was stated that Lefty Weeks was charged with the loss of the game. Such is or was not the case. When Sammy Ellis left the mound there were three on and one out, Ellis being responsible for the tying and winning runs placed on the base paths, therefore Weeks could not be held responsible. While on the subject of baseball the locals journey to Napanee on Monday and return home next Thursday versus the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" here.

Luckins "Ferdinands" butchered the Y's Men 23 to 13 in a "No Kick" loop mushball game last evening at the Collegiate grounds. The win elevated Jack Cooke's charges into second place, behind Pete Belnap's undefeated "clippers".

Sports Briefs—If this early heat wave continues over the week end, you'd better hustle to your favourite swimmin' hole early on Sunday to avoid congestion, er sumpin'!...Ahoy, the Toronto Leafs have won three straight and that is really news of the first letter....Joe Krakauskas lost another for Washington, but it was errors this time that beat him....Seems queer to see the Giants in sixth place, but the National League race is far from settled as yet....More than one club will be atop the heap before the curtain rings down in the fall ....Mike Jacobs says it's Bob Pastor versus Lou Nova or Joe Louis in the late summer, remember the last Pastor-Louis go, billed as a fight, but turning out to resemble a six day bicycle race.

ESCAPING MEN NOTICED SMOKE

Birkenhead, England, June 9 (AP)—Rear-Admiral Bruce Fraser said today that the last of the four men who escaped from the submarine Thetis saw smoke within the craft just before he left the escape chamber.

Vice Admiral Fraser, attending a conference on further efforts to raise the submersible in which 99 men perished last week, said he could not say whether the smoke blocked escape for the others.

"It is what is known as an electrical fire," he said. "Arnold (stoker W. C. Arnold) who was the last to come up said that he saw (through a small window) a little smoke coming out before he left the escape chamber.

"There is no question of secrecy about this but one must not conjecture."

London, June 9 (CP)—The Daily Herald (Labor) today predicted the early removal of Earl Stanhope from his post of First Lord of the Admiralty in new criticism over the loss of the submarine Thetis with 99 men.

"Lord Stanhope's brief and undistinguished career as First Lord of the Admiralty will shortly come to an end," the newspaper predicted. "He will be moved either to the back benches of the House of Lords or to some unimportant ministerial post. His removal will take place soon after the completion of the inquiry into the Thetis disaster.

"A change in the admiralty is expected to lead up to an important ministerial shake-up."

Pinpoints on Map Today a Symbol Of Real Amity

Washington, June 9 (CP)—Two pinpoints on the map of the Pacific became today a symbol of Anglo-American amity.

The islands—Canton and Enderbury—were referred to by President Roosevelt in his toast to the King at the White House dinner last night.

"Two small uninhabited islands in the centre of the Pacific," the President said, "became of sudden interest to the British Empire and to the United States as stepping stones for commercial airplanes between America and Australasia. Both nations claimed sovereignty. Both nations had good cases."

He went on to say that a long-drawn-out argument could have brought ill will and have delayed the use of the islands by either nation. A solution finally was found by the joint use of both islands by both nations, with the question of sovereignty deferred for 50 years.

Mr. Roosevelt commented that if this example "could only be universally followed, relations between all countries would rest upon a sure foundation, and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy, a prosperous and peaceful world."

The islands are members of the Phoenix Group of eight, nearly in the centre of the Pacific, a short distance south of the Equator.

Shaw's Play 'Candida' Given Smooth Performance By Cast of Toronto Actors

Presented under the auspices of the Nurses' Alumnae Association of the Belleville General Hospital, the Comedy Theatre Players' production of "Candida" was received with enthusiasm by a large audience in Belleville Collegiate Auditorium. The cast, a Toronto group which has attained much prominence throughout the province, did full justice to this ever popular and zestful comedy-drama, one of George Bernard Shaw's earlier successes.

Actors of experience and unusual talent, the Comedy Theatre Players gave splendid interpretations of the complex characters gathered together under the roof of St. Dominic's Parsonage, Victoria Park, London. Directed by Melville Keay, the performance was smooth and finished, and the cast merit high praise for their efforts.

The story of the play, familiar to lovers of the drama, centres about the eternal triangle as presented by Candida, her minister-husband who challenges the conditions of the times, and the young poet, O'Sullivan, captured by Candida's serenity, charm, and her motherly heart. Candida's choice of "the weaker" of the two which is surprisingly, her husband provides an interesting finale for the play.

"Candida", whose natural, strong and independent qualities make her one of Shaw's outstanding feminine characters was interpreted with originality by Arden Keay, whose lovely voice was a delight to hear. Robert Chidwick, as Rev. James Mavor Morel, Candida's husband, was a convincing figure of the individual fighting hopefully and in vain against the forces of the economic system, fired by his own self-satisfaction. The part of Mr. Burgess, Candida's father was taken with distinction by Mr. Lambert Larking, formerly with the Maurice Coulborne players, who brought to his characterization a seasoned art. Joseph O'Sullivan was Eugene Marchbanks, the poet, imbued with a fanciful love for Candida and an uncanny insight and presented this role in masterly style.

One of the finest characterizations was that of Christina Templeton as the secretary Proserpine Garnet, who by voice and gesture captured the spirit of the part, the unhappy independence of the first independent women of that era. Dudley Doughty as Rev. Alexander Mill completed a very well balanced cast, as the young curate to whom his superior was a model hero.

The play was well patronized and the proceeds will add to the funds for the Alumnae project, the children's ward at the hospital as a memorial to the late Dr. Connor. The executive of the Association includes: Honorary President —R. Thompson, president— M. A. Fitzgerald, first vice president—E. Wright, second vice president— D. Williams, secretary—E. Sullivan, treasurer — K. Brickman, flower convener—E. Lang and registrar—K. Brickman.

POLICE COURT

A crowded court room of curious spectators was in evidence today as Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., opened the proceedings, but those who had come in curiosity left without satisfaction, as the majority of the cases to be presented were enlarged until Monday owing to the absence of Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C., who is out of the city attending the funeral of his mother, who died recently.

Of interest to the curious court crowd was the appearance of 16 men, all charged with frequenting a gambling establishment. The men were apprehended last week end following two police raids upon alleged gambling establishments. The charges were not officially read in open court today, the 16 men being lined up before His Worship, who personally enlarged the entire matter, collectively, until Monday. Police allege both card and dice games were in progress, at two different establishments, when their raids were successfully carried out.

Two transients, Robert Briere and Wilfred Gongeau, loudly replied "guilty, sir" as the pair appeared on charges of intoxication. The conventional 14 days in the common jail followed the default of the payment of the levied fines.

STOCO LAKE SELECTED AS SCENE OF PICNIC

The annual summer picnic for members and families of the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada, Belleville Branch No. 201 will be held at Stoco Lake this year, members of the executive decided at a meeting held last night.

Veterans of the Tweed branch will be invited to attend and officers of the association anticipate a large crowd at this popular resort.

The meeting held last night in the Front Street clubrooms was the last of the current season. Official operations of the club will be suspended for the summer months.

VICE-PRESIDENT

In fact, Representative Jasper Bell said afterwards: "It was sort of like our church socials in Missouri."

Cutaways and Business Suits

And the King, who so readily extended his hand to a Vanderbilt, a Lodge, a Rockefeller, and a score of Congressmen in quick succession did not seem to notice that some men wore business suits instead of Oxford gray cutaways like his own.

Or that Senator W. J. Bulow of South Dakota carried a white 10-gallon hat with his formal gear instead of a gray topper like the King's.

The Queen, carrying a dainty ruffled parasol which matched her bouffant white dress and picture hat, put out her white-gloved hand without waiting to see if women whom she greeted would curtsy. About half of those presented did so.

An inch-wide diamond circlet clasped three strands of pearls at the Queen's neck. A diamond clasp on her white purse, a diamond bracelet and diamond and pearl earrings completed the array. The blistering sun shone on many other fine jewels.

Mrs. Ogden Mills, widow of a former Secretary of the Treasury, wore a double strand of pearls. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., the former Ethel Du Pont, had the single strand which the President's wife has given all her daughters-in-law.

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt curtsied low to the Queen and talked to the King for five minutes. Admiral Richard Byrd of Antarctic fame chatted with the King, who was heard asking Attorney General Frank Murphy about sit-down strikes.

But it was in their garden tours that the King and Queen rubbed elbows—literally — with hundreds. Athough only 100 or so were presented by the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay, dozens of others got smiles.

Stolen Car Found In Trent Canal

Frankford, Ont.—(Special)—Discovered submerged in twenty feet of water by a group of bathers swimming in the Trent Canal near the paper-mill here yesterday, a 1929 model Ford coach, said to have been stolen from a Trenton garage last fall, was hauled from its watery bed by police, canal officials and the aid of Charles Hogle Belleville truck-driver.

The mud-and-slime covered car is said to be owned by a man named Gerald Booth, Trenton resident. Ignition and light switches were discovered "turned on" indicating that the car had plunged into the canal after darkness had set in.

Lyle Bamber, twenty-two year old resident of this village discovered the sunken car when his foot touched something "hard" in the water near the canal bank. Subsequent investigation revealed the object to be the automobile. Bamber immediately notified Police Constable Lockwood and Canal Superintendent Lloyd Hanna. They commandeered the services of Hogle's truck and succeeded in hauling the car from the canal bottom. A mudcat swimming in the canal was hauled to the surface with the vehicle.

Police Constable Lockwood stated today that the car had been left at Graham's garage in Trenton by its owner, last fall and thought to have been stolen from that place later. Further investigations of the affair now under way are expected to bring out more developments, Constable Lockwood stated.

21-GUN SALUTE FOR KING ALONE

President Roosevelt Directs U.S. Navy Honor King of Britain

Washington, June 9 (CP) — The United States Navy, host of the King and Queen today during a brief voyage down the Potomac to Mount Vernon, ordered greater honors for his Majesty than for its own commander-in-chief.

At President Roosevelt's direction, the salute of 21 guns customarily given the President and heads of other states was reserved for the King alone.

Otherwise all the navy flourishes were put into the program for the leisurely 15-mile voyage aboard the White House Yacht Potomac. Some of the ceremonies are fixtures in the British as well as the United States navy and date back past Lord Nelson's day.

The navy ordered both the President's flag and the Royal standard flown. There was no conflict for position between the emblems of the commanders of the world's two greatest navies. The President's flag flies from the mainmast and the Royal standard from the bow

MISSING BILLS FOUND ON WAY O INCINERATOR

Shreveport, La., June 9 (AP)—A distraught couple waved down a garbage truck bound for the city incinerator. Somewhere in the refuse, they explained, must be $60 in bills which had disappeared. The driver allowed them to toss derbis into the street scrap by scrap. He heard a gleeful shout as they came to a mussed magazine. Between its pages were all the missing bills.

Butter Prices Continue Strong

Toronto, June 9.—Butter continued to show strength during Thursday's session of the Toronto open produce market, while cheese, was steady to a shade easier, according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Little change occurred in eggs.

Prevailing light arrivals in fresh receipts for this time of the year and a ready clearance in the limited offerings pushed prices still fractionally higher on the butter market. Trading was inclined to be quiet in the afternoon, however. Ontario creamery solids traded at 22 1-4c for No. 1 grades and 20 3-4c for 38 score. Prints held unchanged at 23 1-2 to 23 3-4c for top grades and 22 3-4c to 23c for 38 score.

Generally steady prices ruled on the egg market. Supplies were in fair volume and demand was not active, with shipments of lower grades difficult to clear. Graded shipments closed out the day at 20 1-2c for grade A-large, 18 1-2c for mediums, 16c for B's and 15c for C grades.

Montreal, June 9.— (CP)— Most price held stationary in light trading on open produce markets here yesterday, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Quebec No. 1 pasteurized in wholesale jobbing lots made 22 5-8. Receipts: 2,049 boxes.

Ontario white and colored cheese brought 11 1-8 to 11 1-4 and Quebec white and colored 11. Receipts, 2,132 boxes.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases were offered at 22 to 22 1-2 cents a dozen for A-large, 19 to 19 1-2 for A-medium, 18 for B-large, 16 for C. Receipts: 1,270 cases, including 512 for export

Dr. Harcourt A. Morgan Honored with LL.D.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Morgan, Bridge Street West, have returned from London, Ontario, where they attended convocation at Western University on Wednesday. It was an occasion of deep interest to Dr. Morgan as his brother Harcourt A. Morgan, Chairman of the TVA (Tennessee Valley Authority) in the United States was honored with the LL.D. (Honoris Causa).

At the same time Sir William Mulock now 94 years of age was honored with the same degree.

An interesting coincidence is to be noted in connection with the honors paid these men. It was fifty years to the very day since Sir William Mulock conferred on Harcourt A. Morgan his bachelor's degree at the University of Toronto. Dr. H. A. Morgan is a graduate of the O.A.C., Guelph.

Black On Yellow For 1940 Plates

Guelph, Ont., June 9 (CP) — Thousands of Ontario's licence plates for 1940 have been manufactured at the Guelph Reformatory here. The plates consist of black letters on a canary yellow background. Highway Department officials said tests showed the plates have a high degree of visibility even in poor light.

SOVEREIGNS

The brilliant reception, demonstrated anew the international friendship pledged last night at a state dinner by King George and President Roosevelt, took place less than 100 yards from the spot where victorious British troops held a mock legislative session in the House chamber 125 years ago and then sacked and burned the capitol.

Smile and Hand-shake.

Seventy-four-year-old Senator W. E. Borah (Rep., Idaho), Dean of the Senate, and an outspoken Isolationist, was the first, other than the reception committee, to meet the King and Queen after they were escorted inside by a reception committee headed by Senator Key Pittman (Dem., Nevada), chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

On the Capitol plaza, blazing under a hot sun, thousands cheered the arrival of the Royal visitors. Although the top was up on the car in which they orde, the Queen carried the parasol which had shielded her from the sun during yesterday's tumultuous reception.

Scores of women who waited in the reserved section in front of the capitol also had brought parasols to protect them from the scorching sun, but police forced them to put these away to permit those behind to see the Royal arrival.

Washington, June 9 —(CP) — Washington awoke to its second and final day of Royal pageantry today and crowds again lined the streets to see the King ride to the Capitol to meet the legislators of the United States.

The prospect of more thundershowers, which held off yesterday until after the elaborate garden party at the British Embassy, created the only possibility of subduing the brilliant pageantry.

Under the great dome of the Capitol rotunda, banked with ferns and palms for the morning reception, places were arranged for the Royal party and a Senate and House Committee in front of a Mural of Pocahontas, the first Indian woman to be presented at the Court of St. James's four centuries ago.

Paintings Remind F. R.

Nearby were paintings reminding the assemblage that a century and a half ago the 13 American colonies broke away from British rule.

Washington's citizens still eager to see Their Majesties, lined the route to the British Embassy—first scheduled stop of the King and Queen—and thence to the Capitol. Crowds were gathered in the vicinity of the White House, where King George and Queen Elizabeth spent the night, to see them emerge.

The Arrangements Committee, trying to speed up the program at the Capitol and put as little strain on the King and Queen extracted a promise from the older Senators who would be the first to meet the Royal visitors, that they would say nothing more than "how do you do, Your Majesty," as they shook hands.

Many Washingtonians who failed to see the King and Queen yesterday, in the mad crush of crowds along the route from the station to the White House, went in hope of catching a glimpse of them today.

The Royal path led today from the White House to the British Embassy and its green garden where 1,400 guests were entertained at a garden party last night in honor of the King and Queen.

Today in the sunlit, tree-studded garden, members of the British colony lined up behind ropes which marked off a square of green lawn before the garden terrace.

Into this square were led 250 ex-servicemen, many of them hobbling along with the aid of canes and crutches. Dressed in civilian clothes. They wore medals won in the service of the British Empire.

Parasols Down

Many of the women showed up with parasols as protection against the heat of the morning sun and some thoughtful persons brought hunting sticks on which they were able to rest until Their Majesties appeared.

The crowd was handled inside the garden by a crew of frock-coated Embassy attaches and aides of the Royal party.

Outside the Capitol, several miles away on the broad plaza where British troops marched in 1814, women and children took up positions in stands erected so families of Members of Congress could join in the memorable event.

BRITISH COLONY CHEERS RULERS

Half of Guests at Embassy Reception Are Canadians

By A. E. Fulford
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 9.—(CP)— A thousand members of the United States Capitol's British Colony cheered almost constantly today as King George and Queen Elizabeth passed an hour among them in the tree-studded garden of the British Embassy.

At first the Queen, in a white silk frock trimmed in silver banding at the neck and a large white picture hat, remained on the terrace with Lady Lindsay, while the King, Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay and military attaches moved along the double line of about 350 Great War veterans, many of whom were Canadians.

The King seemed to be feeling the heat as he moved in the garden among the guests. The Queen dainty as ever.

Veterans Raise Shout

A short while after Their Majesties' arrival the veterans set up a shout for the Queen and she came down from the terrace and strolled in their midst.

In the Garden Her Majesty observed a child about three years old in a Scottish Highland costume. She motioned for the child to be brought over.

The little girl's name was Isabelle Kinlock who formerly lived in London, Ont. Her mother urged her to curtsy while the Queen smiled down on her curly fair head. Isabelle, however, picked up the hem of her plaid skirt and tucked it in her mouth. The Queen laughed, put out her right hand and the child put her left one in it.

Approximately half of the people at the reception were Canadians, but many other parts of the Empire were represented. There was John Karefa of Sierra Leone, in West Central Africa, in his native costume. Karefa's grandfather was head of the Sherbo tribe and the young man is studying medicine at Ohio State University.

Bandmaster Homesick.

The Queen also chatted with Bandmaster Leonard Bagley of the British cruiser Exeter, whose band supplied music.

"How long have you been away from home?" she asked.

"Two and a half years."

"Are you homesick?"

"Yes," answered the bandmaster.

Americans who fought with the Imperial and Canadian forces in the Great War also were greeted by the King.

Served With Canadians.

Only holder of the Victoria Cross present was Dr. Bellenden Seymour Hutcheson of Cairo, Ill., who served as a medical officer with the 7th Canadian Battalion.

"How long have you been over here?" the King inquired.

"I am an American," said Graham who was standing with the aid of a crutch and a cane to make up for the loss of his left leg.

"In what outfit did you serve?"

"With the Eighth Canadian Infantry, sir."

"And where did you loose your leg?"

"At Amiens, in 1918, sir."

As the reception ended with "God Save the King", the crowd in the garden broke into three spontaneous cheers.

Bavarian-Born Tailor In St. Catharines Warned Over Certain Utterances

MAN DISCHARGED

St. Catharines, Ont., June 9— (CP)—A warning to foreign born persons dissatisfied with conditions in Canada was issued today by Magistrate J. H. Campbell when he told Edmund Eilbacher, 34-year-old Bavarian-born tailor, charged with making seditious remarks, that: "If the country is not satisfactory to you and your ilk, the sooner you get out the better for yourselves and everybody else."

Eilbacher was arrested the morning of June 7, the day of the visit to St. Catharines of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. He was charged that on May 26, he unlawfully spoke seditious words, to wit: "Would not anyone be a hero all over the world if he shot him," referring to His Majesty.

Eilbacker, who had been in custody 48 hours, was discharged when Crown Attorney E. H. Lancaster said no evidence would be offered by the Crown.

"This man knows what he has done, and what he has been guilty of," the Crown said. "I am not saying legally he is guilty as charged. He may be and he may not be, but he has had the experience of 48 hours incarceration and to him and to all people who thinks as he does this will let them know that such statements and such ouburts will not be tolerated. We in no sense want to make a martyr out of him but we do not intend to have any such attitude generally expressed in the country."

"There are a great many people in this country who have come from foreign countries and who behave themselves when they come here," the Magistrate said. "They are quite content to live in a free country where there is equal justice for everybody."

"There are unfortunately a few who, if they are like you, as it is alleged today, see fit to do everything that they possibly can to cause disruption in this country and to bring disloyalty upon the Sovereign. All I have to say is ... if you and the others of like ilk go back to your own country, then you can appreciate what kind of a country you left.

"You had better behave yourself after this and keep your mouth shut," concluded Magistrate Campbell.

GERMAN PAPERS ASK FOR ACTION

Lokal Anzeiger Cynical Over Speeches on Colonial Issue

Berlin, June 9 (AP)—Nazi newspapers today advised British statesmen to "let deeds follow words" in commenting on Parliamentary speeches by Prime Minister Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

(Prime Minister Chamberlain reiterated a declaration that Britain was willing to discuss the Colonial question with Germany—but only "in an atmosphere of mutual confidence." Lord Halifax said that "provided that the independence of nations is recognized, His Majesty's Government are anxious to explore the whole problem of economic lebensraum (room to live) not only for Germany but for all European nations.")

Hitler's Paper Offers Advice

"If Mr. Chamberlain and his Foreign Minister really mean what they say in their sudden peaceful expressions then they can only be given most urgent advice to let different deeds follow their words," the Chancellor's paper said.

London, June 9 (CP Cable)—Discussing Anglo-German relations in a review of the foreign situation in the House of Lords yesterday, Foreign Secretary Lord Halifax said:

"Any German claims are open to consideration at a round table and Britain is only anxious to see rival claims adjusted on a basis which may secure lasting peace."

Through an error in transcription yesterday's Canadian Press report of the Foreign Secretry's speech quoted him as saying "Not all German claims are open to consideration..."

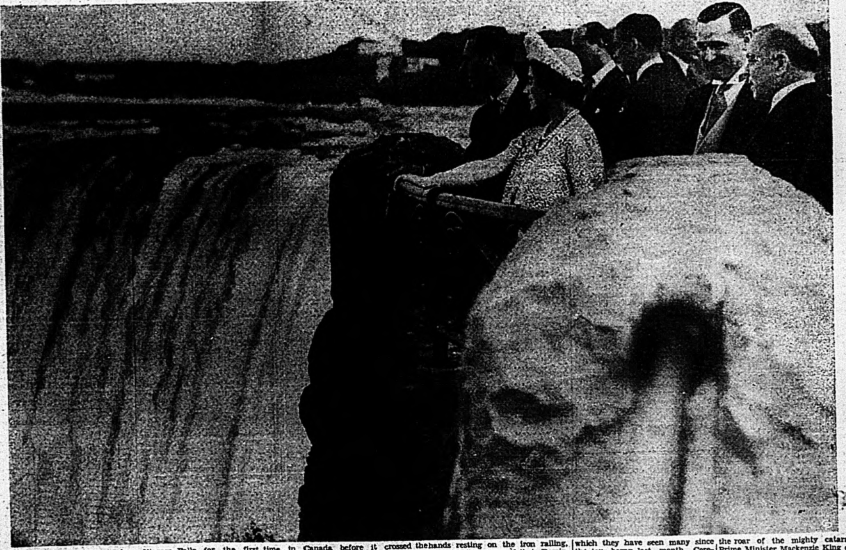
"IT IS BEAUTIFUL BEYOND WORDS," DECLARED THEIR MAJESTIES ON VIEWING NIAGARA FALLS



"Five thousand pictures I have seen of this . . ." said the Queen when she gazed out over majestic Niagara Falls for the first time. This grand picture shows the royal party at the Falls, last place visited in Canada before it crossed the border for the triumphant entry into United States. Their Majesties, hands resting on the iron railing, view in silence one of their Dominion's greatest natural wonders, of which they have seen many since the tour began last month. Ceremony is forgotten for the moment here as the royal couple listen to the roar of the mighty cataract. Prime Minister Mackenzie King can be seen at the RIGHT.

AT THE McCARTHY

"TOM SAWYER DETECTIVE" "THE THUNDERING WEST"

A story guaranteed to charm every adult and thrill the heart of every kid is told in "Tom Sawyer, Detective." Paramount's screen version of Mark Twain's great novel, which is now playing at the McCarthy Theatre. With two of Hollywood's foremost boy stars, Billy Cook and Donald O'Connor, bringing "Tom Sawyer" and his pal "Huckleberry Finn" to vivid life, this is the outstanding youth picture of the season.

"Tom Sawyer, Detective" relates the adventures of "Tom" and "Huck" when they travel from Missouri to Arkansas, on a vacation, and run smack up against a murder mystery involving Tom's "uncle Silas." Realizing that they are the only people who can go to work on the case without arousing suspicion, the boys set out to solve the mystery and clear "Tom's" relatives.

A series of typically Mark Twain situations, all of which are bound to delight the fans of the great writer, follow. Among them are a meeting with two Mississippi River steamboat shapers, a struggle to arouse a young lawyer who would rather fish than go to work, the discovery of a twin of the murdered man and a harrowing search for clues in a "haunted" graveyard at midnight. The affair is capped by an exciting murder trial, in the middle of which "Tom" and "Huck" amaze the community with their revelations.

The story includes a tender, down-to-earth romance between "Tom's "Cousin Ruth" and the young lawyer, promoted of course by the two boys. The couple is played by Janet Waldo and Philip Warren, both of whom show great promise as romantic stars.

"The Thundering West"

Charles Starrett, hard-riding, outdoor action star, plays a different sort of role in the best sort of way in his exciting new musical western, entitled "The Thundering W[illegible] which is also now playing a[illegible] McCarthy Theatre. Pretty Iris Meredith provides the romantic interest of the production. Tuneful new songs of the old west are sung and played as only the Sons of the Pioneers can render them and for 70 minutes one of the finest stories of the old west almost actually lives on the screen in the portrayals of the entire cast that made this outstanding and thrilling feature hit. In addition to both feature presentations an excellent all technicolor musical cartoon entitled "The Big Birdcast", and an exciting thrill-packed episode of "Flying G-Men" serial, is also presented at each performance.

AT THE BELLE

"CONFESSIONS OF A NAZI SPY"

"Confessions of ~~a Nazi Spy~~", the Warner Bros. film dealing with Nazi espionage activities in this country is scheduled to open next at the Belle Theatre. This is the much-awaited film which has been a subject of wide interest ever since Warner Bros. started the production of it, the first really important motion picture document of Nazi espionage activities in America. Mr. Forhan, manager of the Belle Theatre, made arrangements with the producers for showing "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" in this city because he felt that his theatre would not only render a patriotic service in showing a film of this kind, but also because he felt it would make theatre-goers more cognizant of the unbelievable spy menace which exists in our democracy.

Anatole Litvak directed the film, which stars Edward G. Robinson, and a brilliant supporting cast including Paul Lukas, Francis Lederer, Lya Lys—famous European film beauty making her American debut—and many others.

Although the particular characters and events are fictional, the espionage methods revealed in the film are based on the facts brought out in the recent trials in New York, Los Angeles and the Panama Canal zone. Leon G. Turrou, former F. B. I. agent, who acted as technical advisor on the Warner Bros. photoplay, smashed one of the Nazi spy rings, and his intimate knowledge of the manner in which the spys operate have given reality and authenticity to the production.

"Confessions of a Nazi Spy" is a sensational picture in the true sense of the word, because it is a vivid depiction of the menacing under-cover activities fostered in America by the most dangerous of all the enemies of our democratic institutions—the Nazi regime in Germany. In making the picture, Warner Bros. have used all the facilities at their command to bring the danger of these activities out into the open, and although the story of the film is fictional, there can be no doubt that the dangers are very real.

Irene Dunne, departs

A love at first sight that consumes two hearts destined for others motivates the exciting action of RKO Radio's "Love Affair," now playing and co-starring Irene Dunne and Charles Boyer. The romantic story traces the lives of a sophisticated woman and a notorious Continental heart-breaker who fall desperately in love with each other while on an ocean voyage. Their prior betrothals add conflict to the situation, the solution of which makes for heart-appealing entertainment.

Richard Dix and Lucille Ball are co-starred in the thrill-packed romantic drama "Twelve Crowded Hours," announced as the companion feature. Television, a timely and interesting film completes the program.

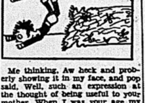
Little Benny's Note Book

We were eating breakfist and ma said, O deer I just remembered there's not an egg in the house and Nora is suppose to make some tea muffins for my bridge this afternoon.

Sounding like a errand before school, and I quick said, Well G, ma, why dont you telephone?

The grocery deliveries have been so uncertain they're certain to be late, ma said. You're early for a miracle this morning, you'll have time to run around to the store for me before you go to school, she said.



Me thinking, Aw heck and proberly showing it in my face, and pop said, Well, such an expression at the thought of being useful to your mother. When I was your age my face automatically broke into a smile at the slightest mention of an errand. Everybody called me my mothers little errand beam, he said.

Well G, it's not that, I wasn't thinking of myself, I said. and pop said, Do tell, I'd like to hear more of this.

Well jimminy, pop, you always say you'd think the world was coming to a end if a day went passed without me tripping over something, and I didn't trip all day yestidday, so no matter how careful I am with the eggs, yestiday's trip will still be in me besides today's, so how about the eggs if anything happens? I said, and pop said, By gollies, the chances are against you but I'm afraid you'll have to take them.

O deer, I think I better take the chance myself, I mean the chance of the delivery boy being on time, ma said. The very thought of Benny tripping with my eggs, even if he didn't would make the will worse than the deed, now for goodness sakes get started to school, she said.

Wich I did feeling lucky.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A DAY of "mixed influences," in terms of astrology, is forecast, with much to be gained by steadiness, industry nda prudence. This is especially probable in connection with large corporations, political or fraternal affiliations, where intrigue, trickery, frau, distortion and underhand tactics menace. Be wary and disreet, quietly prepared. In private affairs there may be a sudden disruption in which similar tactics culminate in happily welding the broken pieces

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year in which progress, success and satisfaction largely depend upon the individual, his poise, prudence and quick grasp of tricky circumstances. This may occur in high places, in business, loges, politics or the fireside. Subtlety and deceit menace. In case of a romantic disruption, a sympathetic compromise should bring a happy culmination.

A child born on this day may be serious and studious, with quick mental equipment. It may also be sherwd, subtle and fond of strategy or expediency rather than principle. Restless and erratic, it may be gracious, kindly and romantically inclined.

Associations

By DOROTHY DOUGLAS

Mary was very keen on anything bordering on associations, whether it was her sister's baby's first rattle or an erstwhile sweetheart's old Christmas gifts. She was always collecting material mementoes as also she harbored a hundred and one little brain memories.

It was quite natural, then, when Mary had the pleasure of her first trip to England that she should make a straight journey to the little Sussex village where her parents had courted and wed. For Mary was that somewhat choice blend of the human tree which divided its characteristics nicely between English parentage and American birth.

Her parents had rather a sweet romance in the fact that they had as young members of the village circle each laid a cornerstone in the parish church in which later they were married. Their names carved in the dull red stones were as plain as the day upon which they were cut, and Mary was so thrilled when she saw them that she nearly wept.

"Laid by Mary Anne Smith, July 9, 1897," was on the base of one pillar, and "Laid by John Cromer, July 9, 1897," was on another. That was the day they had met, and from then on the world for them had been a wonderful place, for love encircled them with its glorious wings.

Mary dropped onto her knees in one of the pews and felt a tremendous wave of emotion spread over her. After her prayers she sat back and could picture how dainty her sweet mother must have looked in her bridal dress standing beside her handsome young husband — there at that lovely altar.

She wondered if there was a chance that the same rector would be in charge. She supposed not.

However, Mary heard the gentle steps of an elderly minister padding along the small corridor and she went out to chat with him.

He beamed at her out of kindly eyes.

"I remember all young lovers whom I have married," he said upon hearing her story, "and I've been here thirty odd years. Come my dear," he said, "and I'll show you your parents' names."

They were standing inside the tiny vestry room with their heads close together over the great register when a young fellow bounded in from the fine old rectory gardens.

"Oh, Dad!" he shouted, then stopped swiftly. "I'm sorry — I didn't know there was anyone with you." He stood half smiling and half wonderingly, for Mary was indeed a lovely person to discover in close proximity to one's own father.

"This young lady," said the old rector beaming at his big son, "is Miss Mary Cromer. She has come all the way from America to see the church in which her parents were married. Miss Cromer, this is my son, Tom Walker."

The two young people shook hands shyly but apparently very warmly.

"I was wondering," said Mary wistfully, "if there was the slightest little thing I could have from the church—as a memento. If there isn't anything, I will just take a tiny stone from the gravel path or a few leaves from one of those lovely trees."

A moment that might have become awkward was interrupted by the approach of the rector's wife—a sweet, white-haired mother whom Mary loved at once.

"I sent Tom to bring you in to tea but—" she too then noticed the stranger. "I'm so sorry—I thought you two were alone."

The rector again went through the ceremony of introducing Mary—this time to his wife, and added, "This young lady is wanting some small memento from the church to take home to her parents, but I don't know what it could be."

"My dear," smiled Mrs. Walker, "only last night you and Tom were speaking of having new offertory bags. I'm sure Miss Cromer would love to have one of the old ones—they were in use when her parents attended service together."

"Oh, exclaimed Mary joyfully, "I should simply love it. Is it one of those sweet little bags with handles on each side? We don't have that kind in America—I think they are so quaint."

The big son was silent all this time but his heart leaped joyfully when he heard his mother insisting on Mary coming in to share the tea hour in the old manse drawing room.

"Tom dear, you take Miss Cromer and get her one of the old collection bags. We might forget it later."

It took Tom a long while to produce the gift for Mary didn't mind in the least. When they entered the drawing-room for tea the old rector and his wife exchanged happy glances.

When Mary mailed the lovely old memento to her parents she told them all about her visit and how she had been taken right into the family as if she had always known them. And her following letter confirmed this state of affairs. The next was full of joy, for Mary was going to stand beside young Tom at the very same altar at which her parents had taken their holy vows.

Historic School To Honor Royalty

Williamsburg, Va., June 8 (CP)—The college of William and Mary will present a memorial to King George and Queen Elizabeth at Mount Vernon tomorrow, recalling the long-standing relationship between the British Crown and the historic Virginia school.

A parchment scroll, illuminated in color with the Coat of Arms conferred by the Royal College of Heralds after King William and Queen Mary granted the charter in 1693, will be presented through Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, when the Royal party crosses the Potomac to the old Dominion.

The college, second oldest in America and the first to receive a Royal Charter, pays tribute to King George as one "in whose person is exemplified the spiritual concept that has extended the realm of English thought beyond the realm of English rule."

Hitler Prepares Specific Propositions, Report

Plan May Settle All the Problems Causing War Fears

This Report Reaches Diplomatic Circles in England from Well-Informed Sources in Berlin

SPEAKS IN JULY

Hitler Will Likely Make His Proposals at the Launching of New German Warship at That Time

Paris, June 10 (AP)—Reports reached French diplomatic circles from usually well-informed sources in Berlin today to the effect that Chancellor Hitler was preparing specific propositions to France, Great Britain and the United States for a settlement of the problems, which are causing war fears.

The reports, which received no open and official confirmation, said Hitler was expected to make the proposals in a speech during the early part of July at the launching of a new German warship.

At Berchtesgaden

He now is working on them at Berchtesgaden, the report said, but there has been no hint of their nature.

Some diplomatic circles recalled the House of Lords speech of Viscount Halifax, British Foreign Minister Thursday night in which he told of Britain's willingness to examine such problems at the conference table if Germany would renounce any threat of force. Diplomats said this speech might have been the key to Hitler's reported decision.

Berlin, June 10 (AP)—Sources close to Chancellor Hitler today described as a "surprise to us" the reports in Paris that the Fuehrer was planning specific peace proposals. These sources said that as far as they knew the Chancellor had no such plan in mind.

Why the Weather!

By Maj. A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

The earth rotates, and air weighs less! It is necessary to think of air as having weight like any other substance. A quantity of air at the equator, by virtue of its friction, is whirled around with the earth in its rotation. This tends to throw the air off but the action of gravity is stronger and the air stays on. The result, however, is that the air weighs less. This effect decreases north and south of the equator to nothing at the poles. An east wind weighs more than a west wind because coming from the east its direction is contrary to that of the earth's motion, and nullifies the throwing-off action to some extent, while with a west wind this action is increased and it weighs less than calm air.

KING WELCOMED TO NEW JERSEY

Governor of State and Mayor of Red Bank Extend Greetings

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Red Bank, N.J., June 10 (CP) — King George, sailor King of the Empire, arrived here today to board a United States destroyer that will carry him to America's greatest seaport, New York.

A crowd estimated at 200,000 was massed in this tranquil New Jersey town for a glimpse of the King and Queen Elizabeth. It was a typical American small town setting.

Leaving their royal blue and silver train at the little flag-draped frame station in the town centre at 9.03 a.m. E.D.T., Their Majesties received friendly handclasps, official greetings and the cheers of the massed thousands.

Welcomed by Mayor

As they stood on the red-brick platform, out of sight of most of the spectators, the King and Queen were welcomed by Mayor Charles English on behalf of the town's 12,000 population and by Governor Harry Moore on behalf of the State of New Jersey.

The King wore morning attire and carried a grey top hat as he and the Queen, attired in a powder blue crepe dress with an off-the-face hat to match, stepped from the observation car.

Their Majesties were introduced to the Governor and Mayor English and their wives.

"Your Majesties have honored New Jersey," the Governor said. "The State is named after the Isle of Jersey. Philip Carteret, the first Governor of Jersey came from the Isle of Jersey in 1664."

The Governor then presented the King with a copy of a resolution of welcome adopted by the State Legislature Monday night.

Their Majesties Show Concern About Sweat Shops, Slum Clearance

(By Beth Campbell Associated Press Staff Writer).

Washington, June 10. (AP)—A dainty, style-setting Queen talks about women's sweat shops and a boyish-looking King expresses concern over slum clearance.

The picture was part of the 36-hour visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth.

To many, the Queen was just about the prettiest picture they had ever seen. Memory brought back quick glimpses of her—queenly under her gray parasol in the welcoming parade; strolling daintily through the British Embassy garden in a white picture hat and frock; dreamlike in rose tulle and diamond tiara at the station last night.

The sight of the King also pleased thousands who saw him—saluting smartly in his Admiral's uniform, smiling shyly in an impeccable cutaway, standing with poise and smiles to greet members of Congress.

More Than Ceremonies

But the King and Queen crowded more than ceremonies and social functions into their brief visit.

Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, an expert in the art herself, said they had a very great talent for asking questions. Leaders of new deal efforts to meet problems of housing, labor relations, unemployment and youth expressed admiration for the intelligence of their inquiries after talking with them seriously at a White House tea yesterday.

Sitting under a tree in the White House garden, the King sought to find out what success the government has had with work relief, housing programs, civil service, wage-hour legislation and youth training.

The Queen expressed curiosity about working women. The tangible results of women suffrage, the contribution of women legislators and programs for children.

The King is Interested—In the medal worn by Girl Scout Leah Burkett which Queen Elizabeth is examining after Scout Burkett presented the Queen with a bouquet of flowers as the royal party left the White House to attend the garden party at the British Embassy.

Royal Couple Leave Capital But Capture City's Heart By Graciousness of Manner

By SAM ROBERTSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, June 10 (CP)—The visit to Washington of King George and Queen Elizabeth is ended but the memory lingers on.

Grudgingly, the United States capital surrendered them to New York last night after a two-day stay in which they captured the city's heart by the graciousness of their manner and informality of their ways.

Washington has seen so many parades and watched the comings and goings of so many personages it is known as the "Dead-Pan City."

But by the way its citizens turned out in the hundreds of thousands and the cheers they loosed, the capital showed its tremendous enthusiasm for Britain's easy-smiling King and Queen. President Roosevelt summed up the general impression when he said:—"They are very, very delightful people."

Visit a Triumph

All told Their Majesties' visit was a triumph. And it was particularly the Queen's. Her beauty, her ready and unaffected graciousness, and her ability to come smiling out of the rigors of such a routine as had been arranged for them, won abundant admiration wherever the royal couple went.

The King won a triumph peculiarly his own. The capital liked him the more because he seemed only pleased when the Queen unwittingly "stole the show."

Although it was near midnight when the royal couple boarded their train last night for six crowded hours of sight-seeing in and around New YYork, Washingtonians turned out in thousands to catch a parting glimpse of them.

REG. MONCRIEFF RESIGNS AS HEAD OF BEACHES BODY

Dumping of Garbage on Beaches 'Helter Skelter' Given as Reason

COUNCIL CRITICIZED

His resignation as president of the Belleville Beaches Association was formally handed to executive members of that organization today, Mr. Reg. Moncrieff announced to the Ontario Intelligencer this morning.

Lack of co-operation of the City Council, and the lackadalsical attitude of that body in furthering assistance to the project was given as the main reason for his leaving the presidential chair of the association, Mr. Moncrieff said.

"The condition of the Beaches at present is a deplorable one," Mr. Moncrieff stated. "Garbage has been dumped without discrimination along the frontage resulting in a stench that is a disgrace to a public place."

Requisitions for city garbage last winter to be placed in low-lying places and marshes to be used as a filler were met with the proverbial cold shoulder from the city council he added. Meanwhile the garbage and refuse that accumulated during this season and could have been used to good advantage by the Beaches Association was diverted to other channels.

Further applications for the filler this Spring resulted in a sudden deluge of garbage that was flung "helter-skelter" over the waterfront," resulting in a nasty mess that acted more as a deterrent to the public than an attraction, the ex-president said.

ROYALTY TO VISIT LAND SETTLED BY THE LOYALISTS

ENTER AT DELSON

Delson, Que., June 10 (CP)—Into a land settled by United Empire Loyalists, King George and Queen Elizabeth will come Monday on their return from the United States and from a reception strikingly different than that accorded the men who refused to join the American Revolution and left to pioneer Quebec's eastern townships.

Canada's first glimpse of her Sovereigns since they entered the United States at Niagara Falls Wednesday night will be at this little railway junction point along the New York State border. After an all night ride from Hyde Park, N.Y., the Royal train will reach here at 10 a.m. E.D.T.

Delson will see the King and Queen first but to bustling Sherbrooke, textile manufacturing centre named after Sir John Sherbrooke, former Governor of Lower Canada, will fall the honor of first greeting their Majesties officially.

Will Go To Levis.

From Sherbrooke they will swing north to Levis, across the broad St. Lawrence from Quebec, travel along the river to Riviere Du Loop and swing down into the Maritimes for three days before sailing from Halifax Thursday night.

Sherbrooke's rousing welcome will be the first official one but St. John's, on the line between Delson and Sherbrooke, has some plans too. Officials figure the city's population of 15,000 will be doubled at least.

THEIR MAJESTIES' VISIT TO N. B. ONE DAY ONLY

Will Enter a Realm Redolent With the History of the New World

TO VISIT P. E. I.

Halifax, June 10 (CP)—The people of Canada's seaside provinces today prepared a welcome for the King and Queen. Red, white and blue bunting adorned many a Maritime centre as residents of the eastern provinces awaited the arrival of their Majesties.

The Royal train will cross the New Brunswick border June 13, entering a realm redolent with the history of the new world. Their first stop will be at Newcastle, in the province where Jacques Cartier planted the French Fleur-de-Lis in 1533.

Their tour of New Brunswick will last a day, when they will visit four other New Brunswick centres, Fredericton, Moncton, the old Loyalist city of St. John, and Cape Tormentine. Thousands of United States citizens are expected to cross the border from adjacent New England States to see their Majesties.

At Cape Tormentine they will board a destroyer the next day to cross Northumberland Strait to Charlottetown in the midst of preparations for the celebration of the 75th anniversary of the early events leading up to Confederation.

Knows Garden Province.

Many islanders will remember the King. And he will remember the "garden province" he visited in 1913 when he was Prince Albert, a naval cadet aboard H.M.S. Cumberland.

When they leave Charlottetown, a destroyer will take them to Pictou, N.S., where the Queen will find much to interest her. Along the Northumberland Strait shore many a Highlander settled more than a century ago and Scottish names predominate.

At Pictou they will set foot on Canada's only "Royal Province".

C.C.C. Boy Shook Hands with King; Now Places Value on His Handshake

Fort Hunt, Va., June 10—(CP)—John Draganza of Rochester, Pa., the Civilian Conservation Corps boy who shook hands with King George, walked around camp today offering to shake hands with other enrollers—for a price.

He did business, too. One youth bought him a bottle of pop, another a packet of cigarettes, and a third promised to shine his shoes.

It was during a brief inspection of the camp by the King and Queen yesterday that His Majesty spoke to the boy.

"The King asked me how I like being in the C.C.C.," he said. "It was tough for a second or two. I could not say anything."

Draganza said he finally managed to stammer, "Fine." And from then on it was a breeze.

"We got real chummy," he said, "and finally the King asked me if I had gained any weight. I told him seven pounds."

The King appeared surprised.

"I told him that was nothing," Draganza added, "I told him that some of the fellows had gained 24 pounds."

John said he would not swear to it, but it looked to him as if His Majesty whistled from surprise.

When the interview was over, the King offered his hand.

"I was certainly taken back," John said. "I never even shook hands with a congressman."

FIVE-HOUR VISIT

Route to New York World's Fair Lined With Millions as Sovereigns of Great Britain Ride Pass—Million Children Greet Their Majesties in Central Park

By HAROLD PETERS

New York, June 10 (CP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth rode in triumph today past Manhattan's towering skyscrapers to the thundering acclaim of millions in this metropolis of the new world.

New York forgot to be blase. From the moment the King and Queen smilingly set foot on the 300-feet long red carpet at the Battery, near historic Bowling Green, to their dramatic entrance into the World's Fair—"The World of Tomorrow"—the city's populace gave vent to unbounded, characteristically American enthusiasm.

Metropolis Roars Welcome.

It roared its welcome as the King and Queen received formal greetings from Governor Herbert Lehman of New York State, and New York's beaming mayor, Fiorello LaGuardia, and it added its own democratic informal greetings along every inch of the 51-mile city route.

The King set foot on the Battery, near the spot where excited revolutionary soldiers 150 years ago tore down a large equestrian statue of his ancestor George III, at 11:19 a.m. and touched off a packed five-hour visit to Manhattan, in a day of sweltering heat.

It included the inspection of the World's Fair, a ride through the city and a visit to Columbia University before leaving for a week-end at President Roosevelt's Hyde Park estate up the Hudson.

Guns Boom, Whistles Blow.

As the Royal couple arrived the guns on Governor's Island boomed a 21-gun salute, while ships' whistles and bells shrieked a hoarse symphony of welcome. Shouts rose from thousands of throats, mingling with the low bass bellows from the ships and the music of bands. Airplanes roared overhead.

The destroyer Warrington, escorted up the bay by Coast Guard craft and greeted by blasts from harbor ships, drew toward the pier at the Battery to receive an excited demonstration from the throng which had stood patiently for hours in an intense morning sun.

King Salutes Statue of Liberty

As the Warrington passed the Statue of Liberty, King George went from starboard to port and stood stiffly at salute. The Queen was beside him. Then they both went to the rail and waved to the crowds.

The royal standard, fluttering in the harbor breeze, was lowered from the foremast of the destroyer as the King set foot on shore, indicating to hundreds who could not see the Battery ceremony that the British Sovereign had left the ship.

Crew Salutes the King

The crew lined the side of the destroyer and saluted the King as he left with the Queen.

The Sovereign removed his gray, formal top hat as he emerged from the pier shed. Behind their Majesties came Prime Minister Mackenzie King and the members of the Royal party. The party paused. The King shook hands with Mayor Laguardia before proceeding to the waiting line of cars. Handshakes

CASH BAG TAKEN FROM THE OFFICE OF OTTAWA DAIRY

Bag Containing $108 Left on Desk While Manager Helps to Load Truck

ONLY ONE CHEQUE

While employees at the Belleville branch of the Ottawa Dairy were loading a company truck on Station Street early today, a sneak thief entered the company office, and the stole the cash bag containing $108.00, J. D. McKichan, the branch manager informed Belleville police today.

Mr. McKichan had removed the cash from the office safe and placed it in a money bag for deposit at the bank. Placing the bag containing the cash on top of a desk in the office while he stepped outside to assist one of the company truck drivers in loading his truck for delivery. Upon his return the bag was missing.

Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard investigated the theft and was informed by Mr. McKichan and the driver of the truck that no person had been seen entering the building from Station Street. However, there are several doors leading into the branch of the Dairy, located in the Greenleaf building.

The bank deposit in the bag was made up of various denomination bills, silver, and a cheque, amounting to $108. Police are of the opinion the thief had been watching Mr. McKichan from seclusion and as he left to assist in loading the truck the thief took the money and left through a rear door into another part of the building.

PROBABLY IN OCTOBER

London, June 10—(CP)—The Financial Times (Independent) said today that there is "good reason for stating that general elections will tak place the first week in October provided there is no further deterioration in the international situation."

(In Birmingham last night Prime Minister Chamberlain said he had not yet reached any decision on a date for elections.)

SEARCH ENDS WHEN YOUTHS FOUND IN BOAT STUCK ON BAR

It took four hours of anxious search by relatives, police and an R.C.A.F. plane before Jim Kerr and Howard Axix, Trenton youths were located in their boat that was stuck on a sand-bar in the Bay of Quinte off the Airport the other day.

COLT IS FOUND BY CONSTABLES

Owner Reports Animal Missing But Soon Found by Officers

Why police officers become grey and sometimes support that gruff expression was brought to light in Tyendinaga Township yesterday. A young and valuable colt was reported missing from the farm of Orley Parks, eighth concession of Tyendinaga.

Late yesterday Mr. Parks informed the Provincial Police of the incident by telephone. "Did you look along the fences surrounding your pasture fields?" enquired Provincial Constable W. E. Smith over the telephone.

"Yes, we've had a posse of men thoroughly search the whole farm and the colt is gone", assured Mr. Parks.

Constables Smith and Carruthers proceeded to the Parks farm and after only a few moments of search, Constable Smith found the missing colt stuck between two rails of a rail fence. The colt was wedged into a corner and could not escape.

POLICE COURT

After yesterday's session of city police court had been adjourned and the assembly dispersed, fourteen local men, who had been summonsed to appear on charges of being found in a common gaming house, returned quietly to the court room and a spokesman addressed His Worship, Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., informing the Bench the men wished to plead guilty as charged and settle the matter without delay.

Chief Kidd reopened the court and those charged with being found in a common gaming house were fined $5.00 and costs, amounting to $9.50 each. The operators were fined considerable in excess of the lesser charge amount, however. Sixteen young men were arrested one week ago tonight following police raids on a dice and card games operating at two different points.

Charles Irvin, Thomasburg, appeared before Magistrate Butler in Tweed earlier in the week charged with violation of the Dominion Excise Act. Irvin was convicted of being found in possession of a still, suitable for the manufacture of illicit liquor. The convicted man was fined $100.00 and costs but given a short period of time in which to raise the assessed fines. Irvin was arrested by Chief Hayes of Tweed, in conjunction with Cpl. Green of the R.C.M.P.

WORLD AFFAIRS TO BE DISCUSSED

President Roosevelt Says No Political Significance in King's Visit

Washington, June 10 (CP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference he supposed he would discuss international affairs with King George in an informal manner.

In these days of strenuous world affairs, he said, one could hardly talk to another without mentioning the subject. He added, however, that the conversations would not have political significance.

The President described the King and Queen as "very, very delightful people." He permitted the direct quotation.

Asked about a newspaper story quoting the King as saying it was all right to call him "George", the President smiled and replied he would have to call that another newspaper story.

A reporter asked about his conversation with the King during a sightseeing trip Thursday afternoon. The President said they visited some parts of Rock Creek Park he had never seen before and he told the King at one point he was lost.

Another reporter wanted to know whether His Majesty had expressed any views about the city. The President said the King had never been here before and that he and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British Ambassador, had explained to him the amazing change in the capital in the last 40 years.

The President said he told the King of the gradual development of the city and described it as the only capital in the world that was built for a capital.

He explained that Canberra had been laid out to become the capital of Australia, but said that city had not been completed.

Asked what impressed the King King most, the President said he did not know, but since it was His Majesty's first visit he supposed the whole thing must have been interesting.

GERALD WOOD SAVES SMALL BOY FROM DROWNING

RESUSCITATION USED

An unidentified eight-year-old boy can thank the presence of mind and prompt action of Gerald Wood, 22, of this city for being alive today.

Wood noticing the boy struggling in the water, fully clothed, off the retaining wall of the harbor in Victoria Park, shortly after seven o'clock last night, plunged to the rescue and succeeded in hauling the unconscious youngster to the wall, where he was revived after five minutes strenuous application of artificial respiration.

According to an eyewitness of the of the affair, the boy was playing with a chum near the wall, when he was accidentally pushed into the water, which at this spot is about eight feet deep. He struggled and apparently being unable to swim, sank almost immediately. His friend, thoroughly scared, ran for help. Addison Lloyd, aboard Alderman Jack Allin's boat, that lay moored nearby, saw the youngster's plight and immediately set out in a boat to the rescue.

But Wood, who happened along at the moment, without the slightest hesitation, plunged into the water fully clothed and clutching the boy as he was sinking hauled him to shore.

Alderman Allin, a late eyewitness of the rescue was loud in his praise of Wood's action. "He deserves a lot of credit" he said, "and but for his ready response the boy undoubtedly would have drowned."

Official Board Is Entertained By Rev. and Mrs. Newman

A very happy occasion was enjoyed last night by the members of the Official Board of Holloway Street United Church and their wives, when they were entertained to dinner by Rev. R. E. and Mrs. Newman.

At 7.30 the guests about sixty in number, entered the Sunday School rooms of the church, where tables had been laid. The tables and platform were prettily decorated with spiraea and peonies. Place cards were each designed with pansies and lily of the valley, and combined with the bright, colorful salads and ices gave a fine atmosphere for a very enjoyable time.

Several ladies and gentlemen of the congregation assisted in the serving of a delicious dinner during which a real fellowship was enjoyed by the guests.

After the dinner, both Mr. and Mrs. Newman expressed their pleasure at the opportunity of entertaining the members of the Board and their wives and hoped all would enjoy themselves.

Mr. G. T. Woodley on behalf of the guests, thanked Mr. and Mrs. Newman, not only for a fine evening, but further for their interest and endeavours to help the church and their co-operation in all its activities, and their evident great desire to develop a deeper Christian fellowship among the members, as evidenced by this evening, with all the work and planning it entailed. To Mrs. Newman he especially wished to mention the Board's appreciation of her great interest in the girls of the church, through the activities of the C.G.I.T. Then as a token of the Board's appreciation of the evening he presented her with a beautiful bouquet of deep red roses after which the guests spontaneously rose and sang "For they are jolly good fellows" with three hearty cheers.

After a short business period relative to a system of calling being inaugurated whereby the members of the Board, periodically call on all members and adherents of the church, the guests spent the remainder of the evening in playing games. The spirit of the whole evening was one of happiness and fine fellowship.

Presentation To Popular Resident

Point Anne — On Wednesday evening, June 7, an interesting service took place in connection with the regular evening meeting of the Pentecostal Assembly held in the Orange Hall. A large congregation gathered to bid farewell to Deaconess Joyce Knight who has been in charge of the assembly for some time. Mrs. Knight is leaving on Thursday and on June 21, will be reunited in marriage to Rev. E. A. Wicks in the Pentecostal Church Temple at Peterboro. Mr. Wicks, is in charge of the Assembly at Napanee where the couple will make their future home.

Pastor E. N. O. Kulbeck of Belleville was in charge of the farewell service which opened with a song service conducted by Bro. Wicks, followed by prayer by Earle Wilson. Miss Gladys Rabbe of Picton then read the scripture and followed it with a few remarks regarding the friendship and fellowship which she had enjoyed in her association with Mrs. Knight in God's work. Mrs. E. N. Kulbeck and Miss Dorothy Morgan of Belleville favored with a beautifully rendered duet, entitled "Have I Not Chosen You." A musical selection on guitars and banjo was then given by Miss Doris Ellis and Messrs. Earle Wilson and Harold Ellis. Mrs. William Insley sang a beautiful solo "Somehow." During the taking of the offering Mr. Edward Rupert of Belleville gave a selection on his electric vibraharp. Mr. Rupert also gave several selections throughout the service which were much enjoyed.

Mr. Kulbeck then called on Mrs. Harry Ellis to read the following address.

To Our Beloved Deaconess, Sister Joyce Knight:—

It is with a feeling of deep sadness that we view the severing of the ties which have bound us together as pastor and people. We know that you have not arrived at this decision without deep consideration and earnest prayer, and if God calls to other fields of service, in His great vineyard, then we realize the call must be answered. We gratefully acknowledge with heartfelt appreciation to God and to you, the blessing God has bestowed upon us in thus supplying us with such a faithful, self-sacrificing Shepherd, whose love, and spiritual teaching has proved so beneficial to us during your ministry here. We want to thank you with all our hearts for the noble Christian work you have done in our midst. Truly our hearts are over-flowing with gratitude to God, and to you for your life, your presence, and your ministry here.

The service you have rendered,
Has been sweet unto our soul,
As you have guided our feet aright,
And pointed us to the goal,
Where all is peace and happiness,
Upon the Heavenly shore,
Where all sorrow will be past
And sin shall reign no more.

For the old story so blessed, through Christ has saved us and brought us sweet rest. Though small in numbers we will stand the test. Pray for Point Anne that God will save and bless.

Whatever the future may hold for you Sister Knight, the influence of your life, of faithful, loving service in our midst and the sacrifice you must often have been called upon to make, can never die but as a pebble thrown into the water starts a ring which reaches onward in ever widening circles, until none can measure only God, himself. So your work among us has been.

Words fail to express our appreciation of your unselfish devotion. So on behalf of the Point Anne congregation and friends and neighbors, we wish to convey to you in a small way an expression of the love and gratitude which we feel in our hearts at this time.

Thus in parting we ask you to accept this small gift. At this point Mrs. W. Akey, presented Mrs. Knight with a purse of money, as a reminder that the best wishes and the prayers of your Point Anne people will follow you, wherever God, in His great wisdom may lead. We feel we have no words adequate to express our thoughts at this time so will just say—

If the path of life should be perplexing,
'Til you scarcely know the way,
Hardly dare one step to venture
Lest your feet should go astray,
Oh, the joy, just then to listen,
To the friend, that's ever nigh,
I am with thee, I will keep thee,
I will guide thee with mine eye.
Keep on trusting Jesus, He will see you through,
When the way seems darkest, He shines through,
When all others fail you, Jesus stands true,
Keep on trusting Jesus, He will see you thro!

We wish you to know, there will always be a warm welcome for you at any time in Point Anne. We also wish you much joy and happiness throughout your future life. We sincerely pray God's richest blessing may rest upon you supplying your every need, according to His riches in glory and daily encourage your heart to press bravely on in this great battle until the coming of our Lord, when we shall gather to part no more.

Signed on behalf of Point Anne congregation and friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Knight made fitting reply of thanks and appreciation after which pastor Kulbeck, with a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Knight with a floor lamp, on behalf of the Belleville Assembly. Little Miss Gloria Kulbeck, age four, then came forward with her gift. Deaconess Knight again gave expressions of thanks.

Mr. Kulbeck then called on Mr. Wicks for a few remarks after which Mrs. Knight made the announcements and gave her farewell message using Phillipines 1:1—11 and 27-29 inclusive as a foundation.

Following the address "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" was sung and pastor Kulbeck closed with prayer.

Early Ontario Salt Well

By 1866 the craze for oil had set drillers searching everywhere in Western Ontario. Near the Maitland River, in that year, a homelier strike was made—a salt bed! Never before in America had salt been found in appreciable quantities.

Nineteen years previously the Canada Life had issued its first policy to a resident of Ontario. Founded in 1847, it was then and for almost twenty years after the only Canadian life insurance company.

Over a period of ninety-one years, the Canada Life has established a reputation for absolute dependability. It has paid to or accumulated for policyholders, annuitants and beneficiaries more than $680,000,000—over $60,000,000 more than it has received in premiums.

Madoc

Madoc—On Monday evening a pleasant event took place at the home of Mrs. F. E. Brown, when Miss McDermid and Miss Phelan entertained in honor of Miss Grace Garrett (a bride-to-be). The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers. The guest of honor received many beautiful gifts. Miss Garrett thanked her many friends for the kind remembrances. A dainty lunch was served with Mrs. Thain and Mrs. Irwin pouring coffee and the lady teachers of the High and Public School Staffs assisting.

Miss Jean Whytock of School of Nursing, Kingston, G. Hospital, spent Wednesday afternoon at her home, Madoc.

The W. M. S. of Trinity United Church met at the home of Mrs. Robert Wickham on Thursday afternoon with a fine attendance of members and visitors.

The leader, Mrs. Manley Fox conducted the worship service, having as its theme "Christian Citizenship." By the selection of appropriate hymns, scripture passages read by Mrs. F. Fleming, and prayer earnestly offered by Mrs. Dafoe, one's conception of this important phase of life was enlarged.

The president, Mrs. Dafoe with the assistance of the secretary, Mrs. Earl Burnside, conducted the business period. Plans were made complete for the yearly W. M. S. service being held on Sunday, June 4th and concerning the bale—Tuesday afternoon, June 13th has been set aside for receiving of and the packing of garments for Western Canada Mission fields.

Mrs. Wm. McBain and Mrs. T. E. Burnside produced interesting facts, prepared by well versed writers of the League of Nations Society on the important current subject "What is Canada's Responsibility Concerning European Refugees."

Mrs. R. C. Fair and Mrs. Leslie Ashley assisted the hostess in a pleasant social half hour.

On Sunday morning, June 4th in the auditorium of Trinity United Church, decorated fittingly with flowers of the season was held the yearly Missionary Service.

Mrs. P. Dafoe, W.M.S. president conducted ably the service of worship, opening by reciting in unison the Lord's Prayer, and the singing of hymn "O Master of the Waking World." Mrs. McBain led the reading responsively of Psalm XCVIII after which Mrs. M. Fox read chapter II of First Peter. Prayer earnestly offered by Mrs. J. Henderson, Sr., for the advancement of all church activities, workers, ministers and missionary progress in particular, was followed by the hymn "Jesus Calls O'er the Tumult."

The C. G. I. T. groups offered pleasingly "There's a Garden Where Jesus is Waiting" after which the address by Mrs. P. McMullen of Rawdon was presented. A fine challenging appeal and inspirational urge for a better understanding and stronger co-operative stand for missionary work was based on Jesus' statement to the disciples, Matthew 28. 19. "Go Ye Therefore and teach all nations baptizing them, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost."

A hymn and the Benediction concluded a splendid service.

Mrs. and Mrs. Walter Whytock, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Whytock and Miss Mary Smith of Madoc, Mrs. C. S. Rollins of Coe Hill spent Wednesday in Whitby and attended commencement exercises at Ontario Ladies' College, where Miss Helen Whytock is a student.

MR. PICOBAC'S CRONIES

Introducing Mr. Charles K. Charters, B.A., principal of the Essex Centre High School, and one of Mr. Picobac's closest friends.

"CHECK!"

Having kindly filled his pipe from Mr. Picobac's seal-tight Picobac pouch, Chas. K. Charters, B.A., leaned slightly forward to accept a light.

"Mr. Picobac," he said at last; "I ask you. Can any man compromise with his conscience and be one hundred per cent right at the same time?"

"No, he can't," admitted Mr. Picobac cheerfully. "I can't anyway. But do you know what I do when my conscience gets me down? I do what you are doing now — I fill my pipe with Picobac and take a mild . . . cool . . . sweet smoke."

"Check," grinned Principal Charters.

BASIS OF INTERNATIONAL FRIENDSHIP

The royal visit to Washington of the British Sovereigns is the mark of friendship between the two great branches of the English-speaking race, whose association has been such that no end or break in that friendship can ever be considered as possible. President Roosevelt at the state dinner at the British Embassy pointed out that the use of the methods of peace between the British Empire and the United States as exemplified in deferring the question of ultimate sovereignty of two small islands in the Pacific until the year 1989 when time itself will likely have solved the issue, was "an example to the world and that if such examples could be universally followed relations between all countries would rest upon a sure foundation and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy, a prosperous and a peaceful world." His Majesty the King paid a fine tribute to the relationship of Canada and the United States, as he bore the greetings of "a neighbor and a trusted friend" to the United States. He prayed that "our great nations may ever in the future walk together along the path of friendship in a world of peace."

When the heads of two great peoples, bound with the ties of an enduring friendship meet, there is a natural expression of all the finest sentiments. And then when such charming personalities meet, it is no wonder that the demonstrations and expressions of joy and happiness break all bounds.

This meeting of the King and Queen with the President and Mrs. Roosevelt and the American people is one of the happiest of events for two great peoples.

A LAND OF VARIED APPEAL

One revelation of the royal tour of Canada must be the fact that in Canada is found a nation in various stages of growth. Eastern Canada has passed the pioneering stage and its cities and towns and villages compare in many ways with American and British cities and towns. Agriculture and industrial life are highly developed. The prairie lands are the vast granaries of a large part of the world. On the west coast are again industrialization and commerce. Farther back is the land of resources, to which His Majesty referred as the hope of the youth of Canada and of the spirit of manhood. Here and in every port of Canada there is the interest of beauty and romance where nature is kindly. Canada has her great parks and reserves, her mountain retreats. She has vast areas for expansion, exploration and development. Canada even today can attract the spirit of a Columbus or a Drake. Romance which brought Canada into a confederation of provinces has not yet disappeared, there is room in many parts for the same spirit of adventure.

In short, Canada in its myriad of attractions is one of the most favored lands on earth. What it requires is to be better known, known as a place to attract the world's most venturous spirits. We have business, romance, we have the attractions of nature. We are half a continent which should develop into a vast nation with a variety of appeal.

If the people of Britain and other countries do not know Canada as they should know her, the charge must also be laid against Canadians that they do not know Canada as they should. It is a land of accomplishment and promise and happy they who have set up their homes and established their families in this land.

But we in Canada have good training and our forbears have handed this heritage down to us. To many do we owe the debts a young nation is bound to owe—to English, Welsh, Irish, Scots, French, Normans, Americans, and others. All have been factors, though of course British influences have been paramount in the development of Canada.

BRITISH NAMES

Residents in Canadian places which bear the names of old English cities, must feel proud in these days of the travels of the King and Queen that such places as London, Stratford, Windsor, Lancaster, Gloucester, New Westminster, and Scottish and Irish city names are used in Canada. They recall something of the life of the Old Land in the New World.

How tenacious the people of the Old Country are when they come to a new world is shown in the naming of places and roads, in planting old customs, or in following out the habits and hobbies followed in the British Isles. The Englishman's love of flowers is imported into Canada and helps to build up the home surroundings in the New World.

FIRST THUNDER

Now by this sign Persephone returns
From her dark season in the nether world,
And by this sound the secretive root learns
That, with these crashing bolts of thunder hurled,
The sap may sing, the urgent bud may break,
The leaf its armor of brief green reclaim,
And while the cold ramparts of heaven shake,
The flower spread to quickened vernal flame.

We shall not see her passing in the night,
Eyes hesitant, step delicate with fear;
But by her path of flowers in the light
Of morning shall we know she has been here.
Let, then, this thunder crack the sky's dark dome;
What matter—if Persephone is home?

CHERISHED AMONG THE MANY LEGENDS of the Spanish-American people of New Mexico is the story of San Ysidro, charmingly retold in the current number of the Rotarian Magazine as follows:

It seems that San Ysidro was plowing his garden one Spring day, when an angel appeared and said to him "The Lord wants to see you, Ysidro. Come with me."

Ysidro plowed on. "I can't go now," he answered. "You tell the Lord that I'm late in getting my corn planted and that I'll see Him later when I've finished."

The angel nodded and disappeared.

Soon another messenger hovered about San Ysidro's plow. "The Lord wants to see you right now," he said. "And if you don't come at once, the Lord says He'll send hot winds and drought to wither your corn."

Ysidro paused only long enough to wipe the sweat from his brow. "I've had hot winds and droughts before, and they don't bother me," he said. "I can carry water from the river. Tell the Lord I can't come now, but will see Him when I have my corn planted."

Baffled, that angel, too, vanished.

A few moments later a third angel, larger and sterner than the other two, tapped Ysidro on the shoulder. "The Lord doesn't like your attitude," the heavenly courier said. "He says if you don't come with me right now He'll send a plague of locusts to devour your corn from the top and a plague of cutworms to eat its roots."

"That doesn't frighten me," answered Ysidro, turning his plow and starting back. "I've had plagues before, and with fires and hoeing and hard work, I've saved my corn. You tell the Lord I'll see Him tomorrow."

And so the third angel flew away.

San Ysidro had plowed several furrows before the fourth messenger glided to earth. "The Lord isn't going to argue any more," the angel announced, flapping his wings hard to keep up with the stubborn plowman. "He simply said that if you don't come with me right away, He'll send you a bad neighbor."

Instantly San Ysidro stopped his mule and wrapped the reins around the plow handle. For the first time there was fear in his eyes.

"A bad neighbor!" he shouted. "No, no! I can stand anything but a bad neighbor. I'll go with you right now."

"THE IDEAL AMERICAN MOTHER" is the name of a contest now being staged in New York City to join the hundreds of other contests now agitating the United States. Here is a letter written by a husband naming his wife as "The Ideal American Mother".

"All types of careers have been announced," he wrote. "The least is said of one which in my humble opinion stands out pre-eminent as setting forth the characterization of the American woman, and that is the Ideal American Mother. In presenting the character of this little lady at this time I do so because at the end of this week she will be celebrating her twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Surrounding her at that time will be her six wonderful children. I respectively give you as a candidate for the 'Woman of 1939' my wife and mother of six wonderful children."

20 YEARS AGO

June 10th., 1919.

At Bayside School House yesterday afternoon a meeting of the West Hastings Women's Institute was well attended. Miss A. H. Clayton of Uxbridge, Ont., was present and gave an interesting address on the subject "Bacteria." A musical programme was also much enjoyed.

Contributions toward the Edith Cavell Room at the Belleville General Hospital will be received at the Downey Coal Office, Bridge Street. The committee is short about $200.00 of the desired amount and citizens are urged to help make up this deficiency.

Mr. Thomas Ritchie, who has been an enthusiastic lawn bowler for years, has donated to the Bowling Club a silver trophy for competition at the tournament to be held here in August. Mr. W. B. Riggs has also donated a handsome trophy.

30 YEARS AGO

June 10th., 1909.

It has been ascertained that the diamond ring which was sold by a stranger to a second hand dealer in this city for the sum of 25 cents, is the property of a resident of Sudbury.

Messrs. J.L. Tickell and J.H. Reid who represented Christ Church at the Anglican Synod in Kingston, have returned home.

Civic Holiday will be held this year on August 4th.

Mr. T. S. Tait of Campbellford was in town today.

40 YEARS AGO

June 10th., 1899.

At a meeting of the civic committees the principal matter under discussion was the repairing of city streets. It was decided to start in on Front Street and work will be commenced on Monday.

R.M.C. Cadets No "Snobs"

Recently, while estimates of the Department of National Defence were being considered in the House, Grant MacNeil, C.C.L., member, said there was a widespread impression that the Royal Military College was a "sort of snob outfit" reserved for sons of wealthy families. Replying to this, the Graduates' Association of the college informed Mr. MacNeil that there was no more democratic institution anywhere as far as enrolment was concerned and that in no other educational institution did wealth count for less. Later, in the House, Mr. MacNeil said he accepted this assurance.

Anyone familiar with the institution situated just outside of Kingston knows that snobbery has no place in it. While, of course, many rich men's sons pass through its portals, entrance is not determined by wealth or social position. Many students have come from the middle classes or from humbler homes and they have not been ostracized. In the R. M. C. a student is respected for what he is, not what his parents are.

The best proof that the college is not a "snob outfit" is provided by the graduates. These have proved themselves to be valued members of the communities in which they reside, working side by side with citizens of all ranks in promoting the public welfare. Many of the greatest contributions to the country's progress have passed through the R. M. C. This would assuredly be impossible if snobbery were one of the earmarks of the institution.

The Gardens of Tomorrow

What will the gardens of the world of tomorrow be like? It is an interesting speculation. Will the world become one great garden space except for some small spaces intensively cultivated for food, or will gardens be a thing of the past? Will rocket ships bring us new flora from Venus or some other planet?

One thing we do know and that is that many of our present-day flowers and trees will have vanished and many will have been hybridized to such an extent as to no longer be familiar. The patterns of flowers and of gardens, like everything else, change with the centuries. Even in the last century hundreds of new varieties have been created and many species lost.

In order that the people of the future may have an opportunity to obtain a correct picture of our flowers, shrubs, plants, cereals and vegetables, Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, president of Oglethorpe University, is depositing in his Crypt of Civilization a complete assortment of seeds and bulbs of our present-day flora. He has obtained the co-operation of nurserymen and seedmen all over the world in carrying out this plan.

The beauty of our gardens will not be lost, as these seeds will be carefully enclosed in glass ampules filled with nitrogen and hermetically sealed. The ampules will be enclosed in asbestos and stainless steel containers and deposited in the Crypt of Civilization when it is sealed up in May, 1940.

Each ampule will have fastened to it a label giving the common name of the plant, the Latin name and a numerical classification which will refer to a picture and description in the books on trees, plants and flowers which are being microfilmed for inclusion in the crypt. Every attempt will be made to keep the seeds alive.

It was recently reported that a strange blue pea seed taken from Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb had been successfully germinated, and that some of the plants had been sent to this country. If this is true there is no reason to doubt the survival of our plants today from seed placed in the Crypt of Civilization.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

How Hard of Hearing Can Be Greatly Reduced

One of the gratifying sights these days is to enter a home and find one of the family who formerly kept aloof from visitors now to be first to welcome you. He or she has lost that "distant" feeling toward visitors.

The explanation is simple. For years she has been gradually growing hard of hearing and, rather than have you shout at her, has kept out of the way of visitors. Today, thank to the modern hearing devices, she not only welcomes you, but apparently wishes to make up for her former "distantness" by becoming a part of all the conversation.

Although these new devices which are fitted to the individual needs of the patient have made for him or her a new and happy life, nevertheless much can be done to prevent hard of hearing if parents and teachers were more alert in discovering early hearing defects.

Further, with lack of hearing in infancy comes naturally the inability to speak so that there is, unfortunately, a large number of deaf mutes who must continue to use the sign language in communicating with one another.

Dr. S. J. Crowe and John W. Baylor, Baltimore, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, state that the number of deaf adults could be reduced 50 per cent in the next generation. They base this statement on their belief that overgrowth of lmyphoid (gland-like) tissue in the nose and throat just above the tonsils is the starting point of deafness.

"If school children in the grades were examined by a nasopharyngoscope (a lighted tube passed through the nose down to the throat), at least once a year and those with an overgrowth of lymphoid (soft, spongy, gland-like tissue) in and around the opening of the eustachian tube (which carries air from the throat to middle ear) were treated by Xray as often as necessary to keep this opening free from obstruction by this lymphoid tissue, deafness could be reduced by one half in one generation."

This overgrowth of tissue partially obstructs the tubes causing an excessive amount of mucous which irritates the lining of the tube and allows the sides of the tube to stick together and hard of hearing results.

As surgery may cause damage, it is fortunate that the Xrays, in competent hands, can safely remove this jelly-like growth and so prevent loss of hearing.

MILK AND WATER

Jokes about milk peddlers and water are numerous, but water appears to be essential to the copious production of milk, provided the water goes into the cow and not into the pail after the cow has been milked.

Take Cherry, for instance, a Shorthorn, nine years of age. She has just beaten the world record for milk yield, and, contrary to the usual way of things, has no known pedigree. Cherry lives at Red House Farm, Amesbury, Wiltshire, England and she has just become the first cow in history to produce over 4,000 gallons of milk in one year. She has given as much as 14 gallons in a 24-hour day, which is about ten gallons more than an ordinary beast. She doesn't eat a great deal more than the average bossy, getting the average daily rations of flake maize and cooked wheat (two pounds each) six pounds of bran compared with four, and she has 28 pounds of dairy nuts as against 18 for the normal cow. But it is in the matter of water that this living milk factory is exceptional. Cherry drinks from 35 to 38 gallons of it, whereas an ordinary cow only drinks 15 to 18.

Apparently, therefore, the champ requires a lot of water to produce her milk. Maybe there's a tip for the dairyman who is trying to increase his yields. Cows like to lick salt. Give 'em lots of salt to lick, or maybe sneak in a spoonful of salt in the water bucket to create a thirst. The more water bossy absorbs the more milk she will yield. At least that is the deduction from Cherry's case.

Incidentally it may be interesting to farmers to know that Cherry has a loose box stall to herself and rests on bedded chalk which feels like a Turkish carpet.—Stratford Beacon-Herald.

Don't Fool The Editor

When any public man tries to put over something smart on a newspaper publisher, he is buying the nails that will seal him forever in his rough-box. Editors are ever on the watch for such birds and these same editors can be as hard-boiled as any person who attempts to get gay with them. Trickery never pays in any walk of life and we are going to say that there would probably be more trickery in certain so-called public men if newspaper editors didn't find them out and keep them in their place. When you see newspapers give plenty of publicity to a man and just as suddenly drop him, it is a foregone conclusion that the editor or publisher has found certain traits of character in the erstwhile hero to decide that he should go back to the shadows where he belongs. Don't try to fool a newspaper editor, don't try to be smart—you'll lose out every time.—Trenton Courier-Advocate.

England's Fleetest Sky Craft

I was conscious of the influence of a time machine immediately we left the road and turned through the aerodrome gates towards the white tents and car parks prepared for the Royal Aeronautical Society's garden party. Beneath a dull and threatening sky a gyroplane was settling to rest on the flying field, the whickering sound of its rotating vanes evoking a boyhood memory of Well's description of the Oriental flying machines which participate in his "War in the Air", and yet in the same moment calling up a vision of the future, when helicopters may throng the skyways and vertical landings without run may be the general practice.

All through the afternoon the sense of on intermingling of past, present and future was never long absent. The program handbook, with its recollections of the society's early history, and the pages reproduced from the catalogue of England's first aeronautical exhibition—at the Crystal Palace in 1868—brought vividly to mind the hopes and struggles of the early pioneers. Assembled with grim modern warplanes and streamlined airliners were airplanes dating from the infancy of aeronautical engineering.

X X X

A feathery, fragile monoplane, looking like a giant dragonfly, its pilot seated upright above the thin, curved wings, recaptured in flight for a few minutes its triumph of some 26 years ago, when it set a new world record. In contrast, a squadron of Spitfire eight-gun fighters, capable of more than six miles a minute, passed to and fro high above the aerodrome in precise air parade movements at the behest of orders radioed by their leader.

A sententious voice from 1925 or thereabouts came to mind: "We may safely assume that the upper limit of speed for civil and military airplanes carrying reasonable load is somewhere in the region of 225 m.p.h." The fighter formation was travelling faster than that, on reduced throttle openings, and at levels far below the 15,000 feet at which the Spitfires move fastest.

A Sopwith Pup biplane—doughty single-seat fighter of the War — was eloquent of other, sterner days. From its rotary engine came the smell of hot castor oil that no man who served with the Air Arm in 1914-18 can ever quite get out of his nostrils. Its manoeuvres were unobtrusive and meek compared with those of many of the small modern light airplanes on view. The wind whistled through its wires and struts.

I watched it flying in company with a man who flew Pups many long hours on fighter patrol in France. He spoke of climbs to the emptiness of 20,000 feet. He recalled exceptional qualities in air combat; the Pup, he said, could keep on circling in the tenuous air at heights of 15,000 feet and more without losing height, a thing no contemporary enemy warplane could do. He called it the perfect flying machine—docile, but swift in manoeuvre, highly efficient, and entirely dependable. All of those qualities are linked with stupendous performance and heavy armament in the Spitfire and Hurricane fighters which are standard equipment of Britain's fighter squadrons today.

X X X

The time machine dismissed the Pup and flicked onward through several revolutions. Airplanes which stand on so-called "tricycle" undercarriages with fuselage level and cocked-up tails crossed the aerodrome in a series of hops, each time simply driving on to the ground to land. Pilot's difficulties at landing are notably smoothed by the tricycle, which has a nose-wheel or tail-skid. Some experts believe that the tricycle may be the future fashion.

A twin-engined novelty, called by one ingenious commentator a "flying picture-frame", is claimed to be extremely light in structural weight, and to possess unusual ease of control and stability. Its fuselage is simply a nacelle resembling in form a flattened egg; the tail unit is carried on boom outriggers which are shaped like aerofoils, and contribute to lift. Its sponsors are talking of an airliner successor to this first machine which will weigh with full load some 23 tons. Here perhaps was another authentic glimpse into the future.

Air travel in the sub-stratosphere was forecast in the small twin-engined monoplane with "pressure" fuselage. Inside hermetically sealed cabins, supercharged air-conditioning plant will maintain a comfortable atmosphere even when the airliner is moving four or five miles above the earth. British high-performance multi-engined transport craft will be flying with "pressure" cabins next years.

X X X

Few items attracted more attention than the mechanism for retracting the wheels of the Albatross four-engined monoplane, a fleet of which operate the fastest air services in Europe. As I studied the inevitable complexity of the folding struts and of the pipe lines that transmit the actuating power I recalled another authoritative opinion of only a few years ago: "Their extra weight, complexity, and uncertainty of operation make retractable undercarriages not worth while." Today, every fast airplane has a retractable landing chassis, though it is fair to remember that at speeds below some 150 to 180 m.p.h. their advantages are seldom great, and yesterday's experts were to that extent justified in their scepticism. Airplanes of yesterday—externally complicated, with their struts, wires, bomb-racks, wheels; internally simple. Airplanes of today—outwardly a streamline form of pure and simple harmonious lines; inwardly, a complex and intricate piece of machinery.

Those who expected to recapture the thrills of Shneider Trophy races, when racing seaplanes capable of between 300 and 400 m.p.h. rushed through the air to the accompaniment of an earshaking bellow of engine and airscrew, were disappointed. Britain's modern fighters, just as fast as the Schneider racers, are more decorous; their deep and rumbling thunder is unobtrusive, almost musical. Only once, when two flights of twin-engined bombers "shot up" the aerodrome in a dive at more than three hundred miles an hour, did the warplanes attack the ear with vehemence.

X X X

In all, the garden party provided, against a background of other days, an excellent picture of the Royal Air Force's present equipment. Expert admiration went out to the pilot of the Wellington twin-engined geodetic bomber, who threw his large and formidable craft about the sky in a manner eloquent of ready control and great power reserve. His turns and manoeuvres with one engine stopped were particularly sensational.

Later came a virtuoso's display in the Lysander high-wing army co-operation monoplane, which at first sight does not appear designed for advanced aerobatics.

The Defiant two-seat fighter, which carries a destructive sting in the power-operated gun-turret amidships, made its first public appearance. It is in large production for the Service, and impressed onlookers by its obvious high speed and handiness. Here is a craft which may prove a determined antagonist for the fastest and most heavily armed air raider.

When the rain thickened people crowded the hangar holding the small "static" exhibition. On view were many reminders of past achievement, and a few pointing ahead—as, for example, the two oppositely rotating three-bladed airscrews, mounted one close behind the other on a concentric shaft, which may portent interesting powerplant developments.

A City's Parking Problem

Belleville council this week referred back to committee a proposal that downtown parking be limited to 15 minutes, with angle parking on one side and parallel on the other. At present the by-law allows one-hour parking in the business section and, as we understand it, angle parking on both sides of the street. A deputation representing the merchants appeared before the council and asked that the by-law be left unchanged.

There is no doubt that 15 minutes is too short a time for shoppers, especially on Saturday evening, in a small city such as Belleville, which is comparable to Woodstock both in size and the fact that No. 2 Highway traverses the business section. An hour seems to be a reasonable minimum, but that should be enforced. It prevailed here until recently, when council lifted it in the belief that it was causing annoyance to bona fide shoppers.

With the time limit off, no consideration should be shown those who indulge in double parking on the main street. There is plenty of space within a block or so, without endangering traffic in that way. This together with another abuse is referred to by Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, which says: "One cause of congestion is double parking and huge trucks jutting out from the line of parked cars for long periods. Any commercial truck could discharge and take on cargo on Front Street in 15 minutes, and much of this loading and unloading could be done from the rear of the stores."—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

On Wednesday, June 7th., the afternoon of Cadet Inspection, Grade 10C had a picnic at Roblin's Lake. Mrs. Shiels acted as our very capable chaperon.

The majority went on bicycles and Miss Merry very kindly agreed to take the rest in her car.

Nearly everyone went in swimming and received what could be termed beautiful sunburns. They also indulged in various games and later in the afternoon very ravenously ate lunch.

The camera fans also had a glorious time. Everyone was dashing about taking candid shots.

We "wended our way" home about 7 p.m. and the next day 10C could be seen wandering about the corridors with very distracted looks on their faces.

An interesting variation of the assembly programme was made on Tuesday morning when the presentation of the Elevator awards were mode. These were as follows:

Awards were also presented for those winning the prizes of the individual sales contest. Joyce Watson Margaret Miles and Ernest Fry won these in respective order.

The B.C.I.'s annual cadet inspection took place on Wednesday, June 7th., on the Collegiate campus. The boys, nobly facing the camera barricade formed by the girls, went through their paces admirably enough, keeping in step. Rousing martial music was produced by the band under the able drection of Ted Hinchey.

Major Howard's small son "Jay" our mascot followed around with the inspecting group and was kept busy during the intervals posing for the girls.

After the inspection Colonel Millette, the inspecting officer, praised the cadets and offered them a few sound words of advice. Awards for the best company and those proficient in shooting were made by Major Howard, assisted by Mr. Moncrieff and Mr. Jack Deacon this was followed by an address by Col. Geen, who officially declared the afternoon a holiday.

Mr. MacLaurin, our principal, then commended Col. Ponton's unvarying attendance at Cadet Inspection and thanked Col. Geen for his address.

Captain Harvey Theobald took the foreground and suggested "Three Cheers for Col. Ponton," followed by cheers for Col. Millette, Major Howard, Col. Geen and Mr. MacLaurin.

Thereupon the group dispersed with amazing rapidity ready for such enjoyments as tennis, golf, swimming and hiking on the perfect afternoon which followed.

Those enjoying the night breeze on Front Street about 9.30 Monday night, were given an added attraction by the members of 3C returning from "Dodge City," to which they were treated by the Elevator. They (Joyce W.) earned this treat by selling the highest number of Elevators of any form in the school. They almost wrecked a local restaurant by shooting at each other from behind tables, owing to the bad influence of the picture and the handsome "Bad guy" in it. Any poor unfortunate who had a nickel was tortured until it was put into the nickelodeon. The crowd having begged "Goldie" to get weighed dispersed in tears at his refusal. They all wish to thank the Elevator for the treat.

The district field meet was held at the O.S.D. on June 3rd. It was a lovely day and showed no promise of rain. Our school carried away the Junior and Intermediate boys championships and the Senior girls championship.

Gordon Theobald won the Junior, and Bill Pigden the Intermediate. Marjorie Hitchon repeated her performance of former years by winning the senior girls championship with 11 points out of 15. As a whole, Trenton school won over Belleville with a lead of 8 points.

Final examinations are at last upon us. "On such a full sea are we now afloat, and we must take the Current when it serves, or lose our ventures."

This column wishes to thank the Ontario Intelligencer for the space which they have so kindly donated this year.

Our thanks are due also to Miss Brown and the various members of the Commercial Department for their careful preparation of typed manuscript, and last but not least to our splendid reporters whose names are too numerous to mention here.

Thursday from 4 to 4.30 saw most of the Library staff gather either on bicycles, on their own feet (?) or in cars to go for their last party of the year. We went to Rossmore with only one accident on the way (no one was hurt) where a few used the cool, very cool waters of the Bay to freeze in while other wise souls basked in the sun on the dock.

Miss Bunting, Miss McLaren and Mrs. Cooke very kindly acted as chaperones.

Girls' softball made its exit for 1939 as far as Grade 9 was concerned, on Thursday afternoon between the hours of four and five-thirty, when 9G defeated 9B and in so doing labelled themselves champions. This ended the softball games held among the Grade 9 girls for the last few weeks the "officiating" having been handled by the middle and upper school girls under the supervision of Miss Allison. The victorious members of 9G have won for themselves not only the championship but also the chance of competing against an O.S.D. team on Wednesday, June 14.

To 9G, the student body extends congratulations on winning tne championship and best wishes for a similar success on Wednesday and to 9B our congratulations for putting up a fine fight.

The June meeting of St. Paul's United Church Women's Association took place on Tuesday afternoon, June 6 at the home of Mrs. Claude Tucker. The opening exercises and devotional period were conducted by the first vice-president, Mrs. Sid Williams with Mrs. Murney Hick presiding at the piano. The meeting opened with the theme song and the Lord's prayer in unison. During the business part of the meeting a detailed financial report was given by Mrs. R. B. Duffin, treasurer. This was followed by the secretary's report by Mrs. Nora Wescott who also reported that fifteen cards and letters of sympathy had been sent during the months for which letters and personal expressions of gratitude had been received. The attendance recording system revealed 55 ladies present. A report of the visiting committee for the month was given by Mrs. G. Pollard and Miss E. Donnan showed a total of 21 calls. The committee for June will be Mrs. C. F. Linn and Mrs. Macklin.

Catholic Priest Wants To Join Protestant Body

Midland, Ont., June 10 (CP)—Still under review by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is the application of J. H. Real D'Anjoy of Fontenelle, Que., former Roman Catholic priest, for admission to the Presbyterian Church ministry.

The application was being debated yesterday when adjournment was taken on discussion of recommendations of the Board of Education, which called Mr. D'Anjou's application through the Miramichi Presbytery "premature." The Board recommended that action be deferred "pending further information regarding the defendant."

Press Acceptance

"Mr. D'Anjou enjoys the confidence of all the Protestant ministers of the district," Mr. Genge asserted.

Mr. D'Anjou, the assembly was told, is now in charge of a mission under authority of the Miramichi Presbytery. Mr. Genge said "the Orangemen of Montreal bought a property for Mr. D'Anjou and built his house."

Rev. F. Scott MacKenzie of Montreal, recommended that the Presbytery "be authorized to supervise Mr. D'Anjou's work, employing him in any way that commends itself to their good judgment, and exercising care and oversight of the entire situation."

A harvest of 324 million bushels of wheat, to say nothing of the increased volume of coarse grains, and all of it brought in and threshed in 1938 without the assistance of the erstwhile army of tens of thousands of harvest help from the East in the years not so long gone by.
Thus does the mode of our lives and the methods of our callings change, keeping pace with the progress being made in the scientific engineering and industrial realms.
The evolution of the Combine to the small, compact model now made available has revolutionized harvesting, making it an easily undertaken task for the regular help of the farm. Its production at a cost to the farmer of but one-third the price of the earlier, bigger models, is an evidence of the contribution made by the implement maker to help the farmer meet the problems with which he is confronted. The lower operating costs of this machine, and the reduction it enables to be made in the cost of harvesting, saving as it does up to 15c a bushel for complete harvesting, has meant, in a great many instances, a profit instead of a loss to the farmer.
Power of course is the basis of the great mechanistic progress of agriculture and the record of attainment in making more efficient, less costly, and lower operating cost models available is an achievement that cannot be beaten by any other industry. To-day's modern streamlined, high efficiency tractors make earlier models look like pre-historic monstrosities and sell for about one-half the price, costing less than half to operate.
Massey-Harris is pleased to have taken a leading part in developing machines which are destined to play so important a part in making agriculture profitable.
The advent of the combine and now the greater popularity of the small combine has meant a striking decrease in the output of binders which records show reached the height of their volume in the years just previous to the war, both in Canada and the United States; production in the latter country dropping from 215,386 in 1914 to 31,259 in 1937, thus losing the benefits of mass production gained in the years when the volume kept mounting.
Apart from the tremendously improved product offered in the binder of to-day, which accounts in no small way for its relatively increased price over pre-war years, the fact of the greatly decreased volume now manufactured makes the binder cease to be the criterion of values offered by the implement industry.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Speed Demon Not the Stuff of Dreams

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Please tell me what's good for a broken heart? When I broke my engagement with Ted I'd no idea it was going to hurt me so much, and without him, life seems to have so little meaning.

Since we became engaged two years ago he has wrecked one car and had three accidents, in one of which my arm was broken. He swore to me he'd drive more carefully, but reason seemed to leave him, so soon as he felt a wheel in his hands. My family were distracted every time I went out with him in a car, but he was just not open to reason.

Finally, in our last landing in a ditch, it was our car he was driving at the time, his own being laid up for repairs, and I just quit. My mother and father are delighted, though they had nothing against Ted but his crazy way of driving. But I just see and hear him all the time. I don't intend to make up. It's quite positively this time. What can I do to forget?

Flora

Well, my dear girl, all said and done, it's better to have a broken heart, than a broken back. Broken hearts mend, but not broken spines. And wheel chairs aren't happy things for young people or old ones either. The sovereign remedy for getting over a love affair is to take an interest in somebody else.

The idea seems horrible, unnatural, even cheap in the beginning But give it time, and it'll work out. A grim but certain method is to take up a difficult study, a language for instance. Young ladies with broken hearts often become nurses. The hospital is said to be the surest way to find someone who'll make you forget.

If you can afford it, go travelling but whatever happens, you did the sensible thing in breaking your engagement to a man who went berserk as soon as he started to drive a car.

Was He Disloyal to His Wife?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The death of an only son caused a certain man to want to help other boys and girls. This he did through various church and welfare organizations, the Y.M.C.A. among them. His wife ridiculed his ideas and wouldn't go with him to meetings or take any interest in his work. She became sarcastic and belittled his success.

However, there was a woman friend who gave him constructive criticism, encouraged him, and advised he could and would succeed. He ignored his wife's ridicule, and followed the advice of this friend. He has now accomplished a work that has already helped hundreds of boys and girls, and will make better citizens for the future.

Did he do right in rejecting the advice of his wife and taking that of another woman?

Seeker for Truth

Not if he limited the advice of the other lady to welfare work. But if it led to a relationship nearer and dearer, the high plane on which they met does not absolve him from carrying the friendship too far. I'd like to hear what some of the wives have to say about this.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Formal or Informal

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My organization, plans to hold a dinner party in honor of its founder, at one of the local clubs, during the latter part of the month. It is expected that there will be entertainment and dancing after the dinner.

The first notices of the proposed dinner stated (parenthetically) that the attire would be informal. However, I know that the members of the various committees in charge of the affair will be dressed formally. The tickets for the dinner have recently been received but no mention is made thereon as to whether the affair is a formal or informal one.

What does one do in a case of this sort? What constitutes "informal" attire for a public dinner party? If I should decide to wear evening dress, would long white gloves be necessary? I will be accompanied by my sister, unescorted by any gentleman. (I do not know if that has any bearing on what I should wear.)

Jane

Sometimes, as in this case, the members of the committee in charge of a dinner of this kind do wear formal clothes, but, thinking to make it easier and simpler for the majority of the guests, they indicate that their attire may be "informal"

If I were you, and since you and your sister are not to be accompanied by a man, I would wear clothes that certainly incline toward informality. I would definitely not wear a formal evening dress, Long white gloves at this type of party and a this season of the year would not be appropriate.

The type of costume that I would most enthusiastically recommend is a long-dress-and-jacket ensemble and a small hat of the type of a "dinner hat". This sort of costume is a godsend for just this kind of problem, for it isn't formal and it isn't too informal. For instance, a simple dark (black is best) dress, ankle-length, with either a matching short jacket, or one of the myriad kinds of decorative short jackets (lame, for instance) that lend a gala air and still aren't on the side of formality. If you haven't this "in-between" type of dress, you might appropriately wear a dressy afternoon dress.

Bride's Father Cannot Attend

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married soon, and I am coming to you with a few questions that are troubling me.

1—If circumstances prevent the bride's father from being at the wedding, is it proper for her grandfather to give her in marriage?

2—Should I, the bride's mother, be in my daughter's room while the guests are assembling? The wedding is to take place in our home, in the early afternoon.

3—The bride is wearing a light-colored suit and hat. Should I and her grandmother and aunt also wear hats? Should we wear hats only during the ceremony, or from the time the guests start to arrive until they leave?

Grace

1—Yes, under the circumstance, it is proper for the bride's grandfather to give her in marriage..

2—No, you mustn't stay in your daughter's room while your guests are assembling. You, the bride's mother, are the hostess, and, as the hostess, you stand near the entrance to greet and welcome your guests. Just before the wedding party come into the room, you take your place at the left of the improvised ceremony-place. (The bride's relatives and friends stand at the left of the ceremony-place; the groom's relatives and friends stand at the right of the ceremony-place.)

3—You, the hostess, should not wear a hat. The bride's grandmother and aunt may do as they wish about wearing hats, but since they are your house guests, it is not necessary for them to wear hats.

The Other Side of Beauty

By HELEN FOLLETT

EVERY WOMAN who wants to carry beauty banners should take a bird's-eye view of her profile now and then; also a careful survey of the back of her head. A shapely tete is a beauty asset, and don't forget that. It takes a seeing eye to observe the fine possibilities of hair trimming and tress arrangement.

The average femme believes she is doing well by herself if her hair is beautifully undulated and dressed according to the mode of the moment. That is not enough. The mode must not only suit her celestial portrait; it must be in harmony with her type and the lines of her body.

Sometimes when you are having a whirl at professional beautifying and the operator has your locks sleeked down with a setting lotion, take a mirror and find out what kind of a shaped head you have. Some heads are long, some round, some flat, some lift fairly high at the crown. The coiffure can remedy defects of outline; you can flatten here, build up there. Hair stylists have a lot to say on that subject.

With muffin hats and bands at the back the puffed-out coiffure isn't all that it should be. Waved lines from the crown to the nape and with a single row of rolls along the nape line make for a neater, smarter appearance than a collection of scrambled ringlets. Flying locks belong to the brimmed hat or picturesque sailors revived from the Naughty Nineties.

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, June 11

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most promising one, with auguries of particularly active and expansive circumstances, especially in connection with group progress of large scale educational, philanthropic or cultural movements. Humane, community and racial projects are accelerated by novel and possibly revolutionary methods. Private fortunes expand with similar methods. It is a time for such advanced objectives.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of illimitable opportunities, with possibilities of high goals in business and in connection with cultural ventures. But do not allow these worthy objectives to undermine the nervous or physical well-being.

A child born on this day may be unusually ardent, ambitious, energetic and industrious, although having some temperamental manifestations born of high nervous and spiritual tensions. It may reach high goals for itself and its fellows.

For Monday, June 12

MONDAY'S astrological forecast holds some peculiar or subtle phases in which affairs may be best activated by deep, clever or undercover strategies or secret understandings with those in place and power. Elders assist and an advancement may call for change of travel. Elders in the home have significance.

Those whose birthday it is may accomplish their cherished objectives by stratagem, sherwdness, craft or secret agreements with superiors or elders. Many aspects of subtlety and secrecy prevail. Change may be involved in new arrangements or in promotion. Personal popularity with elderly females is seen.

A child born on this day may be deep and subtle, gaining honors and preferment from elders and superiors. It should be happy and prosperous in life.

KINGSTON ROAD W.A.

Mrs. C. MacDonald presided and the meeting opened with the use of the theme song, "Let the Beauty of Jesus be Seen in Me" after which the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved followed by the roll call.

Considerable business was transacted and an invitation to visit the Women's Guild of St. John's Mission was accepted.

A strawberry social was planned the date to be set later.

A very interesting report of the W. A. Convention at Tweed, was given by the delegate, Mrs. McDonald.

The ladies enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon and a very tasty lunch was served at the close. There were about a dozen members present and one visitor.

Mrs. Snider proved an ideal hostess.

Current Offerings at Belleville Theatres

Advance Information on Screen Offerings Supplied by Theatre Managers.

AT THE BELLE

"CONFESSIONS OF A NAZI SPY"

"Confessions of a Nazi Spy", starring Edward G. Robinson, and is now showing at the Belle Theatre. It is a sensational expose of the direct military and naval espionage of Nazi agents in the United States as brought out in the recent trials in New York, Los Angeles and the Panama Canal Zone. Leon G. Turrou, former G-Man, acted as technical advisor on the Warner Bros. production.

Anatole Litvak, noted director of such brilliantly successful pictures as "The Sisters" and "Mayerling", directed, with huge cast which includes, besides Robinson, Paul Lukas, Francis Lederer, Lya Lys, Dorothy Tree, Henry O'Neill, George Sanders, Henry Victor, Grace Stafford and hundreds of others.

Robinson plays the G-Man who breaks the spy ring and brings four of its members to trial and conviction. Lukas portrays the doctor who heads the ring; Lederer is the bungling Nazi informer; and Lya Lys is the exotic beauty who uses her feminine wiles to get information for the Nazis.

"Confessions of a Nazi Spy" goes beyond the mere expose of a small spy ring. It shows the open and flagrant campaign that Hitler supporters are waging in this country against the nation's democratic institutions. And it shows that the spy menace is still very great, and that for every spy brought to justice during the recent trials in New York, Los Angeles and the Panama Canal Zone, there are a hundred still operating at large. To quote Mr. Turrou, the recent spy trials "barely scratched the surface."

While "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" is a fictional story, the espionage methods it exposes are real, and the combination of authenticity and fiction has been heralded as the strongest and most thrilling dramatic fare ever to come to the screen.

Scenes of the Royal Visit to Ottawa are recorded in the Popular Belle Newsreel to be presented on the same program, with "Naughty but Mice" a funny comicolor cartoon.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Soldier and the Lady"

Battle scenes on the screen, save for the spectacular sequences in "The Birth of a Nation," have usually been exciting but fragmentary, and rarely have they represented more than a few hundred troops at most in action.

The new spectcular film drama, "The Soldier and the Lady," coming next to the McCarthy Theatre presents what critics have acclaimed as the greatest battle scenes ever filmed—scenes which took an entire month to produce with a cast of 10,000 trained soldiers participating with realism.

These scenes represent the two battles described in the Jules Verne novel, "Michael Strogoff," upon which the spectacle is based. The first depicts a Russian army trapped between two regiments of Tartar cavalry; the second has Russian troops besiege a Siberian city and annihilate the Tartar tribes.

To film these two battles on an hitherto undreamed-of scale, ten camera crews covered the difficult tactical manoeuvres while hidden cameras recorded the stirring charges and attacks.

In keeping with the eye-filling spectacle of this film footage is the remainder of the dramatic story—a powerful story of sacrifice and courage of a Tsar's courier who meets peril, adventure, torture and romance in his task of setting a Russian army on the trial of rebellious Tartars.

The new romantic screen favorite, Anton Walbrook, portrays the hero role, heading Elizabeth Allan, Margot Grahame, Eric Blore, Fay Bainter and other favorites in the cast. George Nicholls, Jr., directed "The Soldier and the Lady," produced by Pandro S. Berman for RKO Radio.

"Sorority House"

Bright, sparkling and played in a lively tempo, "Sorority House" featuring Anne Shirley, James Ellison, Barbara Read and J. M. Kerrigan, comes next to the McCarthy Theatre as a grand companion feature to the above, "The Soldier and the Lady."

Anne Shirley plays her most delightful screen role in this her latest picture and James Ellison, fast becoming one of Hollywood's most popular juvenile stars, turns in a fine portrayal as an upper-classman on the campus and shares romantic honors in a manner of exceptional merit, with Miss Shirley.

Now Playing

For the last times, the McCarthy Theatre offers a splendid two feature program that will be enjoyed by every member of the family. First, Mark Twain's lovable rascals (Tom and Huck) in a swell, all-new adventure classic entitled "Tom Sawyer Detective" and a companion feature filled with action, thrills, cowboy songs and old-time western music that everyone loves, entitled "The Thundering West" and featuring the screen's most popular outdoor star, Charles Starrett.

Fashion Flashes

WEAR YOUR dollar turbans with a beautifully styled suit in preshrunk cotton broadcloth, gray striped in white and hairlined in gold.

Hide away under a large black hat with your filmy black afternoon and informal dinner things. A flat-crowned, wide-brimmed model is of black leghorn trimmed with turquoise blue faille ribbon fringed and knotted at the streamer ends.

It is difficult to keep pace with the demand for simple but smart dance frocks, says the shops—such models as a navy dotted swiss, the skirt ruffled from below the waistline to the wide hem, and each ruffle edged in narrow white lace. The navy taffeta foundation shows in the front slash of the skirt.

Loll around at home or beach in gray or white spun rayon slacks and a long sleeved checked gingham shirt in red and white with self tie sash.

More excitement than anything we have seen for a long time was caused at a recent fashion show when a model appeared wearing a floor length cape of natural Russian lynx.

A change for town is thin, porous wool. A black collarless, buttoned bolero, with high lapels topping a sunray-tucked skirt is worn with a pink net blouse and black patent leather belt.

No matter what the season, there is always a demand for black suede shoe with afternoon and informal dinner togs. Such a model is very fine suede with curved centre straps meeting the very high ankle straps. Heels are high.

Give Father the Credit Due Him, Advises Dr. Dafoe

Father gets little credit in this world for what he does in bringing up the family. Yet he has a great responsibility which he must meet if his children are to get their proper chance in life. Father's trouble is that his role is completely overshadowed by the more spectacular part taken by the mother. I sometimes think he is like the linesman of a football team; the backfield men do all the running and get most of the credit. But they can only do good work as long as the linesman is in there, blocking and working all the time.

Some races of the world have solved the father's problem in that he is the one to get all the glory when a child is born. For instance, in some of the savage tribes of South America, when the wife is giving birth to a baby, it is the father who goes to bed, getting all the attention, while the wife—as far as she can—carries on with her work. These people, believing in spirits, hope to distract them from the infant through the father's artifice in making them think he is bearing the child.

But civilized man just stays in the background and supplies the cigars when the child is born. Perhaps I should say "most" civilized men, for up here in some of the more backward places, the men still play a much more important part in the birth of the child. Very often, if help and money are scarce, the father has to turn nursemaid. He has to look after the new baby, as well as the other children. At the same time he cleans house and cooks meals.

I have even known fathers to take the place of midwives. Of course this doesn't happen often, but several times in my experience, due to long distances and impassable roads, I have been delayed. When I arrived, I found the baby already there, with the father having taken the part of the midwife. Quite often I have had to call on the father to help me at a birth. Sometimes they are the best assistants in the world. But occasionally they have been more trouble than the mother herself and I have had to chase them outside where they wouldn't be fainting under my feet.

I remember one amusing case of a married couple, childless for at least fifteen years. When the wife finally became pregnant, the husband insisted that she be taken to the hospital in the city. When she was confined there she gave birth to triplets. Well, the nurse went out in the corridor to tell him. At first he wouldn't believe her. When he finally did become convinced, the shock was too much for him and he fainted dead away. So you see what a father is up against. Don't forget him when Father's Day rolls around.

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

CHAPTER ONE

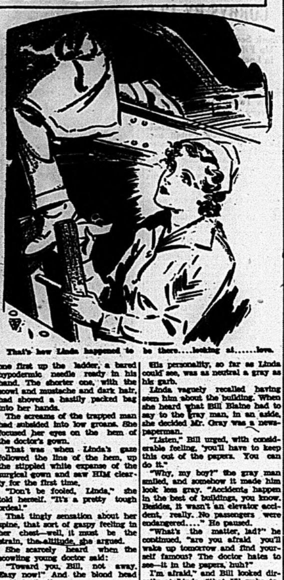
When Linda first saw Bill Blaine she was up in the air—in more than a figurative sense. It wasn't strange, then, that this condition should prevail; that Linda—so far as young Dr. Blaine was concerned—should remain that way for some time.

Fate introduced Linda and Dr. Blaine, a most unconventional scene, for Linda, in white nurse's uniform, was perched on a ladder upon a roof twenty-five stories above the ground. And there, a few feet above her, in a precarious position on a cross-beam over a yawning elevator pit, crouched Dr. Blaine, the hem of his white surgical smock about level with her eyes.

Amid the heavy cables and gears of the elevator machinery was an emergency job for a doctor and a nurse. Bill Blaine was a doctor; Linda was a nurse.

That's how Linda happened to be there, standing tip-toe on a ladder, looking at....love. At least, to Linda, it looked like love. And love to Linda was no chance stranger. They had met somewhere before.

Whether Linda was in a condition to recognize it was another matter entirely. Mistaken identity is common in this regard, even to girls with two feet planted solidly on earth. And Linda's feet decidedly were not on terra firma at the moment.



That's how Linda happened to be there....looking at......love.

A ladder perch on a roof-top in the elevator house of a twenty-five story skyscraper was no place for that.

Linda had been there five years or five hours—or was it only the five minutes indicated by her watch?—before she really saw Bill Blaine. In all that time, up to this moment, she had been too busy reaching up and trying not to look down—down into that awful, gaping pit below them—too busy really to see the man toward whom she was reaching with methodical, almost mechanical motions.

The man was tall and bronzed and his wavy hair, which looked blonder than it was because of the contrast to a complexion that could have been an advertisement for sun effects, kept blowing in the draft of the elevator shaft. His eyes were nice and on the blue side.

Linda knew the hands would be slim and strong and well kept, although she couldn't see them. Right now they were covered by rubber gloves and the gloves were dyed a deep red....It wasn't a pretty sight.

Neither was the face of the man upon whom he was working. A third man, another doctor, hovered on the narrow cross beam.

Linda was spared from actually seeing what they were doing. She saw Bill Blaine instead—saw him perhaps because she couldn't let herself see the other — saw this blond young man with the truant hair and the hands that were full.

The man on whom he worked would never be bothered by full hands again....They had been wide, powerful hands, the hands of a mechanic, but the only two he had. And now he had one.

A building mechanic, a workman on a routine tour of inspection of the elevator machinery which speeds the cross-section of a city, the skyscraper's occupants and visitors, on vertical flights to and from the offices in the building. No different today from any other routine checkup of the well-tended machinery at the top of the shaft.

No different—until....

A terrible mistake, a human mistake....his arm was caught and frightfully mangled between the elevator cable and the massive spool upon which it wound.

But for the state inspector, a few feet behind the mechanic, there would have been no need for the perilous operation. The man's life had been saved when the inspector succeeded in stopping the machinery, dashed down to the twenty-fifth floor for aid.

Linda had been one of the first at the scene. She had watched, aided, while the young doctors — the tall bronzed one—with another to assist him, steady him and whisper encouragement, had amputated the crushed arm of the workman, extricating him from the clutch of the steel.

The alarm, the race for the roof —these and other less related thoughts sped through Linda's mind as she stood on the ladder. For the first few minutes she scarcely heard the voice above her, the voice of the man with impatient eyes and tanned face, as he ordered abruptly: "Kelly", and she automatically reached up with the Kelly hemostat to stem the flow of blood from the severed artery.

This was hardly like the first amputation she scrubbed for while a "probe", at the university hospital, she thought. No firm white tile under foot, not neatly stacked surgical tray at her arm; just grab and hit or miss atop a ladder.

"Sponge!"

Automatically, she handed it up to the waiting doctor; automatically she received it again, now red and warm and wet.

She knew why they chose her for the job, all right. Because Dr. Thorpe's office was the nearest to the stairs on the twenty-fifth floor and it was there that the state inspector had raced with the news of the emergency. It was from there that he had telephoned to the building office for a doctor, in the absence of Linda's employer.

The two young doctors had raced past her on the roof, the tall one first up the ladder, a bared hypodermic needle ready in his hand. The shorter one, with the scowl and mustache and dark hair, had shoved a hastily packed bag into her hands.

The screams of the trapped man had subsided into low groans. She focused her eyes on the hem of the doctor's gown.

That was when Linda's gaze followed the line of the hem, up the stippled white expanse of the surgical gown and saw HIM clearly for the first time.

That tingly sensation about her spine, that sort of gaspy feeling in her chest—well, it must be the strain, the altitude, she argued.

She scarcely heard when the scowling young doctor said:

"Toward you, Bill, not away. Easy now!" And the blond head nodded silently.

"Catgut ties!", she heard that all right. It was HIS voice.

She also heard the other doctor's quick countermanding.

"Silkworm, please!"

The scowly one knows his stuff, Linda mused.

"Not catgut on the big one, Bill," she heard the shorter man's whisper. "You want the axillary tied to stay."

All hob to pay if the big artery were tied with readily absorbed ligature, Linda recalled from Dr. Sturtevant's long patient drilling.

Then it was all over, and the two doctors were carefully handing the injured man down to waiting men who swarmed up the ladder, almost dislodging Linda before she edged her way down.

CHAPTER TWO

It seemed that nearly a hundred persons swarmed all over the sundeck, the bright-awninged solarium which was the newest attraction of Titan Tower.

"Beautiful work, Blaine," she heard one say. "I never saw anything like it."

So that was his name. Bill Blaine. Dr. Blaine. It was a nice name. Linda resolved she liked it.

"Don't give me the credit, Sam", she heard Blaine say, and she saw his even white teeth in a grin as he said it. "Rennie here gave me the cues. How could I miss?"

The scowly one looked as though he wanted no part of the praise. He just looked tired.

Bill Blaine's hand was steady as a bird dog's point as he lighted a cigaret. The gloves were no longer on his hands.

He looked along the end of his cigarette and the flame of the match and saw Linda's face framed in the smoke.

"....and," Blaine resumed, "we would both have been lost without the help of this young lady," he shouldered his way to Linda's side, "who looks as though she might be ready for a rest herself."

"Me—oh!" the color came swiftly back to Linda's face. It was a nice oval face, Bill Blaine noticed, in which the best features were wide-spaced violet eyes with long dark lashes, and a soft, full mouth.

The mouth was even nicer, Blaine decided, when she smiled like that, a sort of retiring "please excuse me" expression. A stray wisp of her wavy blonde hair clung, moist, to her smooth brow.

"You know," Blaine continued, addressing no one in particular, "I've been trying out this new solarium ever since it started and the first nice thing that happened to me was when I found a job right in our own top yard, as the saying goes."

If Bill Blaine had intended to clarify what he meant he didn't get to it, for his attention was distracted by a man who came up to their group. The man, for h's outward appearance, was nothing to distract attention in any group.

He was a gray man, dressed in a nondescript gray suit, which might have made him look like a banker if it were pressed. A gray fedora perched from the back of his head at the angle acquired by a cracker barrel sage. H's hair was gray. His eyes were gray and friendly.

His personality, so far as Linda could see, was as neutral a gray as his garb.

Linda vaguely recalled having seen him about the building. When she heard what Bill Blaine had to say to the gray man, in an aside, she decided Mr. Gray was a newspaperman.

"Listen," Bill urged, with considerable feeling, 'you'll have to keep this out of the papers. You can do it."

"Why, my boy?" the gray man smiled, and somehow it made him look less gray. "Accidents happen in the best of buildings, you know. Besides, it wasn't an elevator accident, really. No passengers were endangered...." He paused.

"What's the matter, lad?" he continued, "are you afraid you'll wake up tomorrow and find yourself famous? The doctor hates to see—it in the papers, huh?"

And then she knew. He meant Linda.

Linda needed a bit of waking up herself ,as she walked in a daze from the roof down the single flight of stairs to the twenty-fifth floor. Dr. Blaine's last words echoed in her ears.

"I'm afraid that I'll wake tomorrow," he had said, a smile on his mouth. And his look, as he said it, was at her—and for her. His eyes, she remembered, didn't absorb any of the smile.

Afraid he'd wake up and find she was just a dream, was he? That's what his words had implied —and his eyes had finished the sentence. It was all very romantic and just what she would have had him say if she'd written the dialogue for a play, Linda agreed, but the odds were that he wouldn't know her from the elevator starter or the cornerstone the next time they met....

Suddenly Linda was yanked from the immediate past and the forecast future into the present as she barged full tilt into a door that refused to swing, even against more force than she could muster.

She glared at the door as though to stare it down, and read letters, which spelled: "Stairway."

The glare turned into a grin—a wan, tired effort, but well-intentioned—as realization dawned that she had tried to open the door the wrong way.

"Toward you, Linda girl, not away," she remonstrated, borrowing a phrase she had heard in the feverish course of events a few feet above and a few minutes ago; in the nightmare which ended in a dream—of the nice kind.

Nice building, good old pal! Linda thought. You raise it from a pup, practically, and then it plays tricks on you by switching door hinges, resulting in skinned knuckles that look like an incipient case of housewife's hands.

Surveying the injured member, which was very white and very small and finely shaped, Linda walked through the door and turned down the corridor to Dr. Thorpe's office, where she sat down at her desk in the reception room and continued to gaze blankly at her hand.

Her mind, however, was on her heart.

CHAPTER THREE

Things, it seemed, always happened to Linda with a bang. The big things in her life, the importtett unns t ant crises, never arrived quietly. Every really important thing that had happened to her—love, tragedy, even motherhood—had been strangely mixed up with an elemental drama she didn't pretend to understand.

Well, Bill Blaine's entrance into that odd jig-saw which was her life seemed to fit the pattern. If she had met him under the palms at a beach cabana or prosaically on a street corner where people take street cars and buy newspapers, it wouldn't have fit somehow.

It seemed to make sense that Bill Blaine should come into her life twenty-five stories above the ground, with their introduction the screams of a maimed man and the grinding whine of ponderous machinery.

Love! "When you came in sight, I got that o-o-old feelin'." How many times had she and Janice and Jo raised blended voices with those words, mimicking a favorite dance band trio?

"Good girl, Linda!" She hadn't dreamed that. Someone had said it, and the voice was Dr. Thorpe's. Linda snapped out of it. "I'm proud of you; wish I had been here for it," Dr. Thorpe said hanging up topcoat and hat. "Blaine just told me about it...."

"I didn't know you knew....do you know him?" Linda asked.

Dr. Thorpe chuckled.

"I should. I practically support him each month."

Linda let that pass, without trying to decide it. Dr. Blaine didn't look as though he needed supporting—any month.

"Any calls? No? Well, I'll be inside going over that Delston case."

Linda was alone again. Not quite alone—for there was Mike. Her thoughts could materialize him from the happy and also tragic past....

When Linda looked at Mike Morton for the first time, it wasn't that old feeling. It was new, newer than tomorrow or a succession of tomorrows. Tomorrows that led, Linda little dreamed where.

You couldn't look at Mike Morton in retrospect. Mike was gone, but when you thought of him, he wasn't gone exactly. Mike wasn't of the pale stuff of which memories are made. He was too solid to become a shade—too vibrant and gay and alive. Too eagerly living today and tomorrow all at once, until one day the last tomorrow fell off the brink of space and there weren't any more.

"Be true to me, Bug," Mike had told her once, during that short, idyllic year they had together. "If you even look at anyone else," she remembered that upward quirk of one eyebrow and the impish glint in his eyes. "I'll climb right up with wings ablaze to ha'nt you when I'm gone!"

"MIKE!" Linda had remonstrated. "Don't even joke that way...."

"Mike had called her "Lindy-bug" mostly. As a name it wasn't very sensible—but neither was Mike. It was funny about the way he joked of burning wings....well, "funny" wasn't the word.

For romance rode into the lives of Linda Walsh and Mike Morton on wings—and left it the same way. Not the traditional cute little sprouts that are the epaulets of decorative Cupids, but real wings; wide, strong and silvery shining.

It was from under one of these great glistening wings of an air lines transport plane that the face of Mike Morton first turned up and saw Linda, standing framed there in the door of the plane. Mike's face was the kind to make girls look twice and then steal a third look.

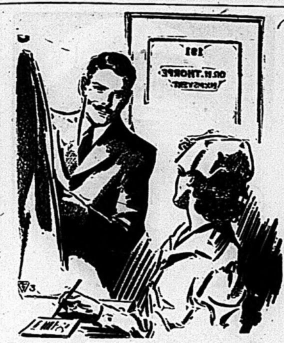
The roar of the twin motors drowned out his first exclamation upon seeing Linda, so he swung polo coat and brief case into one hand, ducked nimbly under the wing and bounded up for the direct personal approach she had to hear.

"I said," he shouted, "what cloud did they steal you from? Angels in uniform—fine stuff!"

That was in May, only four months after Linda had completed her nursing course and started as hostess on Trip 9.

In June, Mike had sold both his planes and had talked his way into a co-pilot's job. In July, on the fourth, they were married.

It wasn't until a month after their marriage that Linda learned why he had sold his planes and had gone to work. He wanted to be near her—but that wasn't all. He was on his own.



"I'm proud of you. Wish I had been here for it," Dr. Thorpe said.

She hadn't thought to ask much about the Mortons, his father and mother. She was too deliriously happy to think of it....

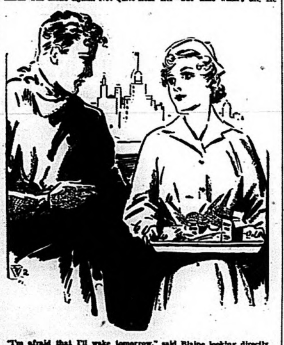
Linda wasn't the wife that Bradley Morton, of the financial canyons of Chicago's State street, and Mrs. Bradley Morton of Lake Forest and Palm Beach, had planned for son Michael. Nor was flying the career which had been mapped for him. Michael Morton was to have been sixth or seventh vice-president of the Big Bank, no less, until papa retired and Mike took over the board chairmanship, as foreordained.

Mike didn't tell her much, tried to laugh it off, but she learned then that he had been disinherited in a "never-darken-my-door" scene which would have seemed much funnier if it hadn't really hurt. But it did.

And then something had happened to mar their ecstatic happiness; something by which she lost a large measure of the Mike with whom she fad fallen in love..

Linda didn't hear Dr. Thorpe reenter the room. When he told her to take the rest of the day off; that her nerves were upset, she noticed in her compact mirror that her eyes were red and her face a mess.

She didn't remember how the handkerchief got into the hand of the skinned knuckle. But it was wet.



"I'm afraid that I'll wake tomorrow," said Blaine looking directly at Linda

CHAPTER FOUR

Mickey was joyously surprised when Linda came home early that day Mrs. Blauer was equally surprised, but not so joyously. She thought—and rightly—that something was wrong with Linda.

"You poor, dear child," the motherly neighbor woman said soothingly, wiping her spotlessly clean hands on her apron in a gesture characteristic of a habit of long years. "Now you lie right down and I'll get you a nice hot cup of tea.

"Why an ordeal like that," Mrs. Blauer continued ,after Linda had explained, "would be enough to take the spunk out of a Spartan, let alone a slim little thing like you. Amputations on roof-tops, hum! The idea!"

As Linda slipped into a negligee and lay down on the studio couch in the front room which was both parlor and dining room of her small apartment, Mickey came to her side, blue eyes wide.

Funny, Linda mused, lying there on the couch and looking deep into his baby blue eyes, tenderly stroking his flaxen hair, he doesn't look like Mike outwardly, but you can see Mike Morton in him.

In a way, Linda thought, mentally censuring herself for a feeling she couldn't control, I'm glad he's not too much like Mike; I'm glad, awfully glad, that he's mostly Mickey.

Well, Mickey was Mike Morton, too, if you wanted to look at it that way. He had a lot of name—Bradley Michael Morton II, a little too much name for such a little fellow only 2 1-2 years old; no, 2 years and 7 months in September.

Two and a half years! It seemed like centuries. Three and a half years ago she and Mike were happy as a couple of kids in an illusion-filled world devoid of realities—a world as gay and romantic and thoroughly enjoyable as one's mood dictated. Three and a half years ago there were just Linda and Mike and no Mickey. And now there were Linda and Mickey—and no Mike.

Mike Morton had been a free soul, living life for the joy of it and the drive he could get out of it; as free as the air in which he loved to fly; a rebel fighting free from the fetters of convention and respectability and responsibility with which his family sought to tie him down.

If you were drawing pictures, Mike and a marriage license didn't seem to fit in the same frame — "not the marrying type" is the expression. He wasn't—until he met Linda.

No one could blame Linda for falling in love with Mike Morton. Linda couldn't blame herself. Linda's love for him was a spontaneous and overpowering thing—the kind of love which burns brightly and fiercely and steadfastly with a sure, unquenchable flame—until the fuel ran out.

Linda might have foreseen that eventuality, knowing Mike. But she didn't. When you're that much in love you don't look past the day after tomorrow.

Linda might have foreseen that the ties of domestic responsibility would be to Mike the same sort of bugaboo that the shackles which his family sought to impose upon him represented. For one thing, Mike wasn't practical. He made money, but insisted they spend it faster than it came in. He was used to spending money; making it was a novelty.

There was very little money in Mike Morton's till when Linda broke the news to him. Of course she had resigned her stewardess job when they were married. She had a lot of time to spend alone at home, planning the right way to tell him.

They were seated together on the floor in front of the huge fireplace in the studio which cost them far more money than they could afford. It was foggy outside, so foggy that you couldn't see the second street light down the hill, much less the lights of the bridge and the view of the bay they loved so much. The fire crackled on the hearth and cast dancing lights in Mike's hair as his head lay pillowed in Linda's lap and he stretched his long legs along the thick-piled broadloom.

"No smoking, please" Linda said.

"Fasten your seat belt," she added.

"Stewardess," he squirmed in mock nervousness, "are we going to crash?"

"Maybe YOU are, darling," she answered, "but I hope not. Oh, I HOPE not!"

He sat up then, suddenly serious. "What is it, Lin?"

"Mike, darling," she asked, framing his face in her hands and peering into his eyes, as though seeking to fathom the answer. "Mike, can anyone ever take Junior's place with us?"

"Nope," he grinned. "There's only one Junior for you and me. We'll always be true to him and there's never to be another. Unless ...." His voice stopped suddenly, and so did the grin.

SAM HOUSTON (Richard Dix), second only to George Washington and Andrew Jackson among the warrior-statesmen produced by the United States of America, gave the best years of his early life to the defense of a persecuted minority, the Indians. Living for a year with the Cherokees, he formed then a life-long friendship with their Chief, Oolooteka (Pedro de Cordoba).

HOUSTON leaves the Cherokees to visit his mother, Elizabeth Houston (Sarah Padden), in Maryville. A recruiting party comes to the Houston cabin, shouting out the news that the British have burned Washington, and calling for volunteers to join the defense forces lead by General Andrew Jackson. Houston joins the throngs outside, and marches as a recruit.

IN the town square, Lannie Upchurch (George Hayes) has little success in enlisting volunteers. Houston taunts the settlers with their fear of war and forces them to enlist. Jackson, who has been watching, is impressed by Houston's enthusiasm and inborn leadership. Houston joins Jackson's army.

HOUSTON'S bravery and knowledge of Indian lore enable Jackson's army to overcome the vicious Creek Indians, who block the path to New Orleans. Abandoning all caution in the heroic struggle at Horseshoe Bend, Houston is critically wounded and hovers between life and death for several days.

AS Jackson exhorts him to live for Tennessee and for the country, Houston fights his way back to life. Then, on the battlefield, is born the great friendship of Sam Houston and Andy Jackson that endured throughout their lives to affect so much the careers of both.

FOXBORO NINE LOSES OPENER TO CANNIFTON

South Hastings Baseball Loop Opened Without Usual Frills

SMART CONTEST

Ketcheson, Losing Hurler, Pitched Fine Game after a Shaky Start

Foxboro, June 10 (Special)—Getting the playing season started off in an entirely different manner from the traditional pomp and ceremony which has hitherto marked the opening date of the South Hastings League, the event was passed over without any of the customary celebration this year when the Foxboro nine played hosts to the Cannifton boys in a twilight fixture at this village last night.

In former years the opener of this popular league has been something for the ruralites of South Hastings to look forward to with the occasion being marked by all the necessary complements which went to make it a truly gala event. A big sports' day, highlighted by a pair of ball games in which all four teams of the league got into action, with the league dignitaries doing the honors as the official battery mates in appropriate opening ceremonies, has always been considered the proper manner in which to get things started, but now, however, it appears that the league is losing prestige. Last night the boys merely assembled for the game as for any ordinary mid-season game; the umpire cried "play ball", and the teams were away to another season of activity.

Homesters Lose

Getting away to a rather inauspicious start the last year's champion Foxboro nine spotted their Cannifton rivals four runs in the first two innings here last evening, and then, by dint of some heavy clouting in the later frames, tied it up, only to see the visitors go one up in the last inning and the game ended with the homesters still trailing 5-4. Some listless base running on the part of the losers, together with a great big frown from old Lady Luck can be held as responsible for Foxboro's defeat as the only break of the game was all in Cannifton's favor. It came in the final inning when the homesters were one run in arrears with two runners aboard and one man away. Gordie Walt then took one of Loucks' shoots for a terrific ride down the left field foul line and after a hard run pulled up at third only to discover the umpire had ruled his long hit as foul by inches. The result was that Loucks received renewed courage and went on to strike out the side and win the ball game.

E. Ketcheson was chosen as the starting hurler for the Foxboro team and although showing a bit of unsteadiness in the first two innings settled away to pitch a really fine game and the loss can in no wise be placed on the pitcher. Ketcheson set the winners down with five safeties, one a double, while he whiffed eight and walked two. Loucks on the other hand was nicked for eleven hits, four for extra bases, struck out seven and walked two.

Collins was the only Cannifton batter to get more than one hit, getting a double and a single to account for two of his team's runs. In addition to turning in a real good hurling chore, Ketcheson also led his team mates at bat, getting three for three, while Stewart got two out of three, all singles. Peacock and Falkner each hit doubles and Norman Guay a triple, with Spencer and Wright also hitting well for the losers.

Greenberg Hits 13th Homer To Put Him in the Running To Break Babe Ruth's Record

Jimmy Foxx of Boston Has Eleven and Pair Staging a Merry Race

DODGERS THIRD

Bounce from Fifth to Third Place by Defeating Cards 7-4

By JUDSON BAILEY

It's a long trail to Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs in a single baseball season, impregnable since 1927, but it isn't premature to disclose that big Hank Greenberg is on the scent again.

He notched his 13th four-base blow with two on yesterday to help Detroit dynamite Philadelphia Athletics 14-4. His help was hardly needed to win, because Pete Fox homered with the bases loaded and Rookie McCosky performed the trick with two on. Greenberg's clout brought him abreast of his mark at this time last year.

The towering Tiger hit his 13th home run last year on June 1 but didn't get the next in his chain of 58 until June 14. Ruth himself had to hit 18 homers before June 10, 1927, leaving his challengers something to shoot at.

Greenberg is not alone in the race toward baseball's most prized hitting record. Another bulky first baseman, Jimmy Foxx of Boston Red Sox, has thundered up from the crowd with four circuit smashes in the last two days and now has 11. From a mark of 18 on this date a year ago he finally reached 50.

Gain Game on Yankees.

Foxx got one home run in each game of a doubleheader yesterday as the Red Sox battered St. Louis Browns 4-3 and 18-7 to gain a full game on New York Yankees, who were idle at Chicago because of rain.

After giving Cleveland a victory Thursday with five errors, Washington Senators blundered another game away 3-2 yesterday. Ken Chase gave just one hit for eight innings until Hal Trosky's homer in the ninth tied the score at 2-2. Then with two out he fanned Oscar Grimes only to have Catcher Jake Early drop the ball and let Grimes get to first and subsequently score on two singles. Bob Feller pitched five-hit ball but missed his tenth triumph because he was removed for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Passeau the "Goat".

Claude Passeau of Chicago Cubs was another "goat". He went to the relief of Larry French in the eighth inning and hurt his pitching hand in a bare-fisted stab at a batted ball.

Then, with the bases loaded he issued a walk to pinch hitter Jim O'Dea to force in the tying run and when, after the game had extended into the tenth inning, the Giants loaded the bases on him again, he walked pinch hitter Bob Seeds to force in the winning run, giving New York a 4-3 decision.

In the day's best pitching performance Bill Posedel of Boston Bees duplicated the three-hit pitching job of teammate Lou Fette the day before and squelched Pittsburgh Pirates 4-1. He maintained the three-run margin given him in the first by sacrificing a score home in the seventh after the Pirates used two of their three blows for a run in the third inning.

The defeat of Pittsburgh and Chicago enabled the Dodgers to bounce from fifth to third in the National League standings with a 7-4 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers bunched five hits for four runs to come from behind in the last half of the inning.

Cincinnati Reds and Philadelphia Phillies had an open date.

WILLIE KINISKI SENIOR CHAMP AT O.S.D. MEET

SWELTERING HEAT

Several School Records Were Broken Despite the Conditions

Torrid sweltering weather did not mitigate the efforts of the Ontario School for the Deaf athletes yesterday when several school athletic records were broken and new times and distances established at the annual O.S.D. track meet and field day. School field day champion were declared in the various classes in both boys' and girls' events, the complete list of track and field events being completed during the all-day meet.

The championships won by the individual athletes at the conclusion of the meet were:

Junior girls—Inez Smith, 15 points.

Intermediate girls—Anna Hedden, 18 points.

Intermediate boys—Dan Bostnari, 27 points.

Senior boys — Willie Kiniski, 24 points.

Competition Keen.

Competition proved keen in both senior classes, in the boys' and girls' events. Willie Kiniski won the senior boys' field day championship by virtue of a one point advantage over Steve Graziano, Kiniski gaining two points in the final event of the day, the pole vault, to finish ahead of Graziano in one of the keenest competitions in field day events seen at the O.S.D. in years. Also in the senior girls' events a tie was created when Betty Wood and Loretta Bonneville completed the day's program with 13 points each. In the remaining events the champions were outstanding, however.

The O.S.D. annual field day was arranged by Miss Maloney and Mr. Jack Hodgson, girls' and boys' athletic directors respectively, with the teaching staff of the school assisting as starters, clerks and recorders. During the day Mr. Morrison, school superintendent at the O.S.D., was present to add encouragement to the competing athletes.

The results of the various events were as follows:

Junior Boys.

SYRACUSE CHIEFS RIDE ELEVATOR IN PAST WEEK

Squad Rises from Seventh Place to Two Points Behind Third Place Bears

TORONTO LOSES

Newark Bears Pound Out 11-8 Decision With Use of Three Hurlers

(By The Associated Press)

Syracuse Chiefs have been riding the elevator since the International League season began. Going as high as third place and as low as seventh. But this time it looks as though they had climbed aboard an express car headed for the top floor.

The Chiefs have put together a seven-game winning streak in the past few days to move from the depths of the second division to a spot within two percentage points of third-place Newark Bears. Last night's double victory over Buffalo Bisons was their second two killing in six days. They took the seven-inning twilight game 7-6. Then walked away with the nightcap 9-3.

Manager Dick Porter put himself into the opener as a pinch hitter and stayed to collect a double and single as the Chiefs came from behind with five runs in the sixth inning. Johnny Gee limited the Herd to three hits in the second contest.

Newark Bears remained ahead of Syracuse when they pounded out an 11-8 decision over Toronto Maple Leafs in a game which saw each side use three pitchers. The Bears bunched their blows for six runs in the third.

That victory, incidentally, left Newark only 2 1-2 games behind the Jersey Giants, who took a 7-1 drubbing from the league-leading Rochester Red Wings. The Wings belted young Bon Carpenter out in seven innings. A one-hit game by two pitchers, who were troubled at times by wildness, gave Montreal Royals a 4-2 victory over Baltimore in last night's other game. Bill Lillard's single off Nahem in the eighth was Baltimore's only blow.

SAM SNEAD LEADS IN U.S. OPEN

Ralph Guldahl is Five Strokes Behind at Half-Way Mark

Philadelphia, June 10 (AP)—Barring a miracle, there will be no third term for King Ralph Guldahl in the United States open golf championship.

As the field went into today's two final rounds at Spring Mill the husky two-time winner was right on the ragged edge, his revolting subjects on the verge of giving him the works. Guldahl wasn't ready to concede anything. But he must have felt nervous.

Sam Snead, the leader with 139, was five strokes in front of "the Moose," with successive rounds of 68 and 71, the Canadian open champ looked like the probable winner. Between him and Guldahl were nine other assorted contenders. Four more were tied with the slipping champion at 144.

Breathing on Snead's neck when the 66 qualifiers for the final 36 holes braved the scorching fairways early today was Horton Smith. The former boy wonder, who posted a great 68 in his second round for a midway 140. Next was Craig Wood at 141. Then Bud Ward, the Spokane amateur, and Denny Shute each with 142.

Grouped at 143 were Lawson Little, Harry Cooper, Harold McSpaden, John Bulla and Frank Moore. With Guldahl at 144 were Henry Picard, Olin Dutra, Vic Ghezzi and Lloyd Mangrum. That about rounded up those with a real hope of getting the big cup tonight. The others—men like Byron Nelson, Gene Sarazen, Paul Runyan, Tommy Armour, Billy Burke, Dick Metz and Jimmy Demaret had been whipped by Spring Mill's vast distances and dizzy heights.

Yesterday's Stars

Bill Posedel, Bees—Held Pirates to three hits.

Hal Trosky, Indians—Home run in ninth inning tied score and enabled Cleveland to beat Senators on subsequent error.

Pete Fox, Tigers—Hit home run with bases loaded to send Detroit off to big lead against Athletics.

Clydell Castleman, Giants—Pitched two hitless innings in relief to beat Cubs.

Fritz Ostermueller and Ted Williams, Red Sox — Former singled home winning run and gave excellent relief pitching to win first game of Browns' doubleheader; latter drove in six runs with homer and two doubles in nightcap.

Max Baer and Ancil Hoffman have goe back west, sadder, wiser but richer..Henry Armstrong may take a winter fight in Italy with Aldo Spoldi.

SHELL "OILERS" EASILY DEFEAT CORBYS BY 12-8

Frank Sedore's Squad Chalk Up Fifth Consecutive Win in Loop

BAWDEN IS TOPS

Hurler for Winners Has Led His Team to Victory in Every Start

Shell "Oilers" remained undefeated in the Belleville softball loop, chalking up their fifth consecutive season's win at the expense of the Corby's A.C. last evening at the Flats when again the old story of too much Johnnie Bawden was seen as the "Oilers" pounded out a 12 to 8 victory. The Corby's nine eventually got to Bawden in the dying frames, but their attack came too late as the Oilers had amassed sufficient lead to coast in without too much concern.

For six innings Bawden blanked the Corby's batters showing complete control and setting the Barnett led nine back with a steady change of pace, that was beautiful to watch. Connie Harris started on the hilltop for the losers and was touched for nine hits and nine runs in six innings, Harris and Manager Frank Sedore being ejected from the game in the top half of the seventh for entering into fisticuffs. It was following the general hubbub and bedlam of players, that Corby's subsequently began to club Bawden with some degree of consistency, but the Oilers had amassed nine runs in the first six innings and added three more off Eddie Schrieder who replaced Harris in the eighth. Each team was accredited 11 safeties but Cole, with a home run and the bases loaded in the ninth, was the only Corby batter to collect an extra base hit off Bawden.

Three Homers

Sero, Ronsky and O'Neill smote circuit blows to help Bawden's cause of victory. Two errors and Sero's homer in the first frame gave the winners a decided advantage, but it was Bawden who silenced the Corby bats for the first six frames without a run and only four small singles to their credit. Sero with three, Ronsky for two led the winners on the attack, while McMartin counted three, Knott two and Cole's homer were the feature hitting efforts of the game.

Corby's were held scoreless until the seventh when they commenced to hit Bawden and continued their attack for the remaining games, but could not haul down the large advantage piled up by the winners in the early stages. The Corby's played ragged ball in the field at times, kicking the ball around for six costly errors.

Bawden struck out, and only walked one, while in six innings Harris whiffed six and walked two. Schrieder struck out one in two frames, but walked six.

The line-ups:

Corby's A.C.—J. Barriage, lf; Cy Barriage, ss; Kiser, rf; Reid, 3b; Cole, 1b; Murray, 2b; McMartin, cf; Simpson and Knott, c; Harris and Schrieder, p.

Shell "Oilers"—Rowbotham, c; Ronsky, 3b; O'Neill, 1b; Sero, ss; Bawden, p; Amo, lf; Moon 2b; Dickey, rf and Whalen, cf.

Score by innings:

IDEAL WEATHER FOR FIELD DAY

Lady Golfers of Belleville Club Hold Several Competitions

Ideal weather conditions greeted the lady golfers at the Belleville Golf Club for their initial field day and golf meet yesterday. The entire day was given over to the various golfing competitions with the conventional 18 holes being played in the morning while in the afternoon driving and putting matches were the order of the day.

The games were played under the direction of Miss Helen Sulman, captain and Mrs. Len Pozard, vice-captain with Mrs. O. Waldorf winning the low gross for the 18 holes of conventional golf in the morning and Mrs. O. R. Thompson taking the honors for the lowest net score.

In the other competitions competed in Miss Helen Sulman won the prize for the lowest number of putts on the 18 hole game. Other winners were:

First flight, driving: Mrs. Pozard.

Second flight, driving. Mrs. C. Maybee.

Approaching and putting on 9th green: Mrs. J. Cather.

Third flight, nine holes: Miss Margaret Carefoot.

Third flight, winning most events: Edra McCreary.

The noon luncheon and afternoon tea was under the direction of Mrs. K. Hill and her able committee.

New York, June 10 (AP)— The National Boxing Association is serious about taking steps to clear up the light-heavyweight situation.... The Grapevine says if John Henry Lewis doesn't appear in Washington next week for an examination by a group of eye specialists, the N.B.A. will unfrock him and let Mello Bettina (champion in New York), Billy Conn, Pittsburgh challenger, and maybe Len Harvey, British champ, battle it out.

Usually it's the ump that's surrounded during the expression of differences of opinion during a ball game, but in this case the umps had the best of it. Chuck Dressen, coach with Brooklyn Dodgers, is the party surrounded, the arbiters being Beans Reardon, Larry Goetz and Ziggy Sears, in the usual order. More interesting than the arguments is the garb of the men in blue, now become the men in blue and white. Reardon, Goetz and Sears are attired in the new National League hot weather outfits, consisting of blue coats and white duck trousers. Natty, eh?

CALLING 'EM

Again it was too much Johnnie Bawden at the Flats last night, despite the fact Corbys did eventually get to his offerings for seven hits and eight runs in the last three frames, but the large lead given the veteran Bawden proved too much to overcome and Bawden chalked up his fifth consecutive mushball win of the current season in as many starts. While his teammates were adding runs to their numbers with consistency in the early stages, Bawden was the head man, as he let the Corby batters down with bour singles and no runs in the first six innings. Cole's homer in the ninth and McMartin's double in the seventh were the only extra base hits registered against Bawden, whose change of pace had "chips the Barnett crowd baffled when the "chips were down." A fistic outbreak between Skipper Frank Sedore and Connie Harris did not help Bawden any too much, as it was following this donnybrook, that Corbys commenced to find his deliveries, but their findings came too late. Indifferent playing and errors on the part of Chuck Barnett's crowd did not help their cause, as was quite evident. The "Oilers" now have five wins and no losses to lead the loop.

Secretary Lynn Crossman, who received the congratulations of the Bay of Quinte League moguls upon his recent marriage in Napanee, today released a revised schedule to the clubs of the Quinte loop. The Belleville nine is now scheduled to play at Napanee on Monday and return home for the first road game of the R.C.A.F. Flyers here next Thursday evening. Baseball fans throughout the Bay of Quinte area are anxiously awaiting the appearance of the Flyers on the baseball diamond. It is general conceded the Van Vleit-led ballsters must have something up their sleeves, as there are large numbers of recent arrivals from Western Canada, where the game of baseball is more popular than in Eastern Ontario nowadays. We recall big Ed McIvor of Winnipeg, an R.C.A.F. recruit who hurled for Belleville several seasons ago and made quite an impression around the old Central loop. The Flyers are scheduled to make their initial baseball appearance on the Aerodrome diamond versus Picton on Tuesday and then come to Belleville on Thursday.

Montreal was not awarded the 1944 winter Olympics, as was hoped for if Great Britain procured the 1944 summer Olympics. At a recent meeting of the International Olympic Committee in London Great Britain was awarded the 1944 Olympics, Italy the 1944 winter Olympics, while the site of the 1940 winter games was changed from Switzerland to Garmisch-Partenkichen, Germany, the site of the 1936 winter Olympics. It seems the Swiss refused to run the winter games according to I.O.C. rules, this necessitating the change to Germany. The 1944 Olympics will be held at Wembley Stadium while the 1944 winter games were alloted to Cortina D'Ampezzo, Italy. London received 20 votes to Rome's ten and Detroit's three for the honors of the 1944 Oilympics

Albert "Babe" Siebert veteran defence star of the Montreal Canadiens, was yesterday named coach of the Flying Frenchmen for the season 1939-40, replacing Jules Dugal, who will return to the post of business manager. Siebert will retire as an active player to take over his new duties and brings to an end a brilliant hockey career for the "Flying Dutchman", who began his N.H.L. career with the old Maroons in 1925. Siebert was converted into a defenceman by Art Ross in 1933, since when he became one of the best rear-guard pucksters in the business and has gained all-star recognition for the past three campaigns.

Usually athletes welcome the warm sunshine, but yesterday's torrid weather conditions were a little too much of a good thing for the O.S.D. athletes during their annual track meet and field day. Several school track and field records were broken, despite the exceedingly hot weather and as was the case of last Saturday's district athletic meet at the O.S.D., ideal facilities were afforded the contesting athletes. Willie Kiniski, who played right wing with "Toots" Holway juniors last year won the senior field day championship, defeating Steve Graziano by a single point. However, Kiniski did not compete in the winter sports events and Graziano was declared school athletic champion in the senior ranks, as he attained six points during the winter events, which Kiniski passed up for Belleville hockey, while Glen Robertson and Bruce May, both of whom also played hockey with the Belleville juniors last winter, were runners up to Dan Bostnari, the intermediate field day champion yesterday. Again congratulations are due Miss Maloney and Jack Hodgson, the O.S.D. athletic directors and the entire teaching staff for the splendid facilities due the contestants.

Gord Meikle who hoofed 'em for the Cobourg Red Raiders last season in the district rugby football loop, has popped up in Sarnia and is said to be slated for the kicking berth with the Imperials next fall. It's really too bad, insofar as Belleville is concerned, as Meikle had his heart set on taking up residence in the Quinte City if employment could be obtained, but as has been the case for some years past in Belleville, there is not much of that civic pride left to bless these shores when it comes to sporting ideas. However, there is a movement on foot to revive football in Belleville, several of the city's veterans intimating they hope to return to the old love of chasing the pigskin this fall.

Did You Know That—Cannifton spoiled the South Hastings opener for Foxboro, taking Jack Peacock's charges into camp by a 5-4 count.....Sure signs of summer, the first field day at the Belleville Golf Club yesterday, that saw a large field of entries.....There is a big hoss race at Long Branch today—Archworth, the King's Plate winner of 1939, is in the same race with Bunty Lawless, last year's Plate winner, and Suffern....Washington is apparently the hard luck team of the majors, yesterday the Senators lost a 3-2 decision to Cleveland after Ken Chase held the Indians to four hits....After injuring his ankle, Goody Rosen is back in the Dodgers' lineup and got his customary daily hit yesterday.... Babe Marchildon, the former Penetang hurler, is going great guns in the Can-Am. loop and will doubtless be recalled by the Leafs before Labor Day.

BRITAIN'S DRIVE IS TWOFOLD

Chamberlain Declares Britain Never to Use Might for Aggression

Birmingham, June 10 (C.P. Cable) —Prime Minister Chamberlain last night declared Great Britain would never use her mighty defense forces for an unprovoked war upon anybody.

Allegations to the contrary were "obvious distortion of the truth," he said. Observers interpreted this as an oblique reference to charges made by Nazis that Britain is trying to "encircle" Germany.

Addressing his constituents of Birmingham-Edgbaston at a reception held in his honor, the Prime Minister said the United Kingdom's rearmament has been so rapid and so extensive that "no country however strong would lightly undertake conflict with this country."

Mr. Chamberlain said he was still pursuing a two-fold aim:

1. To ascertain the possible causes of war and get them removed.

2. To build up Britain's strength so that if it becomes necessary to discuss terms of settlement "no country would be able to force us, out of our weakness, to accept terms that would be dishonorable or disastrous to our vital interests."

Ready to Listen

Britain still is ready to listen to the grievances of any country, he declared.

As to the first part of the double policy "I must admit I have had many disappointments and setbacks, and very little help from the countries with which I was hoping to come to an understanding."

Using the precise wording which characterizes all his speeches, the Prime Minister added: "All the world knows we would never use these mighty forces to begin an unprovoked war upon anybody else and, although from time to time I see allegations to the contrary made for purposes of propaganda I hope that no people would be deceived by such an obvious distortion of truth."

However, he continued, "we must resist any attempt to secure universal domination by force because in the event of any such attempt there can be no settled peace in Europe. But so long as no such ambitions are entertained nobody has anything to fear from the armed might of Britain and moreover we have not abandoned that first part of our policy (seeking to eliminate the cause of war.")

Confident of Vote

Mr. Chamberlain, who has been under fire for his policies from the Labor Party and Opposition press, referred briefly to the coming general election.

Apparently answering suggestions in sections of the press that he resign, he said he had not made up his mind as to when the election is going to be "but I say this, when even it does come I am confident that we shall give a good account of ourselves."

(The present House of Commons was elected in the autumn of 1935 and can exist until 1940. However, it has been frequently predicted that Mr. Chamberlain will go to the country this year.)

He had read in reviews of the recently published book of his speeches, the Prime Minister said, that he "has been subjected to more bitter hostilities than any Prime Minister since the war."

"I am inclined to fancy that is true," he added, "although I cannot understand why, because I am the most reasonable of men. I never object to opposition so long as I can have my own way."

ROYAL COUPLE

Guest List Small

They went to the festooned railway station from the British Embassy after a dinner they gave in honor of the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, their hosts at the White House since their arrival Thursday.

The guest list was small, including Prime Minister Mackenzie King, a few members of the United States Cabinet and leaders of the armed forces, former Government greats and a sprinkling from the diplomatic corps.

The dinner climaxed a day that started with attendance at a White House Press Conference and ran through a reception for Britons, meeting with America's federal lawmakers, luncheon cruise on the Potomac and wreath-laying ceremonies.

Veterans of the Canadian Expediwherever Their Majesties turned. They ran across four of them.

Talked With Veterans

The first pair showed up at a reception Their Majesties gave at the British Embassy for members of the British colony here. Some 250 old soldiers of the British Forces had a place of honor and as the young King and Queen mingled with them they stopped to chat with a man who supported himself with a crutch and a cane.

He was A. E. Graham, former Indianapolis man who lost a leg at Amiens while serving with the 8th Canadian Infantry.

Then they spied a man wearing the coveted Victoria Cross. He was Dr. B. S. Hutcheson of Cairo, Ill., who was medical officer of Canada's 75th Battalion.

The next C.E.F. "vet" added a touch of informality to the pilgrimage Their Majesties paid to Mount Vernon, Va., and the ancestral home of George Washington, the "Father of Independence" who helped lead the United States out of the British Empire.

Toured Buildings

After the King had placed a wreath of red, white and blue flowers at the ivy-covered sarcophagus that holds the remains of George and Martha Washington, they toured the buildings of the historic estate.

While accepting a bouquet from the gardener Her Majesty discovered he was not only a fellow-countryman, but also a veteran of the 4th Canadian Mounted Rifles, recruited in Toronto.

The Queen's caught the burr in Alexander Reith's tongue as he presented his flowers. Leaving the official party, she chatted many minutes with "plain Alex" and learned he left his native Aberdeen 30 years ago. Alex later said "her loveliness fair takes a mun's breath away."

From Mount Vernon they went to Fort Hunt, Virginia, built during the Spanish-American War, to examine a civilian conservation camp and see how the United States Government is tackling the problem of unemployed youth. Boys' camps are close to the King's heart.

Chatted With Youths

They chatted with several of the khaki-clad youths who earn $30 a month and their "keep" for such work as improving parks and reforestration. Then the Queen discovered the camp engineer, H. S. Dickson, was from Dundee, another Canadian war veteran.

Homage to Americans who fought with the Canadian Forces in France and to the country's unknown soldier was paid at Arlington cemetery. The King laid wreaths at the Canadian cross and the tomb that bears the simple inscription: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God."

Close to 500 Senators and Members of the House of Representatives, many dressed in business suits and white linens, welcomed Their Majesties at a reception in the rotunda of the Capitol which corresponds to Canada's Houses of Parliament. All were presented to the royal couple in a ceremony marked by smiles and warm handclasps.

"Given to Public"

It had been said before the visit that Their Majesties would not be "given to the public" here as they were in Canada. But evidence that the sincerity of Washington's welcome had changed that came after the capitol reception.

Seated on chairs in the plaza before the stately building were 3,500 wives ,children and friends of the legislators and after the reception the King and Queen strolled down the plaza aisle waving and smiling.

The route they rode on their first day here was lined with rifle-bearing troops. But the soldiers who dotted the 15 miles they rode by car Friday between Mount Vernon and Washington were unarmed.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, June 10—Steadiness was displayed by the stock market in the closing session of the week and volume was fair at turnover of about 180,000 shares. Junior golds were the most active. Aunor advanced to a new high at 2.04, up 7 cents for the day and Broulan was another heavy trader at a gain of a few cents. Base metal and western oil indices were down slightly and the golds and industrials were practically unchanged. Bids were weak at the close.

In the secondary gold group O'Brien was conspicuous with an advance of 15 cents to 2.55. Minor gains appeared also for Lamaque, Macassa, Sylvanite, Teck Hughes, Wright Hargreaves, Preston and Coniaurum. The tone was a bit weak for Little Long Lac, Hard Rock, Sigma, East Malartic and Mining Corporation. Senior golds were steady.

Hudson Bay, Smelters, Waite-Amulet and Sherritt boarded minor losses and other base metal shares held steady. Eldorado lost 25 cents. Firmness was the prevailing note in the food, bank, senior oil, utility and steel groups. Walkers Common was bid up to 45 for a gain of 1¼.

The bid was down 4 to 5 cents for Home Oil.

WALL STREET CLOSE

New York, June 10 (AP)— The stock market had to vie with the King and Queen today and the latter won hands down.

With the majority or traders forsaking the exchange floor and board rooms in order to take a look at their Majesties, the ticker tape frequently was at a standstill. Closing prices were well mixed, generally in a fractional range.

Transfers approximated only 250,000 shares.

Bonds, on the whole, followed stocks over the do-nothing route, and commodities were mixed.

Favored the greater part of the time were U.S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Du Pont, General Electric and Standard Oil of N.J.

McIntyre Porcupine and Hiram Walker gained fractionally in the Canadian list while C.P.R. fell back a trifle. Dominion 4s were neglected.

Patino Mines, with principal tin properties in Bolivia dropped about two points to a new year's low.

General Motors was neglected as Union labor difficulties confronted this corporation at its Detroit plants.

ROYALTY TO VISIT

The train will stop only a few minutes to take on water but thousands will be there to cheer the Royal couple.

From their train the King and Queen will see the rolling countryside of the eastern townships, dotted with tiny lakes. It has been compared with the north of England.

Prosperous Community.

In Sherbrooke they will see a prosperous community that has grown from a few scattered log cabins to a thriving centre with a population of 32,000. It will be swelled tremendously by the influx from other parts of Quebec and the New England States. Their Majesties will drive for 25 minutes through gaily decorated streets, receive the shrill adulation of school childrn, the salutes of hundreds of Great War veterans and then leave for Levis at 1.30.

All day they will ride through the farming and bush country of Quebec arriving in Levis at 6.05 p.m. for a 10-minute stop, just in time to gaze over the St. Lawrence at Quebec basking in the beauty of evening.

From Levis station, set picturesquely at the base of a cliff, the train will follow the shore of the river they sailed up so triumphantly less than a month ago enroute to Riviere Du Loup.

French-Canada will say its final farewell at Riviere Du Loup, where their Majesties arrive for a 25-minute stop at 9.25 p.m. It will be "Au Revoir" and not "adieu" because French-Canada wants to see its King and Queen again.

Exercise Care in Handling Hogs

When the hogs are delivered to the shipping station the same care should be exercised in unloading as was used in loading.

Travelling in a truck is an entirely new experience for the average hog, so a little patience should also be used in handling the hogs.

Unfortunately it is a common belief that a pig is a stupid, contrary individual, while in reality the pig ranks high in intelligence and responds readily to kindness.

LARGE OFFERING ATTRACTS CROWD AT CITY MARKET

EGGS FIRM

Brought out by the brilliant sunshine and warm breezes of a typical June day, one of the largest Saturday morning crowds of shoppers of the current season thronged the city market today where a varied offering of Spring produce fresh from farm and garden was displayed for its benefit.

There was an apparent plentitude of everything. Farm produce colorful in greens and reds, flowering plants of brilliant hues and shades gave the drab appearance of the market a picturesue touch.

Price tones, however, showed but little or no change from those of a week ago. Practically every commodity was steady with business that struck a brisk note in the early hours maintaining a lively tone throughout the morning.

Egg prices were firm in spite of reported decrease in the metropolitan markets. "A" extra selects were offered at twenty-two and twenty-three cents while some slightly inferior qualities were available at twenty and twenty-one cents per dozen. Butter was steady at fifty-five cents for two-pound rolls.

Chicken offerings were good with young meaty broilers demanding one dollar and thirty cents per pair. Various qualities and weights brought prices ranging from seventy cents to the above mentioned high. Six-months-old chickens were quoted at from one dollar to as high as one dollar and twenty-five cents each. Fowl was offered at from sixty cents each.

Asparagus was again plentiful with pound bunches offered at five and ten cents each. Business was brisk although a slight falling off in quality was noticeable.

Spring vegetables caught the popular fancy with a large variety offered. Onions, radishes that glowed a brilliant scarlet were offered at five cents per bunch and in some cases three bunches for ten cents. Rhubarb sold at the same prices. A few winter vegetables were offered at steady prices while potatoes showed no inclination to decline in prices from the $1.35 per ninety pound bag quotations of a week ago.

Flowering plants and bushes were popular wtih zinnias, petunias and other popular kinds selling at fifteen cents per small flat. Tomato, cabbage, cauliflower and onion plants were plentiful with the former selling at forty cents per flat of one hundred. Other prices remained steady.

Fresh lake trout and whitefish were available in large quantities selling at twenty cents per pound. Pike was offered at ten cents the pound wtih pan fish quoted at five cents each.

Sidelights on Royal Visit

New York, June 10 (CP)—The sidewalks of New York, and the streets as well, had their faces washed for the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth. All along the royal route, on all the main streets and adjacent blocks, whitewings labored far into the night to scrub pavements clean.

New York, June 10 (CP)—Those who didn't get a good spot to view the royal transit could pity the poor policemen, more than 12,000 of whom were on duty. They had to stand facing the crowds, with back to the street, so they could detect any disturbances quickly.

New York, June 10 (CP) — For weeks, the police have checked all office buildings and apartments along the 51-mile route of the Royal drive, instructing superintendents to admit only tenants and their identified guests on this day of days. All roofs were put under close inspection.

Washington, June 10 (CP)—Senator Clyde Herring of Iowa says Queen Elizabeth might make an ideal candidate for the United States Presidency in 1940.

"I suggested her as a candidate to 27 Senators," Herring said, "and they were for her 100 per cent. She would get us away from difficulties over the third term and over Farley, Garner and other candidates."

Oshweken, Ont., June 10—(CP)—The pen used by King George and Queen Elizabeth to sign the Indian register at Brantford will be engraved in a special way and placed in the Council House of the Six Nations' Indians here. The register is used to record the names of whites who receive Indian names.

Fort Hancock, N. J., June 10(CP)—Even the skies were guarded for King George and Queen Elizabeth today. Special anti-aircraft equipment was installed here in preparation for their visit.

New York, June 10 —(CP) — About 156 years ago Sir Guy Carleton, the last representative of the British Crown to command in this city, gave up his keys and set sail for England.

New York, June 10 —(CP)— "The King is here. This is the first time they let him out of the country," yelled a hawker of flags and picture buttons as he peddled his wares among crowds along the west drive to the World's Fair. "The King is in town," he continued, "he'll be surprised if you don't wear his colors. Long live the Queen, the King is here."

"Our Hearts are Won" Says the U.S. Press

London, June 10 (CP)—London newspapers made much of the United States press reaction to the visit of the King and Queen, headlining th news on the front pages.

"The King's tour is the Queen's triumph", bannered one paper, and another said "The Queen Captures the Heart of the U.S." A third headlined: "'Our Hearts Are Won', says U.S.A. press."

The London press used liberal excerpts from stories in American newspapers. One paper quoted one correspondent of an American paper as writing of the Queen: "Give her a crowd and she mows 'em down." This was cited typical of American reaction.

And this was quoted from the New York Daily News:

"There's no use in fighting any longer, folks. We may as well throw in the sponge and admit we're licked. Royalty throws us all."

Dominion's Revenue for May $105,226,430

Ottawa, June 10 (CP)—Total ordinary revenue of the Dominion Government in May totalled $105,216,849 compared with $113,897,067 in May 1938, the comptroller of the treasury reported last night. Special receipts brought the grand total to $105,226,430 against $113,992,882. Total ordinary expenditure in May amounted to $39,991,684 compared with $38,756,778 in May last year.

OWEN MOORE DIES, ONCE MAGIC NAME

Is Found in His Home, Had Apparently Been Dead Two Days

Beverly Hills, Calif., June 10 (AP)—The once magic name of Owen Moore was added today to Hollywood's list of film great whose lives ended tragically.

The list includes such stars as Wallace Reid, Rudolph Valentino, Mabel Normand and Roscoe Arbuckle, whom Moore, 52, first husband of Mary Pickford, counted as friends.

He apparently had been dead two days when his wife, Actress Kathryn Perry, yesterday found his body, fully clothed, sprawled across a bed in their home.

An autopsy was ordered to fix officially the cause of death, but his wife, who had stood by him for 18 years, told sorrowfully of his heavy drinking and said: "The hopeless belief that he was 'all through', was too much for him." Moore began his career in 1910, the year Toronto-born Mary Pickford became known as America's sweetheart. The next year he married her.

Miss Pickford divorced him in 1920 to marry Douglas Fairbanks. A year later Owen married Miss Perry.

His wife, now working as a movie extra, said he had threatened to kill her and had slashed his wrist with a knife. He was held sane at a hearing. Yesterday his wife went to tidy his upstairs room so she could show the house to prospective renters and found him dead.

Bankers Decide to Refuse Certain Credits to Montreal

Montreal, June 10 (CP) — Civic officials puzzled today over Montreal's financial position and speculated on the possible effect of the bankers' decision to refuse certain credits of the city after next Monday.

Possibility arose that the city would not have sufficient funds to meet June relief costs. Extent of the city's financial obligations was revealed yesterday in correspondence between the city's bankers and the civic executive committee. The banks said in a letter dated June 5 that the city had an overdraft of $40,000,000 and that this led to the decision not to grant further credits "which could be repaid by the city only through the making of public issues."

The correspondence was tabled at a meeting called by Mayor Camillien Houde to discuss ways and means of handling the situation. It was attended by members of the executive committee and high-ranking city officials. No plans to meet the situation were announced.

Luncheon Menu For Royalty At World's Fair

New York, June 10 (CP)—The menu at the World's Fair luncheon for the King and Queen today was all-American. Thus:

New England seafood cocktail
Jellied gumbo—Louisiana style
Breast of capon—midwestern style
Corn fritters
New lima beans
Alligator pear and grapefruit salad
Washington log (sticks of ice cream covered with fresh North Carolina cherries burned in brandy)
Coffee; mints

The wines, however, were not native. On the list were sherry, claret, champagne and brandy.

T. Y. Jardin, supervising chef-steward of the Terrace Club at the World's Fair, who supervised preparation of the luncheon, described the menu as "a typical American meal."

Tie-Up of Plant Is Threatened

Detroit, June 10—(AP)—The Automobile Workers Union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, threatened today an extensive tie-up of General Motors plants if the corporation does not open collective bargaining negotiations with it.

Hardly had the U.A.W. faction headed by Homer Martin been restored to its old A.F.L. charter when it called strikes in three General Motors factories at Flint and Saginaw.

The management denied, however, that the strikes called Thursday were effective and R. J. Thomas, president of the rival U.A.W. branch affiliated with the Congress of Industrial organizations, said they were "a complete failure."

CARDINAL VILLENEUVE LUNCHES WITH FRENCH PRES.

Paris, June 10—(CP-Havas) — Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, Archibishop of Quebec, was guest of honor of President and Mme. Lebrun today at a luncheon in the Elysee Palace. The Cardinal, was Pantifical Legate to the ceremonies honoring Saint Joan of Arc Domremy last Sunday.

POLICE QUESTION A CZECH WOMAN

Described as "Great Patriot" at Hospital Where She is Employed as Nurse

Prague, June 10 (AP)—Authorities questioned a young Czech wowan today in connection with the killing Thursday of a German police sergeant in Kladno. The woman was described as "a great patriot" at the hospital where she was employed as a nurse.

Authorities who had extended to 8 p.m. (3 p.m. E.D.T.) today the deadline for the Czechs to produce the slayer had not established whether the killing grew out of political tension between the Czechs and their German "protectors" or resulted from a private quarrel.

The body of the policeman, Sergeant Wilhelm Kniest, was to be returned to Kladno today from Prague, where German doctors performed an autopsy yesterday. Kniest's colleagues among German officials of the Czech industrial city honored him as a martyr.

Autopsy results perplexed authorities. It was disclosed that three bullets struck the policeman and that while two were of nine millimetre diameter, the third measured only six millimetres. Possibility that two persons shot the policeman as he walked down a Kladno street was being investigated.

Czechs of Kladno and Prague discussed the incident excitedly and there were murmured protests against a fine of 500,000 crowns ($20,000) imposed on the entire Kladno community.

Would Have Order Fixing 'Gas' Prices

Victoria, June 10 (CP) — Attorney General Gordon S. Wismer said yesterday the Provincial cabinet would consider the question of having the British Columbia Fuel Board issue a new order fixing gasoline prices.

His announcement came after the British Columbia Court of Appeal in Vancouver upheld price-fixing sections of the Province's Coal and Petroleum Products Control Board Act.

"For the moment, I cannot say exactly what will be done," the attorney general said in commenting on the court's decision. "We must get the text of the reasons for judgment and then we can consider our future action."

REG. MONCRIEFF

Works Like a Trojan

Regret at the action of President Moncrieff was voiced by Alderman Laurie Lewis, member of the Beaches Association executive. "But I can well understand his attitude," he said.

"He has worked like a Trojan in his efforts to further this project and it seems a shame that after endless appeals to council and publice that he should meet with such little response.

"I feel there is no project on the immediate Belleville horizon worthy of wholehearted support as is the beaches. It is a shame that after three years' arduous labor in an effort to give Belleville a waterfront for children and people to play on, that more support was not forthcoming. We have been marvellously endowed by Nature in this respect and it would seem that Belleville is not worthy of it."

Mr. Mark Vanner, another member of the association executive said that while the body regretted the action of Mr. Moncrieff in resigning the presidency, it felt that in view of what has happened he was perfectly justified in so doing.

"He has worked hard for four years, and has been up against a brick wall," he said.

Mr. David Fleming stated that. "Mr. Moncrieff's action is perfectly justified, and his executive stands firmly behind him. Efforts of 4 years have not been appreciated, support has been lacking, and in view of these facts, the only thing he could do was to resign."

THE KING SALUTES

were exchanged with Governor and Mrs. Lehman, following which Mr. King greeted the Mayor and the State Governor.

Mrs. Laguardia Presents Bouquet

Mrs. Laguardia gave the Queen a great, dark bouquet of American roses. A band played "God Save the King," as the coast-guard cutter Campbell roared forth the second Royal salute of the morning.

"God Save the King" was followed by the "Star Spangled Banner." The boom of the guns intermingled wit hthe strains from the band instruments.

As the procession moved off the King and Queen got a brief taste of what New York's ticker-tape reception can be like. From the first five buildings, including the flag-bedecked Whitehall building where many Consulates are housed, a shower of tape fell upon the party.

The band played "Rule Britannia".

Take King and Queen to Hearts.

From then on New Yorkers took the King and Queen to their hearts, and the city, once the headquarters of General George Washington during his fight to shake off the shackles of British rule, resounded to wave upon wave of cheers and applause.

When the anthem had been played and after brief introductions, the King and Queen entered an automobile kept in use by the secret service for the White House, and protected by bullet proof glass.

The Queen, as well as Mrs. Godfrey Haggard, wife of the British consul, wore elbow length gloves. The American women wore short gloves.

Shortly before the Warrington hoved to at the dock, a crowd of several thousand broke through the police lines and pushed toward the vessel, but were halted about 150 inside Battery Park.

New York, June 10—(CP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth, fresh from their Washington triumph, came to Manhattan today to see its mighty skyline, visit its gigantic Fair and be acclaimed by millions.

From the Battery to the Bronx, from the east side and the west side, this greatest city of the New World poured out its populace in an unending stream to line 51 miles of streets and witness the first great Royal progress in its colorful history.

Brooding, Sultry Heat

New York offered Their Majesties its most characteristic summer weather—a day of brooding, sultry heat. The weatherman promised clouds, and maybe showers.

When the King and Queen, nearing the end of their history-making visit to this country and their tour of Canada, turned their smiling faces toward Manhattan a vast eager throng stood ready to greet them.

Accustomed to welcoming distinguished guests, the Metropolis staged its mightiest welcome of all time for the Royalty of Britain.

Early in the morning the harbor at the Battery was filled with unusual activity. A crowd that bade fair to rival or exceed that which greeted Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his return from Paris assembled hours before the scheduled arrival of the King and Queen.

Thousands looked down from the windows of lofty buildings. Other thousands lined the streets.

British and American flags hung limp at the masts in the heat. The city was gay with the red, white and blue bunting of the two nations.

Lined With Palms.

A red carpet, nine feet broad and 300 feet long, was lail at Pier No. 1 at the Battery, and lined with palms. At the end of this lane waited New York's Governor, Herbert Lehman, and Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City. Mayor LaGuardia had a sheaf of American Beauty roses for Queen Elizabeth.

Before dawn 13,382 police, including high officers and 1,587 detectives, had swung into action to protect their Majesties and to safeguard against incidents. Every foot of the route had been plotted and photographed under supervision of Scotland Yard, the Secret Service and the Police.

Scour N.Y. Harbor.

In the harbor the New York Fire Department's newest craft, the "Fire Fighter," took up position at the head of a squadron of fireboats playing streams of water into the air. This is one of the many spectacular ways Manhattan pays tribute of welcome to arriving visitors.

Five new, fully-equipped ambulances were assigned to Central Park where along the green lawns and under the spreading trees 1,600,000 schoolchildren were massed. Six more ambulances were stationed at various points along the route.

Picture of Gaiety

Although the royal procession was not scheduled to move up Broadway, the canyon which has witnessed so many ticker-tape demonstrations of welcome, the great street presented a picture of gaiety all its own. The Union Jack and American flags fluttered in occasional puffs of hot breeze and the street was brilliant with bunting.

Bathed in sunshine, the Whitehall building, Pier "A" and the department of docks presented splashes of color contrasting with the green of the park trees.

Several thousand persons, mostly women and children, had gathered on West Street, south of Duane Street, by 9 a.m. anticipating several hours of waiting, many in the throng brought camp chairs and boxes and soon the thoroughfare between the Battery and Duane Street, where the ramp of the Express Highway begins; took on the appearance of an impromptu reviewing stand.

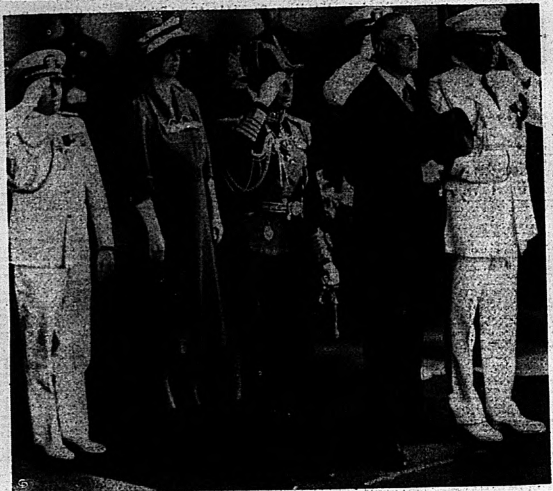
Car Stands Waiting

Two hours before the scheduled arrival of the King and Queen the special White House automobile with bullet proof glass stood waiting and a constantly swelling crowd stood behind the white ropes about 250 feet from the scene of the welcoming ceremonies.

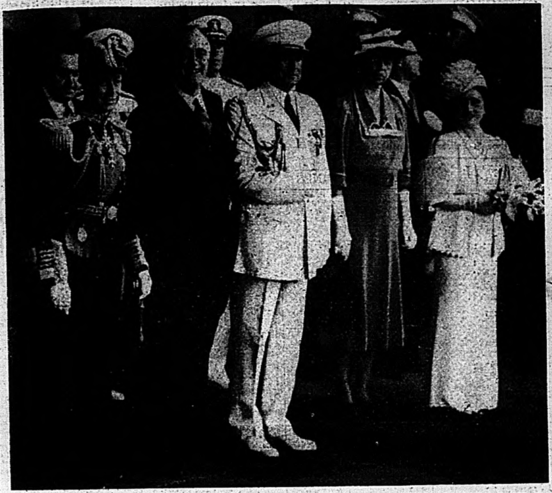
As the climatic moment of arrival drew near ships' bells and whistles sounded a joyful clamor, and the Coast Guard planes swept overhead.

With their arrival in America's metropolis the King and Queen faced the largest crowd they have yet seen on this side of the water. Throughout their five hours stay here they were in constant view of New York's multitudes from their procession into the heart of New York and across to the World's air and on their return from "The World of Tomorrow" to Morningside Heights and Columbia University.

Cheering Throngs Give Their Majesties a Royal Welcome on Their Historic Visit to Washington



In view of the thousands that jammed the station plaza in Washington the King, attired in the full dress uniform of an admiral of the British fleet, and President Roosevelt paused as the national anthems of the British Empire and the United States were played. The President stood at attention, while the King saluted.



History Was Made—When the King and Queen stepped off the royal train at Washington and were escorted to a special room in the Union Station to meet President and Mrs. Roosevelt. This was the first time that a reigning British monarch was ever greeted by an American president on American soil. LEFT to RIGHT: The King, President Roosevelt, Col. Edwin Watson, aide to the President; Mrs. Roosevelt and Queen Elizabeth.

A Deep Curtsy—Was made by Mrs. Ralph W. Close, wife of the minister of the Union of South Africa, when she was presented to Their Majesties after President and Mrs. Roosevelt had welcomed the royal couple to Washington.

A Warm Sun—Greeted the King and Queen when they arrived in the capital of the United States and Queen Elizabeth and Mrs. Roosevelt shared a parasol on their drive from the Union Station to the White House.

Airplanes Droned Overhead—And the royal route was lined with troops and armoured cars as President Roosevelt and the King drove from the Union Station to the White House through cheering throngs.

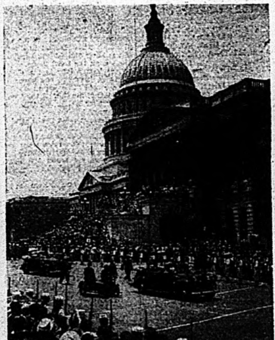
To the domed Capitol in Washington, D.C., King George VI and Queen Elizabeth travelled for the official reception tendered to them by the congressman and senators of the United States. As democratic a couple as any of the legislators present, Their Majesties clearly enjoyed the experience. This group shows left to right: Lady Lindsay, Sir Ronald Lindsay, the Queen shaking hands with Rep. Leo Kocialkowski of Illinois and His Majesty greeting Rep. Leonard Allen of Louisiana. In the background is Prime Minister King. The man wearing the striped tie is Rep. Sol Bloom of New York.



The Royal Procession—Is pictured here as it passed the U.S. Treasury Department on the way to the White House. The King and President Roosevelt may be seen in the first car of the procession.

Tea for Two—Is a fitting caption for this informal picture showing King George enjoying a cup of tea with the American financier J. Pierpont Morgan at the British Embassy garden party given in honor of the King and Queen first visit to the capital of th United States.

Tom's Interest

By JOHN MARSHALL

Please, please return my money if you found it. If you knew how much it means to me you would. One hundred dollars in five-dollar gold pieces in a little chamois bag, lost between Ninth avenue at East Twentieth street and Seventh avenue subway station at Twenty-third street, last night. Please, please return to Miss Vail—West Twentieth street, I need the money awfully."

Tom Blake read the advertisement in his morning paper through twice. Funny way to word an ad. And funny, in a way, to need the money badly enough to write such an ad.

Poor old thing—probably some old maid and her life savings. He worked up quite a story about her. Maybe she was on her way to an old ladies' home and that was her entrance fee. Maybe the money belonged to somebody else. Maybe she'd have to slave and slave to get another hundred again.

As Tom folded his paper and pushed back his chair after his breakfast in his favorite restaurant he had made up his mind. When he reached the street, he turned left, in the general direction of West Twentieth street, instead of right, as he should have done if he had been going to his office.

"Nobody," he thought to himself, "is going to return that money." She'll never know."

He went to his bank, put through a little transaction, and then went on to the address given in the advertisement.

It was as he thought it would be, an inexpensive rooming house. He pushed the button marked "Miss Vail," and as he heard steps coming to the door he pictured to himself the weak, fading old lady who would answer him. But of course it wasn't a weak, fading old lady. It was a charming young one. salyver-Bread-.

"Is Miss Vail at home?" he asked.

"I'm Virginia Vail," said the young lady.

"Then perhaps it's your aunt. The old lady who advertised about the lost money."

"Oh" The voice of the girl was excited. "You didn't find it!" She pulled him inside the hall. "Tell me—you didn't did you?" It's my money!"

"Here it is," said Tom, pulling a stout paper envelope from his pocket and presenting it to the girl. "Twenty five-dollar gold pieces — you see?"

There was a puzzled look in her eyes. "I was carrying an umbrella. And I had some parcels—and that's how I came to drop the bag."

"Yes—so I owe you another chamois bag. I'll send you one as soon as I can get one." Pretty well done, mused Tom, as he watched the girl's utter happiness and relief. But as Virginia told her story Tom found that he was just as happy as she was.

"You see," she said, "I just had to have that money back, and I thought if I wrote that kind of ad whoever had my money would have to return it—I mean, even if it was somebody like you—not somebody poor or a thief. And here it is now."

Virginia had come to New York a few days before with her precious horde of savings by herself from her hard-earned salary.

"You see," she said cheerfully, "I'll live on it until I can find a job here."

From those first dark, chill moments in the lodging house hall, Tom knew that Virginia was the girl he was going to marry. But he didn't tell her so for several weeks. And then, because her funds were getting low and New York didn't seem as anxious to give her a job as she was to find one, they were married without any long preliminary engagement.

It was the first anniversary of their wedding and they were just beginning to know the secret sweetness of true companionship that was to increase with time. For Tom and Virginia were truly happy.

"I have something to show you," said Virginia this morning. "It's an anniversary present to you. It's a secret, too, that I've been keeping all this time. It's your secret from me, too, and the fact that you kept it showed me from the first that you were as big and generous as I thought you were."

She held out her hands, with the little chamois bag—Tom had bought it the first day and returned to her with it that evening containing 20 five-dollar gold pieces.

"I've known from that day you brought them to me that they weren't mine. A woman returned mine before you came back that night—and I gave her a reward, too. There were lots of things—your bank couldn't have been open at seven in the evening when you found them—when I lost them. And the lost chamois bag. And everything.

"There have been so many times when you might have been unreasonable—when you might have told me about how generous you'd been, just to have the last say—and you never did. And so, you see, it's been a sort of test—and I never needed it. There isn't any interest, Tom, for the year's use—"

But Tom had his interest.

Letters to the Editor

Pop was sitting in his private chair looking at the paper before supper, and I said, Hay pop? and he said, You never can tell.

Meaning what, and I said, Guess who telephoned and said they'd be around after supper?

I dont have to guess very hard, it has all the earmarks of the Hewses hot after a bridge game, pop said. Yee gods, just as I was looking fallward to a long lingering evening of quiet reading and dreamy gazing into the dying embers of the electric fan. There's no such thing as comfort any more. The telephon and bridge are 2 inventions of the devil to punish mankind for its passed sins. What an age, why wasn't I born a hundred years earlier when men still had liberty and could enjoy the freedom of stretching themselves out and staying stretched? he said, and I said, G, pop, I'm glad you weren't, I might not of met you.

By gollies that's true, well on 2nd thoughts I wont try to do anything about it, pop said, and I said, And anyways, pop, it wasn't Mr. and Mrs. Hews.

It must be a bridge game whoever it was pop said. Why did I ever learn that game? Your mother insists I never did, and I wish she was right. Yee gods what a joker that fellow was who made up the one about there not being any place like home, he said, and I said, no sir, pop, it wasn't even bridge, it was Puds Simkins and he's coming over with his new game called Hopping the Atlantic.

Why you imp of Satan, I've got a good mind to ring the curfew against your posterior with my slipper, pop said, and I said, Well holey smokes, pop, you ought to feel relieved.

Wich just then lucky for me Nora rang the dinner bell for supper, being liver and onions in pop's honor and making him feel comfortable again.

New Plan Will Solve Difficulties Growing Out of Soviet Demands on Guarantees Over Baltic States

London, June 12—The government today outlined to Ivan Maisky, Soviet Ambassador to London, a new formula which is being sent to Moscow in the hope of ending a long-standing deadlock over a proposed mutual assistance pact linking Russia with the Anglo-French anti-aggression bloc.

The formula was discussed by Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax and the Ambassador before William Strang, foreign office expert on central European affairs, was named last week as special envoy to Moscow to expedite the negotiations for a pact. Mr. Strang left by airplane shortly after noon for Warsaw, en route to Moscow.

Confidence in Proposal

British officials were represented as feeling the new plan would solve difficulties growing out of Soviet demands that Baltic States be guaranteed by the three larger powers.

Mr. Strang called at the foreign office for the final talks with Lord Halifax and Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador to Paris, who flew to London last week to advise the special envoy on French views. Later Sir Eric and Lord Halifax called on Prime Minister Chamberlain at No. 10 Downing Street.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Science Service Meteorologist

Static! It's static or atmospherics, when radio sets make hisses and clicks instead of the well-ordered sounds from a scheduled program. Those disturbances are most bothersome when receivers are tuned to long waves but gradually disappear as the wavelength is reduced and disappear altogether when tuned to very short waves. It is thought that most of these atmospherics are caused by lightning, but it has not been proved that lightning causes all of them. Some may come from interstellar space. Atmospherics can not, it is believed, ever be wholly eliminated, but they may be reduceu by the use of filters or by directional antennae.

Customs Inspector On Espionage Charge

Danzig, June 12—(AP)—The Danzig Government announced today it had placed charges of attempted kidnapping and espionage against a Polish customs inspector named Jan Lipinski.

Lipinski was arrested last Friday in connection with storm troop sports competitions held here that day and Saturday in which 6,000 Brownshirts from East Prussia participated.

A communique said he represented himself to certain storm troopers as a former reserve officer of the German army and as such tried to obtain military information from them.

The announcement charged Lipinski also attempted to persuade storm troopers with whom he talked to cross the border by automobile into Poland. A public trial was promised.

KING APPEARS AT DELSON JCT.

Delson Junction, Que., June 12 (CP)—After an almost two-hour service stop-over, the Royal train bearing King George and Queen Elizabeth left this town about twenty miles east of Montreal today on its journey through Quebec's eastern townships and to the Maritimes.

With the King standing bareheaded on the rear platform of the last coach, the train departed at 10.05 a.m. E.D.T. The King waved repeatedly to a cheering crowd of about 500 persons.

The Queen did not appear beside the King, who was wearing a plain business suit, but a lifted curtain in the Royal coach gave the belief that she probably was aware of the hearty shouts of onlookers.

The Royal train was due to make a scheduled 10-minute stop at St. Johns, Que., about ten miles east of the Junction, before continuing through the province's eastern townships.

SCATTERED SHOWERS

Toronto, June 12 (CP)—The Dominion Meteorological Office reported today a possibility of light scattered showers for the Royal party's tour of New Brunswick tomorrow. The office also predicted fresh to strong westerly winds with the day partly cloudy.

The garden party was attended by leading social, business and political figures in United States, and Their Majesties chatted informally with many of them during its progress.

YOUNG WOMAN HACKED TO DEATH

Gruesome Discovery is Made by Leeds (Eng.) Decorator

Leeds, England, June 12 (CP)—Constables resumed at dawn today the grim search for parts of the hacked body of 20-year-old Ethel Wraithmell, whose head, left arm and right leg were found in a package yesterday near the village of Scholes.

Miss Evelyn Oates, a singer who identified Miss Wraithmell, told the newspapermen she believed the dead girl had been murdered by counterfeiters. She said Miss Wraithmell had been duped by the band into passing counterfeit half-crown pieces.

Miss Oates said she had warned Miss Wraithmell against an alleged member of the counterfeiting group but had been told to "mind her own business" by the dead girl.

The young woman, partially blind, disappeared from Leeds about eight days ago. Examination of the head and limbs found yesterday indicated the murder had taken place 48 hours before this discovery.

Leeds and Wakefield police were busy throughout the night. West riding police established headquarters at the Scholes Inn and set up a wireless apparatus there.

Auld Lang Syne Sung as Train Bearing King and Queen Leaves Hyde Park to Return to Canada

By SAM ROBERTSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Hyde Park, N.Y., June 12—(CP)—Their heart-capturing visit to the United States at an end, King George and Queen Elizabeth swung back into Canada today to conclude their coast-to-coast tour of the Dominion.

As they re-boarded the royal train near last midnight at the Hyde Park station, with a small knot of country-folk singing "Auld Lang Syne," there was no doubting millions of Americans had come to know them—and knowing them, loved them.

It was estimated some 5,000,000 persons had seen their hurried passage through Washington, New YoYrk and this beauty spot in the Hudson Valley, where they spent a day of relaxation before setting out on a four-day run through eastern Quebec and the Maritimes before sailing for home from Halifax Thursday.

A comment often heard among the crowds was: "They look like folk it would be nice to know."

Spent Day in Quiet

The last day of their four-day stay in the United States was spent on President Roosevelt's secluded estate and it was one of friendly contacts.

They attended morning service in the ancient rural church where the President worships, went to a picnic where lunch included hot dogs and was served on paper-mache plates, rode over dusty country roads in an old auto driven by the President. When the afternoon was at its hottest the young King and Mr. Roosevelt took a dip in a swimming pool.

SECOND VISIT PAID TO P. E. I.

Charlottetown, June 12 (CP)—Prince Edward Island, second last of the Canadian Provinces to greet the King and Queen wil lhail King George this week as a beloved friend returning after a long absence.

When the King lands here Wednesday from New Brunswick, it will be his second visit to this smallest member of the Canadian Confederation. Twenty-six years ago, as a shy young naval cadet, he won the affection of Charlottetown's people during his three days in the island's capital.

This time he comes as King, with his Queen, and 90,000 islanders are preparing to make their reception a regal one.

The Capital will have four hours with the King and Queen before they proceed to Nova Scotia. In that time, they will crowd in provincial and civic receptions, presentations of members of the government, an official luncheon and a reception at Government House garden.

92-YEAR BAPTIST PREACHES SERMON

Rev. Dr. Ebenezer Hooper, of Brockville, Oldest of Baptist Ministers

Toronto, June 12 (CP)—Firm of step, young in spirit, 92-year-old Rev. Dr. Ebenezer Hooper of Brockville, believed to be the oldest active Baptist minister in the Dominion, preached to a large congregation in College Street Baptist Church yesterday morning.

"We might have combed the Dominion of Canada and wouldn't have found a minister of farther vision, finer service and clearer witness than Dr. Hooper," was the tribute Rev. J. A. Leichliter, Minister of the church, paid the veteran preacher.

Using a text from John, "This is the work of God, that ye believe in him whom he has sent," Dr. Hooper preached a vigorous Evangelistic sedmon, and pleaded with his hearers that they de-discover God.

During his sermon he referred to the fact that he was "getting on in life". But it didn't discourage him, he said. "I never think about how long I am going to live," he told the congregation. "Every morning I thank God that here is another day."

He exhorted his listeners to "fight the good fight" and love man and God.

In the middle of his sermon he turned away from the congregation to say a few words to the choir, under H. G. Williams.

"You can never sing properly until you sing the praises of Jesus," he told the choir.

Dr. Hooper was ordained in 1874, and is a visitor at College Street Baptist Church once a year.

Thanksgiving Service May be Held To Mark Return of Their Majesties

London, June 12—(CP) —Great Britain today began planning an expansive welcome for their King and Queen to rival the Canadian and United States receptions which have delighted the British press and public.

Steamship companies already are advertising places on boats which will meet the liner Empress of Britain when it wings Their Majesties home again June 22. Possibly a service of thanksgiving will be held at St. Paul's to mark their safe return.

Newspapers used superlatives today to describe the New York reception of the royal couple. And everyone appeared to like the idea of the Sunday picnic for Their Majesties at President Roosevelt's Hyde Park residence.

Idea Appeals

Some Britons suggested that President Roosevelt might visit the British Isles. The idea appealed strongly to a cabby when he heard the suggestion from a newspaperman.

"If 'e did come Hitler and Mussolini would be properly put about, wouldn't they now?" he said.

"The reception at Washington and New York," said the Manchester Guardian (Liberal), "was without parallel in the greeting by any country of the representatives of a foreign state and one imagines that today Americans themselves will be a little baffled to explain it all fully and rationally.

"To us in this country it is of course extraordinarily gratifying. As an exhibition of kinship between the two peoples the reception was magnificent. For the King and Queen it was a considerable physical trial, but one can be sure that no experience in their lives has been more fortifying than their adventure in the great American public."

Popular Favor

"The American welcome was a demonstration of popular favor which, as all accounts agree, equalled anything ever seen before even in that city (New York) of magnificent receptions," said The Times (Independent). "There was nothing political in those cheers just as there was nothing political in the visit."

"This spontaneous enthusiasm which sets a seal on an extraordinarily successful visit, was due in the first place to the combination of ease and dignity with which the King and Queen made an instant and triumphant appeal to the heart of the American republic," said the Yorkshire Post (Conservative).

"But apart from that personal success was the consciousness that the two English-speaking peoples, albeit they work under different constitutions, do in fact stand fundamentally for the same things."

WESTERN ONTARIO SWEPT BY WIND STORM SATURDAY

No Loss of Life Reported Although Barns and Homes Were Damaged

$50,000 DREDGE SINKS

By The Canadian Press

Western Ontario today counted heavy damage after a storm which ripped through the area, disrupting hydro and telephone systems, levelling farm buildings, sinking ships and driving others to port for refuge. There was no loss of life.

The gale which struck late Saturday night and in parts blew all day Sunday, was rated by one seasoned mariner, as "the worst weather for this time of the year I have seen."

The veteran, a ship's master for 25 years, Captain A. E. Laking of Toronto, saw his tug, the Patricia McQueen and the work barge Handy Boy lying in Erieau harbor near a 41-foot sailing Ketch, all refugees of the storm which churned Lake Erie.

Royal Visit 'To Landmark'

New York, June 12 (CP)—In an editorial that spoke of the firm friendship with Canada as a cornerstone for Anglo-American relationship, the New York Herald Tribune today said the Royal visit "deserves to rank as a landmark along this welcome path of English-speaking accord."

"Liking so thoroughly this manly and courteous Englishman and his winning Scottish wife, Americans can hardly fail to understand better and to like better the peoples they so admirably represent."

The Times (Independent) commented the warmth of the welcome the United States gave King George and Queen Elizabeth "does voice an ardent desire for peace and friendship, for sympathetic understanding and for the unity of two strong nations in a distracted world."

It would be foolish for any nation to ignore it, the paper added.

30,000 Greet Sovereigns at Old Garrison Town of St. Johns, Que.—Train is Delayed to Allow Monarchs Time to Visit Veterans

By ROSS MUNRO

Sherbrooke, Que., June 12 (CP)—Into the heart of one of French-Canada's richest agricultural districts, the King and Queen were welcomed today by crowds who left their work in the fields and joined city residents in staging one of the most vociferous demonstrations staged on the Canadian leg of the Royal tour.

Their Majesties, making their third stop since crossing the international border shortly after seven o'clock this morning, stepped off the train to be greeted by Mayor Marcus Armitage and a group of civic officials. Both the King and Queen smiled and waved in response to the cheers that started to rise immediately the whistle of the Royal train sounded far down the track.

The King Looks Rested.

The King particularly looked tanned and rested after the Royal visit to Hyde Park as guests of President Roosevelt.

His Majesty, stepping down from the train first, smiled broadly as the crowd cheered. He looked at the Queen who smiled too.

The King was dressed in a grey-striped, double-breasted lounge suit, with grey shirt, dark purple and blue-striped tie.

Her Majesty wore an ash-rose dress, a short coat, a fox fur over her right shoulder and an off-the-face hat that matched the dress.

Roses Are Presented.

Miss Margaret Armitage, daughter of the mayor, presented the Queen with a bouquet of roses. Miss Armitage curtsied as she presented the flowers.

Mayor Armitage presented to their Majesties 69 persons originally chosen for presentation and Mrs. W. G. Barker, widow of Col. W. G. Barker, V.C., who was killed in an air crash near Ottawa several years ago.

After rain threatened early, the weather cleared. It was bright and cool when their Majesties arrived. A crowd of 6,000 to 7,000 people milled around the station and roared a welcome to the Royal couple.

Drive About City.

The train arrived here exactly on time at 12.50 p.m. E.D.T. for a 40-minute stop.

Their Majesties thrilled the crowd around the station by walking among war veterans lined up there before entering their car for the drive around the Royal route. After they signed the city register and the presentations were over the King, smiling, suggested to the Queen that they walk among the war veterans before the drive.

Toronto, June 12 (CP)—Tony Lazzeri, former New York Yankee second baseman, has been signed to succeed Jack Burns as manager of Toronto Maple Leafs, President Don Ross of Toronto's International Baseball League club announced today.

Belleville Kiwanians Visit Peterboro Club

Twenty-two members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club were welcomed and entertained by the Peterboro Kiwanis Club at an inter city visit on Friday night last. William Evans, Chairman of the Inter-Club Committee of the Peterboro Club, presided at the function and the visitors were welcomed by William Richardson, President of the Club. "Dick" Flynn, President of the Belleville Club, replied to the welcome. There were no speeches but Richard Roy, photographer of Peterboro and member of the Peterboro Club, exhibited a number of motion pictures taken by himself. Pictures of the Ontario Ski meet held near Peterboro this spring were shown as well as a number of scenes from the hinterland. Some of the pictures were in color and added greatly to the beauty of the scenes taken. The pictures were thoroughly enjoyed.

Albert Boynton, who has charge of the Ladies Night at the Bay of Quinte Country Club for Charter night on June 19, invited the Peterboro Kiwanians and their wives to join with the Belleville club in this celebration and President Richardson stated the directors would take the invitation under consideration. At the conclusion of the luncheon a number of the visitors took in the Rotary Carnival that was in progress in that city.

TWO AUTOMOBILES CRASH HEAD-ON

Woman Passenger in One of the Cars Sustains Facial Cuts

Damage to the amount of seven hundred and fifty dollars was incurred shortly after nine o'clock last night, when two automobiles crashed head-on on the Picton-Belleville highway four miles south of the city. A lady passenger in one of the cars sustained facial cuts and lacerations, when she was struck by flying glass.

The accident occurred, when an eastbound car driven by Thomas H. Patterson, 211 Dufferin Avenue temporarily went out of control and is said to have struck an automobile driven by Charles L. Carnrike, Consecon. Damage estimated at $400.00 was sustained by the Patterson car, while that of Carnrike was damaged to the extent of $350.00

Patterson told investigating Provincial Police Sergeant Harry Thompson, that he had leaned over to adjust the dials on the radio of his car when the accident occurred. No other injuries were reported. Patterson was alone at the time of the accident.

Humane Society's Appeal for Funds Meets Fine Response

Miss Fraleck, Sec'y., Expresses Appreciation for City's Generosity

Belleville still believes in the humane treatment of its dumb animals. Belleville's generosity when appeals are made for worthy causes, never doubted, again exemplified itself on Saturday.

It dug deep into its collective pockets when taggers offered their wares for funds to swell the coffers of the Belleville Humane Society. So well did it respond to the call for aid, that officials today feel a glow of pride in the citizens of this city.

For on Saturday one of the largest amounts ever collected in this city through the medium of a Tag Day found its way to the boxes of the taggers.

Appreciation of the splendid response was voiced today by Miss Helen Fraleck, secretary of the society. "The members of the executive are exceedingly grateful for the warm response to our appeals for funds," Miss Fraleck said. "It brought a substantial sum, one that exceeded our expectations, and one well in advance of that collected a year ago. We wish to extend our hearty appreciation to the people of Belleville and district for the splendid way in which they answered our appeal".

TERMS TO RUN CONSECUTIVELY

Transients Plead Guilty to Theft of Edgar Rutherford's Car

John Dewar, alias John Duncan and Harvey Collins, alias Harry Switzer, the two transients who were arrested in Montreal for the theft of a motor car, the property of Edgar Rutherford of this city, today pleaded guilty to the charge and were sentenced to serve one year in the Ontario Reformatory. On a second charge, preferred by Brant County police of stealing a motor car in that county, the pair again pleaded guilty when arraigned before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., here today and they were given another year, to run consecutively with that of the Belleville charge, in the same institution.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C., introduced Collins' record of previous convictions, which dated back to 1922 and included jail sentences in many places, including one in Florida. No previous convictions had been registered against Dewar, however. The motor car taken from Brant County was the property of V. G. Down and has been recovered, the court was informed today.

Dewar asked His Worship to make the two sentences run concurrently, if at all possible.

"These are two entirely different matters and we cannot tolerate these increasingly number of automobile thefts. It is too serious a crime," stated Magistrate Butler as he made the terms run consecutively. "That will mean they will have to serve two one year sentences, I presume," remarked Crown Attorney Donnan.

Fishermen Protest Dropping of Live Bombs Outside Area

Formal, vigorous protest against the dropping of live bombs by pilots of the Royal Canadian Air Force outside the designated bomb practice areas of Weller's Bay will be lodged by fishermen of the Consecon fishing colony following the bombing of Consecon Point on Lake Ontario on Thursday of last week.

Local fishermen at the Consecon colony returned to Belleville on Saturday with a report of a huge bomb being unloosed from the bomb racks of one of the planes over Consecon Thursday which landed in a vacant section of farm land near the point exploding with a shaking roar and upheaval of smoke and dirt.

Thoroughly scared after the incident, many of the fishermen deserted their work temporarily until the day's practice was over. A fuse cap of the bomb recovered by one of the fishermen was exhibited by him. A partly fused piece of metal weighing approximately nine pounds.

Considerable apprehension regarding the bombing of that area by the planes of the Trenton base has been held for some time past by the fishermen. Practice carried out in that section has ruined the fishing in some of the sections of the lake and Weller's Bay, and protest has been lodged by the fishermen regarding the use of "live" missiles. This has been culminated by the incident of Thursday afternoon.

CLINTON WHEELER BADLY BURNED

Standing Near Boat When Explosion Occurs

Presumably the result of spontaneous combustion an explosion, that almost wrecked Lloyd Hicks' speed-boat, the Baby Eugene, shook the downtown area of Belleville on Saturday afternoon and subsequently resulted in the fire department being summoned to extinguish the blaze. The force of the explosion wrecked the bow and deck of the speed craft, while the inside of the engine compartment of Mr. Hicks' valuable speed boat was badly damaged and charred.

Clinton Wheeler, standing near the boat at the time of the explosion, was severely burned around the face and hands. He was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where his condition is reported as satisfactory today.

The racing boat was stored in a local garage throughout the winter. Saturday afternoon an explosion blew the frame apart in two or three places, causing damage estimated at nearly $1,000.

According to garage attendants, the explosion might have been caused by the accumulation of octane gas. It is thought that the gasoline which contains a high percentage of octane caused a gas pocket in the bow, which increased until the explosion resulted.

FAMILY REUNION WELL ATTENDED

Friends and Relatives of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Sr., Gather

On Sunday, June 11th, relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. George Lee, Sr., celebrated the annual family reunion.

The weather was particularly fitting for the occasion, and young and old alike took advantage of the day to have a very enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee were among the early settlers in this district and can recall very few surviving neighbours of the original people who braved the hardships to make the district what it is now. Looking backward on their sixty-five years of marriage, they are gratified indeed with the consideration of sons and daughters, nephews and nieces grand children, great-grand children and all friends in giving them extreme happiness on at least one day in the year. The sight of the new generation itself is a source of pride in the old couple's eyes.

Over ninety people were present and sat down for the delicious meals provided and served by the women-folk.

Among those in attendance were:

Irene Knott; George Rose; Myrtle Rose; Mrs. Cox; Joan Martell; Eleanor Taylor; Marty Wellman; Florence Lee; Virginia Davidson; Zoe Davidson; Bill Davidson; Frances Davidson; Willie Davidson; Vernon Griffith; Mildred Griffith; Raymond Allin; Jim Luffman; Elmer Davidson; Don Lee; Ben Lee; Maud Barriage; Lois Mattis; George Lee; Lizzy Lee; Fred Lee; Mary Henn; Doris Boyle; Jim Johnson; Coleen Knott; Bill Rose; Jenny Knott; Margaret Martell; Ray Allin; Bettery Knott; Irene Wellman; Jean Lee; George Ethier; Bill Cretney; Mabel Davidson; Isobel Davidson; Eva Casey; Annie Griffith; Ruby Griffith; Charlie Reynolds; Ken Barriage; Lorne Wellman; Jules, Ethier; George Lee; Frances Lee; Marie Lee; Joe Moon; George Lee; George Lee; Nell Taylor; Joe Lee; Nellie Johnson; Bill Knott; Kenny Rose; Joe Cox; Johnny Martell; Leonard Knott; Henry Wellman; Isobel Wellman; May Lee; Johnny Knott; Martha Davidson; Beattie Davidson; George Davidson; Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick; George Griffith; Joe Allin; Perry Brownson; Ted Lee; James Davidson; Fred Ethier; Mabel Brownson Jake Mattis; Marion Knott; Roy Brownson; Albert Brownson; Frances Lee; Florence Ethier; Bessie Lee; Mollie Mattis; Dolly Allin; Donny Taylor; Frances Lee; Sam Henn; Ted Henn; Andy Knott.

Hikes through the local country-side, renewing of acquaintances and fond reminiscences made the day pass all too soon.

At the end of the evening meal, everyone joined in the singing of the hymn "Till We Meet Again," and, of course, the song "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow." With pleasant adieus, everyone bade the old folks "Goodbye, until next year," assuring them, with the aid of Providence, that next year would be as gay with festivities and as merry a time.

Several Fine Catches Of Pickerel and Pike Made Over Week-End

TWO 'LUNGE HOOKED

With ideal weather conditions prevailing and, as one sportsman puts it "the fish bitin' right merrily," one of the largest hauls of fish in years was taken from West Lake near Wellington yesterday.

Pickerel and pike were the favorite catches with a party of Toronto Jews making the best catch of twenty-seven pike and eighteen pickerel. Another party of Toronto fishermen were rewarded with seventeen pike and eleven pickerel while smaller catches were reported by successful Izaak Walton's. Weights of the pickerel ranged between 2 and 4 pounds.

The lake was dotted with the boats of the fishermen from sunrise to sunset, with boat-liveries of the village doing a land-office business. One fortunate or unfortunate fisherman hauled in a twelve-pound musky after a hard thirty-minute battle, only to remember that the season had not opened as yet. Reluctantly he threw the finny beauty back into the water.

Similar luck attended a city fisherman at Chisholm's Mills. He was rewarded with an eleven pound lunge after a thrilling battle and was forced to throw his catch back. "It's the first 'lunge", I have ever caught, and I had to catch it out of season," he lamented, bemoaning the unkind fates that sent the fish to his lure.

The common grease-gun is a very necessary article in the every day life of Wilbert Channel, Prince Edward County cheesemaker. And when he discovered the other day that robbers had entered his garage and purloined several tools including the gun, he immediately announced that he was in the market for a new one.

Overhearing a remark to this effect, a stranger approached him, and suggested that he had such an article for sale, or at least knew someone who would part with his grease-gun.

Channel told the affable stranger to bring the article to him for inspection. The stranger did, and Channel's eyes bulged when he recognized the gun as the one taken from his garage the week previous. He informed police and it was only a matter of hours before the culprits were arrested. Last week in a Picton Police court, they pleaded guilty to the charge and are now lodged in jail.

POLICE COURT

John Martin, Toronto transient, who was arrested in Belleville over a fortnight ago on a charge of assaulting another person near Victoria Park, appeared today before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., in city police court for sentence, after being convicted of the charge last week. Martin was sentenced to serve one month in the common jail.

"Could I have my remand time included in that term?" asked Martin.

"You most certainly cannot. You are getting off rather lightly now," replied His Worship.

Sixteen-year-old William Lusk of this city appeared on charges of the theft of oil and a set of socket wrenches, the property of Madill's garage, Front St. Lusk pleaded guilty and was remanded in custody for sentence on Friday.

"This lad has no criminal record, but has been questioned by police previously, I understand," remarked Crown Attorney Donnan as he suggested a suspended sentence might meet the ends of justice. However, His Worship deemed otherwise and remanded the youth for sentence.

Two local youths who were found in a common gaming house recently today admitted their guilt and were fined $5.00 and costs. Others implicated had "settled up" in a previous court.

Two cases of non-support were listed for trial, but owing to pressing business, His Worship adjourned the hearings until Friday. A local man paid $16.35 into the court's coffers after being convicted of intoxication.

AULD LANG SYNE

their royal guests to the station with warm handclasps and affectionate waves bid them farewell.

His Majesty gave the President a gold inkpot bearing the royal coat-of-arms. There were reports the King issued a "pressing" invitation to Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt to visit England but officials declined to discuss the matter.

Showing the Strain

The day in the countryside was just what the royal couple needed after the crowded rounds of handshaking, and sightseeing and feasting they have had in Canada and the United States. It seems the King is starting to show the strain of the demanding program he has faced since landing at Quebec May 18 and Her Majesty's winning smile is seen a little less frequently.

At the New York World's Fair Saturday the King asked to be excused from shaking the hands of a long line of people gathered by Grover Whalen, the Fair's president. Later, near the end of an 80-mile motor drive from New York to Hyde Park, the royal car was speeded-up sharply and from a following press car it appeared the order was given by the King.

Longing For Home

One young member of the Royal Party was heard discussing his longing for home with a photographer among the English Press corps covering the visit. Standing in the Roosevelt estate, the sun beating on his head, the royal "partyer" remarked: "Just imagine, to be sitting on a shaded ship-deck with a bottle of chilled ale".

"Yes," the camera-man agreed, "and wouldn't it be lovely to be going home?"

"By jove it would", the wearied official said.

Saturday's program in New York was as hectic as Sunday's was leisurely. The trip up New York harbor in a United States destroyer, two drives through Manhattan, a hurried tour of the World's Fair and the long drive to Hyde Park were viewed by cheering crowds police estimated at 3,500,000.

Welcome Most Enthusiastic

New York's welcome was the most enthusiastic elaborate and breezy American that this city has given since Colonel Charles Lindbergh came back from Europe from his flight to Paris. And it was different from other great Manhattan welcomes in that it was unsophisticated and whole-hearted, and filled with spontaneity.

That the King and Queen enjoyed it was seen in the fact that His Majesty ordered the procession to reduce its speed, with the result that they arrived late at the World's Fair after traversing the vast stretches of the city, viewing its opulent skyscrapers and its more sordid slums.

The King and Queen landed at historic Battery Park, on Manhattan's tip, in mid-morning, and were received by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia and New York State Governor Herbert H. Lehman.

New York turned out its greatest police guard in its history, more than 13,000 police and detectives guarded every inch of the royal route. Guards, with guns mounted on the roofs of buildings. But no untoward incidents occurred, and the great populace remained good-natured and cheery throughout the hot day.

Made From Copper

At the fair Their Majesties were conducted through the Canadian pavilion by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of the Department of Trade and Commerce which organized Canada's participation, and Douglas S. Cole, Trade Commissioner in New York and the Dominion's Commissioner General to the fair. The royal couple expressed keen interest in a large map of the country made from Canadian copper.

They also toured the British pavilion, which contains the Australia, New Zealand, and South African exhibits, and the Irish pavilion.

They were an hour behind schedule when they set out for Hyde Park and there were frequent rain squalls. Police who guarded every foot of the way took a good-natured chiding.

In a tiny church, nestling picturesquely among the trees two miles from President Roosevelt's estate, the King and Queen worshipped Sunday with an American congregation.

The King and Queen went to St. James Episcopal (Anglican) Church accompanied by the President with Mrs. Roosevelt and Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, the President's 84-year-old mother.

Followed Service

In solemn reverence the Royal couple followed the services and heard the Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church say in his sermon that Great Britain and the United States must share a large part of the responsibility for solving world ills.

The rector, Rev. Frank R. Wilson, said: "We appreciate the historic visit Their Majesties are making to this parish.e are this parish. We are happy to add our voice to that of the mother Anglican Church in commending Your Majesties to the grace and protection of Almighty God."

In a group confessional, the King and Queen, President and Mrs. ooseRvelt, joined in response to the words: "Let us humbly confes our sins before Almighty God." Bishop Tucker gave absolution.

Then Their Majesties joined in reciting the Lord's prayer and the singing of "Glory be to the Father and to the Son and to the Holy Ghost."

Prayers were given for peace and grace and there was a special prayer for "Elizabeth, Queen mother Mary and Princess Elizabeth," with Mr. Wilson asking God to "give them grace and happiness and bring them to thy Kingdom."

After the services, Mrs. Roosevelt hurried over to the cottage to make sure all was ready for the picnic.

President Drove Car

The President drove over later with Queen Elizabeth by his side and the King and President's mother in the rear seat.

At the cottage, tables were spread on the stone porch. The tables were for Their Majesties.

Such viands as smoked and plain turkey, salads, baked beans and brown bread loaded and unpainted wooden table in the living room of the cottage. Beer and soft drinks were the thirst-quenchers.

A temporary platform of unpainted planks doubled the size of the porch, affording room for a piano and entertainment by two Oklahoma Indians, Ish-ti-obi and Princess Te Ata.

After the picnic, the President took his guests to the Val Kill cottage for tea, but one glance at the blue-tinted waters of the nearby swimming pool was enough to change the plans of Mr. Roosevelt and the King.

They went swimming together.

It was disclosed later that they had taken a dip together Friday afternoon at the White House after tea.

Tweed

Tweed—A number of property-owners in Tweed have beautified their properties by the erection of artistic fences, the making of lawns and flower borders. One of the most striking and attractive is that of Mr. and Mrs. C. Ed. Way, who in addition have added an artistic pool, fed by the creek which passes through the property. The water leaves the pool by a tiny waterfall and enters the creek again lower down.

A giant white willow that had been growing near the entrance of Memorial Park had to be removed because of the decayed condition of the heart of the tree, which endangered users of the Park.

Tweed Council met with Reeve C. H. Kerr in the chair. Routine business occupied its attention for the most part. A number of accounts were ordered paid.

A wedding of local interest took place in the Cathedral Chapel, Kingston, on June 5th, when Margaret Teresa, Reg. N., daughter of Major and Mrs. Pilley of Kingston, was united in marriage to Mr. Stanis Quinn, son of the late Mr. James Quinn and Mrs. Quinn of Tweed. Rev. Father G. Martin of Deseronto, officiated. Following a wedding breakfast at Pinetree Lodge the young couple left on a motor trip for eastern points. They will reside in Tweed on their return. Among the guests attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Quinn, Tweed and Miss Jean Quinn, Toronto.

St. Carthagh's R.C. Church was the scene of an interesting wedding when Mary Carmel, daughter of Mrs. David Trudeau, was united in marriage to John Francis DeMarsh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore DeMarsh. Dean D.A. Cullinane assisted by Rev. Fr. S. LeSage, Stirling, and Rev. W. P. Healey, of Marmora, performed the ceremony amid a setting of beautiful spring flowers.

The bride was attended by Miss Loretta DeMarsh, sister of the groom. The groom was assisted by the bride's brother, Mr. Oakley Trudeau. Following the ceremony the wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents at Stoco.

The young couple left on Tuesday morning on a motor trip to Western Ontario. On their return they will reside in Hungerford Township north of Tweed.

Check That Strike

Neglect on Beekeeper's Part May Cause Bees to Waste Time in Swarming

(Experimental Farms News)

Bees are primarily kept for the honey they will produce, therefore, the bee-keeper is vitally interested in preserving the storing instinct of his bees whenever there is a surplus of nectar to be gathered by them, states C. B. Gooderham, Dominion Apiarist. A little neglect or carelessness on his part, however, may cause his bees to go on strike and waste their time and energy in swarming. The early sources of nectar and pollen have now been yielding supplies for several days and the colonies, especially those that came through the winter strong in bees, are daily increasing in strength and the queens may already have reached their maximum egg-laying, so that their may be little space left within hive for expansion. Lack of space within the hive for extending the brood nest and for the storage of new supplies quickly arouses the swarming instinct, therefore, the beekeeper must be constantly alert to prevent any possibility of congestion, either in brood chambers or supers. Any colony that has four or five frames of brood and in which the spaces between the outer combs and hive walls are becoming well-filled with bees needs more space. If the bees are in a single hive body of ten frame Langstroth dimensions or less a second chamber must be given but without a queen excluder beneath it as the queen will very likely need part of this second chamber for egg laying. If the hives are larger than the ten frame Langstroth size an excluder can be placed beneath the second chamber. The first attempts at swarming are usually made during the honey flow from dandelion and fruit bloom, while the second period which is longer and more intense, comes during the early part of the clover flow. It is much easier and more profitable to keep the swarming instinct dormant than it is to control it when once it has arisen, therefore, the wise beekeeper will observe his colonies closely during the building-up period of early spring and summer to see that they have at all times enough room for the maximum expansion of the brood nest and also for the storage of all surplus the bees may be able to gather. He must also see that working conditions within the hive are comfortale during the summer months when temperatures are high. The interior of the hive may easily become too hot even for the bees and a number of the field force must stay at home to ventilate the hive. Often so many are required for this purpose that they defeat their own purpose by completely blocking the entrance of the hive. If, during hot weather, clusters of bees are seen fanning at the entrance the hive should be ventilated either by raising the cover slightly, or by staggering the supers. Shade during the hottest part of the day will usually prevent overheating.—Issued by the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Cyanamid Dust Controls Mustard

(Experimental Farms News)

Calcium cynamid dust applied at the rate of 125 pounds per acre has controlled mustard effectively according to results secured by the Field Husbandry Division, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, states Geo. Knowles, of that Division.

Best results were secured by a uniform distribution of the dust over a young growth of grain and mustard which was wet with dew. When the dusting was delayed until some of the mustard was in bloom the treatment was less effective. The weed was not killed when cyanamid was applied late in the morning on foliage which was almost dry.

There are a number of implements which may be used to apply calcium cyanamid dust. When the area to be dusted is small—one or two acres—a Knapsack duster may be used. For larger acreages the fertilizer attachment to a grain drill is a fairly satisfactory distributor. A roll of fine mesh wire suspended under the openings of the attachment aids in a more even distribution of the dust. A specially constructed cyanamid broadcaster is also available.

In a few days after cyanamid has been applied on a field of grain containing mustard, the foliage becomes yellow and one might conclude that the grain was seriously injured. This is not the case, however. About ten days after the application the grain has completely recovered and the mustard has almost entirely disappeared. The growing tip of grain is encased in a sheath or covering and is protected from the herbicidal action of the cyanamid.

Calcium cyanamid is also a nitrogenous fertilizer and an application of 125 pounds per acre stimulates the growth of the grain. At Ottawa this treatment has caused an increase in the yield of oats from 4 to 6 bushels per acre.

PEOPLES ARE LIFTED UP

The charm of the individual personality has shown itself in these past few days in a way that everyone can recognize.

The royal tour of Their Majesties the King and Queen through Canada and their visit to the United States have proven that personality is triumphant. Canadians and Americans have been charmed by the graciousness and royal qualities of their guests who have won all hearts by their sympathy and range of interest. In addition these personalities represent the spirit of their people and nation. Canadians and Americans have been receptive and have been exalted and lifted up in their emotions to a high plane through the reaction to the charm of Their Majesties. That this happiness is mutual is seen in the happiness which the Sovereigns express on every hand. Theirs must be ample reward in seeing so many millions happy.

If there were such fraternizing of all nations and sincerity in all their actions, men and women could, as the President of the United States remarked, once more look upon a world happy, prosperous and peaceful.

There are no hidden motives between Britain and her Empire and the United States, there are no fears, everywhere is confidence between these peoples. Their only motive is that openly expressed by the President and the King: "May our friendship prosper" and "may we ever walk along the path of friendship in a world of peace."

In the midst of the people of their own land, Britain, in their own Dominion of Canada and in the land of hospitality, the United States, how can there be anything but spontaneous and sincere expressions of joy, goodwill, happiness by the King and the Queen, by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and by the peoples who live side by side with never a gun between.

When nations have chiefs who so please their own people and their neighbors, the visit of two charming personalities, a kingly King and a charming Queen with an interest in everything of human advance and progress, official stamp is set on the friendship of two great branches of the English-speaking race.

FIRE LOSSES HEAVY

Canadian fire loss for 1938 averaged about $2.31 per capita. The fact that in Great Britain and Ireland the per capita fire loss is about one dollar, while in a number of European countries it is less than one dollar, is striking. These facts were brought to public attention by A. Leslie Ham, manager of the Canadian Underwriters in a speech at Winnipeg on "Personal Liability for Fire."

Mr. Ham sees the higher rate in Canada as due to public apathy in respect to carelessness where fire losses are concerned. He sees one explanation of this in the abundance with which nature has endowed the Dominion, whereas other countries which have not been so favored, practise thrift and put a ban on waste of any kind.

A fire loss is a total loss. It is never replaced even by insurance for the country is poorer by reason of any destruction, and loss of property by fire, the owner if he is not insured and often if he is insured because insurance cannot replace what has been wiped out or the insurance companies and back of them the people who insure. Assuredly the wealth of the country is that much less whenever there is a fire.

Such facts point a new goal at which Canadians should strive. They must bring down that average of $2.31.

Laws, said Mr. Ham, will not change the public attitude in this regard nor will they eliminate apathy towards fire loss. Areas in which fires occur, suffer because losses govern rates. Every municipality has been aware of this at one time or another.

From the year 1920 to 1937 the loss in Canada in a total of 727,987 fires meant over two-thirds of a billion dollars in wealth and 7,204 lives wiped out. Last year's figures, however, do show a decline in loss, but Canada has far yet to go to reach her goal.

Fires are terrible masters as they wipe out wealth and life, and make the people of a community and a nation poorer. A mass consciousness of this is essential so that the people may understand that the public pays when property burns.

THE BRITISH PRINCESSES

There was a picture in the newspapers the other day of the two British princesses at a show, leaning on their hands over the railing of a platform, looking idly on what was passing before their eyes and possibly not really seeing what was going on before them while through their minds was passing something more real—their sense of loneliness in their separation from their parents. It is not to be wondered at that these charming children should miss their parents who have so charmed the people of Canada by their graciousness and appreciation. Nor is it unlikely that the royal parents, too, fee lonely at times in the midst of their great success of their tour and the most stirring evens, because the two princesses in England miss them so greatly.

LAWN BOWLING IS THE GREAT SUMMER GAME FOR THE TIRED BUSINESS MAN and even threatens golf in popularity although golf fiends will not acknowledge that and claim to look down upon the game of lawn bowling with the supercilious attitude as if it was the more or less grand uncle of the ancient game of marbles. However, lawn bowlers seem to get a great kick out of their game and they in their turn look upon golf as a more or less invalid's game. However, lawn bowling affords a large number of players recreation and competition at the same time and is so fascinating that tired business men have been known to play the game far into the night, in fact into the wee sma' hours of the morning and boast about it afterwards. Thomas Richard Henry, columnist for the Toronto Telegram has been playing the game and here is his summary of impressions as expressed recently in his column in the Toronto Telegram with a more or less humorous slant. Here it is:

Lawn bowling is played on lush green grass during the month of June—and on the foundation of this green grass during July, August and September.

The game is played either with bowls of composition rubber, or spherical wooden balls somewhat resembling bowls. It is a convention among bowlers using these wooden balls to say that they prefer them. At least they say this until such times as they feel like sacrificing thirty odd dollars to acquire a set of bowls. Naturally bowlers with composition bowls never believe them.

Bowling is a conglomeration of democratic and aristocratic tendencies. It is democratic because it happens to be the only place you can bawl out your boss, a clergyman, a tax collector, or the leading citizen in your neighborhood and get away with it, if he happens to be playing on your team. It is aristocratic because the caste system is rigidly enforced. The skips are the aristocrats. The vice-skips are yes men. The leads and seconds are the humble underlings, who take all the orders, never voice an opinion when their betters are discussing strategy, keep off the green except when they are told to bowl—AND DO MOST OF THE BOWLING.

Most of the art of being a skip or a vice-skip lies in keeping the leads from suspecting that they do most of the bowling, because as soon as the lead suspects that he can bowl he wants to be a skip—and is practically ruined as a lead. It is necessary to keep these leads in subjection because obviously all the bowlers cannot be skips. Besides skill in bowling has little to do with the art of skipping a rink.

Skipping consists chiefly in preserving the illusion that skips were once superb leads and were promoted; contemplating complicated shots; complaining about short bowls; and being able to roll a bowl the length of the green so that it will bump around the bowls that the leads and the seconds have been able to place around the jack.

A skip should never, under any consideration, attempt to lead. This is important. Put a skip leading and the results might undermine the whole discipline of bowling.

To always complain about short bowls is very important in skipping a rink.

It works something like this.

The skip will say to his vice:

"I will come up through this port with a slight overdraw, kissing this bowl, wicking off this one, and hitting this bowl dead centre. That will squeeze out the shot bowl and leave us counting five."

Deliberately he walks in front to confirm his judgment from another angle.

Deliberately he walks back to the mat.

Deliberately he studies the situation again.

Then he misses everything on the green by about six feet.

If he is a good skip he will then rush up the green and complain bitterly about a front bowl in the draw.

"It got right in my eye," he will say.

And the contrite lead who left the short bowl in the draw, will feel that he will have to go on leading for another seven years to live down the disgrace of having spoiled a perfect shot by putting a bowl in his skip's eye.

About the only alibi leads and seconds need put forward is the green.

If the green is "heavy" they should inform their skip that they are always bowling under difficulties on a "heavy" green because they do their best bowling on a "keen" green.

Since a green is always "keen" or "heavy" this alibi answers for every occasion.

In bowling you must make allowance for the "bias." This is called "taking the green," and is more important in bowling than "wearing the green" in Ireland.

Since the days of Sir Francis Drake, skips have been warning their rinks to "take the green" and the green is all there yet.

It is a convention in bowling for skips to mention at least twice during every game, that their opponents are using "old, straight bowls" that nobody can beat.

Bowling teams consist of singles, doubles, trebles and rinks. Rinks make the most reasonable game because there are more people to share the blame.

Next to getting your bowl close to the cat, stance is about the most important thing in delivering the bowl. There are about 13 recognized stances and 65 that are practised but are not recognized.

The three most common of the recognized stances are:

First—"The step and roll." This permits several variations from a little prance like a Greek aesthetic dance to the first six steps of a runner starting a hundred-yard dash. Some bowlers finish the dash, but the correct follow through to this stance is a Statute of Liberty pose, with the body inclined rigidly in the direction you hope the bowl will curve.

Second—"The crouch," which somewhat resembles an Arab facing the east in an attitude of prayer.

Third is "the shudder" in which the bowler imitates a person constricted by a spasm of great pain at the height of which the bowl is snapped away with a convulsive jerk.

As a point of aim some bowlers take a mark on the bank, some a mark on the grass beside the jack, some aim at the North Star regardless of the direction they are bowling, and some just shut their eyes, deliver the bowl, and hope for the best.

So far we have outlined specific conventions that have been left out of all the rule books.

Taking the game generally it has many attractions. It can stir up more gossip than a sewing circle and more squabbles than a sand lot baseball game between 'teen age boys.

Rivalry is not as keen as between dictators. We have never met a skip who would sacrifice more than his right arm to win a bowling game.

It has possibilities of better sport than deer shooting, because there is no closed season for game (committees).

Greenkeepers smoke innumerable cigars on the optimism of new bowlers that they have developed to the stage where they can beat the greenkeeper in six ends. We have never seen a greenkeeper buying cigars.

June 12th., 1919.

Last evening at the Ann Street School grounds a fast and brilliant game of baseball was played between two Y.M.C.A. Junior League teams, the Red Sox and Tigers. The game was played quickly, commencing at 7.10 o'clock and ending at 8.15 o'clock. The Tigers played a good game and it was owing only to the fact that the Red Sox have such good fielders that the Tigers were defeated. The final score was 5 to 3 in favor of the Red Sox. The following composed the teams: Red Sox — Cretney, Moxam, Storks, Myles, Maraskas, Joss, Ashley, Herity and Latchford. R. Clarke, spare man. Tigers — Ashley, Hunter, Holway, Barrage, Low, Kemp, McKonekey, Buskard and Anderson. T. Storks, spare man. H. Moxam twirled airtight ball up to the 6th. innings, when the Tigers found him for three runs which spelled his finish. Cretney, the Sox pitching ace, relieved him and retired the Tigers in one, two and three order for the rest of the game. Holway on first base played a good game, fielding his position perfectly. Maraskas and Myles on third and second made one brilliant catch each. J. Hunter pitcher for the Tigers, pitched the best game of his career last night. R. Kemp at short stop was seen to advantage last night and can compete with any short stop in the league. Eddie Thomas acted as umpire and proved satisfactory to both teams.

When Shirts Were Really Stiff

We read with interest a report of a Women's Institute meeting where Grandmother's Day was being observed, and several of them were asked to discuss things as they are today and as they used to be at their earliest recollection. One lady of 92 years who is able to "do things" around the house yet declared the greatest advance had been the coming of the electric iron. Her way of stating the case was:

"I have seen a great many changes and yet there are a few things I prefer doing for myself. Up until a few years ago I always saved the good wood ashes out of the kitchen range and ran a leach for the making of my own soft soap. But I would not want to go back to the old days of ironing again and the things we used to iron. It was always a case even in hot weather of having a good fire on the range to keep the irons hot, and then those were the days of frilled petticoats for women and hard boiled shirts for men. I like to do a little ironing yet, but it has not got to be done with so much heat and there are no frilled petticoats and the men's shirts are soft and so are their collars."

The day of the stiff shirt has not passed entirely, but it is hedged off pretty much now for the use of those who go forth in evening attire. Grandfather was a sticker for stiff shirts and so were the elders of the tribe in general along the tenth concession. Otherwise grandfather wore grey flannel. Even when taking a turn in the mow in the days before trolley forks he departed never at all from a grey flannel shirt.

When it came to starching and ironing grandfather's white shirts it was taken as an article of household faith that there could not possibly be too much starch and too much pressure, nor could the raiment become too rigid in its frontal austerity to displease grandfather. The only concession he ever made was on occasion he would revert to a dicky (or should it be spelled dickey?). The present generation knows them not. The dicky was somewhat akin to certain individuals—it was all front; it was a shirt without sleeves and without a back, but there were tapes attached near the top and again close to the centre of gravity and these were tied to keep it in place. On days when grandfather wore the dicky it meant that the deep celluloid cuffs with the large buttons came out from their place of hiding in the bureau drawer. There was also some sort of a dohickey used to make certain that the cuffs were anchored at the right place. To revert to the question of ironing, the dickey front was the subject of the same sort of treatment as was the starched shirt.

Ironing on lot 4, concession ten, was all that the grandmother of 92 said it was. Grandfather was as unyielding about the stiff front as was the stiff front itself. With a collar of equal stiffness wrapped about his neck grandfather went forth on Sunday morning to face the world and the preacher with his chin up. The truth probably is he had to.

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M.D.

Burning up Body Fat by Pituitary Extract

At one time all cases of overweight were thought to be due to overeating and underexercising. It was later found that a lessening of the amount of juice in the thyroid gland in the neck was responsible for some cases of overweight. It is this juice which speeds up all the body processes. What is known as the metabolism test showed that the body processes in these cases were working below the normal rate; by giving some of this juice (thyroid extract) daily, these cases lost much of their excess fat. The thyroid extract, by speeding up the body processes, increased the body heat and burned up fat.

A special type of overweight where the excess fat is over shoulders, upper arm, abdomen and hips—no excess fat on forearms or lower legs—has been called the pituitary type, due to a lessening of the amount of the juice of the small pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull. This gland, as in the case of the juice of the pancreas (insulin) has much to do with the using or burning up of starch in the body.

Although the use of the juice of the pituitary (pituitary extract) has been used with much success in the treatment of this type of overweight it was not known that pituitary extract, like thyroid extract, increased body heat. It is very gratifying, therefore, to learn of the recent discoveries and results of experiments of a group of practising physicians and research workers at the Montreal General Hospital and the Department of Biochemistry, McGill University.

Drs. I. M. Rabinowitch, Marjorie Mountford, D. K. O'Donovan and J. B. Collip, record in the Canadian Medical Journal a 10 per cent increased speed of the body processes by the use of pituitary extract, in two groups of men. And the increased rate of metabolism with the increased heat was used to a large extent in burning up fat tissue.

It is certainly interesting to know that, in addition to thyroid extract, a special pituitary extract — discovered by Drs. O'Donovan and Collip—may soon be available for overweights. As the number of cases was only seven, these workers are continuing their investigations, and their further reports will be awaited not only by overweights but by physicians also.

DARTS AND DRINKS

The licensing magistrates of Glasgow have forbidden the playing of darts, dominoes, checkers or any other games in public houses thereby eliminating what has hitherto been regarded as a temperance measure in the temples of tippling. The British "pub", which is the equivalent of our "beverage rooms" with the exception that they sell beer, wine and spirits and light lunches has been called "the poor man's club." He could go there, play darts, dominoes or checkers, and drink his beer, and he might take up a whole evening in the company of friends, making his glass of beer last an unconscionable length of time, two or three furnishing the refreshment for several hours. It was this mixing of games with drinks that led to describing public houses as poor men's clubs. The Glasgow magistrates do not give any reason for the ban except in the case of darts, which, the report says, "is a dangerous game, likely to attract some people who are not too steady of hand." We can quite appreciate the point—those sharp-pointed darts would be a menace in the hands of a man who has had several beers. He might miss his aim, or he might even aim at a board that isn't there if he sees two of them.

Games, however, have always been a feature of English pubs, especially in the villages where the male section of the population congregate in the evenings, and sometimes even the vicar joins them and they discuss world affairs. The theory is that if men have something to occupy their attention they will do something else besides drink. On the other hand the provision of games may be a temptation to prolong the visit. But the association of games and beer is generally accepted as an aid to temperance, and account for the fact which must strike all visitors overseas that while there is a great deal of drinking there is very little drunkenness.

But we agree that drinks and darts don't mix. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

BLOW TO SCOTS

A writer to the press tells us that Queen Elizabeth is not pure Scotch. Not only is she not Scottish born, but she was born in England of an English mother, and worse and worse, was actually baptized in England. This sad news reached us just after we had hunted up the old tartan and were busy darning the moth-eaten parts against the 21st. of May. This news is bad enough for those of us who have merely a sort of nodding acquaintance with Scotland, but how must it affect ardent Scotsmen like Duncan Marshall frae Bruce County and James A. Roy frae Kirriemuir. We're afeered yon wee bit lassie the Queen wull gang doon a bit in their estimation and the kilts will be folded up and put back in the bottom drawer. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

Saving the English Language

It is a relief to put aside the grim realities that plague the world these days and indulge in a little shadow - boxing contest about something that if not all-important.

S. H. Markham, a member of the British House of Commons, has found time to raise the old question — Do Americans speak English? He complains that American slang, being fed to his fellow-countrymen through the movies, is debauching the tongue of Shakespeare and Milton. He views with unmitigated horror the prospect that on some future and parlous day the Speaker of the Mother of Parliament in an endeavor to "pep up" the House "will label the Aye" lobby the 'Sez you' lobby, and the other the 'Include Me Out' lobby".

The Speaker might do worse. The innovation would at least serve to stir a little spice into a legislative procedure which, if our own Canadian Parliament is any criterion, probably lacks something of being breathlessly inspiring.

It is of interest to note that Mr. Markham has been answered in advance by Stephen Leacock, who once admitted that he spoke "Ontario English." According to Leacock, slang was nothing to worry about, for time showed that only those slang words and phrases which had actual merit tended to survive. And if they made a genuine addition to the English language, as tested by time, they could only make the language better.

In attempting to stem the flow of American slang in Britain Mr. Markham is up against something. He admits this himself in telling of the difficulty he had in getting a cockney lunch-wagon operative to serve him with a "sausage sandwich". "Sez which?" asked the puzzled cockney. Then followed a gleam of understanding: "Oh, sure, I get you, buddy; you mean a hot dog!"—Winnipeg Tribune.

The Judge's Expense Account

There were stormy protests at the recent meeting of the Prince Edward County council at Picton over a bill for $27.50 taxi fares for a Supreme Court judge at a session of the court.

The sheriff was called from his office to throw light on the account and he explained that he is required by the stautes to pay all expenses of "waiting upon the judge" and that the county is responsible for the eventual settlement.

It appears that the judge had to use a taxi from Belleville to Picton. The councillors thought the Dominion government ought to be chargeable in that item. There was also a charge for a sight-seeing visit to another part of the county. Some of the members of the council were outspoken to the effect that the Supreme Court judges were well paid servants of the state and ought to be careful in the matter of incurring charges that had to be paid by the municipalities. One councillor, however, expressed the opinion that such expenses were paid without protest by other municipalities and there was nothing that could be done about it. The sheriff was notified that in future the county council would not pay expenses for judges outside the town of Picton.

All this goes to show that there is much more scrutiny of municipal accounts than there used to be. It is a change in business methods impelled by depression conditions. It is not believed that judges in Canada in the ordinary course of their duties, have tendered exorbitant expense accounts. In fact, many of them are parsimonious when it comes to incurring costs that will have to be met by the municipal treasury, but the tempest in the Prince Edward County council suggests that the dollar in public transactions is becoming more carefully valued. It is a symptom of growing consciousness that the loose-fisted methods that have characterized public business is recognized as a menace. It would be a good thing if that idea were to permeate our legislatures and our federal administration.—Woodstock Sentinel Review.

Old-Fashioned Shingling Bee

Up at Burnt River the other day they had an old fashioned occasion which shows that co-operative effort, more commonly known as a "bee" is still an institution in rural communities. Burnt River, situated in the northern part of Victoria County, is a small village which caters to the farmers and lumbermen of the surrounding district and its church serves the people of a rather wide district. When the church needed a new roof it constituted a problem, which, if not tackled in a co-operative manner, would have meant an expenditure of major importance and money is never a plentiful commodity in churches in small places. The problem was easily solved, however, by the men of the congregation who after the shingles had been purchased, had a bee the other day and finished the job of dressing the building in a new covering.

The ladies of the congregation, not to be outdone, also joined in the bee and they supplied the men with dinner and supper and, as the correspondent writes the dinner and supper were man-sized meals.

We can imagine the men of the congregation made the occasion of the shingling bee something more than a job of work. It is likely that it was an occasion of social contact of a nature that we in the larger towns and cities could not understand. We can imagine the good fun that was had by the men as they sat around the table at dinner and supper while the ladies made the table groan with the weight of food.

In a city or a town, if a church needs a new roof, the men-folk would be more inclined to offer a special collection for the work rather than organize a bee to do the job more cheaply.—Lindsay Post.

PHONETIC EXPERT

It is of interest to read that an expert in phonetics is to spend some months making a survey of local speech forms.

Nova Scotia should be a rich field for such study. This is a province of variety. Many people who come from the "wide open spaces" of the West, where days of travel reveal no change in the countryside or its people, fail utterly to comprehend the many differences which exist in this compact little province. They have no conception of the difference in background, interests, and habits of the Lunenburg fisherman, say, and the Pictou county miner . . . But that is not the only difference. The fishermen are not all of the same stock. Some are descendants of Breton fishermen who fished off these shores many years ago. Others have Newfoundland origins, some come of Irish families.

Nova Scotians do not have to travel far from their home province to learn that they have distinguishing characteristics in speech. Some of them become conspicuous because of a broad 'a'. They will say "cahn't" which sounds strange to New York of Toronto ears. Others, however, use as flat an a as any New Englander.

There is one characteristic which seems to brand almost all Nova Scotians. Most people in this province pronounce "house" as "hose" and "about" as "abote", although they say "howses' for "houses" and do not say "mone-tain" for "mountain." This tendency to give an 'o' sound to 'ou' seems to be the result of the Scottish influence and corresponds to the "aboot" which Sassenachs employ when mimicking the Scot.

Seven major American circuses emerged from Winter quarters last April to herald the coming of Spring. Five of these outfits that started out so bravely, all resplendent in red and blue paint and gold leaf, were forced to close before the end of the season. This Spring only two major circuses will take to the road.

Perhaps this represents progress. Perhaps it symbolizes the onward march of economic recovery and the attainment of a higher standard of living for those who are ill-fed, ill-clothed and ill-housed. Certainly it is the fruit of well-planned and concerted efforts on the part of some who profess to have the interests of the working-man at heart.

It may be all for the best, but the fact remains that approximately two-thirds of the people who found employment of some kind with five circuses last year will have to look for other jobs this Spring and Summer—Chicago Daily News.

WAIVED CLAIM

A pleasing incident is reported from Nice, where submarines of the Mediterranean fleet have been on an official visit, writes our Cannes correspondent.

Last year a British naval rating, in the course of a dispute with a Nice taxicab driver, was shot in the stomach and for many weeks hung between life and death.

The taxicab driver was sentenced to a short term of imprisonment and his victim was awarded 10,000f (£80) damages.

The sailor happened to be in one of the submarines recently visiting Nice and on his arrival he sought out the taxicab driver and, on learning that he was a very poor man immediately waived his claim to the 10,000f., packed his wife and family of his erstwhile assailant into the taxicab and entertained them all at tea on board the submarine. —London Times.

Churchwardens were no FAD!

Why did our forefathers smoke long pipes, and why don't we? Old prints show Sir Walter Raleigh smoking a pipe six feet long, and men in "tobagies" (smoking taverns) with pipes like those which later became known as "churchwardens."

Long stems helped to cool and take the "bite" out of tobacco which, in the early days, was unscientifically cultivated and poorly cured. But it would be pretty awkward to smoke a churchwarden while driving a car! And, happily, we don't need to. The tobacco industry has spent millions to develop pedigreed seed and to improve methods of growing and harvesting — all to assist Nature to produce better leaf. And it has spent millions more on warehouses in which to store thousands of tons for three or four years of aging. So our pipe tobaccos are mild, cool and fragrant.

So, too, with cigarettes . . . At first they were made only from expensive Turkish or Egyptian tobacco. Now the industry knows how to grow, cure and blend many varieties so that they are delightfully mild and, when rolled in cigarettes, are priced within everyone's reach . . . More people enjoy smoking today because the tobacco industry has made smoking more enjoyable.

Dredge is Sunk

At the Leamington waterfront, a 35-mile-an-hour gale sank a $60,000 dredge and two scows and caused a loss of approximately $50,000 to the new dock work under construction. Inland the storm crippled both telephone and hydro services with many lines down.

The storm reached its peak in Essex and Kent counties. It caused a complete cut-off of long distance telephone service from London to Detroit, Windsor and Leamington and other Essex points. The break which came west of Chatham, was repaired quickly.

Two sailors, H. J. Stevenson of Detroit and L. C. Johnston of New York City, were recuperating today at Blenheim, from a close call when their sailing ketch Trouper nearly sank in the storm.

Wives Awaiting Return

Their wives arrived from Grosse Point where they had been waiting for word ever since the men set out from Buffalo with a yacht purchased in New York which they were bringing to add to one of the Detroit clubs.

The 900-ton dredge of the Chatham Construction Company which was tied up at the Leamington dock sank in 20 feet of water. All the upper cabins were smashed off before it sank. A scow was cut-loose to save it from being pounded to pieces against the dock.

A roof was lifted off the farm home of William Squires, near Amherstburg and the barn blown across the road. Fields were whipped by the wind and limbs torn from trees. Five barns were levelled in the Chatham district.

Much Damage in Mid West States

Indianapolis, June 12—(AP)— A half dozen mid-western states began clearing away today the wreckage from a weekend wind and rain storm that caused the deaths of six persons and property damage that will run into many thousands of dollars.

Three persons were killed in Indiana, two in Ohio and one in Wisconsin. Approximately 50 persons were rescued from small boats on storm-swept Lake Erie near Cleveland.

Houses were unroofed or flattened in the high wind, trees were uprooted and utility services disrupted in many communities. Near Marquette, Mich., highways were washed out, railroad rights-of-way undermined and many small boats were destroyed.

Trenton

Trenton, June 12 (Special)—Nearly three hundred high and public school cadets were inspected Friday forenoon on the high school campus as cadet groups from Trenton High School and from College Street and Dufferin public schools paraded before inspecting officers from the Trenton R.C.A.F. station and from military headquarters in Kingston. Wing Commander D.C.M. Hume of the R.C.A.F. took the salute during the march past and inspected the various squads along with senior cadet officers. A crowd of several hundred spectators, made up of parents and friends of the cadets and of school children who were given a holiday for the occasion lined the sides of the parade ground; and cheered and applauded as the cadets, first in a group and later by squads, carried out their various manoeuvres.

One of the features of this year's inspection was the introduction to the public of Air Force commands by the various squadron and flight commanders. This tie-up with the R.C.A.F. has existed only since last year, and the idea of referring to cadet officers as "Flight Lieutenant So-and-so" and "Squadron Leader So-and-so" is rather novel.

Formed in Square

Following the ceremonial part of the inspection the three squadrons were formed up in a hollow square, and Wing Commander Hume spoke to them briefly, congratulating them heartily on their deportment and their showing. He said, that it was a real pleasure to be present, and he complimented them on their steadiness in the ranks. He said, that it was better to be wrong and still stand steady than to be right and keep moving about. He also expressed a hope, that ere long the department will see fit to issue to the cadets air force uniforms.

The cadet officer sent from military headquarters in Kingston for the occasion was Capt. Paul Millette, and he was an interested observer all morning.

During the recess following the ceremonial parade Wing Commander Hume presented badges of merit to the following, each one of whom stepped smartly out from the ranks and came to the salute before the officer: Squadron Leader Vic Burtt, Flight Lieutenant Larry Whitley, Flight Lieutenant Fred Forrest, Flight Sergeant Leslie Plummer, Cadets Russell Yarrow, Bruce Riley, Elton Jackson and Louis Brownson.

Following the words of Wing Commander Hume the various squadrons carried out individual drill, and later the high school cadets gave a smart demonstration of various exercises of physical training under the direction of Shaw McEwen of the T.H.S. staff.

Announcement that the school board had given the afternoon as a half holiday was hailed with loud cheers.

Trenton Lions

Trenton Lions are working feverishly for the presentation of their Charter Night in Canterbury hall next Friday evening, June 16th; and to date plans have come along very well. Committees for the occasion were named last week at a banquet held in the Royal Hotel and six committees and their chairmen are taking care of all preparations in connection with the dinner, the programme, and the dance which is to follow. Outside clubs have already sent advance notice, that they may be expected to attend in some numbers, and plans are being made to accommodate two hundred or more people. Tickets go on sale locally today, and club members are already looking forward to the next meeting after Charter Night which will take place in the Gilbert Hotel on the last Thursday of June.

Five New Teachers

Five new teachers were hired for Trenton's public schools at a special board meeting held in Dufferin school on Tuesday evening, and after the summer holidays are past three new instructresses will go to Dufferin school, two to College Street school, and one to North Trenton school. Included in the list are several local girls, Laura Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Harrison, who has been at North Trenton school going to the Dufferin Avenue institution. Miss Jean Dempsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Dempsey, Henry Street, coming from Hartt's Corners school just outside Trenton on the north to the North Trenton school, and Miss Marjorie Stauffer coming from Bayside school near the Airport to College Street school. Others are Miss Cochrane of Cobden, Ont., to Dufferin school, Miss May to Dufferin school, and Miss Jean Broatch of Mt. Zion, recently teaching in Frankford, to College Street school. Two teachers are retiring at Dufferin school this year, two who have given many years of long and faithful service, Miss P. Vandevoort and Miss A. Hayes. An extra teacher is being added at each school, also, to give a new high of fourteen teachers at College Street and ten at Dufferin. The High School staff remains unchanged.

BUNTING DOWN AFTER STORM

Torrential Rain and Wind Storm Sweeps Route of Royal Parade

Montreal, June 12—(CP)—Piles of sawn logs, leafy limbs and scattered roof tops lay along the royal route through Eastern Townships' towns today, reminders of a torrential rain and wind storm that broke over the district late yesterday.

Men at all points where King George and Queen Elizabeth are scheduled to pass were busy late last night and early today replacing torn decorations and clearing roads for the heavy influx of visitors, expected to take part in the welcoming.

The storm caused thousands of dollars damage in Sherbrooke, St. Johns, Farnham and Magog, all major towns along the royal route. Bunting, shields, flags, banners and other decorations were torn to shreds or blown away. No one was reported injured.

Most damage was in St. Johns where the gale roared through the city at almost 60 miles an hour from the open fields at the north. Roofs of two houses were ripped off and a large shed was blown to the ground.

Bunting Hangs Soggily

Torn bunting hung soggily from the station front where the royal train will make a short stop. Miles of bunting were strewn along the gutters, while shield and cardboard placards had vanished.

High in a tree in March Park, in front of the railway station, a wooden sign, reading "bienvenue" (welcome) swung precariously in the stiff breeze. A platform, erected across the street from the station was found jammed against the railway platform.

Decorations at Sherbrooke drooped with moisture but few of the main decorative pieces were missing.

LACOLLE FOLK SEE TRAIN RETURN

Aboard royal pilot train, Lacolle, Que., June 12—(CP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth returned today to Canada after a four-day visit to the United States.

The blue and silver royal train, which today will carry Their Majesties across Quebec Province into New Brunswick, crossed the international border between New York and this province shortly before 7 a.m. EDT. The King and Queen slept as the train rolled into French Canada.

The wheeled palace that, with few exceptions, has been home to the royal party for the last month, passed Lacolle, customs port 4 1-2 miles from the border, at 6.58 a.m., and pushed on toward the farm lands of Quebec's eastern townships. Many of the town's 700 residents rose early to catch a glimpse of the train as it sped by.

Only a few minutes earlier the train left Rouses Point, N.Y., just across the border from where it stopped from 6.37 a.m. until 6.52 a.m. Another service stop was expected at Delson, farther north of here.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday at noon, June 7, in the presence of a few relatives and intimate friends when Florence Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunham of Wellman's, became the bride of Mr. James Alexander Maidment, of Belleville. Rev. James E. Beckel, pastor of Rawdon Circuit, officiated at the service.

The bride looked charming in a gown of royal blue georgette and white accessories and wore a corsage of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. She wore the groom's gift, a beautiful gold bracelet.

Miss Dorothy Dunham attended her sister in maize chiffon with white accessories. She also wore a corsage of sweet peas and maiden hair fern. Mr. Willie McDougall, cousin of the groom, of Carrying Place acted as groomsman.

Miss Mina Dracup of Wellman's played the Bridal Chorus and accompanied Miss Laura Third, cousin of the bride, of Burnbrae, who during the signing of the register sang "O Promise Me". After the ceremony a dinner was served in the dining room.

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid and pianist was a compact, to the soloist a locket and to the groomsman a gold tie set.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti and best wishes on a honeymoon to Toronto and Western points, the bride travelling in a gray coat and a lassie blue dress with hat, shoes and purse to match. On their return they will reside near Belleville.

The maid of honor was Miss Ruth MacKenzie and the bridesmaid, Miss Edna Lorimer, both of Brockville. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Harry J. Thompson. The ushers were: Dr. T. G. Stoddart and Mr. John Watt, both of Ottawa. A reception followed at the La Salle Hotel. After a wedding trip through the northern States, Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside in Ottawa. For travelling the bride wore a three piece dressmaker suit of powderblue wool boucle with navy accessories.

THE SMILE THAT WINS HEARTS ON BOTH SIDES OF THE BORDER

FASHION-MINDED LEFT GUESSING ON QUEEN'S DRESS

Experts so Bewitched by Beauty of Queen, They Fail to Correctly Give Description

BEAUTIFUL WARDROBE

If you want to know what Queen Elizabeth wears, start looking from her feet up. If you don't you will never get past her face.

While you are trying to figure out just what color her twinkling eyes are, the shape of her smiling mouth or how she twirls her shiny hair into a becoming knot to one side at the back of her neck, you will forget all about her dress.

The fashion-minded were all ready to start experting when the liner Empress of Australia arrived at Quebec nearly a month ago. High on the deck the Queen appeared —and smiled. The fashion-curious were promptly bewitched and were left guessing. According to them Her Majesty wore everything from a tailored tweed suit to a blue fur-collared costume.

Spectators Never Agree

After weeks of observing, spectators still could never quite agree. In Toronto, while the King and Queen were en route to Western Ontario, Her Majesty's costume was described as beige, pink, peach and even blue. It was a pale pink ensemble.

When you start your feet-to-head eye photo you may wonder how the Queen keeps her shoes so immaculate. She has walked on railroad ties, cinder paths, cobblestones, soggy turf and along rocky trails in the mountains. But the Queen's feet are always well shod, usually in grey or beige pumps with tiny bows at the vamp or the toes punched with tiny holes.

Not So Easy

The royal wardrobe is not so easy, and your eye-picture may be blurred. You will forget an odd twist of material, a few gathers, a flower corsage, a double row of trimming or some exquisite embroidery.

You will bog down, too, in describing the unusual shades of blue Queen Elizabeth wears. Her ensembles have ranged from white with a bluish tinge through dull blue to pale lavender. Each outfit has a coat—long, bolero-styled or hip-length. On the western visit these hid her frocks from view, but on the eastward journey the warmer weather gave the public a chance to see the Queen's gowns. Furs and coat were carried to the royal motor car by a footman, in case the weather became suddenly cool.

Furs Are Tricky

The furs are tricky too. Early in the royal tour the Queen wore gowns trimmed with greyish-brown fox, which some called "smoky" and others "blue". But in a few days Her Majesty wore really blue fox, and she also disclosed some deep reddish-brown fox, that was new to Canadian eyes. There were more surprises, for several outfits were banded at the elbows with soft fur dyed in pastel shades to match blue, pink and beige ensembles.

The Queen's jewels are not elaborate. Large shining pearls complement each daytime outfit and her ears are always marked with tiny pearl buttons encircled with diamond chips. In the evening diamonds are worn, and often there is a ruby, sapphire or some other precious jewel caught in the diamond clusters.

Liking For Hats

The Queen has a womanly liking for hats. Several times she has changed her hat to add a new note to the same costume. In London, Ont., she wore a flowered small hat in shades of lilac with a long purply veil reaching to the waist of her grey ensemble. The same day a new high-crowned grey hat brightened at the front with large roses that peeked out under the brim at the back.

Although each ensemble has a hat to complete it, the Queen often interchanges the hats. A favorite model seems to be a mannish, pale blue straw fedora twisted around the crown with a filmy bit of veiling and tipped slightly over the forehead, with a bunch of palest blue flowers.

VISITOR TO U. S.

Paying her first visit to America in 28 years, Dr. Alice G. Masaryk, daughter of Thomas G. Masaryk, founder of what so short a time ago was the Czecho-Slovakian republic, is seen as she arrived in New York. She will spend the summer in United States and speak before the conference of the National Council of Social Work.

Vital Importance of Health Maintenance

Beginning to-morrow J. S. McKeown, proprietor of McKeown's Drug Store, will publish each week an editorial advertisement on the importance of the proper way to maintain good health, and how wise it is to consult a physician at the first sign of impaired health. Also why physical examinations at regular intervals will prove advantageous.

In this series Mr. McKeown will clearly set forth many reasons why self-medication is uncertain and often times leads to serious complications. Also that the propriety of ethical pharmacy does not permit a conscientious pharmacist to practice counter prescribing.

Mr. McKeown hopes that by making the public more conscious of the services of the medical profession a higher health rate may be maintained in the community.

He will appreciated your comments regarding his statements.

The Stars Say—

For Tuesday, June 13

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

DYNAMIC action, with great agitation and confusion, is indicated as the tempo of this day, judging by the lunar transits. In all departments of life there will be much of a stimulating if not frustrating and disappointing nature, with the energies and faculties directed toward coping with such obstructions and impediments. If impetuosity, strife and tumult be avoided, there should be definite and enduring progress, with private affairs proving compensatory.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of much ruthless and probably turbulent activity digging deep at the roots of life. Obstacles and frustrations call for drastic action, but it should be controlled, calm and well-directed, not impulsive and angry. Stability and enduring progress reward restraint, with corresponding private satisfactions. Move with deliberation.

A child born on this day may have powerful and imperious tendencies, and be self-willed, resentful and overbearing, brooking no interference or criticism. Yet, it should have a high order of intelligence, much perseverance and determination to succeed. It may be personally genial and popular.

Doctor Cautions Mothers to Teach Children Proper Appreciation of Father

Father it seems, is always the butt of jokes and laughter. From the time he is depicted pacing up and down the hall outside the maternity ward, waiting for word of the new arrival, all through the trials and tribulations of changing diapers and walking the floor, the joke is on dad.

Of course I realize that it is all in the spirit of good fun and all that, but really it isn't fair to laugh too loudly at dad's expense. A father has a mighty important part to play in the life of his family and, with Father's Day in the offing, it might be a good time to think about it.

I know that it is impossible for a child to overlook the care that mother gives. It is from her that he gets most attention when he is young; she trains him and teaches him nearly everything he knows before he enters school. When he is sick, it is mother who nurses and takes care of him. It isn't any wonder that the child grows up with a deep-rooted appreciation of what mother has meant.

I think children should be taught something of what father means, as well; he should grow up feeling some gratitude to the father for what he has done.

While mother is caring for the children, father is earning the money to pay the bills. Sometimes a father won't see much of his offspring because when the child gets up in the morning father is already away at work, and by the time he gets back at night, the child is in bed.

It isn't much wonder that the child grows up without feeling that the father plays a very important part in his scheme of things. Clothes, toys, food and home all seem to come along automatically, and the child accepts them without asking whence they came.

I think mothers have a duty to perform on this respect. They should see to it that the boys and girls, as they grow up should give dad credit for the things he has done; for the sacrifices he has made that they might have new clothes or other luxuries. The mother could take things a lot easier in the home if it weren't for the children. But what about father? Just think how much easier he would have it if he didn't have to worry about the expenses. He works a lot harder keeping a family than if he just had himself to keep, but his pride and his love of his family make him glad to do things for them.

Children do well to realize that mother is able to take such care of them largely because father is out earning the bread and butter.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Marriage in California

Dear Miss Fairfax

I would appreciate any information you can give me as to the laws regarding marriage in California.

Constant Reader

The legal marriage age for males is 21, females 18; with written consent of one parent, males 18 and females, 16.

License is issued by the Clerk of the county where marriage is to take place, and notice of intention to marry and application for license must be made at least three days, and not more than thirty days before issuance thereof. The fee is $2.

Meeting Future In-Laws

Dear Miss Fairfax

I have just become engaged, and would like to know who makes the first move toward becoming acquainted, the family of the prospective bride or groom? Would it be proper to invite my fiance's mother to a shower which is going to be given me? I have known both his mother and sister for three or four years.

Advice Needed

If families are unacquainted the groom's family makes the first call on the prospective bride, immediately after the engagement has been announced. Since you have known this young man's mother and sister for the past three or four years, strict formalities are unnecessary.

The family of the groom-elect always give a party of one kind or another, to meet their daughter-in-law to be. By all means, have the friend who is giving you the shower invite your fiance's mother and sister.

Love's Young Dream

Dear Miss Fairfax

The trouble is she has spoiled me for going with anyone else. I'm 18, she is 17, and she says she's too young to go "steady". But since I've known her, no other girl interests me. And I don't want to go out with any of them. Is it advisable to take such dates as I can get with this girl and forget about the seriousness of my love until later? Or should I forget her entirely and spend my time with other girls?

Bewildered

Be thankful you can have some time with a girl so sensible that she realizes 17 is too young to go "steady", and get married. At 18, it is well to forget about the seriousness of one's love. It's just a delightful experience, vouchsafed us, but when taken too seriously, oftimes leads to Reno.

GOOD MANNERS

Bread and Butter Plate Put to Convenient Usage

At strictly formal dinners bread and butter plates are not placed. One reason for this is that no butter is served at formal dinners. Another is that the food served at a dinner of this kind is supposed to be sufficiently rich and well-seasoned, and therefore butter may be omitted from the bread or roll that is served. Still another reason is that rows of these small plates on the table are apt to take away from the general decorative effect of the table-setting.

But nowadays most dinners are informal, and at informal dinners (and at lunch, breakfast and supper we find the bread and butter plates used not only as plates for their nominal purposes but also as convenient places to put celery, olives, radishes, nuts and similar food-accessories that may be passed.

The bread and butter plate (about 6 or 6 1-2 inches in diameter) is placed just above the tips of the forks at the left of each plate. The individual butter knife ("butter spreader") is correctly placed across the bread and butter plate at the extreme right and parallel to the other flat silver. This is the most convenient position for its use. It is, however, also correct to place the butter knife across the top of the bread and butter plate, parallel to the edge of the table, the handle toward the right. It should not be placed across the bread and butter plate in a diagonal line, or with the tip of the knife not on the outside rim of the plate. The butter knives placed diagonally spoil the symmetry of the table setting.

When the table is cleared, before the dessert course, the bread and butter plate, the salt and pepper sets and the unused silver are removed.

Courtesy Tip

When you eat an olive, don't put the whole olive into your mouth! Hold it in your fingers, and bite sections from it. Don't suck it. When you are finished "nibbling" it, lay the stone on the plate.

PRESENTATION

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Friday, June 2nd., at the home of Mrs. Ethel Bradshaw, Front of Thurlow in honor of her daughter Rhea on the eve of her departure for Toronto. The evening was spent in playing cards and dancing. At the lunch hour the following address was read and Rhea was presented with two lovely travelling bags from the community and a Bible from her Sunday School class, "The Chums."

The address

Belleville, June 2, 1939

Dear Rhea:

Having learned that you are about to leave your home community, your friends and neighbors have gathered to show their appreciation of your splendid worth and bid you adieu.

Rhea, you have lived among us since childhood, your associates here have been with the public school, where your teachers and classmates found you a good scholar and a ready sport. The Sunday School and church will miss your pleasing smile. The girls of your class regret your departure as many a happy hour was spent together, but they rejoice with you as they realize your going is for the better. The community at large has found you ever ready to take part in the many activities. The old slogan says, "The best of friends must part," so that is our feeling. Tonight as we say goodbye, it is our earnest hope that you will have a bright and happy future and continue to follow the Great Teacher, who taught us the simple truths of life.

We ask you to accept this small token as a slight remembrance of our love.

Signed:
Mildred Greatrix
Hazel Greatrix.

Helen Brown.

Although taken by surprise Rhea thanked all for their kind interest in her behalf. All joined in singing "For she's a Jolly Good Fellow" after which a dainty lunch was served.

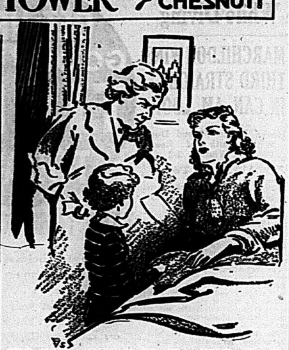
"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES G. CHESNUTT



"Mother," Mickey asked sternly, "why did you fight Mrs. Blauer?"

"That's what I mean, Mike," she had told him then. "Junior's nose is broken. There IS going to be another one. A REAL one. A slightly smaller Junior, but all ours...."

"Linda, you're going to have a baby!"

It didn't sound like a jubilant exclamation, nor like a simple statement of fact. It had the ring of an implied accusation. On his face, shadowed on one side and highlighted by the fire on the other, she saw a look she was never to forget. She had seen that look once on the face of a trusting child, unjustly punished.

"Gee, Lin, that's swell; it's — well, it's great, isn't it?"

It was Mike's voice saying that; it wasn't Mike....

CHAPTER FIVE

Later, as each day took them further and further apart, Mike tried increasingly hard to hide his real feelings. Linda thought that if he hadn't tried so obviously to be a good sport she could have forgiven him more easily.

But if Linda's love for Mike was to die, it was that first shock, that emotional trauma, which rendered that love hopelessly crippled, never to recover as long as Mike lived.

It was funny about "Junior." They had been very grown up and parentally concerned about their "child," when that offspring was a building of steel and stone and not their own flesh and blood.

"Junior," of course, was what they called Titan Tower. She and Mike had watched its birth, had watched it grow and develop and mature; had wondered about the life which was to go on within the confines of its towering walls. They had known Titan Tower before it had that name. From their birds'-eye point of vantage in the air, as Trip 9 flew over the site daily, they had watched it grow from debris of razed old buildings, to a huge excavation, through its skeleton stages to become a towering thing of beauty and utility. And they had been proud of it.

"Junior looks very well today," Mike used to comment when they set down at Portland. "Much taller and filling out rapidly."

Mike was proud of that baby, all right—a mighty infant cradled in concrete. But this was different.

It was strange, too, Linda thought, that it was in this same building that she first met Janice Marberry, her dearest friend. And Mike Morton was indirectly the cause of that meeting. The day when Linda walked through the massive, severely beautiful portals of Titan Tower, was whisked up to the nineteenth floor and opened the insurance company door to see Janice's sweet, sympathetic face with a friendly greeting almost voiced in her smile, was the first time that Linda had ever set foot in the building.

She and Mike had never been there together. They were too busy having a gay, carefree time — Mike's way.

And then, suddenly one thick foggy night, much like the night they had sat by the fire and had seen their lives fall apart, it was too late.

The swirling steam from the hot cup of tea, which Mrs. Blauer had forced into Linda's listless hand, eddied upward like that same fog.

And through it, Linda seemed to see not the face of Mike Morton, who had crushed love, although trying not to, but that of a young doctor who had stirred its ashes.

Bill Blaine's work, like Mike's, took him to the skies. And "Junior", had introduced them. She lapsed into a fitful sleep and dreamed she was being pushed into a fog-filled pit......

If Linda had to die that way, she would die fighting. Somebody with powerful, prehensile hands was pushing, tugging, dragging her from her perch on a beam, high above a fog-filled pit. Linda, fought with every ounce of strength, fought desperately to fend off a horrible fate.

She was falling, falling....falling, when a firm, strong hand reached out and caught her to breathless safety....

Linda opened her eyes to look Mrs. Blauer's pleasant motherly face, framed in neatly combed gray hair; to see Mrs. Blauer's capable hand cupped under Linda's elbow and to hear the friendly neighbor say:

"Good heavens, child! What did you think was happening? Person would think I was trying to kill you instead of wake you up."

Linda smiled wanly and looked down to Mrs. Blauer's side, where Mickey, solemn and staring, stood.

"Mother," he asked sternly, "why did you fight Mrs. Blauer? You hit her."

"Mother had a bad dream, darling," Linda explained. "Whew!" she exclaimed, glancing at the watch on her wrist. "Mother has to get going if we're going to have any dinner. You run along now and get Dopey and wash his face and yours, to be ready for dinner."

Mrs. Blauer, a genuine, good-hearted woman, whose own brood was grown and gone from home, lavished her great store of motherly love on Linda and her boy.

After Mrs. Blauer had gone home Linda tried to take stock of the reasons she had for being grateful to her neighbor, of the great debt she owed Mrs. Blauer—a debt which no money could repay.

Mrs. Blauer had been a second mother to Mickey ever since that day he was brought home from the hospital a premature baby with a long uphill fight ahead of him. Linda had read in some magazine for mothers that a premature baby would be probably retarded in development, in many ways, at least up until 5 years old. She had voiced this fear to the pleasant neighbor whose clothesline was on speaking terms with that of the small apartment which Linda had taken after she was alone—alone with her delicate child.

"Pshaw!" Mrs. Blauer had exclaimed when Linda recited her fears. "This modern parent talk is all hobbiety-gobble. He's as fine and husky a boy as ever I saw. If I do say it, he's much brighter for his age than even my own Henry and Phil."

CHAPTER SIX

It was Mrs. Blauer, too, who had started Linda on her new career, volunteering to keep young Mickey during the day while Linda studied at first and, later, while she worked. An old practical nurse, Mrs. Blauer had suggested that Linda, already a registered nurse, study stenography to qualify for an office assistant's job with a doctor.

When she had finished her course, Linda went directly to Dr. Thorpe, her old anatomy instructor at the university.

"Dr. Thorpe," Linda had said, "I'm back to earth. I'm not a stewardes any more. I am qualified as a nurse and also as a secretary. I want to work; I have to—for my baby and myself."

Dr. Thorpe gave her a job.

Linda had much for which to thank Janice Marberry, too. She had taken an instant liking to Janice on that day they first met in the insurance office in Titan Tower. It was Janice and her roommate Josephine Monroe, the tall, willowy sophisticate who was such a strange contrast to little Janice, who had seen to it that Linda moved to the same building where they shared an apartment.

Janice and Jo would be dashing in any minute now, eager for details of all the thrilling events of the afternoon. She'd tell them about the accident, all right, Linda resolved, but should she go on from there?

Should she tell the girls about little Linda being knocked for a loop agin by something that looked like love? Maybe they'd know something about Dr. Blaine, she reasoned; they had worked in the building longer than Linda.

Finally she compromised with herself. She'd tell them, but casually—with no show of excitement—and ask indifferently if they knew the young man. That would do it.

This problem decided, Linda's mind flew back to the dream from which Mrs. Blauer had awakened her—the dream and the mental turmoil which occasioned it.

The fog part was natural. Every bad dream she had experienced in the past two years had its events set against a backdrop of fog. Fog ....and falling. That fixation, subconscious though it was, went back again to Mike and a tragic night ....

Linda had flown through the fog many times, experiencing no fear after the first tension of the neophyte flier upon seeing the ship dip into cottony vapor which looked as thick as the inside of a mattress. She never failed to get a thrill during the first moments, when the red and green lights on port and starboard wings, normally almost invisible from the cabin, dyed the fog on either side of the plane, spreading ruby and emerald glow as far as one could see on either side.

It wasn't foggy at the airport that night Mike took off on a new trip. There was an unlimited ceiling, topped by a frosting of stars. Linda, feeling a strange uneasiness which was something more than the miserable way she felt anyway ,watched the takeoff.

Odd, how she could remember each insignificant, unrelated detail, now—years later.

"I'll take care of sonny-boy for you, ma'am, and see that he behaves in Salt Lake."

She remembered wondering, as the big silver bird roared off the ground and into the night, if Mike still observed their 11 o'clock custom. It was a sort of rite with them.

During those first halcyon days of their romance, whenever they were separated at night, whether Mike was in the air or grounded, they would say a telepathic goodnight at 11 o'clock; Linda with a kiss to the vacant pillow beside her, Mike to the stars above or the twinkling lights of towns below—or to his secret self.

She would like to skip the grim memory of the call from the airport which roused her from a fitful sleep; the message that Trip 15—Mike's plane— was four hours overdue and unreported. She preferred to avoid, if she could, remembering the awful vigil—waiting for word which never came, living vicariously over and over again each detail of the crash she knew had happened, long before search parties found the plane a day later.

The craggy mountain peak, hidden by wool-thick fog, which loomed suddenly before the speeding plane—Linda wondered whether it had looked red or green in that last brief moment.

The thing Linda remembered most, though the thing she could never forget, was Mike's watch.

It was her gift to him—a wedding present. She still saw before her the face of that watch, its crystal shattered.

The hands were stopped exactly at 11 o'clock!

CHAPTER SEVEN

Two emergencies, striking simultaneously, jerked Linda back from the mists of memory into the very actual present. At the same instant, her lamb chops started to burn and the doorbell rang.

"Mickey," she called, choking from the smoke which billowed from the stove, "open the front door, will you, please?"

Burned chops or not, Linda really welcomed the interruption in her thoughts. They were not happy.

From the memory of the fatal crash which had taken the life of Mike Morton in the charred wreckage of a plane sprawled on a mountain peak, Linda's thoughts had flashed to the Bradley Mortons, Mike's parents.

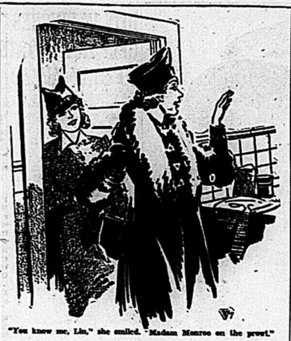
Following her collapse at the airport, after the news of the crash had confirmed what she already knew in her heart, Linda had been taken directly to the hospital. Young Mickey, whose arrival wasn't expected for nearly two months, was born shortly afterward.



"You know me, Lin," she smiled. "Madam Monroe on the prowl."

In a critical condition herself, Linda had remembered, nevertheless, to send a heartfelt telegram of sympathy or otherwise—in return; no offer of aid, money or condolences. No, nothing;

Never in her whole life, before or since, had Linda felt so utterly, inconsolably alone. She had absolutely no one to whom to turn.

And the Bradley Mortons, who could endow homes for orphaned waifs and homeless cats, held out no hand to help the wife they hadn't wanted their Michael to marry. If they had such a hand, they kept it well concealed in the overstuffed Morton pocket.

Linda could never forgive that. That's why she didn't notify them when the new Michael Morton arrived shortly after the first Michael left the world whose stuffy bonds couldn't hold him.

The Bradley Mortons, smug and self-satisfied in all their flittering affluence, would never know—so far as Linda was concerned—that Mike Morton had left them a grandson.

"Oh!"

The thought suddenly struck Linda, that she shouldn't have sent Mickey to answer the door. What if it were a prowler; one of these fiends you read about in the papers when there's a series of attacks?

She was about to drop the chops and dash for the door when a loud and hearty voice from the hall reassured her.

"Hello, there, Dopey!" Jo Monroe's voice boomed. "Who's your brother—the eighth dwarf? Well, 'pon my soul, if it isn't by boy friend Mickey!"

"Jo" Linda's voice filtered out from the kitchen. "You leave that young man alone. His mother doesn't approve of the match. But come on in and grab yourself a chair and a chop; they both need repairing."

Josephine Monroe, tall and striking, in a cosmetically emphasized brunette way, stepped through the kitchen door. Around her long and eye-holding frame, peered the wide, innocent brown eyes of Janice.

Jo gave Linda the "how's it, babe?" gesture, well manicured hand, with pointed crimson nails, swept, palm outward, before her face in a semi-circular perimeter.

"You know me, Lin," she smiled, "Madame Monroe on the prowl. Anything eligible from 2 to 200."

"Linda, honey," Janice was at the effervescent point. "I can't believe it's true. You're in all the papers. You're famous. About that operation on the roof today, I mean. You're a heroine!"

"Step right up, baby," Jo contributed, "and receive the chaplet I have woven with these here lily white hands, to be placed upon your alabaster brow."

Linda stopped messing with the chops and stood stockstill grinning at them from the sink, arms akimbo, small fists resting on her hips.

"Heroine, is it?" she smiled. "Well, that's most terribly nice of you girls. Tell you what I'll do; I'll trade the title now, sight unseen, for three brand new lamb chops, preferably unsmoked."

"But, Linda," Janice was eager as a child at his first Christmas, "we're serious. It's too thrilling, honestly. Tell us all about it, won't you?"

"Look," Jo added, "you don't deny that you helped save a man's life. Well, darling, next time can't you contrive to save the whole man—I mean, save one for me?"

"Do you girls, or either of you, know Dr. Blaine—Bill Blaine?"

Linda hadn't meant to say that. It just popped out. And it didn't sound nearly as casual as she'd planned it.

Janice wouldn't notice, she felt sure. But Jo was smart. Jo would be sure to make a crack about it.

"Such a question!" Jo scoffed. "Do I know J. Piermont Glotz? Do I knew Douglas Fairbanks, Jr? Do I know any eligible male who has money and what it takes, besides? The answer is no. But—do I know who he is and would I like to know Dr. Blaine better? The answer is yes, but definitely YES."

"I just wondered," Linda faltered, "not that it means anything."

It didn't sound convincing.

The three girls, with Jo and Linda doing most of the talking and Janice's mouth open in wonder more than in speech, proceeded to reconstruct the dramatic events of the day.

Mickey and the burned chops, both forgotten, had to fend for themselves. Mickey took his doll Dopey and went into the front room. The chops just sat there on the sink.

CHAPTER EIGHT

Dr. Blaine, Jo told Linda, was one of the city's most brilliant young surgeons, specializing in orthopedic, or bone surgery. He and young Dr. Leonard Renquist were proteges of Dr. Franc Carter Vance, the swankiest surgeon in Titan Tower, whose suite occupied nearly the whole nineteenth floor. Dr. Vance's name—all three of them—was at home equally in the Social Register.

Bill Blaine was blue book himself. His own family had money, money, money, and Papa—John Ralston Blaine, if you looked on page 12 of the Register—practically built Titan Tower and owned the building. Chairman of the board, or something like that.

The Morning After Taking Carter's Little Liver Pills

"I'm not interested," Linda flushed. "That is, not the way you emphasize the word. I'm just curious, that's all."

"Fine stuff," Jo scoffed. "I'm interested and you can emphasize that any way you like it." Well Linda bridled, "maybe he's interested even if I'm not. He said he was afraid he'd wake up tomorrow, after I'm gone. How do you like, that, smart gal?"

Jo said:

"So?"

Just the one word. But the way she arched her eyebrows spoke volumes. Linda was sorry she had flared up and spilled everything.

"Skip it, Jo," she said, "I was just talking to be saying something."

"Afraid I can't skip it, darling," Jo answered. "I've got plans for you. If I can't have designs on a man of my own, there's nothing I like better than cutting up a plot on somebody else's man. Listen, how about after dinner? We can really dig into the subject."

"All right then, after dinner," Linda answered, and stopped, hand to mouth.

"Oh!" she said. "Dinner. Poor Mickey must be starved! Now, will you pests clear out of here—or shall I call a cop?"

"I'll go quietly, captain," Jo grimaced, and did with Janice."

"Mickey, darling,' Linda called into the front room after they had gone, "do you mind being a vegetarian—just for tonight?"

"What's a vege — vegetarium, mother?" Mickey wanted to know, poking a grimy face around the door sill.

"You are, son." Linda grinned.

"Tonight, anyway. It's a man who hasn't any chops. And your own chops, by the way, are a bit on the soiled side."

Mickey and Dopey both had another face wash before they ate.

X X X

Jo Monroe crushed a virtually unsmoked cigarette stub in an ash tray on Linda's kitchen table, took a last sip from a cup of black coffee and looked from the cup directly into Linda's eyes. Linda held her gaze only momentarily and then looked down into the dregs of her own cup.

"C'mon, honey chile," Jo said, quietly for Jo. "Take your hair down and tell Mammy everything. It's got you, hasn't it?"

"Why...." Linda faltered. "What do you mean....?"

Jo pushed her chair back from the table and answered:

"What do I mean, darling? Look, do you want me to draw pictures? I'll give it to you in words of one syllable: Him, you, bang! Romance—no that's two; let's call it quote love unquote."

"Jo!" Janice Marberry interrupted her. "I don't see anything so funny about it. Linda didn't say she was in love with anybody, did you, honey?"

That was Janice. Love to her was something to be spoken, something to be felt, not a subject for riddles; nothing to be furtive about.

"You don't see anything funny!" Jo exploded. "Jan, precious, you wouldn't. Here, for a solid half-hour, Linda has been telling us the thrilling story of the operation on the roof; of how a young Doctor Blaine performed a brilliant bit of surgery.

"She told us," Jo continued, "how Dr. Blaine looked down when he asked for a clamp, how Dr. Blaine's fine blond hair annoyed him, how Dr. Blaine's skilled bronzed fingers flew about his task, how Dr. Blaine's eyes—nice blue eyes even when something disturbed him, how Dr. Blaine modestly shared credit with others after the job was done."

Jo paused to draw a deep breath and plunged into her finale.

"While Linda studiously tries to hide her real feelings under a phoney guise of professional admiration, she forgets to tell us about anything but Dr. William Blaine. You'd think, to listen to her, that the two of them were alone on the roof. And then Linda asks me what do I mean. I repeat: The lady has it bad!"

It was Linda's turn to draw a deep breath.

"Well," Linda finally said. "That doesn't leave much for me to say, does it?"

"You see, Jan, dear," Jo turned to the brown-eyed girl, "she couldn't keep it a secret from Aunty Jo. I know the symptoms too well. I've been exposed to it. There ought to be a law that all young doctors should have to look like Frankensteins or passport photos before they are licensed to practice.

"No, Lin," Jo turned to the topic of discussion, "there isn't much for you to say. Suppose I say it for you. I'll be speaking out of turn, and if you don't like it you can tell me to scat. I'm only giving it to you straight because you're such a grand guy. Here it is:

"Look, Linda, you have some fun coming out of life. You've had lots of breaks so far—all bad. You deserve a lot better. You really like the guy, and let's suppose he really falls for you. So what happens?

"So this:" Jo answered herself, "So he asks may he come to call,. as a gent will, so you say won't you come in, I'm Whistler's mother, apprentice grade, working toward my diploma in free-style knitting and arm-chair rocking, all by my lonesome. And DO meet Junior, my son, isn't he a big boy? So he joggles Junior on his knee and proposes to you and you are one big happy family? So, hooey. He DOES not!

"Linda, guys like Bill Blaine are interested in GIRLS, not in sweet homebodies and mothers of somebody else's kids. You're young. you're darned attractive and you're alive. Why don't you do something about it? Why not play smart—and play single....?

"Josephine Monroe," Janice said, "I think that's awful!"

It was a long speech for Janice. But it was spoken from the heart.

"If you're quite finished, Mother Monroe," Linda said, "with your tips to the lovelorn, may I say a word?"

"Shoot!" said Jo. "It's your affair."

"In the first place," Linda said, "I haven't said that I'm in love with anyone. I don't know that I am. I don't resent what you've said, Jo, because I know it was meant to help me, but I'll tell you this: If I have to hide Mickey, like something I'm ashamed of, in order to get a little fun out of life, well—you can have the fun. He's worth more to me than any man in the world. I'm—I...."

Linda stopped, her words hung up in mid air.

She knew she meant them; she wished they were true—but they weren't, wholly.

Jo was right, Linda was more than ripe for a little enjoyment out of life, a little fun for Linda, she who had given and sacrificed for Mike Morton and for Mike's son.

HOUSTON recovers. Jackson is elected President of the United States, and the new President campaigns to aid Houston's election as Governor of Tennessee, recounting Sam's heroism at Horseshoe Bend.

HOUSTON, having fallen in love with the delicately beautiful Eliza Allen (Joan Fontaine), plans to marry her on the eve of his election. Eliza respects Sam for his achievements, but she cannot stand his coarse friends. Houston is deeply in love with Eliza, and it is his burning ambition to make her, as his wife, the First Lady of the Land. They marry, and he takes her with him throughout the state as he continues his campaign for Governor. The trip and the crude people they meet are distasteful to Eliza; and the marriage becomes more and more hateful to her.

IN a backwoods barn, Houston wrestles with a veritable giant for a prize of 196 votes. He wins, but the bloody spectacle is sickening to Eliza, and she knows then that she can not continue to live with Houston as his wife.

THAT evening, she tells Houston that she is going to leave him. He demands that she stay. In the ensuing quarrel, Eliza reveals that she has never loved him, and Sam reluctantly is forced to realize that there is nothing he can do to hold her. Heartbroken, Sam mentions their separation to no one, but ugly rumors about him—and about her—spread throughout the state, and their reverberations reach his ears.

"I LEAVE one final message with you all," he says in parting. "If any wretch dares to utter one word against the conduct, character, or purity of Mrs. Houston, I shall return to write the libel in his heart's blood." With these words, he resigns as governor and leaves Tennessee.

WINGS SHUT OUT SYRACUSE TWICE TO STAY ON TOP

Pezzullo Hurls Five-Hit Ball to Win Nightcap for Toronto

By The Associated Press

Rochester Red Wings stayed on top of the International League as some fancy elbowing by Johnny Grodzicki, Si Johnson and Kenny Raffensberger shut out the rampant Syracuse Chiefs twice yesterday.

It was a good thing for the Wings they won both ends of the double bill—by 2-0 and 1-0—because the second place Jersey City Giants staged a couple of hair-rising finishes to cop a pair from Buffalo Bisons. The Giants won theirs by 2-1 and 6-5.

Grodzicki hurled a two-hit game to down the Chiefs in the first game. In the second, after Meyers tripled for the Chiefs in the seventh for the fifth hit of Johnson, Si retired two men before allowing Raffensberger to come in and end the game by forcing a pinch hitter to ground out.

Hank Borowy, the Fordham University pitching prodigy, made his professional debut for Newark in the nightcap yesterday but ran into something more than any collegian might be expected to combat—a 2-0 shutout performance by his mound foe, "Pretzels" Pezzullo of Toronto who scattered five hits and allowed only two Bruins to get as far as second.

Newark won the first game 7-4.

Montreal and Baltimore split a doubleheader, the Orioles taking the first, 14-1, and then dropping the second, 8-3. Ven Robays paced the Montreal hitting spree in the nightcap with a homer and a double.

Montreal Saturday defeated Baltimore 9-7 and Toronto lost to Newark 8-2. Buffalo defeated Syracuse 5-3 and Jersey City won 3-2 from Rochester.

Dodgers Take Series from Reds The Only One Lost on Trip; Yankees Win Five in a Row

Brooklyn Team Now Only 1½ Games Out of Second Place

INDIANS NOW THIRD

Detroit Tigers Put Together Five Straight Wins to Advance in Standings

By JUDSON BAILEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

The good people of Brooklyn, who stir easily over their Dodgers, are just about fit to be roped.

Their heroes took a series from Cincinnati Reds over the weekend, the only one the National League leaders lost on their eastern swing which was completed yesterday, and the Dodgers moved within 1 1-2 games of second place.

The Reds took the first game, 3-1, in 10 innings when Hugh Casey weakened to permit three doubles in the overtime instalment. Frank McCormick had homered for a run in the second and Brooklyn tied the score in the ninth on a single and double.

The Dodgers wiped out a three-run lead in the ninth inning of the second game, too, when Babe Phelps doubled with the bases loaded, and then proceeded to win 9-8 in the 11th inning by scoring two runs to Cincinnati's one. With the bases loaded and the score tied, Manager Leo Durocher struck out trying to work the squeeze play and Johnny Hudson was trapped off third only to score the winning run when Billy Werber threw wild.

That's what causes the frenzy in flatbush.

Cards Win Nightcap

Meanwhile St. Louis Cardinals saved themselves further embarrassment at Philadelphia, which they dropped two games Saturday, by winning the nightcap of a doubleheader, 4-1, after losing the first, 5-4, in 11 innings.

Morrie Arnovich singled with the bases loaded with Phillies in the 11th to decide the first game and his homer was the only run scored for eight innings of the second contest, distinguished by three-hit hurling of three Cardinal pitchers. But with two out and no one on base in the ninth, the Cards burst out with four runs, Don Padgett tripling with the bases full.

New York Giants ran their winning streak to five games with a 7-3 and 5-4 double triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates, who now have lost five straight. Chicago Cubs and Boston Bees divided their bill, the Bees taking the first 4-3 and the Cubs the second 5-3, in six innings.

American League

New York Yankees completed their western tour with two victories at St. Louis 8-5 and 5-1, giving the champions a record of eight wins and two losses for the trip. Boston Red Sox and Chicago White Sox divided their program, enabling Cleveland Indians to scoot into third place in the American League with two victories over Philadelphia Athletics.

In Sunday's only single session Detroit won its fifth straight, dropping Washington 6-3 although outhit.

On Saturday Detroit won 17-5 and 6-5 from Washington with Hank Greenberg homering in each game while Cleveland whitewashed Philadelphia 6-0. Rain washed out the rest of Saturday's American League schedule while in National League Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati 7-6 and the Cubs won 2-1 from Boston. New York Giants defeated Pittsburgh 6-2 and the Phillies walloped St. Louis 6-5 and 5-3.

Shannonville Hawks Defeat Latta 6-4

Shannonville, June 12 (Special)—Getting away to a flying start in their first game of the season the Shannonville Hawks defeated the Latta baseball nine by the score of 6-4. Going into the last half of the fifth inning the Latta nine were leading by the score of 4-2 and all seemed to be lost for Shannonville but undaunted the Shannonville boys showed their true fighting spirit and scored four runs to the amazement and pleasure of the crowd, who went literally wild. Ken Juby was on the mound for Shannonville and held the Latta team well in check but errors by the Shannonville boys kept in hot water throughout the game. Garnet Hall was on the mound for the first four innings and although hit hard managed to keep the Shannonville team down to two runs but unfortunately was injured in the fifth inning by a thrown ball and had to retire from the pastime, and was succeeded by Dunning.

Carman Spencer led the Shannonville team in batting getting two singles and scoring two runs whereas Latta's runs were scored by separate players.

Latta: E. Gow; J. Lawrenson; M. Colden; Hall; Carleton; LeSage; Emerson; G. Hall; Harrison; Dunning.

MISSED 5-FOOTER FOR A VICTORY

Craig Wood and Byron Nelson to Play-Off Today for U.S. Open Title

Philadelphia, June 12—(AP)—The United States open golf tournament, which started somewhere in the dim past, went into its second extra session today as two tenacious survivors, Craig Wood and Byron Nelson, continued to fight it out over Spring Mill's sun-scorched acres for the title relinquished by Ralph Guldahl. They tied with spectacular rounds of 68 in yesterday's first extra spasm.

At least, the field gradually was becoming narrowed. Denny Shute, of the original three who tied with scores of 284 at the end of the regulation 72 holes Saturday night, found yesterday's sizzling pace too fast and dropped out. In the fury of the finish between Wood and Nelson on the 15th green, poor Denny scarcely was noticed. He shot a 76.

Wood, by virtue of a shocking "break" on the last hole, when his wild second shot hit a spectator squarely in the temple and bounded back to safety on the fairway, had a golden opportunity to win his first United States championship yesterday. After the injured man had been carried senseless and bleeding from the scene, Wood chipped up and had a five-foot putt for a 67 and the victory. He missed it.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Frank McCormick, Reds, and Babe Phelps, Dodgers—McCormick hit his 11th homer in second inning and doubled another run home in 10th as Cincinnati won opener; Phelps doubled with bases loaded in ninth to tie up game and doubled again in 11th to put winning run on third.

St. Catharines Defeats Merriton by Lacing Out Seventeen Hits

Peterboro Pounds Four Hurlers for 12-1 Win Over Toronto Webbers

(By The Canadian Press)

Ability to get hits when they count is paying dividends for St. Catharines Transports in the Ontario Basrball Association senior race this season.

The T's, who have a lead of two full games on Niagara Falls Brights in the Niagara District League, earned 11 or 12 runs scored against Merritton Saturday as they laced out 7 hits from southpaw Dunc Schooley. Merritton left 10 men on base as Hales limited the visiting club to one run from nine hits.

Niagara Falls Brights, with .727 percentage in the league, stepped into Thorold to setback the Mounties 9-1. The visitors left as many men on the paths and made four errors but Copie kept Thorold's seven hits well scattered.

Smoky Comi's fast ball sped Port Colborne Sailors at home to an 8-0 shutout over Welland, keeping the Tars tied with Brights in the standing. He struck out 13 and walked one while his teammates collected 13 hits, Thompson, Walker and Upper getting home runs.

Advance to Fourth

Port Erie Macs advanced to fourth place by defeating Niagara Falls Brocks 4-3 in 11 innings at the Cataract City. Seeback allowed the Brocks two runs and seven hits before being replaced by Zimmerman in the ninth inning.

Stratford's O.B.A. champions took over leadership in the Intercounty League for the first time by blanking Galt 3-0 at Stratford while Waterloo dropped its first game of the season to Preston Riversides 3-1.

The Nationals bunched four hits for their runs while Schoolmaster Craig kept nine Galt hits well scattered. At Waterloo errors were responsible for Preston's two run lead.

Edminson led Brantford Alerts to 12-7 victory over Guelph. by getting three hits and driving in four runs. Hammond and Mason yielded 13 hits to the Alert batsmen.

Snap Losing Streak

Woodstock Red Sox snapped their losing streak, winning their first of the season 5-0 from Kitchener due mainly to five errors in the Panther infield. Art Crocock fanned 10 men and gave up five hits to Kitchener.

A batting spree in the fourth inning for seven runs allowed Danforth Aces to stay on top in the Intercity group by blasting Earlscourt 10-0.

Vetore's home run with one on in the opening frame started Columbus Grads to a 5-1 victory at Port Credit in another Intercity game. At Peterborough the Petes pounded four hurlers for 13 hits to send Webbers back to Toronto, 12-1 losers.

Hockey Player Severely Cut By Sharp Stone While Diving

FRIENDS ASSIST

Trenton, June 12 (Special)—Robert (Bob) Johnson, star right wing player with the Trenton junior hockey team last winter, narrowly escaped a fatal accident here over the week end when he dove into the waters of the Trent Canal and struck a sharp jagged rock beneath the surface causing a deep wound in his left side. Some thirty stitches were needed to close the wound.

Young Johnson was swimming in the canal in the vicinity of the C. N. R. bridge, when he dove into the water striking a sharp stone reef. Associates saw him rise to the top in a dazed condition and later saw blood floating near him. Sensing trouble his friends rushed to his assistance. Later the lad was removed to the surgery of Dr. J. J. Farley by town police where several stitches were needed to bind together the inner muscles of the abdomen, while an additional 16 stitches were necessary in the outside flesh. Johnson suffered from shock and the loss of blood as well.

Following reports received by the town police here on Saturday that a body was seen floating in the bay near the Empire Foods plant, Chief Bain accompanied a posse to the point indicated, where an old barrel was found floating in the water. Citizens at first believed the report might lead to the finding of the body of Percy Knox, Trent Canal lock-keeper, who is believed to have fallen into the Trent Canal last winter and drowned. No sign of Knox's body has been seen as yet, however.

TOMMY HITCHOCK GREATEST PLAYER

English Polo Team Defeated by Great Display of U. S. Star

New York, June 12—(CP)— The slim young aviator who flashed into the international polo setting in 1921 is heavier now and just about ready to retire but Tommy Hitchcock still is the greatest player in the world.

He proved it conclusively Sunday as he scored four goals and led the aggressive United States defending team to a 9-4 victory that blasted for three more years Great Britain's hopes of winning the Westchester International Cup.

Last of the now almost legendary figures of the 20's to remain at the top of his sport, Hitchcock has been rumored as regarding this series as his last in international competition.

The Britons, who lost the first game June 4 by an 11-7 score, tried desperately to pull out the second one and force a decisive contest next Sunday. But Hitchcock scored three goals in the seventh chukker, ending the British hopes and reducing next Sunday's game to a mere exhibition.

New York, June 12—(AP)—Tony Galento gave his handlers the slip at Asbury Park, Wednesday night and rushed up to Orange to count the gate in his pub. (p. s.: he got back to camp under his own power)..... they say the Yanks have lost interest in young Dominick DiMaggio because of weak eyesight....and him with a batting average of .406.

MARCHILDON WINS THIRD STRAIGHT IN CAN.-AM. LOOP

Hooks Up in Mound Duel With Smith of Rome Colonels Winning 3-2

BRAVES LOSE TWO

Many Slugging Bees Seen in Heavy Week-End Schedule

(By The Canadian Press)

Canadian-American League baseball teams seldom do things by halves. When the pitchers are good they usually are sensational and when they are bad they go into a complete collapse.

That, at any rate, was the case in the heavy weekend schedule of games. A couple of pitchers turned in sparkling performances but a dozen others were batted all over the lot.

The leading Oswego Nets and Ogdensburg Colts put on three slugging bees that had the moundsmen groggy when the last ball was pitched late yesterday. Colts, winning two of the games, totalled 30 runs against Oswego's 27, which is tall scoring in any league.

Colts came from behind a 9-3 count to win Saturday's game at Oswego 11-10. They took the opener at home 10-6 yesterday and then bowed 11-9 in a seven-inning nightcap.

Utica Braves Lose Two

Utica Braves featured in two other high scoring contests and lost both. Rome Colonels beat the Braves 11-10 Saturday on an unearned run in the ninth inning. Kenny Hill set the pace for the winners with a single, double, triple and home run in six times at bat.

Then at Utica yesterday the Braves bowed 11-9 to Ottawa who had been beaten 7-1 by Gloversville Saturday for their first loss in five games. Bill Gorman's five hit pitching for Gloversville was one of the few bright hurling features of the weekend.

Glovers figured in two other well pitched games at Amsterdam yesterday. Hutchinson held the Little Yanks to six hits as Glovers won the opener 10-2 on a 16-hit attack while Joe Mishasek gave only two hits in Amsterdam's 5-1 victory in the nightcap.

Phil Marchildon of Cornwall and Roy Smith of Rome battled it out in a mound duel at Rome with the Canadian hurler notching his third straight victory 3-2. The second game was called because of rain in the fifth with Cornwall ahead 2-0. Cornwall lost Saturday to Amsterdam 6-5.

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

Joe Kuhel, White Sox, and Jim Tabor, Red Sox—former hit two-run homer in ninth to decide first game; latter tripled twice in second game victory after seeing his three-run homer wasted in opener.

Buck Newsom, Tigers—kept Senators under control with 10 hits to stretch Detroit's winning streak to five games.

Harry Gumbert and Alex Kampouris, Giants—former strapped Pirates with eight hits in one half of doubleheader while latter hit homer in eighth inning of second game for 5-4 victory.

Bill Dickey and Bump Hadley, Yankees — former drove in four runs with double and pair of singles in first game while Hadley pitched careful seven hit ball, striking out six, in nightcap.

In honor of the 100th anniversary of baseball Ty Cobb, regarded as the greatest player of all time, recently picked his "dream team" made up of the men he would choose if he had the whole span of baseball history to draw on. He picked not just nine men, but a complete team that could play through a season. And here they are, managed by Connie Mack and headed by six pitchers, four right-handers and two left-handers:

Pitchers: Christy Mathewson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Walter Johnson, Ed Walsh, Eddie Plank and Carl Hubbell.

Catchers: Mickey Cochrane and Roger Bresnahan.

2nd base: Eddie Collins.

Shortstop: Honus Wagner.

3rd base: Buck Weaver.

Outfield: Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and Babe Ruth.

The team includes two members of the notorious Chicago Black Sox, but as Cobb points out, he is "talking about what I think are the best ballplayers who ever lived" and not about unfortunate circumstances under which some of them may have quit the game. Quentin Reynolds, to whom Cobb gave his "dream team" line-up, felt that the only criticism he could make was that Ty Cobb's name was not included. But that's the price of modesty.

There are two other players we would have liked to seen on Cobb's proposed team of all-time all-stars, the eccentric Rube Waddell and Rogers Hornsby, perhaps one of the greatest hitters of all time and we'd replace Ruth with the Georgia Peach, Ty Cobb himself.

We here that some of the experts are tabbing Pittsburgh as the team to watch in the National league race ...with practically no help from Cy Blanton and Russ Bauers, the Pirates, who dropped eight out of their first nine, have clicked off 14 out of their last 21 and boosted their way up to the .500 mark....Whispers are going the rounds that Dizzy Dean's 14 scoreless innings against the Dodges and Bees aren't to be taken too seriously and that the Cub pitcher is far from being ready to take his regular turn.

Every season more and more American college men turn to baseball as a vocation. Last season, records show, one club alone —the Newark International—had 13 collegians on a roster of 27. There are more collegians in the American and National leagues today than ever before. In the early days of baseball the campus boys were frowned upon by professional baseball.

Lou Gehrig, the highest-paid player in baseball at $34,000 for 1939, earns his dough carrying the line-up to the umpires and shagging balls for fungo hitters....but Lou, gray at the temples and looking older than when he was the Yankee first baseman, is cheerful about the sudden turn of events which have relegated him to the bench probably forever....He smiles more than anybody on the Yankee bench.

Lloyd Hick's fine speed boat, Baby Eugene, was badly damaged over the week end during an explosion at Rigg's garage Combustion is believed to have caused the machine to explode, the damage being considerable as the bow hull and engine department were badly wrecked and charred during the explosion. It was necessary to call the fire department. In a more acceptable light pertaining to aquatics and boating however, P. H. Wills' new 44 foot Elco cruiser arrived in the Belleville harbour direct from New York City over the week end. On board was William Finkle of this city, and a company captain mariner. Mr. Wills' new cruiser yacht is the latest type in marine engines and craft and one of the finest types of power cruisers ever seen in these parts.

Rumours have "Push 'em up Tony" Lazzeri, who was recently cut loose by the Giants, being suggested as manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs, replacing Jack Burns. Lazzeri was in Newark yesterday when the Leafs lost to the Bears so there may be more than just smoke to the idle chatter. From this corner it would seem that nothing short of a miracle would materially help the Leafs this year, with the one exception of obtaining a few class AA baseball players to strengthen the Toronto club. Burns is not to blame for the poor showing the Leafs have made thus far this season simply because he hasn't had International calibre players to work with. A workman is just as good as the tools he is afforded and the material, that has been provided Burns by the Leafian front office has not even been class "B" ball players. If Lazzeri is given new tried and proven blood no doubt the club would progress under his guidance, but so would the team if Burns or any other person was afforded some baseball players.

Sport Spice—Fred Orpen may repeat the Orpen Memorial, won by Mona Bell on Saturday because Archworth and Cabin Gal were not up with the others in a poor start ....The Reds won two in [illegible] over the week end to extend [illegible] standing five games over the [illegible] ....Former senior ball players [illegible] Oshawa may play in the T.A.B.A. but not in a lower classification outside of Oshawa....Art Calhoun was replaced by Lefty Carr at Cornwall yesterday, the latter walking in the winning run for Amsterdam.....The R.C.A.F. "Flyers" are scheduled to make their initial baseball appearance in the Bay of Quinte League versus Picton at the Airport tomorrow and in Belleville on Thursday.

HOW TO OVERCOME ITCHING PILES

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

330 EMPLOYEES BACK TO WORK

Strike at Kitchener Rubber Plant Amicably Settled Over Week-End

Kitchener, Ont., June 12 (CP)—Three hundred and thirty employees of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company started back to work today after settlement Saturday of a seven-week strike. The remaining 400-odd employees will be absorbed as the plant gears up to normal production.

The strike was settled after a series of conferences with Ontario Labor Minister Hipel on four terms as follows:

1. Employees shall immediately return to work without discrimination in line with production requirements and seniority rights.

2. The parties will promptly continue the negotiations to reach a mutual understanding on all matters involved.

3. The parties will continue to negotiate a policy or program re employment of youths.

4. Neither party shall discriminate against or intimidate any employee in respect to trade union membership.

The third clause deals with the actual cause of the strike. In the shoe department, twenty-one boys, dissatisfied with their wage rate, downed their tools, tying up production in their department. Ultimately, the entire department became idle, and later the tire division struck in sympathy.

Arriving in New York, Their Majesties were welcomed to the largest city in the United States by cheering thousands. The royal party is pictured walking toward their car at the Battery. Sir Ronald Lindsay may be seen to the rear and left of the King. Gov. Lehman of New York is walking beside the Queen, while Mayor Laguardia of New York is pictured extreme right.

ROVERS HANDED SURPRISE LOSS

Jimmy Mills and His Squad Defeated by Napanee Nine to Two

The Belleville Rovers, headed by captain Jimmie Mills, son of "Peeney" and Mrs. W. J. Mills were handed a surprise baseball package at Napanee on Saturday when Walt Gerow's midgets beat the local teen aged nine by a seven to two score at Napanee.

Russ Weller, the Belleville pitcher struck out 16 Napanee kids and allowed only eight hits, but the home nine bunched their hits nicely to gain an early lead and coast in behind the pitching of Holmes, who scattered eight Belleville hits well. Napanee scored four runs in the first two innings. Rodgers and Rose were the leading Belleville hitters with Card and Thompson hitting well for the winners.

The lineups:

Belleville: Mills 2b; Carson 1b; Goyer ss; Weller p; Rodgers c; Rose 3b; Lough lf; Holway rf; Cherry and Atchison cf.

DEDICATORY GAME AT COOPERSTOWN

Centennial of Baseball to be Celebrated by Big Contest

Cooperstown, N.Y., June 12 (AP)—Baseball's great took over Abner Doubleday field today in the climax of the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the game.

Present-day big leaguers cavorted on the cow pasture that became baseball's birthplace and all living members of the sport's hall of fame were on hand to assist in the proceedings.

Major-General Doubleday, generally credited with devising the game, really made a team contest out of the individual affair baseball, was before 1839. It is to celebrate that change that baseball world is gathered in Cooperstown.

The homecoming has drawn many outstanding stars of former years. Two of them, Eddie Collins and Hans Wagner, were assigned leading roles as captain and manager of the teams of major leaguers, to be chosen by the boyhood "hand-over-hand" method, which play the centennial's dedicatory game.

The others—Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker, Babe Ruth, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, George Sisler, Connie Mack, Cy Young and Nap Lajoie—formed the board of strategy for the teams.

WANT FEE SYSTEM ENDED

LINDSAY, Ont., June 12.—(CP)—Victoria County Council Saturday adopted a resolution to ask the Ontario Government to end the "iniquitous fee system" and place Crown Attorneys, Sheriffs, and other court officials on salary.

GERMANY'S "NON - INTERVENTION" SOLDIERS RETURN FROM SPAIN

While Spain's tragic internecine civil war raged, Italy and Germany maintained that they were living up to the non-intervention pact agreed to by the chief world powers, but since Franco's victory and the end of the war, both countries have made no secret of the part they played in bringing about the result they both desired. Boasts have been made of the important parts their troops played in scoring a Fascist triumph, and the picture shows part of the parade of 5,000 men of the Nazi "Condor Legion" through the streets of Hamburg upon their return from Spain. Field Marshal Goering can be seen at the LEFT, baton aloft, as he takes the salute.

Mind Over Matter

By STANLEY CORDELL

"The mind," said Sam Williams, "is always the victor over matter. The mental condition of a man determines, unconsciously, what his physical condition shall be. A person unknowingly abuses his physical structure because he won't think right."

"That's an old chestnut, Sam," I grinned. "Can't you think of something new to tell us?"

Sam smiled good naturedly. "Maybe," he said, "I can. You recall that salesman who was in the other day trying to sell you a new line of goods? He misrepresented the merchandise, told you it was a far better grade than he knew it to be. And it was plain that the chap himself believed everything he told you. That was because he'd repeated the same story so many times.

"Now, the chap I'm going to tell you about wasn't so different from that salesman. He went by the name of Brown; owned a small clothing store over in Bolton. Brown was a bright youth, good looking and popular among the younger set. He had a big following at first, and cleaned up a tidy profit. But after a while the number of his customers began to fall off. You see, Brown became known as a man who would promise most anything in order to make a sale.

"At the end of the second year the youth's profits had diminished 50 per cent.

"Thoughts of bankruptcy made him weak with humiliation. It occurred to him that there was a bare possibility that he might sell the business. With this in mind he journeyed to a neighboring town and inserted an advertisement in the local newspaper.

"As fate would have it a prospect showed up within the next three days. Brown, with keen foresight, had arranged matters so that conditions in the store would appear prosperous. During the brief period that the prospect, Wilson, by name, was in the store, at least a half dozen customers entered and made purchases.

"There was just one thing that rankled in the buyer's mind. He couldn't understand why Brown should wish to sell a business that was paying so well. And, in open frankness, he asked the proprietor for reasons.

"Brown smiled sadly, lowered his voice and explained quietly that his wife's health demanded a change of climate. A light touch of tuberculosis.

"Wilson was touched. He expressed his sympathy, and brought the conversation back to the business at hand. Would Mr. Brown consider a cash offer for a figure slightly lower than the original?

"Mr. Brown considered, sighed deeply and finally agreed. Inwardly he was elated. The 'figure' was far greater than he had hoped for.

"Wilson returned to his own town where he owned considerable property on which he planned to raise the necessary funds, with a promise to write within a few days as to the success of his activities. Brown spent the next week in planning for a hurried departure.

"A letter arrived from Mr. Wilson stating that he was having some difficulty in raising the money.

"Another week passed. Brown began to lose hope. He wrote a letter stating that he had made reservations to leave for the West with Mrs. Brown within the next week. Couldn't Mr. Wilson borrow the money somewhere else?

"Wilson was apparently impressed by the urgent tone of Brown's request, and by pity for poor Mrs. Brown, who, in reality, was a robust person of some 130-odd pounds, and who had never been ill a day in her life.

"Fearful that Wilson might get discouraged at his failure to negotiate a loan, and back down on the deal, worried over the financial condition of his business, which was getting perilously close to the end of its rope. Brown made a hurried trip to Wilson's home town. He consulted with the buyer, desperately described his wife's condition as dangerous, and again urged Wilson to hasten matters.

"Wilson, now feeling obligated to take over Mr. Brown's business, managed, by offering a bonus and a tremendous rate of interest to raise the cash. The deal was consummated.

"Elated beyond words, Brown stuffed the money into his pocket and rushed home to tell the joyful news to his wife—"

Sam paused and knocked the ashes from his pipe. The ending of the tale, I thought, was rather easy to apprehend.

"And I suppose, I said, "when Brown arrived home he found that his wife really had contracted tuberculosis—as a result of Brown's concentration on the subject?"

"No", said Sam, "he didn't". He looked at me and smiled. "It was Brown who contracted it."

5 MEN RESCUED WHEN SAIL BOAT CAPSIZED IN BAY

Four Residents of City and Guelph Man Struggle in Water for Over Three Hours

RESCUE DIFFICULT

Five persons narrowly escaped a watery grave in the Bay of Quinte, when the sailing craft, Alaska owned by Harry Semark of this city, capsized near Massassaga Point late Sunday afternoon. Two other power boats were swamped by the rough sea in attempts to rescue the occupants of the sailing craft, which floundered in the heavy rolling waters of the bay for over three hours before being rescued. The five occupants of the sailing craft, Alaska, were Harry Semark, Dave Blackburn, H. Muldaver and Abe Tobe of this city, as well as Captain Gerald Mabey of Guelph.

A heavy west wind blew strongly all day yesterday, making sailing a rather hazardous sport and it was during a heavy squall west of Massassaga, that the "Alaska" turned over on her side when Captain Mabey failed to release the mainsail. Fortunately all aboard were excellent swimmers, and clung to the upturned craft until sighted by J. Grotto, of this city, who was cruising near shore in an outboard motor boat. When Mr. Grotto attempted to rescue those clinging to the Alaska, however, his boat became swamped in the rolling water of the bay and nearly sank. Later, Harold Harnes, who resides in a summer camp nearby, saw the difficulty both the Alaska and Mr. Grotto were in and attempted rescue. Fortunately at this time a large power boat owned by Douglas "Daw" Whalen of this city and a party of anglers returning home, rounded the Massassaga Point and it was only after some considerable time, that the five men in the water were rescued and taken ashore by Mr. Whalen and Mr. Harnes. Later the Alaska was towed to shore and righted.

Found Man's Clothing

The first indication that something was amiss came, when Life Guard Bennie Ritchie found a man's clothing on Victoria Park. Remembering a man, who said he was Captain Gerald Mabey of Guelph, had discarded his clothes and took a dip in the harbor, Mr. Ritchie became alarmed, when no sign of Mabey was found except his clothes, and notified police, that the owner was missing. Later it was disclosed, that Mabey had accepted an invitation to go sailing on the Alaska.

It was not until shortly before midnight that the party returned to Belleville, the Alaska being towed into the harbor by Mr. Whalen's boat. The motors in both Mr. Grotto's and Mr. Harnes' power boats were rendered useless after being swamped by the large waves, that nearly took several to their death in the heaviest blow of the current sailing season. Veteran sailors along the water front were of the opinion light sailing craft should not have ventured out in yesterday's heavy blow.

Sail Boat Loses Sails

El Wickerson, owner of the Cricket, large sailing yacht, today counted the loss of his sails which were swept clean from the spars and jib. He managed to make Northport under the power of a remaining section of canvas on the jib.

Loss of sails on Wickerson's Cricket will total well over $100, it is believed by the owner.

Several smaller power boats also unable to breast the gale, were forced with their passengers to make for the safety of the islands until the gale had blown itself out late at night.

Police Blotter

Late last night Constables Ellis and Wright discovered two teenaged boys on the second storey floor of the Kresge Building. When questioned by police the lads stated they were chasing a large moth which could not be found by police, however.

The boys were taken to the police station, where subsequent questioning before Sergeant Booth resulted in the finding of a night latch key in their possession. The lads were released to attend school today, but instructed to report to Chief Kidd after school hours.

Mrs. Fred Day, 178 Dundas St., appeared at the police station shortly before 2.00 a.m. today to report her eight-year-old daughter missing. The child had been gone since early yesterday morning and was last seen in the company of a playmate, whose name was Woodacre. Mrs. Day informed the police. At noon today no reports of the two children having returned home were received at the police station.

Despite the week end rains only nine transients sought shelter at the police station over the holiday six on Saturday night and three last night.

POLICE, PICKETS

mobile workers sought a show-down in their inter-union fight for recognition as bargaining agent for General Motors employees. Six men were arrested.

In Flint, where the entire police force was mobilized in anticipation of disorder, there was no violence. All plants here as well as the Grey Iron Foundry unit at Saginaw began operations today, despite a strike call of the A.F.L. affiliated union.

Concentrate on Two Plants

A spokesman for General Motors said the union apparently had concentrated on Chevrolet plant No. 5 and Fisher Body No. 1 at Flint. The latter is a key unit in Buick assembly. The corporation representative said there was no immediate indication that operations would have to be halted.

Chevrolet No. 5 was operating with about half of its regular day force of 460 men. This plant makes valves and crank cases. Although small it is vital in Chevrolet assembly, a corporation spokesman said. Fisher No. 1 supplies bodies for Buick.

Policeman Struck

The Saginaw clash started, police said, when Police Lieut. Fred Bossman was struck over the head by a picket armed with a club. The police then dispersed the pickets, approximately 200 strong, and cleared the way for the maintenance crew to enter the plant. By the time the full day shift was due the pickets had scattered.

The United Auto Workers Union of the Congress of Industrial Organization is opposing the U.A.W.-A.F.L. strike.

MUTUAL TRUST

They strolled 50 yards to a group of ex-service men who wore blue berets with a gold crown and for nearly twelve minutes chatted with them. The crowd about the station kept up a continuous cheer. The King and Queen both talked to Tom Turner, disabled veteran who had been brought to the station on a stretcher.

Mutual Confidence Needed

London, June 12—(CP)— Prime Minister Chamberlain said today that mutual confidence was a prerequisite to a successful international conference on Europe's problems and that the British government was working to promote such confidence.

The Prime Minister told the House of Commons, however, that a conference "can only succeed if other governments make like efforts."

He made his statement in response to a question as to what he considered essentials for a successful conference and what action the government was taking to prepare ground for one.

Confidence is Necessary

"In the opinion of His Majesty's government," Mr. Chamberlain answered, 'a world conference could only succeed if accompanied by a general feeling of confidence that all participating governments sincerely desired this settlement and intended to keep both to the spirit and letter any pledge or undertaking given as the result of a conference.

"His Majesty's government will always do their best to promote such a spirit of confidence which can only succeed if other governments make like efforts."

Mr. Chamberlain said he had nothing to add to his statement last Wednesday on Anglo-Soviet mutual assistance negotiations beyond the departure for Moscow today of William Strang as a special envoy.

Delays to Disquiet

"Does not the Prime Minister realize that these very long delays are causing disquiet in the country," asked Hugh Dalton, Labor, "and doubt as to whether the government really mean business in this matter? Are not the government spinning out time until they can wriggle back to a Munich policy?"

Mr. Chamberlain replied that Mr. Dalton was "very offensive in his suggestion" and declared he could "see no reason why the delay should be attributed to His Majesty's government."

Conservative members cheered the Prime Minister.

POPULATION

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sherbrooke, Que., June 12—(CP)—Nearly 100,000 persons crowded this textile city in the rich industrial area of Quebec's Eastern Townships today to give the King and Queen a boisterous welcome back to Canada after their four-day visit to the United States.

The normal population of this more than 100-year-old city of 33,000 was swelled to three times its size when special trains brought thousands of farmers and townspeople from surrounding districts.

Skies were cloudy and a threat of rain persisted after an all-night downpour but it did not keep the throngs from crowding the streets five hours before Their Majesties' arrival. King and Wellington streets, main part of the royal route through Sherbrooke, blazed with colorful decorations, only a little bedraggled from the heavy rain.

Bleacher Seats at $3 Each

Three huge bleachers sections at the Canadian Pacific Railway station where the royal train was to stop began to fill up early. With a capacity of nearly 6,000, the seats sold at $3 each.

Two hours before the blue and silver train arrived, the area around the station was filled by several thousand spectators. A loudspeaker system blared martial music, interrupted with some peppy French-Canadian folk songs.

Arch Over Road

Signs and placards were in French and English. A huge arch over the road from the station said "welcome" and its French equivalent "bienvenue."

A troop of 30 girl guides and 25 boy scouts from Newport, Vt., had a place of honor near the station platform.

As the rain held off, the crowd became greater. Patches of blue began to show and the sun broke through the clouds occasionally.

Veteran On Stretcher

Tom Turner, a disabled Sherbrooke war veteran, was carried on a stretcher and placed near the royal platform. Miss Vivian Tremaine of Quebec City, head of the Canadian Red Cross contingent during the Great War, who nursed the late King George V after he was thrown from a horse in France, was seated with a group of prominent Sherbrooke residents. Mayor Marcus Armitage had invited her to Sherbrooke for the visit.

All along the route here, brightly-costumed boys' and girls' bands provided touches of color. Roman Catholic school boys from Granby, Que., dressed like Royal Canadian Mounted Police, formed a bugle band. Scarlet-coated lads in white breeches and blue stockings, residents of the same district, played the drums.

Fifteen hundred veterans, standing shoulder to shoulder, lined the approach to the station for four blocks. Between 1,800 and 2,000 members of the non-permanent militia guarded the remainder of the route.

Music Broadcast For Crowds

Forty minutes before the train arrived bleachers in the down-town area were packed. The loud-speaking system, over which music was broadcast during the morning, changed from French-Canadian tunes to Scottish music. Bagpipe music echoed through the streets. Everyone applauded.

In Old Garrison City

(By George MacDonald Canadian Press Staff Writer).

St. Johns, Que., June 12 (CP) — Thirty thousand people gave the King and Queen a tumultous welcome to this old garrison city today when the Royal train made a service stop that was lengthened from its assigned eight minutes to 20 minutes because their Majesties wanted to see Canadian and United States veterans lined along the right of way.

Shouts of "Vive Le Roi" and "Vive La Reine" rang out as the gleaming blue and silver train swept into the city at 10.30 a.m. E.D.T. after crossing the border near Rouses Point, N.Y.

Their Majesties arrived in a city still staggering from a cyclone that swept through part of it last night. Bits of broken trees littered the streets but decorations, blown down by the strong wind, had been replaced.

Queen Refers to Storm

To Mayor Georges Fortin, who was presented by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the Queen said in French: "I hear last night's storm caused a great deal of damage in this locality. I regret this damage for you and your people."

Her Majesty commented on the storm also to Monsignor Amatase Forget, Bishop of the Diocese. "We had an awful storm but this morning how beautiful the sun is shining to welcome us in St. Johns," she said.

Others presented to their Majesties by Prime Minister Mackenzie King were Martial Rheaume, member of the House of Commons for St. Johns-Iberville-Napierville, Dr. Alexis Bouthillier, member of the Quebec legislative assembly for St. Johns, and Major A. H. C. Campbell, officer commanding the garrison.

Thousand Children Sing

Mlle. Lizette Lebau, daughter of a St. Johns alderman, presented her Majesty with a bouquet of orchids. The Queen wore an ash-rose colored gown with shoes and hat to match, a fox fur and rope of pearls. The hat was the off-the-face type favored by her Majesty.

Toronto Wool Buyers Balk at Paying High Country Prices

Toronto, June 12—Country dealers are asking of Toronto buyers higher prices for Ontario wool, levels at which Toronto buyers are not inclined to meet. While some export business is reported, local sources state that mills are not showing any great activity. Most dealers here are not willing to pay over 13 1-2 per pound, but one point is quoting in the range of 14 1-2c to 15c. The following prices in their wide range quoted by local dealers must be interpreted by this background: Ontario unwashed fleece wool delivered to Toronto, 12 1-2c to 15c per pound on a flat basis and 7c to 10c per pound for rejects.

CAPT. A. EDEN IS 42-YEARS OLD

British People Do Not Know Whether His Career is Ended or to Resume

By J. F. Sanderson

London, June 12 (CP)—The British people cannot make up their minds whether Anthony Eden, who is 42 today, is just an ex-foreign minister or a future prime minister.

Ever since he resigned from the Chamberlain government Feb. 20, 1938 over the policy of appeasing the dictators, Mr. Eden has stayed discreetly on the political sidelines. Even today, when appeasement has been abandoned in favor of a policy of standing up to the axis powers, he does a Ferdinand.

There seems to be only one thing on which Mr. Eden's friends and foes agree—he will return some day to the political arena. The two big questions are when and how.

Since he left the foreign office for a backbench seat in the House of Commons, Mr. Eden has played a careful, consistent game. He has criticized the government at times but never broken with the Conservative party. He has turned down offers to lead new parties, studiously avoided being classed as a molitical malcontent. Once or twice he has sent up trial balloons on a "truly National government" but he never followed them up with action. His has been the waiting game.

Possesses Many Accomplishments.

Mr. Eden has crowded many accomplishments, many honors into 42 years. He is tall, well dressed, lovely and debonair. He made the Black Homburg hat famous the world over and at the height of his career, when he was roaming Europe in a valiant effort to save the League of Nations from impotence, he was the most publicized man in Britain. He is a facile but not brilliant speaker.

Primarily, he is an idealist, an evangelist on an international stage. His political foes say he isn't sufficiently realistic to be prime minister but his friends point to his undoubted abilities as a negotiator and diplomatist. No one ever has doubted his courage or his tenacity.

As long as Prime Minister Chamberlain was dedicated to the policy of appeasement, Mr. Eden's return to the cabinet was out of the question. Today it is a possibility, but no more than a possibility for a variety of reasons. His friends say it is just a question of time and opportunity.

Mr. Eden once wrote a book called "Places In the Sun". He is only 42 now and may yet achieve his own.

Widower Shoots Self Before His Family

Philadelphia, June 12 (AP)—A 51-year-old widower asked his young housekeeper "did you ever see a man die?" and killed himself yesterday while she, his nine-year-old daughter and several hundred churchgoers watched, horrified, and three policemen tried to stop him.

The suicide, Frank B. Ennis, returned home from an automobile ride and told his daughter, Jane: "I am going away forever. I'm not coming back." Then he called his housekeeper, Miss Ellie McKay, 23. He had discharged her Saturday but permitted her to stay overnight. She told him she would be married soon.

"I'll give you something to remember me by when you go," Ennis shouted.

BELIEVED SAFE BUT MAROONED AT LIGHTHOUSE

Six Residents of Leamington Started for Pleasure Trip on Lake

BOAT WASHED AWAY

Leamington, Ont., June 12—(CP)—Six men who set out for a pleasure trip on Lake Erie in a 30-foot fishing tug were believed to be safe but marooned at Middle Ground lighthouse today.

The men—Neil Lamarsh, Jack Edwards, Orley Hickson, Ross White, Percy Carnegie and Clyde Hillman, all of Leamington—left Point Pelee life saving station Saturday. Through binoculars, Ersall Ashton followed their course to the lighthouse, six miles off shore, and said today he believed the men "must be there."

Their boat apparently had washed away from the lighthouse dock and was adrift on the lake, leading to reports the men were in danger. Lake waters were too rough today after a week-end storm to attempt to bring the men off the lighthouse.

There is a three-man crew in the lighthouse, in charge of Joseph Ouellette.

BULLET PIERCES BASE OF SPINE

James Peace Taken to Hospital After Arrest on Shop-Breaking Charge

Toronto, June 12 (CP)—Six hours after his arrest on a charge of shop-breaking, James Peace, 23, told police he felt "very ill" and was removed to hospital where doctors found a bullet had pierced the base of his spine.

Peace was shot this morning by Constable William Martin, who said he was unaware either of the two shots he fired in a chase after Peace had struck the prisoner. Peace said nothing about the injury when captured and showed no sign of being hurt when taken to the police cells.

The charge against Peace was put over to June 19 when it was brought up in court.

Large Belleville Delegation Attends Annual H. N. S. Rally

With a special train of nine coaches leaving Pinnacle Street yesterday afternoon and a motor procession departing from the church grounds, large numbers of parishioners of the Church of St. Michael the Archangel attended the annual Holy Name Society rally for the archdiocese held in Kingston, with outstanding success. Representatives of all parishes were present at the ceremonies which took place in the Richardson Stadium with the sermon for the occasion being delivered by Most Rev. Denis O'Connor, D.D., LL.D., Bishop of Peterborough.

The Belleville delegation was accompanied by the Belleville Municipal Band, and the St. Michael's Band which played in the stadium. Officers of the St. Michael's Holy Name Society were in charge of arrangements on the special train and were assisted by the St. Michael's Troop of Boy Scouts.

Arriving in Kingston the delegations from the various parishes assembled at the Cricket Field and marched in procession to the stadium, each parish being accompanied by the pastor. Five bands accompanied the parade which was reviewed at the Cathedral by His Grace, Archbishop O'Brien who was attended by Rt. Rev. J. P. Nicholson, V.G. and Rev. Dr. L. J. Byrne. At the stadium following the eloquent sermon, brief addresses were given by Rev. B. L. Farrell, director of the Holy Name Society. Dr. Hamilton, vice president of the diocesan union, and Archbishop O'Brien. Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament was given by His Grace during which the Holy Name Pledge was renewed by the men. After the hymn "Holy God We Praise Thy Name" the anthem for His Majesty the King was played by the P.W.O.R. band bringing the ceremonies of the day to an end.

Hundreds of "Jim" Shanafelts Found After Oil is Discovered

Centralia, Ill., June 12—(AP) — James Oliver Shanafelt owed $500 and had been able to retire only $50 of the debt over a four-year period while tilling 160 acres of farm land.

But recently the 71-year-old farmer bought five new automobiles for his wife and children, remodelled his house, added two bedrooms and a bath room and installed electric refrigeration, oil heat and modern furniture.

There are hundreds of "Jim" Shanafelts in southern Illinois. His homestead is a typical example of the economic revolution which accompanied Illinois' climb to fifth place among the United States' oil-producing states during an oil boom now two years old.

Shanafelt's children attended a rural church, Young's Chapel. It could not afford a regular pastor. Then oil was found in the one acre church yard. The tiny chapel now has $18,000 in oil royalty in its treasury. Its income last month exceeded $3,000 from two producing wells.

The city of Centralia gets a share of the benefits of oil production. Six producing wells were drilled in the municipal park. Now it has royalty in 41 wells.

St. Elmo, in Fayette County, was a rural community of 1,600 residents before the discovery of the eastern Fayette county field. It now boasts a population of 5,000.

U.S. YOUTH TRAINING CAMPS OF GREAT INTEREST TO KING

One of President Roosevelt's greatest projects, the Civilian Conservation Corps, proved to be of great interest to the King, who ordered complete details of the experiment sent to him at Buckingham Palace. His Majesty described the C.C.C. camp he visited at Fort Hunt, Virginia, as one of the most interesting things he had seen on the royal tour, and here he is seen shaking hands with 23-year-old Jimmie Daganza, one of the enrollees, whom the King questioned at length about the camp and its inmates . . . much to the envy of Jimmy's companions.

AT THE BELLE

"CONFESSIONS OF A NAZI SPY"

Without doubt one of the most daring films to see light in the last decade is the latest presentation at the Belle Theatre by Warner Bros., who are, it may be said leaders in every sense of the word, when it comes to cinematic innovations. The opening night audience sat through one of the most shocking, most absorbing motion pictures ever put on celluloid—"Confessions of a Nazi Spy" a photoplay starring Edward G. Robinson, with Francis Lederer, Paul Lukas and Lya Lys.

As the final reel came to a close the patrons sat stock still for a full fifteen seconds before making a sound or a move, so engrossed in the picture's content were they. Here was a picture that in gripping dramatic tones had shown them what they all knew, yet had never stopped to realize its full meaning.

The title—"Confessions of a Nazi Spy" —tells the story, but beyond the story lies a deeper and fuller menace. A fictional account, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" was inspired by revelations contained in the recent Nazi spy trials held in New York, Los Angeles and the Panama Canal Zone.

Leon G. Turrou, former ace G-Man, who secured the conviction of a number of admitted Nazi spies, acted as technical advisor of the film, which lends some idea as to its authenticity, despite the fact the events are fictional.

A gripping, powerfully performed drama, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" will bring home to the thousands who will jam theatres all over to see it, the grim realization that the menace is still here. It will bring home the appalling fact that a country or countries supposedly on friendly terms with the United States have been and in all probability still are carrying on subversive espionage activities directly aiming at undermining the military and democratic institutions of the nation.

If it does no more, "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" will make America spy conscious, which becomes a necessity, for as technical advisor Turrou stated in an interview after one of the trials, "The recent Nazi spy trials barely scratched the surface."

Edward G. Robinson, playing the role of an agent of the Federal Bureau of investigation who leads the spy ring smashing activity, carries off acting honors although it may be said that the supporting cast does an inspired job. Francis Lederer, a former resident of Czechoslovakia and one of the leaders in peace activities in Hollywood, takes a leading role, the first unsympathetic one in his career. Lya Lys, a foreign actress making her Hollywood debut, stands out as a new threat in the glamour ranks. An exquisite and curvacious blonde, she combines the appeal of Hedy La Marr, Marlene Dietrich and Ann Sheridan, with a heady charm that is uniquely hers. There is little doubt that there will be many more succulent roles to follow for this German-born star Paul Lukas, Dorothy Tree, Henry O'Neill and George Sanders also have strong roles.

Little Benny's Note Book

Cousin Artie stayed at my house all night and we were whispering and arguing in bed waiting to go to sleep, me saying, O boy I hope we don't oversleep ourselfs, tomorrow is the day.

Meaning the day Miss Kitty was going to let the whole class out a hour early if nobody broke the perfect promptness record for the week, on acount of not a single fellow having been late, and Artie said, Only good night why couldn't she of given us a whole day off tomorrow on acount of the promptness record being perfect today? and I said, Well hay, supposing we really do happen to be late, why then gosh, holey smokes, G wizzickers it will be our duty to the rest of the class to stay away all day, because absence isn't lateness and the promptness record will still be perfect and the rest of the fellows wont have to suffer on our account.

And this morning we got dressed exter slow and we were the last one down to breakfist, ma saying, Well at last, for land sakes, it's just dawdle, dawdle, dawdle like Tennyson's brook, do you realize you're practically late for school at this very moment and minute?

Jimminy, ma, that would be fierce, if we're late we'll keep the whole class from getting out a hour early for spoiling the week's prompness record. G wizzickers, ma, holey smokes, pop, if we're late we better not go at all, it wouldn't be fair, I said, and pop said, By gollies he's right.

Me thinking, G, hurrah, and pop said, The thought does you great credit, I'm sure, so if you're late I want you to return immeeditly and spend the day in the house, and as for Artie, I'll leave him to his own conscience, if any.

The result being I ran all the ways to school and got there just in time, Artie running with me and proving nobody wants to be left to their own conscience.

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the Council House on May 23rd, with fifteen members and five visitors present. The meeting opened by singing the Ode followed by the Lord's Prayer. The roll call which was "My Mother's Maiden Name" was well responded to. When the business part was finished Mrs. Amey and Mrs. R. H. Hill gave to the members the new methods of cooking tender cuts of meat and a demonstration of a roast of beef and crown roast of sausage which was later given as part of the afternoon lunch was much enjoyed by all. The program consisted of solos by Mrs. Culcertson and Miss E. Bell, also community singing and current events by Miss Bell.

One of the highspots of their visit the World's Fair—from the view- int of the cheering thousands at ast—was the ride King George and Queen Elizabeth took aboard one of the trackless trains which carry sightseers around the spacious grounds. Sidelights on Royal Visit Sherbrooke, Que., June 12—(CP)—King George has coined a new name for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police—"The Hornets." A police officer attached to the Royal party disclosed today that since the visit to Jasper, Alta., His Majesty called the scarlet-coated band by that name. "I suppose it's because they keep such a close tab on him, almost pester him with attention," the officer said laughingly.

Sherbrooke, Que., June 12—(CP)—Fifty Montreal policemen who came here today to help Sherbrooke police during the Royal visit were like debutantes going to a party. The "cops" wore white helmets but, fearing rain, carried large boxes to put them in if there was a downpour.

Sherbrooke, Que., June 12—(CP)—Windows in the long, sleek automobiles in which the King and Queen ride during city drives have been changed because Their Majesties' view was obscured. A large piece of metal, which partially obstructed the view, was removed. The cars arrived from Toronto yesterday after being overhauled in Oshawa.

Sherbrooke, Que., June 12—(CP)—New dresses got a shower today — a shower of soot and spray when an excursion train bringing people here for the Royal visit covered the station platform with soot and spray while taking on water. One newspaper woman, whose ensemble was the envy of all, rushed to a washroom in confusion after the unexpected bath. Crowds in bleachers nearby cheered her and roared with laughter.

Sherbrooke, Que., June 12—(CP)—Well-known member of the Canadian Medical Corps during the Great War, Mrs. M. Walsh, formerly of Carleton Place, Ont., and now of Sherbrooke, was given a prominent seat near the platform for the Royal visit here today.

THE COUNTRY IS CALLING

From Belleville good roads reach out in every direction leading to the great open spaces, the finest of scenery, the best of fishing and hunting in season. Over the Hills of Hastings lie thrills in which romance and reality join to make the most enjoyable of outings. Reminiscences of old time gold rushes can be heard from the Oldest Inhabitant in the villages, mineral indications can be seen everywhere, for this county has more and varied mineral deposits than any other section of Canada of similar area. Hills and valleys, lakes and rivers, big and little, abound with splendid roads winding in and out, ever opening to new scenic beauties revealing an endless panorama of marvelous scenic beauty.

On either side Lennox and Addington Counties and Northumberland County offer their own attractions while to the south Prince Edward County, rightly called "The Garden of the Gods," invites admirers of beautiful scenery, well tilled farms, agriculture in all its phases, and spendid fishing. Belleville's excellent hotels make splendid headquarters for visiting motorists who spend the days in the country in the most beautiful surroundings and return each night to Belleville if desired.

Belleville citizens should spread the glad tidings of this great playground of Nature of which this city is the centre. Let their friends near and far know that a vacation can be spent pleasantly and profitably here. You can entertain your summer visitors grandly if you know the best places to take them. Ask the Belleville Chamber of Commerce for information regarding the best vacation spots of this district. The Chamber of Commerce is yours —use it.

Britain Exerting Every Effort to Avert Blockade

Government Leaders Watch Reaction of Moscow and Berlin to Viscount Halifax' Declaration in Parliament

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, June 13—(CP Cable) — Foreign Under--Secretary Richard Butler told the House of Commons today that the situation in Tientsin remains serious "but negotiations are still proceeding and I hope a settlement will be reached."

Mr. Butler spoke as Japanese authorities announced they would blockade the French and British concessions in the North China river port as a result of the refusal by British authorities to hand over to Japan four Chinese charged as terrorists. British officials have declined to place the four men in the hand of the Japanese without proof of their guilt.

Attempts may be made by the British government to persuade the Japanese to accept a three-man tribunal, one of whom would be a neutral chairman, to examine evidence against the Chinese.

Britain Seeks Solution

London, June 13—(AP)—The government turned from immediate consideration of European problems today to seek a solution of a difficult situation arising from a series of Anglo-Japanese incidents in the Far East.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Heat thunderstorms! As the name implies, these are a summer phenomenon in the temperate zones. The condition for their formation is ascending, warm, moist air with little or no wind. This condition is realized best in summer after a spell of hot weather. The sun heats the earth's surface which in turn heats the overlying layer of air. A hot surface layer of air is unstable, and due to the convection thus set up it rises, cools, and forms the characteristic thundercloud. In a mountainous country the warm air ascending a mountain side frequently produces thunderstorms. The period of greatest frequency over land is from 2 to 4 p.m.

Queen Elizabeth's Tireless Energy, Gentleness, Poise Win Admiration

By MURIEL ADAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aboard royal pilot train in New Brunswick, June 13—(CP)—A solid month of the royal tour has brought astonishment, admiration and envy among those who, day in and day out, have marvelled at Queen Elizabeth's tireless energy, gentleness and poise.

As the royal train today moved into the Maritime Provinces, beginning the last lap of the long journey, Queen Elizabeth to all appearances might just be starting the round of formal visits and popular receptions that have delighted her and thrilled millions.

Formalities, presentations, cheers the long train journeys and the many stops—all have been taken with calmness, an easy smile and a never-flagging eagerness to know people and places.

Never Relaxed

From early morning until late at night Queen Elizabeth's face is not relaxed. Before the sun is high cheering crowds along railway embankments call her to the platform of the royal car. Roars of acclaim for her and the King along royal procession routes charge her with the excitement of the moment, and she is never too tired to wave or smile.

In Brandon, Man., where a remarkable demonstration of school children brought tears to the Queen's eyes, she and the King waved and waved and seemed almost to cheer back. Those in the accompanying press car, themselves forced to wave by the insistent cheering, were fagged out at the end of the drive.

VISCOUNTESS OFFERS PRESERVE TO LABOR M. P.

Dour - Looking Highlander With Burr on Tongue Shouts Acceptance

STRANGE HOUSE SCENE

Now Kirkwood Has to Make it Pay or Give it Back to Lady Astor

By J. F. SANDERSON

London, June 13 (CP) — Viscountess Astor offered her Scottish farm to David Kirkwood, Labor, during debate in the House of Commons today on condition he could make a success of running it. The proposition was accepted.

Mr. Kirkwood, who is a dour-looking highlander with the most sonorous Scottish burr in the House was deploring the extent of deer forests in his native highlands. He claimed one sixth of the total area of Scotland was a deer preserve and that 1,000,000 acres had been withdrawn from cultivation since 1920.

Deer Preserves and Taxes.

Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, agreed with Mr. Kirkwood's description but could not accept his proposal to tax deer preserves to bring them back into cultivation.

Lady Astor, Conservative member for the Sutton division of Plymouth, interrupted with a statement that most Scottish deer preserves were unsuitable for agriculture. To prove her point she offered her deer preserve farm to Mr. Kirkwood to see if he could make it pay.

With typical Scottish caution, the Labor member considered the offer for several minutes before shouting his acceptance across the floor of the House.

'One of Millions Of Americans' Thanks Sovereigns

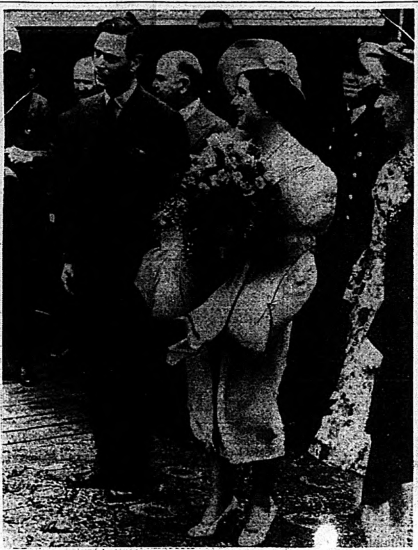
Message is Typical Example of Good-Will Greetings

Aboard the Royal Pilot Train, June 13 (CP)—Since leaving the U. S. the King and Queen have received "many goodwill messages from American citizens," Royal train officials said today in a statement telegraphed to the pilot train.

The following message, signed "An American Citizen", was given as a typical example of those their Majesties have received:

"I am only one of the millions who lined our streets to offer a sincere welcome to you and your Queen and, feeling the enthusiasm, I am sure all real Americans join me in thanking you both for the honor of your visit and in saying bon voyage and please return for you and your people are always welcome in our country.

"Please in some way convey my regards to the many English women who mothered young American boys in sickness and sorrow during the Great War. These fine women will always respectfully live in the memory of these American soldiers who passed through or were stationed in England. May the cordial relations of our people always bind our nations in peace and prosperity."



Returning from their triumphant four-day visit to the United States, the King and Queen returned to the ancient Province of Quebec, which was the first to welcome the royal couple when they began their historic tour four weeks ago. Their first stop on entering Canada from the United States was at Sherbrooke, P.Q., where Their Majesties were welcomed by a crowd of wildly cheering French Canadians. The royal couple are pictured here as they stepped from the royal train at Sherbrooke. —Phonephoto

Cheers of Quebec's Habitants Ring in Ears of Their Majesties In Visit to Old French Canada

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Newcastle, N.B., June 13—(CP) —Smiling and still looking unwearied, the King and Queen made their first appearance in the Maritime Provinces here today as they stopped at this little town for 10 minutes.

At 9.28 a.m. E.D.T., Their Majesties left the royal train behind and set out by motor car on a 108-mile drive through central New Brunswick to the capital city of Fredericton.

Bright sunshine and warm weather greeted the sovereigns in the province by the sea.

A huge crowd of farmers, fishermen and other residents of northern New Brunswick overflowed the town to get a glimpse of the royal visitors and give them a roaring welcome to the Maritimes.

Mayor Presented

When Their Majesties descended from the royal train Prime Minister Mackenzie King presented Mayor D. S. Creaghan and Mrs. Creaghan. Then 37 other officials and residents of the district were presented.

The Queen wore a sky blue ensemble trimmed with white fox at the neckline, and complimented by a perky straw hat tied with tulle and trimmed at the front with forget-me-nots. The outfit was the same she wore at the Mount Royal Chalet in Montreal.

Presented With Flowers

Will President and Mrs. Roosevelt Visit Buckingham Palace This Fall?

Washington, June 13—(AP)— Now that this admiring capital is catching its breath after the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, the big tea-table topic is: Will President and Mrs. Roosevelt be guests at Buckingham Palace this fall?

Many Washingtonians argue that the King undoubtedly issued an informal invitation to Mr. Roosevelt before their farewell at Hyde Park Sunday night. Whether he did so, of course, probably will never be known officially unless the President should accept.

The subject was not mentioned in a telegram which the King sent Mr. Roosevelt late yesterday, for that wouldn't be according to protocol. The message, received by the President while he was returning to Washington from Hyde Park said the King and Queen were "deeply grateful for your hospitality."

"Though this was our first visit to your great country," the message continued, "and though it was necessarily only a brief one, it has given us memories of kind feeling and good will that we shall always treasure."

Telegram Sent

The telegram read:

"The Queen and I are grateful, Mr. President, to Mrs. Roosevelt and yourself, for your hospitality during the past four days.

"The kindness shown to us personally by you both was endorsed by your fellow countrymen and countrywomen with a cordiality that has stirred our hearts.

COUNTERFEITER IS SOUGHT BY POLICE

Police and Volunteers Scour Country Around Leeds for Parts of Body

Leeds, England, June 13 (CP)—An autopsy on the truncated torso of 20-year-old Edith Wraithmell today disclosed no trace of ravishing as police pressed an intensive search for an alleged counterfeiter believed linked with the slaying.

Wrapped in a blood-soaked dress, Miss Wraithmell's torso was discovered late yesterday deep in woods near Wellington Hill, about three miles from the spot near the village of Scholes where her severed head, left arm and left leg were found on Saturday.

Scores of police and volunteers scoured the countryside to find other parts of the body. Most of the searchers were concentrated along roads linking Scholes and Leeds along which the murderer was believed to have passed when he was disposing of the body.

Claims Victim Duped.

Friends of Miss Wraithmell said that she was last seen on her way to meet an alleged counterfeiter. Miss Evelyn Oates, a singer who identified Miss Wraithmell's body, said the victim had been duped by a member of a counterfeit ring into passing bogus half-crown pieces and other friends said the dead girl had disregarded warnings against associating with the man.

The proprietor of a Leeds hotel, where the victim had lived for the last three months, told detectives yesterday that she had last seen Ethel in a "pub" looking quite happy.

"She confided to me that a man had promised to put an end to her days," he said.

Sir Samuel Hoare Is Possibility as Propaganda Chief

London, June 13 (CP)—Home Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare may be named Propaganda Minister in case of war, and perhaps before, it was reported in political and journalistic circles today.

The Earl of Perth, who recently retired as British Ambassador to Italy, has been mentioned as a possible chief assistant to Sir Samuel, but this choice was not regarded as final. The Daily Express (Independent) mentioned Sir Campbell Stuart, Director of the Times and a former resident of Montreal, who did similar work under Lord Northcliffe during the Great War.

Deploring the prevalence of foreign propaganda, the Daily Mail (Independent) approved the fact that Great Britain and France have no official propaganda, but suggested appointment "a director-general of public information responsible only to the prime minister".

Some machinery for the dissemination of authentic news in an emergency, for dealing quickly with public enquiries, is badly needed," it added. "Such an office would have to be carefully safeguarded against any taint of propaganda."

RUSSIA TO DEMAND TRIPLE GUARANTEE

Pravda (Moscow) Newspaper Makes Clear Soviet's Attitude Over States

Moscow, June 13 (AP)—An editorial in Pravda, Communist party newspaper, indicated today that Russia would insist on a triple guarantee of Estonia, Latvia and Finland whether they ask for it or not.

The editorial appeared shortly before the scheduled arrival of William Strang, British Foreign Office expert on central European affairs. The special envoy bears a fresh outline of the British viewpoint on a proposed mutual assistance pact binding Russia to the Anglo-French anti-aggression front.

After suggesting that "outside influences" were inspiring utterances of Baltic statesmen unfriendly to Russia, Pravda again quoted the French newspaper L'Epoque to the effect that the stubbornness of Baltic countries might mean "they already had entered the German orbit."

Queen Thanks Girl For Hair - Embroidered Handkerchief

Toronto, June 13—(CP)— Dora Evans' long golden hair, falling 40 inches from the top of her head, has brought her many honors but none she values more than a letter from Queen Elizabeth. Dora, resident of suburban Mount Dennis, received the letter yesterday, thanking her for the present of a handkerchief embroidered with her hair.

Dora sent the Queen the handkerchief in the centre of which she wove a large "ER". Around the border she embroidered: "A souvenir in honor of your visit to Canada."

'Scare-Headlines' Held Detrimental To General Business by Rotary Club

Members Give Approval to Resolution That Less War News be Printed

ROYAL TOUR BENEFIT

The Belleville Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday added its unanimous approval to a resolution that has been recommended by numerous service clubs and chambers of commerce of the province, that war news and "scare headlines" to do with crises and conditions in Europe be relegated to their proper position in the newspapers of the country and Canadian and Empire affairs be given their rightful places on the front pages of the press.

Rotarians were loud in their opinion that since the Royal Visit to Canada, and the placing of news reports of the activities of Their Majesties while here and in the United States on the front pages of the press, business has noted an increase. Members were unanimous in their opinion that "war scares" were detrimental to the well-being of Canada and her population as well as her business and industrial conditions. The resolution follows:

"We, the members of the Belleville Rotary Club, have viewed with much pleasure and gratification that the newspapers, and press generally, during the visit of Their Majesties, have given prominence to this historical event. This has engendered a spirit of optimism for the welfare of our country which we hope will continue to prevail."

"In addition, we have been gratified that during the visit of Their Majesties, very little prominence has been given to the sayings and doings of the totalitarian powers."

"We are quite of the opinion that if our press would continue to feature Canadian and Empire Affairs, and relegate to their proper positions, the news of the Continental disturbers of World Peace, economic conditions in our country would materially improve."

Merlin Hawk Raids Nests of Starlings

A small Merlin hawk, one of the three rare birds of this specie observed in the city this spring, has assisted lately in cutting down the excess starling population of the city by making daily raids on the nests of the birds within the gables and peaks of the city hall tower.

For the past three or four mornings the small predator has been observed by Pat Webber, market caretaker making dawn forays into the cornices of the building, emerging each time with one of the young birds from the nest, which it devours eagerly and returns for more.

The din during the raids set up by the parent birds has been terrific, as reported by the caretaker, but as yet no organized effort has been made by the chattering starlings to discourage the hawk.

Stove in Home of Dr. S. S. Lumb Explodes Causing $200 Damage

Believed to have resulted from a pocket of steam in the dry reservoir of the front water heater of the stove, an explosion which occurred in the kitchen of the home of Dr. S. S. Lumb, Bancroft, on Saturday, completely wrecked the stove and caused damage estimated at $200 to the kitchen. A girl engaged in cooking chicken on the stove at the time narrowly escaped injury when fragments hurtled about the room.

On Monday afternoon reports of a fire in the combination barn and garage owned by Wilfred and Ronald Maxwell, Hastings Street, Bancroft, were received in the city. No statement as to the cause of the fire, nor the damage sustained was given.

Need Rain to Develop Promise of Good Crops

In spite of intermittent showers that have fallen over the district during the past few days, rural communities are still in need of rain, farmers stated today on the city market. Hay that gave promise of a bumper crop a few weeks ago is starting to "head out" because of the dry weather, while green peas in the vicinity of Bloomfield are beginning to blossom at least a week ahead of the ordinary time.

Prospects of a good crop of strawberries are decreasing with the continued dry weather, a prominent Prince Edward County grower stated while raspberries show signs of bearing well. George Baitley, Wellington, grower, who picks from seven to nine acres of this fruit yearly said although a heavy rain would do the "world of good".

Spring grains appear to be in good condition while fall seeding has good leaf and shows prospects of a good crop at present. The need of rain however in all phases of agriculture is more or less urgent.

Police Blotter

Two automobiles were reported stolen to the Belleville police last night and assistance in the possible recovery of same requested. At Oshawa a 1934 model Ford coupe, bearing Ontario licence plates 1-N-195, was reported missing, while at Kingston a 1937 model Chevrolet sedan equipped with Ontario markers, 103-N-7 was taken.

Mrs. S. Lazier, 75 Victoria Ave. reported the theft of a valuable barometer from the family residence, taken some time over the week end. The barometer was encased on a mahogany casing.

No arrest being necessary last night, the cell block was left available for the five transients, who slumbered unmolested in the cell block last night.

AWARD CONTRACT TO PAVE HIGHWAY EAST OF THE CITY

Work Will Start in Near Future — Hard - Surface Highway to be Built Between Corbyville and Actinolite

USE 10,000 TONS ROCK

Contracts for the paving of that section of Highway No. 2 immediately east of Belleville have been let to the Law Construction Company of Toronto, according to a communication received yesterday by the local Employment Office. Work will start in the near future.

Department of Highway Labor has started rock-crushing operations in various parts of the county. The Springer-Beatty Company Toronto, has the contract for the building of a Macadam road between Corbyville and Actinolite. About twenty men, all local labor have started crushing activities at a quarry near Thomasburg where 6,000 tons of rock will be crushed. Another 4,000 tons will be crushed in the Tweed quarry, to supply the 10,000 tons demanded by the contract for this road.

Plan is Considered To Remove Unsightly Sheds by Relief Labor At no Cost to Owners

A scheme whereby unused and antiquated horse stables and small barns now cluttering up the backyards of many homes in the city to the detriment of the city, could be torn down by relief labor at no cost to the owner, providing they were replaced with other buildings more in keeping with the general landscaping scheme is now under advisement of Mayor Bone and members of city council.

In this further step to beautify Belleville, such wood or material thus gained by the demolition of the old buildings could either be given relief recipients of the city, or kept by the owner, but the actual tearing down would cost the owner, nothing it is pointed out.

"Just now we are feeling out the owners of these unused buildings, and if we are given sufficient support in the matter, then I am sure that this could be worked out very satisfactorily," stated the Mayor.

Good Softball Game For Traveller's Picnic

At a further meeting of the Travellers' Good Will Picnic Committee, plans were laid for a real day of entertainment as follows:

Clowns, strolling Troubadors, splendid vaudeville acts, games, races and hosts of prizes to the guests of the Travellers who as in former years, are the Merchants, their families and their staff on whom the Travellers call in Eastern Ontario.

There will be an added feature in the form of a Girls' Softball game played by the Orange Crush and Langley-Lakesides teams of Sunnyside Park, Toronto.

"Broke" Cowpunchers Head for Greener Pastures in Far West

Three lonely cowpunchers, sombrero-hatted, colorful kerchiefs knotted about their necks, took a sorrowful departure from the city last night. They had been stranded here since the time they left a Midway that played here a few weeks' ago, and decided to head back to their beloved west, in time to perform at the famous Calgary Stampede that takes place in the near future.

They had no money, and had been depending on the generous nature of Bellevillians for their food. "This is a nice town and the people are wonderful." Big Slim, spokesman for the group stated, prior to his embarking on the rods of a swiftly moving freight train for the west.

"However, we tried to repay the people here by staging a performance. But the chief of police said "no" and inferred that the West is a lot better camping grounds for lonely cowboys who have nothing but a few musical instruments to provide them with a livelihood."

"So we are taking him at his word" and with a cheery wave of the hand, the three horseless buckaroos wound their way in the general direction of the railway tracks.

Diver Will Perform Daring Stunt Thursday

Capt. Mabey Will Set Gasoline-Soaked Clothing on Fire and Dive from High Ladder

Thrill-seekers of the city will get their appetites satisfied at Victoria Park on Thursday night when Captain Eddie Mabey, a native of Penetang, and famed stunt-flyer swimmer and diver, will leap from the highest ladders obtainable into a pool of flaming gasoline. Immediately following this stunt Mabey will soak his clothing in gasoline, set fire to it, and leap into the waters of the Bay of Quinte. A silver collection is his only source of revenue for his daring stunts.

Mabey, who carries a silver plate in the upper part of his right leg, has been a movie actor and stunt pilot in Hollywood. The silver plate is a mute reminder of a serious accident that occurred when he was working in the picture "Men With Wings." For the past year he has been in England studying aeronautics. H holds two pilots licences.

He has been performing throughout the country, and does his dangerous stunts at his own risk. The performance will start at eight o'clock sharp.

Lever Brothers Ltd. To Build $300,000 Addition to Plant

A $300,000 addition to the big Toronto plant of Lever Brothers Limited, soap manufacturers, is that company's response to expanding business conditions in Canada.

H. A. Wilkins, President of the Company, stated today that continued expansion of business made the addition necessary. The new building, on which work is well under way, will consist of three stories of concrete, brick and steel construction. It will be 140 feet long and 80 feet wide, and will house the company's general offices and cafeteria. Air conditioning will be adopted throughout and the very latest in office equipment will be at the services of the firm's employees when they move into their new quarters this fall.

The present office building, according to Mr. Wilkins, will be utilized for chemical and baking laboratories and the works office.

SIX FISHERMEN ARE RESCUED FROM SHOAL

Leamington, Ont., June 13 (CP)—Six Leamington men, marooned on Middle Ground Lighthouse since Saturday, were rescued from the lonely shoal today by members of Point Pelee Lifesaving Station. All were in good health despite the three days spent in the cramped quarters of the 60-foot high cylindrical building which ordinarily houses only Lighthouse Keeper Joe Ouellette and two assistants.

The amateur fishermen were cut off by six miles of rough Lake Erie water when their 30-foot tug was swept away from the lighthouse dock after they sheltered there from an approaching storm. Finding the boat in the open lake at first brought fears for the men's lives but observers at Point Pelee Lifesaving Station, from where the tug had put out, reported their landing.

The men are Neil Lamarsh, Jack Edwards, Orley Hickson, Ross White, Percy Carnegie and Clyde Hillman.

Something to Shoot At

If you have a leaning to something "different" in professions you will envy Miss Mona Friedlander, ABOVE, 24-year-old daughter of a millionaire British banker, who almost every night flies over London in her plane while anti-aircraft crews on the ground attempt to "bring her down." The latter consists of training searchlights on her plane and sighting guns at the target she makes. Unfortunately for those below, while all this is going on pretty Miss Friedlander is hidden from view.

Depression "Blind Spot" In Progresss of Science

HARD WORK RECIPE

In spite of the fact that science has made remarkable strides in transportation, communication, disease, industry and even in the problem of death itself, yet there is a "blind spot" which has yet to be remedied. This problem, which remains to be solved is one, that has troubled mankind through six thousand years of recorded history, namely depression. Diagnosis and suggested remedies were shown members of the Belleville Rotary Club in a highly informative and educational illustrated lecture given through the medium of colored pictures at their weekly luncheon yesterday.

The film which is edited by Professor A. Lawren Brown, B.A., B.Th. former professor of economics at McGill University, was shown by Rotarian Clayton Johnson, of Ottawa, who was introduced by Mr. George Griffin, secretary of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, himself a guest at the luncheon.

Financial ignorance is the fundamental cause of depressions, the film pointed out. "No nation in the world has taught one generation how to manage scientifically the money they earn after they have earned it." Financial education—the teaching of every schoolchild the science of money management was advanced as a cure.

Recipe is Hard Work

The recipe for a successful financial life is work, save and save. These three words are the foundation of individual and national prosperity, the film pointed out. Financial independence is easy to attain if the four principles of money management are practised. These are wise buymanship; the saving of one-tenth of one's salary; compound interest; the building of a living protection reserve. The latter must possess four factors safety, liquidity yield and flexibility—these are the four walls that make a sound financial factory.

"Financial independence can be assured easily if we apply the science of money management to the money we earn."

Cordial Reception

A highlight of the luncheon was the cordial reception afforded Rotarian Frank Jones, of the Portland Oregon Club, who is en route to the Rotary Convention at Cleveland. Rotarians sang the International Rotary song in honor of their American visitor, who stood at attention and sang the British National Anthem with members of the local club.

President MacLean Haig was in the chair while Rotarian S. R. (Sandy) Burrows led the community singing. Ever faithful and efficient Leo Riggs was at the piano.

HEADS INVESTIGATION

Heading the public investigation into the disaster of the submarine, Thetis, that sank in Liverpool Bay with a loss of 99 lives, is Sir Alfred Townsend Bucknill, ABOVE, judge of the High Court of Justice, whose appointment was made by Premier Chamberlain in the House of Commons.

Shipping Season Off to Poor Start

Scanning the harbor log book which so far is almost bare of export and import registrations, Harbormaster Jos. Wadell this morning commented upon the apparent slowness of this season's shipping at the government dock. Early this year the soft coal strike in the United States resulted in a considerable decrease of incoming fuel shipments, but this business was expected to pick up later in the season when mining operations in the United States coal fields swing into more regular production. Gasoline shipments have so far been slow into Belleville, and except for the regular weekly calls of the sturdy little packet carrier, Glen Allan, water cargos in and out of port have been light.

This week employees of the Harbor Board are completing the last work of installing heavy timbers along the water line on the dock which will replace the badly decayed ones which have been in place since the dock was first built.

OBITUARY

G. F. SILLS
(Elgin, Ill.).

The following obituary appeared in the May 29th issue of the Elgin Daily Courier News of Elgin, Ill., and refers to a former well-known and highly esteemed resident of this district. Old friends here will regret to learn of his death.

George F. Sills, prominent Elgin realtor and insurance broker, and a life-long Republican worker and town official, is dead. Mr. Sills died at his home, 570 Park St., Saturday night after an extended illness. He was 82 years old.

Mr. Sills was born in Brockville, Ont., Canada, April 15, 1857, the son of Bryan C. and Maria Meade Sills. His ancestors on his father's side had come to America from Holland before the Revolutionary war.

Once W. F. Employee

Educated in the schools at Madoc, Ontario, he came to Elgin as a young man and obtained employment at the Elgin State hospital. Later, for three years, he was employed at the Elgin National Watch Co., and in the following two years studied medicine. He returned to the watch factory for 10 years and then left to enter the insurance business in 1893. He was located in business at 10 N. Grove Ave., and 18 N. Grove Ave., before purchasing the building now occupied by his business at 14 E. Chicago St.

Mr. Sills was one of the organizers of The Security Building and Loan Assn. At his death he was serving as secretary of the First Federal Savings and Loan Assn., secretary of the board of trustees of the First Methodist church, and treasurer of the Elgin Real Estate Board. He was also active in the Elgin Life Underwriters as a director and the Elgin Fire and Casualty Co.

60 Years in Methodist Church

Mr. Sills had been a member of the First Methodist church for more than 60 years. He was a staunch Republican and had been a member of the G. O. P. town committee and the Elgin town committee for many years. As a justice of the peace he was a member of the town board at his death. He had served on the county board of supervisors for two terms and on several occasions had been a candidate for county office.

Mr. Sills' interest had frequently touched civic affairs, and his lodge activities included membership in Monitor Lodge 522, A.F. and A.M., Loyal L. Munn chapter, Bethel Commandery. Kane Lodge of Odd Fellows, and Elgin Encampment 112.

Funeral on Wednesday

Surviving relatives include the widow, Mabel M. Sills; a sister, Mrs. Ida Maybee, and a brother William Sills, both of Belleville, Ont., Canada.

Funeral services will be private at the Wolff funeral home Wednesday at 2:30 and at 3 from First Methodist Church. Dr. John C. Spencer, of Englewood, and Rev. F. W. Hoisington, local pastor, will conduct the service, assisted by Monitor Lodge 522. The Knights Templar Commandery will act as escort. Burial will be in Bluff City cemetery.

Pallbearers chosen for Mr. Sills' service include A. F. Finn, H. Willis Binnie, H. A. Campbell, G. F. Martin, William Buckley and James Ooment.

CHAS. McDONALD IS COMMITTED

Chatham Resident Will Stand Trial on Charge of Murdering His Wife

Chatham, Ont., June 13—(CP)—Charles W. McDonald, 32-year-old shipping clerk, was committed for trial on a charge of murder arising from the shooting of his wife in her downtown beauty parlor May 1.

The committal was made after preliminary hearing before Magistrate S. B. Arnold to whom were related details of the finding of the woman's body in the drying room of her shop by McDonald and three of Mrs. McDonald's girl friends.

Mrs. McDonald, 28, was shot through the breast with a rifle found beside the body. Her husband was held on a charge of vagrancy while city and Provincial Police investigated, then he was charged with murder.

Used Force Says Witness

Frances Bowen, one of the crown's 11 witnesses, testified McDonald used force preventing her from entering the beauty parlor. Miss Bowen was employed in the shop and was with two other women who were calling for Mrs. McDonald to accompany her to a movie show.

She testified Mrs. McDonald was out of the city the week previous to the shooting and during that time McDonald was a frequent visitor at the beauty parlor. She said he cried considerably and was looking for sympathy because of marital difficulties.

Defence Counsel W. G. Kerr objected when crown prosecutor Cecil Snyder called on 11 of the 20 witnesses subpoenaed. He said no inquest had been held and the evidence before the court was by no means complete.

SEARCH FOR PROSPECTORS

Sioux Lookout, Ont., June 13—(CP)—Provincial Police today organized a rescue party to search for two prospectors lost in the rugged rock country south of this northwestern Ontario town. The missing men are Joe Ketel and Julius Molner of Toronto.

First news of the prospectors' plight was received by police yesterday after a motorist had picked up Alex Sobo, Toronto, as he stumbled in an exhausted condition along the Dryden-Sioux Lookout Highway. Sobo's clothes were in shreds, his legs and body badly bruised and torn.

Letters Express Appreciation of Canadian Exporters

Thanks are warmly extended for the efficient co-operation of Canada's Trade Commissioners abroad

THE numerous spontaneous and unsolicited expressions of appreciation of their work are great encouragement to the Trade Commissioners of Canada scattered throughout the world, who devote their time and attention to the promotion and maintenance of Canada's export trade.

Stationed in Empire countries and foreign lands, Canada's Trade Commissioners serve as links between the exporters in Canada and their distant markets.

A glance through excerpts from letters received by the Department of Trade and Commerce, reveals the value of the Commissioners' services to those interested in trade abroad. These letters being confidential, the exporters' names have been omitted.

FROM VARIOUS PARTS OF CANADA EXPORTERS WRITE AS FOLLOWS:

August 12, 1938:— "We have had the most wonderful service from Trade Commissioners all over the world and our export business, thanks to their efforts, is increasing at an amazing rate."

November 26, 1938:— "For the past year we have had dealings with various Trade Commissioners. I feel I would not be doing my duty unless I advised you of the splendid work they are doing for the business men of Canada."

October 13, 1938:— "I should like to say that we are very much impressed with the efficient, intelligent manner in which your Trade Commissioners have handled correspondence for us."

February 25, 1939:— "I am directed to convey to you the grateful thanks of our Association for the wonderful co-operation you have given us. We may be able to accomplish orderly and profitable marketing of potatoes, which at one time seemed doubtful."

May 23, 1938:— "We feel profoundly grateful that your co-operation has been extended to us in dealing with this difficult and delicate situation. Will you kindly extend our best wishes to your Trade Commissioners for their interest in our behalf."

August 15, 1938:— "Your Trade Commissioner helped me in so many ways that it would be absolutely impossible for me to express to your Department my appreciation of his services."

November 4, 1938:— "It is a pleasure to realise that your Department is so well represented in these foreign fields and doing such a wonderful service."

May 6, 1938:— "It has been a revelation to us to find that we have throughout the world such a ready and willing means of obtaining publicity for matters affecting Canadians."

December 19, 1938:— "We wish to thank you most heartily for the co-operation we received from your office, and you can rest assured that if there is a party today that is convinced of the necessity for Canada to have Foreign Trade Commissioners, our firm is one."

May 13, 1938:— "It is indeed gratifying to have such zealous representatives serving us in the foreign field and I have nothing but the highest commendation for the wonderful assistance rendered me over a long period of years."

August 29, 1938:— "The Canadian Trade Commissioner, in his representations to the customs authorities, was able to adjust our difficulty with them and has received from them the assurance that our goods will enter that country under the tariff item that has been in effect for so many years. This is a splendid service."

Increased Exports Bring Increased Prosperity

Canada's Trade Commissioners continually strive to extend markets abroad for Canadian products. The assistance they have rendered to Canadian exporters in making new connections has helped them secure large trade concessions. The more other countries buy our wares the more employment and general prosperity we shall enjoy throughout the Dominion

THE ROYAL VISIT IN U. S.

Three great nations are happy, Britain, United States and Canada, millions of citizens are happier and have pleasant recollections of the four days' royal visit to Washington, New York and Hyde Park. The British King and the British Queen, who under the Statute of Westminster are also the Sovereigns of Canada, in their social visit to the United States have charmed everyone and have left pleasant memories from the President down to the masses of citizens. The welcome at Washington, the tribute paid by King George at Mount Vernon where he placed a wreath to the memory of the Founder of the United States, George Washington, the general who led the revolution against the government of the King's ancestor, George III, and as he walked over the Mount Vernon estate, hallowed with memories of the great American, the enthusiasm of Gotham's millions as they greeted to New York, metropolis of the Western World, the royal visitors, the cheers and acclaims at the New York World's Fair and the delightful events of Sunday which was spent as a day of rest with the Roosevelts, the President, Mrs. Roosevelt, and the aged mother of the President ,will linger in memory. They revealed what has been a fact—the mutual friendship of the American people and those of Britain and Canada.

Everywhere Their Majesties went on that tour, by their spontaneous and natural action and their delightful personalities, by their interest in men who fought to protect liberty and democracy, it was a triumph, whether on the streets in the cavalcade, at the state and embassy dinners, among the people or in such functions as before the tomb of the first president, George Washington, or at the world's fair where they met people of every race, among them subjects of Britain.

It was just as expected, the American people did themselves proud in their welcome to the King and Queen. In the pictures which were published broadcast, there is always shown that sincerity and that spontaneousness of the crowds which come from the heart. It was felt from the start that when two such couples met as the King and Queen and the President and Mrs. Roosevelt in the midst of the American people the enthusiasm and happiness would know no bounds.

COMMENCEMENT

Commencement time has come, thousands upon thousands of girls and boys are receiving advice on how to make their lives a success in the great world into which they are going now that they have completed their courses of study. These addresses come from those who are bridges between the days that were and today and the days that are to be. An elder age advises youth entering upon a strange and yet most wonderful world in history.

It is fitting that at this very time when impressions are deepest King George Sixth and Queen Elizabeth should be the Dominion's guests, though her Sovereigns. The British Throne is one of the greatest lessons in itself. Study of the Throne should be one of the best precepts of life for the Throne is the visible symbol of the mind and spirit of the people and their rulers meeting the emergencies of age after age. In the era which offers the greatest challenges to youth about to make their way into life, the Throne can offer some impressions on the enduring things. It sums up what made a people great and what blessed them with Empire, not in the sense of the old Imperialism in the use of provinces and states to bolster up the head of the state as it was in the time of ancient empires but the new idea of empire based on service to younger nations, in providing them with wholesome ideals and with protection while they are in the course of development.

There are many other lessons which are going to be given at this time to the throbbing young people, athrill on the verge of their life experiences. There is always the Golden Rule. This cannot be forgotten at any time. There is respect for law and order as the guarantees of freedom, there is the danger of following old patterns as Governor Lehman of New York pointed out at Russell Sage College at Troy, indicating the need to resist "the insistent temptation to follow customary patterns or socially sanctioned prejudice without regard to their merits."

The keys to the doors of the great world of success in its truest sense which faces the young graduates are the old keys of honesty, faith, loyalty, respect for the orderly methods of law, the ideal of freedom and the golden rule. It may look at times, as if these principles did not always show up well in a busyday world but they are the guides which he who is wise will follow.

MARIGOLD

Whence came your name, sweet Marigold,
Bright flower with golden crest,
From Mara, deepest bitterness,
Or Mary, Virgin Blest?

Perhaps you were the little flower
Beneath the cross that day,
Trampled and crushed by thronging feet
That passed along the way.

And from the precious stream poured forth
Out from His riven side,
Were you the first to drink and live,
Revived, though He had died?

The moon came up behind the hill,
The cross stood dark and bare,
But Marigold with life restored,
Alone kept vigil there.

Whene'er I see you Marigold,
Midst garden flowers so sweet,
I think of how your beauty shone
Beneath the Master's feet.

RICHARD HALLIBURTON, writer and traveler, and Captain John Wenlock Welch, master mariner, who have been missing since they sailed aboard a Chinese junk from Hong Kong for San Francisco, probably perished in a typhoon some 1,200 miles west of Midway Island on the night of March 23-24, according to a letter published in the current issue of the United States Naval Institute Proceedings.

The letter from Albert R. Wetjen, author of ~~sea stories~~ and a close friend of Captain Welch, who commanded Mr. Halliburton's junk, relates what is probably the last chapter in a tragedy of the sea.

Addressed to the editor of the Proceedings, it says that "in September, 1938, Captain Welch (who was an ensign in the United States Naval Reserve) signed on with Halliburton to sail a Chinese junk to the San Francisco World's Fair for exhibition purposes. The thing, of course, was an adventure from Mr. Haliburton's point of view, but was simply another berth to Captain Welch.

"They built the 75-foot junk in Hong Kong, left that port in February, and were probably lost in a typhoon on the night of March 23-24, 1939, some 1,200 miles west of Midway Island, the last radioed position. Capt. Welch was a master (unlimited) in both sail and steam; born in Adelaide, South Australia; served in the grain clippers 'round the Horn; was a junior officer in the Royal Australian Navy during the war, with service on transports, etc., in the British Channel and in Belgian waters.

"He was a sea technician in motion pictures for a while, for Universal and Fox, until talkies came in, and then was first mate with the United Fruit Company on the San Francisco-Central American run.

"His last voyage was tragic, but his attitude was entirely in keeping with the traditions of the sea. His last radio report was as follows, addressed to Mr. Collins, executive officer of the President Coolidge of the American President Line, Mr. Collins being a personal friend:

'Sea Dragon. March 23. Collins, President Coolidge: Southerly gales. Squalls. Lee rail under water. Hardtack. Bully Beef. Wet bunks. Having wonderful time. Wish you were here instead of me. Welch, master.'

"The formal report of Mr. Collins to his company read:

'If the Sea Dragon encountered such weather as we did on the night of March 23, and she undoubtedly did, there is small chance the little craft survived.'"

"I am informed that the President Coolidge on the night of March 23 encountered typhoon conditions and had to be slowed to six knots. It is, of course, pretty obvious what would happen to a 75-foot junk, when a 20-knot, 20,000-tonner had to be eased into seas that were estimated at 40 feet," Mr. Wetjen adds.

The Printers and Albert College baseball teams played a match on the hospital lot yesterday afternoon. While not exactly a gilt-edged exhibition, it was interesting and the teams were fairly well matched. The Printers started out as though they were going to make a cricket score, getting in six runs in the first inning, but after that the College pitcher, Delong, held them down pretty well until the seventh inning, when they hit him hard and scored eight runs. It was decided to call the game a draw at this point, although the game should have been forfeited, as the College team refused to play the full nine innings. When the game stopped the score stood 23 to 21 in favor of the College team. The following composed the teams: Printers: Cornell, Brown, S. Stevenson, MacDairmid, Howe, Cherry, T. Stevenson, Dunn and Duffin. Albert College: Delong, Marks Houston, Parry, Jamieson, Ford, Roland, Nutbrown and Brownlee. The umpire was "Billy" Ponton and he gave entire satisfaction.

DUNCAN DISGRACED

Duncan, a saddle - backed tortoise, is being sent from the Regent's Park Zoo to Whipsnade in disgrace. Last summer he went to Whipsnade for a holiday, and on his return to Regent's Park was extremely bumptious.

Winter lethargy had a soothing influence and he reformed, but recently he broke out again. He bullied all his housemates and upset their dignity by snapping at them and turning them over on their backs.

The zoo rarely has trouble of this kind with tortoises, but occasionally one of the giant specimens feels frisky and amuses himself by upsetting his companions. Some time ago a turtle became so ill-tempered that he could not share his tank with others.

As a punishment he was put in a pond with George, the centenarian alligator. They were not good companions, for George tried without success to swallow the turtle, and the turtle tried with equal lack of success to bite George, but when they parted the turtle was a reformed character.—London Sunday Times.

A WORD NEEDED

Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador in Washington, is American born. She is, in fact, a grandniece of General William Tecumseh Sherman, he of the famous three-word essay on the nature of war.

As she hears the shrill and tactless outcries from some of those who aren't invited to the Embassy garden party for the King and Queen, Lady Lindsay must feel like whispering to the shade of her illustrious kinsman:

"Uncle Tecumseh if, war is hell, please think up a word to describe this job of mine."—N.Y. World-Telegram.

SOOTHING PHILOSOPHY

Commending Premier Neville Chamberlain's "well-nigh inexhaustible patience," an exchange observes: "Had an impetuous type of statesman been in command in Britain last autumn, it is altogether likely that Europe would have been plunged into war."

This is course the usual line of apology for the policy that destroyed Czecho-Slovakia, weakened the position of the democratic powers, and inspired Mussolini to demand the surrender of certain French possessions to Italy. But in scepulating on what might have happened if a firmer hand than Chamberlain's had been directing British foreign policy last September, it is more than even chance that Czecho-Slovakia would still be in existence, that the calling of Hitler's bluff would have ended his poker game, that all rumors and fears of war would have quickly disappeared. But when one has caved in and delivered the goods at a brigand's challenge, it is sometimes soothing to persuade one-self there was nothing else to do.—Sidney Post-Record.

PUGNACIOUS COBRA

That cobras can race, and race fast, is declared by Muhammed Sultan after a brush with a large one near Lucknow, India. The man was returning home on his bicycle when he saw the reptile lying across the road. Annoyed at having to move, it raised its hood and lunged at Sultan, missing him by inches.

The cyclist pedalled on, and, glancing back later, he saw the cobra chasing him, and gaining on him. In a few moments the reptile came alongside the bicycle. Taking advantage of a downhill stretch, Sultan put his feet on the handle-bars to keep his legs out of reach of the snake's fatal bite.

In a desperate effort to "strike" him the cobra became entangled in the spokes of the front wheel and was cut in two.—London Tit-Bits.

Eye-Strain May Cause Other Symptoms Than Headache

Although most headaches are believed to be due to stomach and intestinal disturbances and a great many to sinus trouble, there is a large number that are due to eye-strain. So common are headaches due to eye-strain that headache is often considered the only or outstanding symptom, whereas eye-strain may cause symptoms in organs far removed from the eyes. Even the headache itself is not the same in different individuals and may vary somewhat even in the one individual.

Headache from eye-strain may come on slowly or rapidly. It may be over one eye or both eyes, although the ache is usually more severe over one eye than the other.

"Headache may begin at any but more frequently after the first year or two at school". These headaches occur with a certain degree of regularity, perhaps once every two weeks for a while and gradually become more frequent.

As these headaches are often accompanied by nausea and vomiting it is only natural that it is blamed on some food that was eaten, eating too much food, or eating when tired.

"Some soon learn to become suspicious of their eyes because of headache following theatre-going, card-playing, car-riding, shopping, sewing or reading too long".

In Handbook of Therapy, by Drs. Oliver T. Osborne and Morris Fishbein, it is pointed out that dizziness stomach upsetment, even nausea and stomach upset, even nausea; vomiting may occur without any ache whatever and still be due to eye-strain. Cold hands and feet, chilly sensations, faint feelings, palpitation, irregular heart beat and pain in region of the heart may be due to eye-strain and be corrected by correcting the eye defect.

Unfortunately, as eye-strain is not suspected of being the cause of headaches because of other symptom—nausea, vomiting, cold hands and feet—many of these patients become nervous and irritable which is apt to cause more frequent attacks. These symptoms are often called "bilious attacks" and good nourishing foods may be blamed for, it and left out of the patient's diet, causing further weakness and nervousness.

In cases of headache, nausea and vomiting occurring from time to time, an examination of the eyes would be good sense.

City Council Refuses Request Of Board of Education To Construct School Addition Members Consider Time Inopportune Due to High Tax Rate

OTHER BUSINESS

The City Council with three members dissenting voted against advancing $35,000 for the addition to Queen Mary School at their regular session on Monday evening, but not before a lengthy discussion took place. The members generally believed that the addition was necessary but they also did not want to increase the capital expenditure in the city nor increase the tax rate. Many were in favor of allowing the question to be put to the ratepayers to decide, while others asked for representation from the City Council on the School Board and others suggested that the Council turn down completely the estimates of the Board of Education and allow that body to collect their own taxes for school purposes as provided by law. Those supporting the recommendation "That in view of the excessive tax rate in the city the Council feels that the requisition of the Board of Education for $35,000 is inopportune at this time", were Mayor Bone, Aldermen Haig, Butler, Thompson, Rollins, Kennedy, Marshall, Jeffery, Cushing and Lewis. Those opposing were Aldermen Allin, Harvey and Logan.

Chairman Appears

Russell Wotten, chairman of the Board of Education, appeared before the council in a final effort to have the council grant the sum required but before he spoke on the question a letter sent by him to the Council was read to the members. The letter in part was as follows—

His Worship Mayor Bone and Members of the City Council,
Belleville,
Ontario.

Sirs:

In the Ontario Intelligencer of Friday, June 9th, we note that the Council in 'Committee' refused the Board of Education their request for $35,000.00 for the addition to Queen Mary School, on the grounds that the time was inopportune and the Tax Rate too high.

We think that our Board proved conclusively that the time was most opportune as regards the low interest rates at which money could be procured to finance the project.

As for the present tax rate—no one questions it is high, but with $150,000.00 Public School debentures maturing in the next three years; starting 1940—therefore this request would not effect the present tax rate in any way either this year or any other year as the cost of the extension will be smaller than the first debenture falling due in 1940.

The Board of Education has given this matter a great deal of thought and work, and would certainly not make this request if we thought it was anything but a vital necessity.

We have tried to co-operate in every way with your Council this year, both by getting our estimates in early and by cutting them to the lowest point possible, in face of considerable criticisms.

In view of the fact that we have thoroughly explained this worthy matter to the Council, we feel that further deputations to your honorable body would serve no good purpose. However we sincerely hope that you will change your decision tonight so that the children of West Belleville may be assured the necessary accommodation in a school that is now overcrowded and lacks many vital essentials that every other school now has and this School needs badly.

Thanking you for your kind consideration of the matter, we are,

Yours very truly,
F. R. WOTTEN,
Chairman of the Board
EDNA WEDDEN,
Assistant Secretary-Treasurer.

Alderman Logan was the first member to speak to the question and stated he had changed his mind after personally visiting the school learning first hand the condition of that school. "I will say that I have changed my mind completely regarding this matter", said Ald. Logan. "The conditions in that school are deplorable and the children attending should have better accommodation. I have also found out that it is impossible to rezone the children. I believe that next year there is $40,000 of debentures to be retired and the year following approximately a $110,000 and if this money is granted there will be no necessity to increase the tax rate over this expenditure this year nor the next. Money is quite cheap at the present time and building costs are low. I agree with Mayor Bone that the government should assume a greater share of educational costs but at the same time I am of the opinion that the children should have a decent place to continue their studies and I am going to vote to give the Board the required amount."

In Favor of Addition

Ald. Allin—"I am happy to know one Alderman has changed his mind. I was a member of the Board of Education for nine years and I know the conditions in that school and I am convinced something should be done to relieve the condition that exists."

Ald. Harvey—"I, too, was a member of the Board for 18 years and for the last ten years I have been behind the Board to remedy the condition that exists at Queen Mary School".

Ald. Butler—"I am sorry to say I have not been to the school but the Council is trying to keep down the rate and if the addition is not built I am assured that some expense will be necessary for that school this year."

Ald. Haig—"It is the considerate policy of the Ontario Municipal Board to allow these questions to be put to the people and that is the position I take in this matter. Let the people decide. It is true that some debentures will be retired but that is just what we want and there is no use piling on more capital expenditure."

Mayor Bone Opposed

Mayor Bone— "I have tried to work hand in hand with the Board of Education but last January I was not allowed to address the Board until I had apologized about what I had said about the Teachers' Federation. I apologized but my opinion of that body has not changed in the least. I think the City Council should have representation on the Board of Education. Turning to the matter in hand I find there are 166 less children at the school than there were four years ago." Mayor Bone blamed the government for the conditions existing and admitted the Board had a fair claim but the need was not as pressing as for some old people, who were being put out of their homes due to heavy taxation. "If I had my way I would refuse the whole estimate of the Board of Education and allow them by law to collect their own taxes", said His Worship. "I think the people should decide this question."

Ald. Marshall — "I think the matter should be decided by the people."

Chairman Heard

Russell Wotten, chairman of the Board told the members, that the Board had been very patient as the question was one of vital concern to the children of this city. "You must remember there are as many heavy taxpayers on the School Board as there are in the City Council and they are willing for this expenditure to be made", said Mr. Wotten. "The Board has no intention of putting the question to the people. We came down here the last meeting and asked for a modest $35,000 to relieve a condition that is most deplorable, but you turned us down, yet at the same meeting you gentlemen voted yourselves $5.00 a meeting in salary. In twenty years that vote will amount to $61,600 yet our requisition for $35,000 will only amount to $59,000 in the 20 years. I don't think you are consistent. There is no decent accommodation for the children at Queen Mary School and if you turn us down the Board will have to spend money to make necessary repairs, that will not alleviate the situation."

Not a Comparison, Says Mayor

Mayor Bone: "The salary voted to the Aldermen does not affect me, as the Mayor for many years has received an honorarium. You can't compare the council to the Teachers' Federation in the matter of salary, some of them teach all day and then get two periods a night at the Night School at a rate of $4.50 a period.

Ald. Lewis: "We have spent hours and hours on this matter and then the Chairman of the Board comes here with bitter criticism."

Mr. Wotten: "That is all" I have nothing to do with this argument."

Ald. Lewis: "It is a very ill timed comparison respecting the council with an addition for a school."

Mr. Wotten: "That is all, I have nothing more to say and he left the council chamber.

Ald. Rollins: "I have visited the school and the need for an addition is apparent, but in committee the members dealt with the question as if it were there own business and they felt it was not an opportune time to construct this addition. If we could build without increasing the tax rate, I would be willing.

Explanation Given

Ald. Haig: "We will have another meeting next week to fix the tax rate and I am going to show that Belleville in comparison with other municipalities of a like size has a per capita debt out of all proportions. It has been spoken of here tonight about retiring of debentures in the next two years. That is just what we want to do, reduce our debt. I take the same stand as the Municipal Board, that the people should decide as to capital expenditure." At this point the vote was taken and recorded as above mentioned.

Ernie Finkle appeared before the council asking that a bill for $45.60 be paid. This bill was in connection with the fixing of the decorative lights on Pinnacle Street. Mr. Finkle stated he was ordered to change the lights to allow the shunter to pass under them with a man on the top of the cars at a price of $9.00. "When I was making the change the shunter came along and knocked my son from the ladder and tore the lighting down. I then received instructions to repair the damage by the City Engineer, which I did and then rendered my bill, but I was only paid the $9.00.

Ald. Thompson: "This is the first time I have had this matter explained in this way."

Offers Suggestion

Ald. Harvey: "I think it should be referred to the Claims Committee, if Mr. Finkle's boy was injured."

Ald. Logan: "Were you told by the City Engineer to repair the damage?"

Mr. Finkle: "Yes."

Ald. Rollins: "We received word from the railroad that the wires were not clearing their trains and while fixing this matter the accident occurred."

Mr. Finkle: "That is right, but I was ordered to go ahead and repair the damage and I have not been paid."

Mayor Bone and Ald. Lewis: "Put your claim in writing and send it in to the council at the next meeting."

John Bush, coal dealer of the city told the council that the other coal dealers were trying to put him out of business and he did not think it was right that he should have to have a shed to house seven or eight cars of coal. Mr. Bush told the council that he intended to continue business in the city despite the by-law that was passed at a previous meeting.

Lot is Sold

The Curling Rink lot on George Street was sold to Sam Pappas for $400 with the proviso that Mr. Pappas erect within one year a house valued at $3,500 and also pay the 1939 taxes. The Belleville Branch of the Canadian Institute for the Blind will be allowed to hold a tag day on September 26th. The Kinsmen under the general chairmanship of Alderman Allin were granted the privilege of holding their Kid Kar Derby on July 11th and were allowed to close North Front Street from the Overhead Bridge to the Upper Bridge. The street oiling committee for the year will be composed of Mayor Bone, Aldermen Kennedy, Rollins, Lewis and the City Engineer. The decorative lights will not be turned on for the time being according to a decision of the members at the meeting. Alderman Rollins, Chairman of Light stated he was personally against the expense and Ald. Lewis thought there was more kick to the lights at Christmas time.

By-Laws Passed

Two by-laws were given their final reading and passing and two were given their second reading and sent to the Ontario Municipal Board for ratification. An agreement between Walter Cordes and the city of Belleville for a lot was passed also the agreement between the City and Bert Zebedee for the collection of garbage for one year. Those by-laws given their second reading was one to fix the salaries of the Hydro Electric Commission, the Chairman to receive $400 and each Commissioner $300. Aldermen Harvey, Marshall, Kennedy and Jeffery opposed the clause stating the amount while all but Jeffery opposed the remainder of the by-law. A by-law to eliminate certain noises in the city was passed and will be sent to Toronto. A letter on the subject received from Fred S. Deacon was read as follows:

Belleville, Ontario
May 31, 1939

His Worship, Mayor Jamieson Bone
Belleville, Ontario

Dear Mr. Mayor—

We wish to bring to your attention the fact that we should pass an "Anti Noise By-Law" in our city. Our forelady, living at 150 Front Street, reports that the noise caused by the slot music machines after 12 p.m. is very annoying, so much so that the residents in that neighborhood are unable to obtain any sleep. She appealed to the Police Department, but, they have no "By-Law" covering any Anti-Noise. These restaurants are open all hours, but, we think they should restrict the music after midnight, at least. Why not have your solicitor prepare a by-law covering same. You should include in this" 'By-Law' the honking of motor car horns during the night hours, the honking of horns by wedding parties, which is a barbarian custom, the honking of horns at street intersections, until the traffic moves along in due course.

You will recall that this matter was brought up some time ago, but nothing was done in the matter. N.Y. City and London, Miami, Florida and all large cities have laws against Street Noises that disturb the public. Hope your Council will take this matter into consideration and give relief to many, many people now suffering.

All of which is respectfully submitted by,

Yours very truly,
F. S. DEACON.

Motions Passed

Under the heading of motions, Alderman Haig introduced one which passed "that the Clerk be instructed to write to the Police Commission requesting that stickers be printed to serve as a warning to owners of cars parked in contravention of the Parking By-Law and that the use of these stickers be left to the discretion of the Police Department, that the stickers should have prominently printed on them a warning that a breach of the by-law has occurred and further pointing out the regulations in force in the city and location of the parking lots."

Another motion was introduced by Alderman Allin that a committee of three, one to be the Chairman of Welfare, be appointed to consider the Beaches development as a relief project and report back to the council. This motion was passed after Alds. Allin and Harvey had praised the work of Reg. Moncrieff and their regret at his leaving the president's chair. Mayor Bone appointed Aldermen Butler, Allin and Lewis on the committee and they will report at a further meeting. Ald. Jennings brought up the question of parking on both sides of the street near Catharine and Coleman Street. The Mayor told Ald. Jennings to get his signs up and then the police could take action. There being no further business the council adjourned.

CHEERS

The King and Queen chatted with war veterans before starting the longest motor drive of their Canadian tour. The drive carried them through a land rich in story and legend—the stamping ground of old time lumberjacks.

The blue and silver royal train rolled into this wooded province early this morning after an overnight trip through picturesque Matapedia Valley. It sped along the hilly Baie Chaleur coastline and then cut inland to this little town at the head of Miramichi Bay.

Newcastle, with its 3,500 population, was the first New Brunswick town to welcome Their Majesties officially. Arrival of the royal party here was not scheduled until 9.20 a.m. EDT and hours before that lumbermen and fishermen with their wives and children had gathered in villages along the route to speed the train on its way with a wave.

Crowds Gather Early

Crowds gathered early around the gayly decorated station long before the train arrived. This was a case of necessity as roads leading to the depot were closed shortly before the arrival.

During the 10-minute stop, the program called for Prime Minister Mackenzie King to present Mayor D. S. Creaghan and Mrs. Creaghan to Their Majesties. Nora Creaghan, daughter of the Mayor, and Marjorie Davidson were chosen to present a bouquet to the Queen.

Miss Davidson is the great-great-great-grand-daughter of William Davidson, a Scot who in 1764 was the first English-speaking settler on the Miramichi River.

A Busy Day

The welcome here followed a busy day in Quebec Province. Their Majesties, returning to the Dominion after a four-day visit in the United States, entered the Dominion shortly after daybreak at Lacolle, Que., on the New York border 30-miles south of Montreal.

Before the day ended they had crossed the wide expanse of Quebec Province, through the farm lands of the Eastern Townships to Sherbrooke, north across rough terrain to Levis and then east along the St. Lawrence River shore line to Mont Joli where they turned south again into the Matapedia valley.

And at every stop along the route there was a moving spectacle of thousands of wide-eyed men, women and children cheering and waving to a handsome King in a grey-striped lounge suit and a beautiful Queen in an ash-rose dress.

Children sang for Their Majesties at St. Johns, an old garrison town on the Richelieu River 25 miles east of Montreal where the first official stop of the day was made.

Then for more than 40 minutes at noon, Sherbrooke, hub of the Townships, took the royal couple to its heart and gave them such a welcome tears gleamed in their eyes when they left.

Steps Into Crowd

In that city, with its population trebled for the day to 100,000 the King and Queen again demonstrated the graciousness that has marked the four-week Dominion wide tour by stepping into the crowd and talking with war veterans.

Twelve hours after their arrival back in Canada, Their Majesties reached Levis, quaint old French city on the St. Lawrence river facing Quebec.

The crowd there broke down a fence to get a closer view as the train stopped for 15 minutes while the King unveiled a bronze plaque commemorating the visit and was introduced to officials and veterans.

Premier Duplesis of Quebec, Lieutenant Governor Patenaude and Mayor Lucien Borne of Quebec were among officials who greeted Their Majesties at Levis.

Then began the journey to the east. At each station as the train rolled by Jean Baptiste and his family waved flags and shouted au revoir.

The last official stop in French Canada was at Riviere Du Loup at 9.32 p.m. where 25,000 persons sounded a boisterous farewell to the couple whom they had cheered from the shore a month ago when the royal flotilla steamed up the river.

Greet War Veterans

Again the King and Queen greeted war veterans, among them French speaking Jim Thomas who pulled off his blue beret to show King George the silver plate where his forehead used to be before he was struck by a piece of shrapnel at Vimy Ridge.

The 56-year-old laborer of Indian descent was one of 100 great war veterans in the crowd of 25,000 who bade farewell to Their Majesties here for all French-Canada.

Their Majesties talked to almost all the veterans, moving along the line they came to Thomas after chatting with Dr. E. E. Latulippe and Major F. Triquet of nearby Cabano.

Thomas, stolid of countenance and standing erect, was first addressed by the Queen who saw the plate beneath the front of his beret and asked him where and how he had been wounded. Removing the beret, he told her it was at Vimy Ridge.

"Her Majesty was anxious if it still hurt me" Jim said afterwards. "I told her my head sometimes ached from the wound. It did not ache tonight, though, or if it did I could not tell. This is a big day in my life."

That was about all the black-haired Jim would say. He said the King "asked me about my medals" and he told His Majesty the four decorations were won overseas.

Plans Membership Drive Among 20 Million Workers

Washington, June 13—(AP)—John L. Lewis called in the executive board of 42 unions affiliated with the Congress of Industrial Organizations today to plan a membership drive among the estimated 20,000,000 wage earners still outside the ranks of organized labor.

Lewis and the board members also may talk of unity with the American Federation of Labor but there were no advance signs of any new efforts to resume peace conferences except on the C.I.O. proposals for a new labor movement.

The prospects of a new C. I. O. organizing campaign, timed to keep pace with accelerated activities in such industries as aircraft and shipbuilding, were regarded by some labor leaders as a definite sign that labor peace still was several months distant.

The Stars Say—

For Wednesday, June 14

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A SUDDEN and surprising turn in events, due to a vital lunar transit, may have a far-reaching effect on the future life and its activities. Unforeseen and unpredictable occurrences are probable, causing uprooting of old ties, environs and interests, and culminating in high adventure and romance. Such breath-taking incidents call for sagacious handling.

Those whose birthday it is are warned of the sudden precipitation of an unpredictable visitation, which may cause a complete reorganization and reorientation of the life and its circumstances. It might be a drastic change in business, offering enlarged opportunities, or it might spell romantic adventure, deeply affecting the destiny and happiness. Be calm as possible and wise in accepting such radical departures.

A child born on this day may be original, independent, adventurous and romantic. It may have a dramatic and dynamic personality, carrying it to unusual experiences and places in life. Its career may be sensational.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

East, West, Home's Best!

Dear Miss Fairfax

Neither of us believe in sneaking. I have known him for over a year, and he continually asks to be allowed to come to see me. I always make up some excuse to put him off. The real reason I won't let him come is that I'm embarrassed to have him see our home. The rooms have been papered and painted carelessly and the furniture isn't modern, although the house is spotlessly clean and neat at all times.

We don't own the house, but I expect we'll have to live there for a long time and have the same furniture. What shall I do, invite this friend and pretend I don't care about the way things look, or continue to make excuses?

A. M.

If the boy is worth your friendship, he won't mind about your home not being up-to-date. Also, you might be entertaining angels unawares, in the matter of the old furniture. It may be antique and very valuable.

If a house is neat and well-kept there is no use being ashamed of it. The proper way for a girl to feel is, if it's good enough for me, it's good enough for my friends. By all means, invite the boy.

Some In-Laws are Peaceable

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Before he went with me he had another girl. They planned to be married and he built their home. But the girl started to drink and smoke and dance, and he broke with her.

He would like me to marry him in six months. He plans to buy my engagement ring this summer, and he wants me to live with his family, after we are married and rent the house he built for the other girl. I have no objection to living with his parents because they are good people, easy to get along with, and so am I.

Sometimes I think he loves the other girl because he talks about her. I've asked him not to do this. I'm 18, and he's 26.

E.

If you and the young man's parents are easy to get along with, I don't see why all of you can't try the experiment of living together. Not all in-laws go in for warfare, declared and undeclared. I know many families in which the arrangement is admirable. At least give it a try.

There's no way of telling how he still regards this former sweetheart. It would be wiser not to put a ban on his mentioning her name. That makes a broken engagement more important than it really is.

Could a City Girl Enjoy Farm Life?

Dear Miss Fairfax

I'm the sole owner of a farm of nearly two hundred acres. It's entirely free from debt, and I manage to make a living out of it. Nothing to brag about, but I get along and have a sum of money for emergencies, in the bank. It's just under $600.

I'm very much in love with a young school teacher, who always seems to like everything when she pays a visit to me on the farm. However, there are no modern improvements, no running water in the house, gas or electricity. I have water in the barn for the stock. For the house we've always used the well.

My parents are dead, and my wife would be absolute mistress of the farm. But would it be safe to expect a city girl used to all sorts of modern improvements, to live on a farm without them? She pretends to like everything when she comes there. But how would she stand it permanently?

Young Farmer

It seems to me your first step should be to put the question up to the young lady herself. Would she like to live on a farm without improvements? Personally, I can't visualize a city school teacher dipping up water from a well daily, and caring for lamps is tedious and messy. Why not take some of the nest-egg and install a few comforts? I believe you'd find the money well invested.

Elbow Elegance

JUNE PREISSER

Elbow care is essential in her beauty formula.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Summer means short sleeves, arms out in the open. It is time for an elbow survey. You've probably never seen yours; few girls have. Feel of them. Like nutmeg graters, we bet. Most of them are.

The friction of sleeves makes them grey. To bring a better color, cup your elbow in half a lemon and twist the lemon around. Wait a few minutes until the juice dries on, then massage briskly with cold cream or cleansing oil. Pat on borated talcum to form a pack, slip into your nighty, say prayers and go to bed.

In the morning bathe the arms with warm water, soap and a heavy brush, rinse, dry and friction with eau de cologne.

Few Things More Humiliating To Victim Than Stuttering

For a few days this column will devote itself to a subject in which I have a particular and a peculiar interest —stuttering. I, myself, have suffered from this strange phenomenon of speech which is often so amusing to others and so humiliating and agonizing to the victim. Few things will handicap a boy more than stuttering or stammering.

The history of my trouble is the same as that of hundreds of other persons with whom I have talked—an accident, a fright, then the defect develops in speech.

In my case, I was several years old and was out driving with my father and mother when the horse took freight and ran away. My father was an excellent hand with horse, but this animal did get away from him and we were thrown out. I was the only one hurt, a wheel struck my head. I wasn't injured badly, but within a few days, my parents noticed that I was beginning to have difficulty with some of my words. They did everything they could to correct me, but it was no use.

As I grew up, I had the same experiences as other children; I wouldn't talk in school because the other pupils teased me, and, as a result, teachers though I was balky and treated me accordingly. Like other stutterers, I retired more and more into a sort of dreamworld of my own. I read a great deal, kept to myself most of the time, and neglected my studies frightfully. Studies to me, typified school, and since I was constantly being ridiculed and embarrassed in school, I hated it. The only fortunate thing was that I had been born a member of a large family—there were eight of us. This kept me from isolating myself too much. But I do feel sorry for the only child who stutters, and I am told that there are more stutterers among children than any other group.

Most stutterers are introverts. That is, they draw within themselves; they shun the outside world just as much as they can.

Even after I entered practice here in the North, I continued as before. I read everything I could get my hands on. I read a great deal of scientific information. When the Dionne Quintuplets arrived I found that a great deal of this information I had been accumulating over the years was valuable. I know it helped me do the right things, to keep them alive.

The arrival of those children did something for me too. It practically cured me of stuttering, and brought me out of that dream world where I had dwelt for so long.

But everyone who stutters can't have a shock like the arrival of quintuplets to jar them loose from their obsessions and their inhibitions. I only hope what I have to tell you may be of some use to someone whose life is being blighted by stuttering.

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

How Should a Married Woman Sign Her Letters?

Always in my heart there is the hope that some day in some way I shall be able to convince married women that never, under any circumstances, should they sign a letter any letter, like this:

Very sincerely yours,
Mrs. Robert Smith

or:

Very sincerely yours,
Mra Mary Smith.

It isn't the "very sincerely yours" I'm thinking about. That's all right. I refer to the social error that so many married women make when they sign either "Mrs. Robert Smith" or, worse, "Mrs. Mary Smith" as the direct signature of any kind of letter—social, professional or business.

It is amazing to see how many married women, in all walks of life, do not know how to sign a letter properly and do not take the trouble to find out.

And it is so easy to learn, so simple. Your signature is such a personal part of you that you should be eager and proud to have it correct.

In general, there are three types of letters we write, each with its proper form of signature.

The first kind are the letters we write to our close friends. Naturally we sign these letters with our first name:

Affectionately,
Mary.

The second kind are the letters we write to people whom we don't know especially well, but who know our formal married name (Mrs. Robert Smith). Signing such letters with our first name only is obviously too intimate a signature, and so these "in-between" letters we properly sign:

Sincerely,
Mary Robinson Smith

(Or, if you prefer, Mary Smith. Or, if you don't mind using an initial, which isn't such good form, Mary R. Smith.)

Now comes the third kind of letters. In this group are business or professional letters and letters written to people who do not know your formal married name. In other words, you must inform the readers of these letters what your married name is, either for identification or for their information in correctly addressing a reply to you. For this kind of letter, this is the correct signature:

Very truly yours,
Mary Robinson Smith

(Mrs. Robert Smith)

To explain this: a letter is written in the first person ("I") and, therefore, in the direct signature, you sign your informal name (Mary Robinson Smith.) Then, for identification of yourself, or for the reader's information, you enclose in parentheses your formal married name (Mrs Robert Smith.)

This is a thrilling age, full of speed, danger, complexity. The average person of today knows more, sees more, feels more in a day than his grandfather did in a decade.

The age also makes its demands upon the human system. The shocks and alarms of modern life are exhausting, enervating; they break down physical reserves until life becomes a burden. Yet a really healthy person enjoys modern life.

Physicians understand the need for physical fitness. Consult your doctor at the first sign of apathy or mental unrest. He can improve your health and keep you zestful.

QUEEN FAVORS FRENCH SONG

Her Majesty Sings It Often to Little Princesses

Sherbrooke, Que., June 13—(CP)—One of Queen Elizabeth's favorite songs is the French-Canadian "Alouette" and Her Majesty sings it frequently to the little Princesses, she told Margaret Armitage, daughter of Sherbrooke's Mayor here Monday.

After the charming 23-year-old girl presented the Queen with a bouquet of roses and took her place at the Queen's left on the reception platform, they chatted informally.

"I was never so thrilled in my life" Miss Armitage said afterwards. "The Queen asked me about the group of Sherbrooke singers who sang 'Alouette' then she told me that it was one of her favorite songs and that she sings it often to Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose in her home in London and down in Windsor Castle."

Just as Miss Armitage presented the bouquet, a gust of wind flipped her hat from her head. While the King watched smilingly, she recovered the hat before it fluttered to the platform.

QUEEN ELIZABETH'S

No Time For Lunch

During the busy Western Ontario trip last week the King and Queen found no time for lunch or tea on the train. Their stop-and-start run began shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning at London. They went right through to Niagara Falls before dining, well after eight o'clock at night.

But with all the celebrations planned for them in a crowded program the King and Queen have been able to follow to a moderate degree their inclinations toward relaxation.

They ran away from formality in Ottawa and went for a walk in the woods. They stopped the train several times in open country because they wanted to get out in the sunshine for a walk. They browsed about Banff. In Jasper they were so happy in their little log cabin it is said the King laughingly declared he would not put his watch ahead to mountain standard time until they had left, preferring to 'lose the hour' after they had departed from the mountain resort.

Life on Train Simple

The life of the royal couple on their train is simple but full of interruptions. They go to bed early when possible and rise early, but while travelling in the daytime their buzzer signal sounds almost constantly, telling them of the crowds lining the tracks ahead. If the King is busy with correspondence and state affairs, the Queen steps to the platform alone, and the crowds thrill at her smile and the wave of her hand.

The moment the train stops at the red carpet the King and Queen are ready to appear together the moment the footman opens the door. No matter how frequent the stops or how long the journey has been, they come out smiling.

WILL PRESIDENT

"In Washington, in New York, indeed, wherever we have been in the United States, we have been accorded a reception of which the friendliness was unmistakable.

"Though this was our first visit to your great country and though it was necessarily only a brief one, it has given us memories of kindly feeling and good will that we shall always treasure.

"To you, our host, and to the many thousands of American citizens who also showed us such true hospitality and such spontaneous courtesy, we send our heartfelt thanks and our best wishes."

Not a Precedent

The consensus here is that the Roosevelts will not return the visit while the President is in office, though such a trip would not be entirely unprecedented. Woodrow Wilson has been the only United States President to visit Europe while in office, but five others — including Mr. Roosevelt — have gone outside the United States.

Theodore Roosevelt went to Panama and William Howard Taft visited Panama and Mexico. Warren Harding was in Canada in the year of his death and Calvin Coolidge visited Cuba to open the Pan-American Conference in 1928.

Several Presidents have gone abroad after leaving office. Officials would not be surprised if President Roosevelt would do likewise.

After leaving the White House President Ulysses Grant made a tour of the world in which he was received by the rulers of all the countries he visited. He spent a night at Windsor Castle and was entertained at dinner by Queen Victoria.

Theodore Roosevelt started his post-presidential trip in South Africa after a big-game hunt. Later he visited Italy, France and Germany. King Edward VII having died while the former President was en route, he was named special ambassador to the funeral.

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

Would she be such a fool as to deny Mickey, her own Mickey, just for a while? Or would she be a bigger fool to risk losing the first man who had really stirred her deeply, the first since Mike Morton?

Linda, the mother, answered no to the first question.

Linda, the girl—a girl as normally selfish as the next one—heard the second question, and, to it, answered yes.

Mickey Morton, asleep in his crib, with Dopey the doll cradled in the crook of his little arm, didn't dream that a word or sign from a tall young man with nice eyes might make Mickey an orphan, by duplicity, at any time.

Neither did Linda dream it, at that instant. But the seed was there.

"Come on, Jo," Janice said. "Linda's tired."

"Sorry, sister," Jo said. "Just Aunty Jo popping off. Don't give it a second thought. And don't get me wrong about Mickey. He's still my favorite boy friend."

"Goodnight, girls," Linda smiled. "Get home safe."

She stood at the door and watched them walk the thirty feet down the hall to their own rooms.

Then she went to Mickey's crib dropped to her knees and remained there a long time before she went to her own bed.

CHAPTER NINE

The next day, back at work in the office, Linda thought more and more of Jo's suggestion of the night before.

Dr. Thorpe smilingly accused her of wool-gathering and offered to bet that her thoughts were miles away—back in her home state maybe—and that's when she asked the question she didn't mean to ask.

"About Dr. Blaine, Dr. Thorpe," Linda said, "you told me you supported him—I didn't understand.."

"Not Billy Blaine, child," Dr. Thorpe laughed. "I was talking about his father. Old J. R. practically owns the building. I pay him a fancy rent each month."

"Oh!" said Linda. "Thanks."

The morning was almost a total blank for Linda, but somehow she managed to get her work done. When lunch time came, she couldn't have told you why she went to the sun deck on the roof, but would have ascribed it probably to a sudden desire for sun.

If Linda went to the roof garden in hopes of meeting someone, it is safe to assume that someone wasn't the one she met.

It was there and then that Linda met Steve Hubbard.

The sun was bright and glaring, and Linda closed her eyes against its brightness. As she stretched her supple young form in the gayly colored deck chair, she noted that, despite the sun, it wasn't uncomfortably warm. Up there on the sun-deck of Titan Tower, twenty-five stories above the street, a gentle, cooling breeze blew stray wisps of hair about her forehead, achieving an effect which Linda would have corrected had she been aware of it, but which was totally charming.

It was not of necessity that Linda closed her eyes against the bright sunlight. She had another alternative, had she chosen to use it. In the purse near her were a pair of dark sun glasses.

But, four feet away, on the other side of a potted palm, was an empty deck chair, its expanse of bright awning looking comfortable and inviting. And, if any chance visitor to the roof should choose to sit down in that chair, he would surely see Linda; particularly if the visitor were a tall and tanned young man with nice blue eyes, a white engaging smile and skilled, long hands—a man who was on the roof under less tranquil circumstances yesterday, a man who was afraid he'd wake up and find her, Linda, gone.

Well, he didn't need to be afraid of that. Little Linda was right here. But where was Dr. Blaine?

Linda had not been too preoccupied, arriving at the building that morning, to look under the "B's" on the huge register near the entrance and she had found it there.

"BLAINE," it read. "William Meredith, M.D., 1902-12."

Before coming to the roof during her lunch hour, she had taken a brief sortie down to the nineteenth floor, a sort of furtive scouting trip. It was a risky thing to do—suppose HE had come out of the office door while she stood there like a dummy! How could she explain her curiosity; how could she assume a nonchalant pose under the circumstances?

There was no need for nervousness, however. The doors of the suite of six offices neither opened nor closed during her brief reconnaisance.

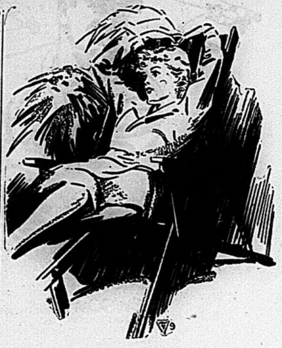
Linda had memorized the legend on the glass door of 1902—the one which was topped by the capital word: "ENTER."

Mentally, she reviewed the sequence of the names:

Franc Carter Vance, M.D.
General Surgery
William M. Blaine, M.D.
Leonard Renquist, M.D.

So that was the "Rennie" to whom Bill Blaine had generously given the credit yesterday for the success of the amputation on the trapped workman. Dr. Renquist was the scowling, tired-looking young man who assisted in the precarious operation.

Suddenly Linda realized that she was hungry, that she had not eaten lunch before coming to the roof.



If Dr. Blaine came up to the roof garden, he could not fail to see Linda sitting in the gayly-colored deck chair.

She opened her eyes, and the first thing she saw was the lower portion of the empty deck chair on the other side of the palm.

The chair was no longer empty. Stretched from the part she saw were a pair of legs. The legs wore neatly pressed brown trousers.

Linda sat upright and peered through the foliage of the palm, blinking against the sun, to see the rest of the chair's occupant. Right under the palm's fans was the face of a young man. It was not Dr. Blaine. Linda sat back in her chair.

"I beg your pardon," the strange man said, "but is this chair taken?"

Linda didn't answer for a long moment. She noticed that the young man had a pleasant boyish grin, wide spaced cheekbones and long-lashed frank gray eyes which seemed ten years older than his grin. She noticed that the face was surmounted by dark hair which looked as though it wouldn't take orders from even military brushes, unless each was a full general. And, under the forepeak of the hair was a brow that had tried to tan, but succeeded better in some spots than others. Linda noticed, also that the stranger had a nose. It wasn't acquiline or fine or strong. It was just a nose.

It definitely wasn't a pretty face, Linda decided, and nothing to make a girl's heart go pitty-pat, but it was a nice face. It didn't look a thought it could be rented out Hallowe'ens, to scare little children.

Just a little fresh around the edges, Linda concluded—an old approach, calling for a trite courteous retort.

"Yes," she answered his question, without smiling, "You seem to have taken it."

"My apologies," the chair-taker said, but the grin didn't fade. "I didn't know this was a private beach. You should post signs to keep out the riff-raff."

It may have been the sun or it may have been the constant, friendly grin. Linda's quickly frozen reserve as quickly melted. She smiled back at him.

CHAPTER TEN

"You'll have to forgive me," he said, and Linda noted for the first time that his voice, low and well modulated, had laughter in it like his face. "This is my first trip to Palm Beach and I guess the altitude sort of got me. The name is Steve Hubbard; I'm from the other side of the tracks, way down in the foundations of this here upright city."

"Forgiven," Linda smiled. "The name is Linda Morton. Uppercrust Linda of the twenty-fifth floor."

Steve had dragged his chair out from behind the palm, and Linda had seen then that the neat brown suit was covered by a white smock of some kind.

"Nurse?" Steve asked.

"Sort of," Linda nodded. "Doctor?"

Steve's grin broadened at that one.

"Well, yes and no," he answered. "You might say I'm a sort of specialist. I guess I have the biggest practice in Titan Tower—and the biggest patients. Variety of complaints from bad pumps to leaking valves."

"Oh," Linda said, understandingly. "Heart."

"Funny," said Steve, "you took the thought right out of my mind. I was beginning to feel the symptoms."

HE IS fresh, Linda thought, and felt the color rush to her face. But fresh in a way that it was difficult to resent. She looked at her watch and said, "It's lovely here, but my hour's up. If I don't get back to my job, I may not have any."

As she walked toward the stairs Steve fell into step beside her. She felt that he was tall, not like Bill Blaine, but tall enough.

"Goodby," Steve said. "Do you get down to—I should say 'up to'—Palm Beach often?"

"Quite often," Linda smiled, "if you count just once. This is my first trip—no pleasure."

"Maybe," said Steve, "we'll meet again."

Whether they did or not was not in Linda's mind as she went back to Dr. Thorpe's office. Steve was forgotten before she had taken ten steps down the stairs. In his place were two feelings of emptiness. She had not eaten, and—more important—she had not seen Dr. Blaine.

Linda was literally up to her elbows in bills she was getting out for Dr. Thorpe several hours later. She was tired and frowning and felt she must have looked at her very worst when then door opened and she glanced up to see the outline of a tall man entering.

"Will you be seated just a moment, please?" she asked, meaning to finish a difficult total before talking to the patient.

Standing in front of her desk and smiling down at her, with an amused twinkle in his eyes, was Bill Blaine.

"Hello, there," he said. Just that.

"Oh," said Linda, "hello."

Why, she moaned inwardly, couldn't she command more than a stupid stage whisper?

"Well," said Dr. Blaine, "this IS a pleasant surprise, Miss Morton—it is Miss Morton, isn't it?"

"Yes," Linda said, letting a half-truth do for the whole. Well, the "Morton" part was right, anyway.

"I just dropped in to see Dr. Thorpe on a professional matter," Dr. Blaine explained, as though an explanation were needed. "You know, I wouldn't have known your name, after all your fine work up there yesterday, if it hadn't appeared in the papers. You're quite the leading lady of Titan Tower today."

"Thank you Dr. Blaine," Linda said. "I'll tell Dr. Thorpe you're here."

"No, don't bother," Blaine said quickly. "It's not vitally important. I'll just walk in on him later—that is, if you're not too busy to be pestered for a few minutes...."

"Pestered?" Linda's eyebrows arched, in a pattern Bill Blaine decided was plenty effective.

"Well," he went on, "I haven't had a chance to thank you adequately for everything you did to help Dr. Renquist and me up there yesterday. And it seems that this chance visit has given me just the right opportunity. I know our poor friend of the accident would want me to thank you, too."

"That's very generous of you, doctor," Linda said. "I'm afraid you're over-emphasizing my part. I just did a nurse's job, that's all."

Why was it all so silly and stilted and formal, Linda asked herself. This wasn't the way she had pictured it, at all.

Why couldn't he say: "Lin, you were swell!" and why couldn't she rush to him and say: "I'd do it again—any place, hanging from a skyhook, even—to be near you."

I know now, she told herself, that that's the way I feel. But things just don't happen that way. I guess.

Dr. Blaine said:

"We're all very proud of you."

Dr. Blaine thought: "Boy: She's lovelier than I thought even yesterday. Why did it take me so long to find out she was in Thorpe's office?"

Linda wasn't psychic, but at that exact moment, as though she had read his thoughts, the color mounted in her already flushed face. Blaine noticed it.

"Say, young lady," he commented, "looks like you've had a touch of the sun!"

Must look like a lobster, Linda thought, a bedraggled, second-hand lobster, with scraggly wisps of hair for feelers.

"It was your prescription, doctor," she said, managing what passed for a smile. "You remarked yesterday that you had been wanting to try out the new solarium on the roof. I did. And now look at me!"

Bill Blaine didn't need the invitation. He had been doing just that—and very approvingly.

"Tch, tch, he tutted. "You didn't read the prescription right. I didn't prescribe a double dose. I said small doses daily—for two. How about it tomorrow noon—if you recover?"

"I'll see," Linda smiled. "You're probably in for it. I'm afraid I'll recover."

"Tomorrow, then, at noon," Blaine said. "Don't forget."

And he was gone.

Don't forget, Linda, don't forget. As though she could forget. He'd done it; he WAS interested. Maybe it would be better if she would forget—forget him, before it was too late. But Linda didn't want to forget.

His eyes were even nicer than she had remembered them, Linda mused. And he couldn't have been any other way than formal and dignified. That dignity, that youthful seriousness, became him like a well-tailored suit. Not like Mike; not gay and irresponsible and footloose. Not like Mike.

Linda's racing thoughts were brought up in an abrupt halt. There was always Mickey: Mickey and the text of Jo Monroe's lecture of the night before, an argument about which Linda had tried not to think.

She thought a lot about it that night, as she tossed in fitful sleep; thought about Jo's premise of "play smart and play single;" thought about Bill Blaine and a rooftop and sunshine as warm as the feeling in her heart.

X X X

And then, suddenly, it was tomorrow—and she and Bill Blaine were on the rooftop, together again. Not under the dramatic, action-crammed circumstances of their first meeting, but in placid, tranquil nearness to each other. Well, not placid, exactly, if you counted the beating of Linda's heart.

"Look at that view, Linda," Blaine said.

It was "Linda" already. All the formality and dignity in the world couldn't keep him from pronouncing her name that way—caressingly. He was still "Dr. Blaine," however. After all, no matter how you felt, you didn't call a doctor "Bill" on the third glorious day you've known him.

CHAPTER ELEVEN

"What a picture of the Fair," Bill enthused. Their deck chairs had been very close together before they rose and walked to the parapet. They could have held hands, Linda thought, if they had been sappy kids and didn't care about the presence of others on the roof. "How that thing has progressed! Only a few months until we'll be enjoying it.

"Odd what a drive a person can get out of watching something built up like that from nothing," Bill went on. "Funny how you attach to yourself a sort of personal pride in building and achievement in which you've had not the slightest part. I used to watch, from our windows, the two bridges being built—and felt as though I were a part of them.

"Well," he broke off, laughing. "It's all very fanciful, and I don't expect you to understand what I mean...."

But Linda said, very seriously:

"I understand."

And she did.

She was thinking back to the time that she and Mike had shared in the feeling of ownership of this very structure upon the roof of which she and Bill Blaine were now standing. Neither she nor Mike could dream that one day their "Junior" would bring a new love into Linda's life.

"At night, Linda," Bill had not noted her serious turn, "it's grand—I mean the view of the bridges and the bay from our office windows. It's like an enchanted picture; a moving picture on a screen of darkness—the amber chains of the bridge lamps, the crawling ferries and the twinkling lights of homes, with people in them, living their own important little lives, over on the hills....

"Listen to the lad," he turned to her and smiled. "Sounds like something that should have a harp-and-'cello obbligato."

"No," said Linda. "I want you to beautiful."

"Linda," he said. "I want you to see it. With me. Will you—some night?"

"I...." Linda began. She didn't finish. She and Bill were no longer alone.

"The sun brings out the nicest things!" It was a deep, resonant voice, with laughter in it.

"Pardon me," Steve Hubbard continued. "It's seems that's the first word I say everytime I see you—but do you mind if I peep too? Or is this just a view-for-two?"

"Don't knock, come right on in," Linda smiled. She wondered if she meant to smile. Dr. Blaine wasn't smiling.

"Oh, hello, Hubbard," he said, very coldly—almost condescendingly.

"Howdy, Dr. Blaine," greeted Steve.

Despite the sunshine, the atmosphere seemed suddenly chilly, and Steve didn't need the roof to fall on his head; even if he was standing on the roof. He took his departure, as good humoredly as he had intruded.

"He's a big-hearted man," Linda asked innocently, "do you know him well?"

"He didn't act very big-hearted," Bill said.

"No," she explained, "I mean a doctor—a heart specialist...."

Blaine looked at her unbelievingly, eyes wide, corners of his lips tugged downward. Then he roared shaken by laughter.

"Sorry, Linda," he gasped, "I'm not laughing at YOU. It's the nerve of that fellow. The only pump Hubbard ever fixed was on an automobile. He's the assistant foreman of the garage in the building!"

"Jo," Linda said the next morning, after knocking at the door down the hall, being admitted by a sleepy Janice and following her into Jo Monroe's bedroom, "may I borrow your car, just for today?"

"Well, darling, I'll tell you," Jo answered, languorously stretching herself and throwing back the covers from her pajama-clad form, "Jarvis is busy today, but if you can do without a chauffeur, it's practically yours."

"Thanks," Linda said. "I have a very special, particular reason for wanting it."

She thought of Steve Hubbard's pose—pretending to be a doctor! Steve Hubbard, if she knew Linda, was going to undergo a little freezing process that would revolutionize the refrigeration industry, if it could be patented.

CEMENTMEN WIN OVER DRACUPS IN SMART CONTEST

'Ding' Luffman Hurls Seven-Hit Ball to Win Game 4-3

RALLY IN NINTH

Dracups Score Two in Ninth But Fell Short by One Run of Tie

Behind the sterling pitching of "Ding" Luffman, the Point Anne "Cementmen" downed the Dracups "Tiremen" 4 to 3 to press the Shell "Oilers" for the top rung in the City Softball League race last night at the Coleman Flats diamond. "Bud" Gaulin's Ox Point mudballers moved to the fore with a three run batting spurge in the second frame and from that point coasted in to victory behind Luffman's fire-ball hurling, that left the Dracups helpless until the ninth, when the homesters made their final bid, that fell one short of even a tie.

Triples by Bennett and Hutchings and a single by Brant gave Point Anne three runs in the second frame as the Gaulin-led nine was held scoreless by Hunter on the mound for Dracups until the ninth when the winners notched another run by virtue of an error and Whitehead's bingle. Dracups' first tally came with Tuttle's home run in the third, but the homesters were never close to scoring until the eighth, when Tuttle again smashed a mighty hit to left-centre for three bases, but was tossed out at the plate, trying to stretch his hit. Hits by Little, Pointer and a fielder's choice gave the "Tiremen" two more runs in the ninth, but Luffman rose to heights to register a final strike out and win.

The lineups:

Dracups: Barriage 3b; Sinfield cf; Henn 2b; Tuttle c; Little ss; Hannah lf; Riggs 1b; Pointer rf; Hunter p Dracup.

Point Anne: Genereaux cf; Whitehead 2b; Gaulin 1b; Green c; Whalen 3b; Brant lf; Bennett rf; Hutchings ss and Luffman p.

RUTH WELCOMED AT ANNIVERSARY

Ten of Eleven Living Members of Hall of Fame Team at Ceremonies

Cooperstown, N.Y., June 13 (AP)—Baseball's No. 1 hero still can steal any big league show he sets his mind to, even from under the noses of the game's only other living immortals.

From the moment he stepped from the train and spread his infectious grin over the crowd, Babe Ruth really took over yesterday's celebration of the 100th anniversary of Baseball. Without him it would have lost much of its glamor.

Ruth was in the centre of the largest crowd, writing his name on baseballs, score cards, envelopes and everything autograph hunters could find. When Ty Cobb arrived for the ceremonies, a bit later, he walked unrecognized. A block away, Ruth came out of a hotel and the fans went mad.

It was the same when they called 10 of the 11 living members of the game's Hall of Fame out to answer roll call at the dedication of the baseball museum. There was applause for Connie Mack, Hans Wagner, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland Alexander, Cy Young, George Sisler and Napoleon Lajoie. Then Ruth stepped out and brought down the house.

Donned Uniforms

Later, most of the immortals donned their old-time uniforms and formed a board of strategy for two teams of modern stars chosen by Eddie Collins and Hans Wagner.

When things lulled temporarily, the Bam put on his grin, picked up a bat and waddled out of the dugout to hit for Danny McFayden. He let the first go by and swung at the next but the old zip just wasn't there. He hit a high foul over the stands on his next try and then belted a high one out to catcher Arndt Jorgens directly in front of the plate. It was worth the trip alone to hear the crowd beg Jorgens to drop it. After that, the Wagners won, 4-2.

Trial Performance Of New Mauretania Pleases Owners

Liverpool, England, June 13 —(CP)—Satisfaction with the new liner Mauretania's trial performance was voiced last night by Sir Percy Bates, chairman of Cunard-White Star as the company formally took over the largest vessel ever constructed in an English yard from its builders, Cammell-Laird Limited of Birkenhead.

Speaking at an inaugural lunch aboard the 36,000 ton ship which is scheduled to sail on her maiden voyage to New York Saturday, Sir Percy said:

"I believe there has never been a Cunard ship that has gone to her trials with less trouble and with less fuss than the Mauretania.

Belleville Intermediates Drop Third Consecutive Game in Quinte Loop to Napanee Nine

Joe Jocko, Youthful Hurler for Gibbards, Allowed Only Six Hits

WEEKS WHIFFS 11

Belleville Catcher Sustains Fractured Ribs When Hit by Foul Tip

With Joe Jocko, Napanee's youthful righthand flinger scattering six stingy hits well, the Belleville intermediates dropped their third consecutive game, in as many starts in the Bay of Quinte League, to the Gibbards by a 5 to 1 score in Napanee yesterday. Playing a much better defensive game than has been their lot in previous league tussles, the Belleville ballsters stood literally handcuffed before Jocko, who in no way over-shadowed "Lefty" Weeks, the Belleville moundsman, who turned in a sterling effort to silence the heavy hitters of the Gerowites with a ten-hit effort as he struck out eleven Napanee batters, most of which came in the pinches.

Poor base running and carelessness cost the Belleville nine many scoring chances throughout the game, especially in the latter innings, when base runners were caught napping off the initial sack with rapidity, by the alert Jocko off the mound. Belleville was minus several of their regular players, however, and ran into more further grief when Freddie Churchill, their sturdy catcher, sustained an injury of two fractured ribs after being struck by a foul tip. The attendance of a physician was necessary for Churchill, who was forced out of the game owing to the injury.

Made Use of Misplays

Walt Gerow's charges made the best of the locals' misplays and capitalized to the fullest on whatever scoring opportunities were tossed into their path inadverently by the local nine. Napanee scored two runs in the second frame without the resemblance of a hit being registered. Weeks hit two and walked one, Collins bobbled and two unearned runs crossed the plate. The homesters added two more in the fourth by virtue of Jocko's hit, an error and a sacrifice in succession. After an early error Napanee scored one in the sixth, but with three aboard and none out, Weeks took command to strike out three in succession in a superb hurling effort.

Belleville's lone tally came in the eighth as McDonald doubled and raced home on Plummer's stinging single to right. Poor base running cost the Belleville nine several chances to get into scoring position throughout. Weeks struck out no less than 11 Napanee batters, but hit three and walked one, the base on balls and two hit batters coming in succession. Jocko, on the other hand, whiffed six and walked three, hitting one, but the Belleville nine seemed unable to cuff his deliveries for any great degree of consistency, Jocko limiting the locals to six hits, two of which were of the scratchy nature.

To Meet Flyers

Three games down the Belleville team meet the newly entered R.C.A.F. "Flyers" at the Fair Grounds on Thursday evening. The game marks the inaugural of the "Airmen" into the Ontario Baseball Association and Skipper Bud Wilkins is mustering the best squad of ballsters possible in a desperate effort to pull the local out of the cellar at the expense of the Flyers. In seasons past the R.C.A.F. has iced several good hockey teams and the rivalry between Airport and Belleville athletes will be again taken up when these two ball clubs tangle on Thursday evening.

GLEN CUNNINGHAM READY FOR RACE

With Johnny Woodruff Accepts Invitation to Meet Wooderson

Princeton, N.J., June 13 (AP) —Having mulled the situation carefully, the cinder-track flyers, led by Glen Cunningham, are accepting bids to the Princeton invitation track meet.

Up until last night it looked as though the Princeton athletic authorities would have to draft Johnstown and a couple of bay geldings to compete with the Englishman Sydney Wooderson in the mile run at Palmer stadium Saturday.

But friend Cunningham, a Kansas speeder, wiped away the worry when he telephoned from Cornwall-on-Hudson last night that he felt in fine fettle and would have a bit of a go with Mr. Wooderson over the fast Palmer track.

Finishing close behind Cunningham in acceptances was Johnny Woodruff, University of Pittsburg's negro star who changed his mind a second time within a few hours and decided to run in the 880 here instead of appearing in a meet at Los Angeles.

Soon after Woodruff's capitulation came word from Denton, Texas, that the Rideout twins were en route from North Texas Teachers College, one of them with a bride.

Just before leaving, Wayne married Emma Jean Watson. He also is bringing with him a handicap of 30 days' absence from active training of a muscle injury.

Blaine Rideout will make a fourth in the mile which pits Great Britain's world record-holder against Cunningham, Chuck Penske and Archie San Romani.

Dodgers Are League's Pet Rage As They Swing Westward to Open an Eighteen-Day Stand

Team Up in First Division for First Time Since 1932

GIANTS IN GEAR

Yankees Seem to Get Better as the Season Progresses and Will Win Easily

(By Bill White Associated Press Sports Writer).

It seems at the moment that the most important word in baseball is "spirit."

The sentimental gentlemen who paid tribute yesterday to the spirit of baseball at Cooperstown, N.Y., were, in a sense, fitting nicely into the picture that has made the three Metropolitan teams—New York Yankees and Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers just about the hottest things in baseball.

Though much of the Cooperstown celebration was abstract, there isn't anything abstract about the fire and dash—or spirit, if you prefer—that marks the rise of those three ball clubs.

Consider, as the teams take the day off, the current performances of the big town clubs, then see whether or not spirit can be as important in the play-for-pay league as on ivy-covered campuses.

League's Pet Rage

Brooklyn Dodgers are the National League's pet rage at the current writing. They swing west for an 18-day, 14-game stand up in the first division with a record of 13 victories in their last 18 games, a further record of 20 victories out of 30 starts at home, and the added compliment that they haven't lost a series since they came back from the west late in May.

Though their offence and defence seem sound, critics are busy writing stirring pieces about how the spirit of the Dodgers makes them a greater team than any since 1932, the last year they finished up in the front rows.

They reopen a game and a half behind St. Louis Cardinals, with whom they have a "crocial" series starting Wednesday—and there are some who think the Redbirds will be trying to catch onto the Dodgers' coat tails when the series is over. A successful trip through the west and there will be no living with those Flatbush fans.

Giants Now at Peak

And the Giants, who have been booed almost oftener this season than they have been praised, are at peak performance as they set out on their second invasion of the west.

Five straight, their longest current victory streak, may be stretched into two figures before they head back for the Polo Grounds, because it is freely admitted that the Giant machine, possibly for the first time this year, is clicking as Bill Terry promised it would. Bill says the boys finally have got "the right spirit."

The Yankees, whose three intersectional series with the Tigers, Indians, Browns and White Sox have produced 24 victories out of 29 games will open a home stand that bears every promise of being as successful as any other of their current league stands. DiMaggio, for one thing, is back in there swinging from the heels and that's always good news for the Yankees.

Only the courageous Detroit Tigers won a series from the champions on this last western swing—And it took two four-hit pitching performances, by Tommy Bridges and Buck Newsom, to turn that trick.

HAVE TO WAIT FOR FINAL OUT

Gloversville Scores Seven Runs in Ninth to Beat Amsterdam 8-7

(By The Canadian Press)

In baseball—probably the only game in which the impossible sometimes happens—it's a good idea to wait for the final putout before naming a winner.

There weren't many fans at Gloversville last night who gave the Glovers any chance of beating Amsterdam when the scoreboard showed the Rugmakers ahead 7-1 entering the last half of the ninth inning. But that's what makes baseball interesting, its unpredictable, for Glovers won 8-7.

Five bases on balls, two hits and an error figured in the last inning splurge that gave the Glovers their victory after Amsterdam had all but won the game in the seventh on Ray Richards' home run with the bases loaded.

There was a bit of the unusual too in the other Canadian American League games last night. Ottawa needed a homer with the bases full to beat Rome 5-4 while Utica tallied nine runs in an inning in trouncing Cornwall 13-5.

Bill Powley was the hero of the Ottawa victory, his long drive over the left field fence in the sixth inning evening the score. The winning run came in the seventh on an error, stolen base and a single.

There was little to choose between Cornwall and Utica until the sixth inning when the Braves went on the rampage. Thirteen batters stepped to the plate in this round and two Cornwall pitchers were knocked from the box before Frank Perkowski ended the rally.

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz Associated Press Sports Writer).

Cooperstown, N.Y., June 13 (AP)—Baseball Centennial Edition: There is a barber here who knows exactly how Sam Snead felt Saturday night after tossing away his chances for the United States open golf championship....During yesterday's rush he got a summons to do a command performance before Babe Ruth—but had to turn it down. "If I wasn't the owner of the joint, I swear I'd walk out," he said. P.S. Babe's mane went unshaved.

Ty Cobb looks swell....So does Ruth, but the Babe is worrying about his golf game which has soared into the low 80's again .....Bill McKechnie admits to close pals he is getting a bit skittish about his pitching....Any town of 3,000 with a slicker ball park than Cooperstown's can go to the head of the class in our book....Henry Pabain of the Giants designed it.

Al Schacht, the baseball clown, couldn't make the celebration, but Clark Griffith of Washington Senators supplied the comedy touch by going around telling the Yanks would collapse in August....Cooperstown folks said when the specials from New York and Chicago roared in it was the first time a passenger train has stopped here in seven years....The minor leagues will take over the town July 9.

The ball players greeted the news that Tony Lazzeri has caught on with Toronto with the prediction that it's just a tune-up for a managerial job in the majors next year.

They were busy today moving the baseball capitol of the world transferred to Cooperstown for a day, back to the Yankee stadium.

Down at Murphy, N.C., Mr. Paul Owenby stepped up to the first tee and fired a mighty drive, which later converted into a beautiful slice....The ball curved just like a rainbow, struck a rock 20 yards from the tee, bounded high in the air and rolled into the cup on the ninth (and last) green for a course-in-one.

TORONTO LEAFS SCORE 8-5 WIN OVER BALTIMORE

Jack Burns, Manager, Hits Two Homers to Help the Cause

RED WINGS LOSE

Syracuse Chiefs Score Four in the Ninth to Defeat Rochester

(By The Associated Press)

It hardly seems possible that a new manager who is several hundred miles away from his ball club can make any difference in the team's playing, but the fact remains that only a few hours after Tony Lazzeri was signed to pilot Toronto Maple Leafs out of the International League cellar ,the Leafs went out and walloped Baltimore Orioles 8-5.

It was only the fifth victory in their last 15 games for the cellar dwellers and a rather ragged one at that, but it may mean there's hope for Tony and his crew. Lazzeri, of course, was in Toronto, where his signing was announced yesterday, and the Leafs were playing under Jack Burns in Baltimore. Burns will continue to pilot the team through its current tour, ending June 19.

Lazzeri's major-league connections are expected to help bring in further reinforcements and Tony, even when he isn't playing, can stir up a lot of spirit in a ball club.

Burns Hits Two

By way of celebrating his release from the managerial burden, Burns belted two home runs last night as the Leafs piled up an 8-0 lead in eight innings. But in the last half of the eighth southpaw Carl Fischer went to pieces as Gene Corbett hit for the circuit with one aboard and three more pitchers were required to get the Orioles out after they had scored five runs.

Three other games on yesterday's program were marked by equally odd happenings. Syracuse Chiefs scored four runs in the ninth inning to beat Rochester's league-leading Red Wings, 5-4, collecting four hits on top of two errors for their winning rally after Ken Raffensberger had held them to three blows for eight frames.

Bisons Win One

Buffalo Bisons broke Jersey City's three-game winning streak, scoring three times in the 12th inning to win, 7-4, after Hy Vandenbeg had allowed them only six hits in ten innings. Three extra base blows off Joe Kohlman and Johnny Wittig and an error turned the trick. And Herman Fink got credit for the victory by pitching only one ball. Bill Atwood hit it into a double play with the bases loaded in the 11th.

Montreal Royals conquered Newark, 5-4, but were outhit 16-12, and had a narrow escape in the final inning after Ed Levy belted his ninth homer of the year with two aboard.

Cornwall, Sherbrooke, May be Admitted

Montreal, June 13 (CP)—Possibility the number of teams competing in the Quebec Senior Hockey League would be increased from seven to nine with the addition of entries from Cornwall and Sherbrooke, was expressed by representatives of the league prior to a routine meeting here last night.

While nothing regarding admission of new clubs came up during the meeting it was understood applications from the clubs might be considered at a later date.

The league discussed terms of a new contract with the Forum here, and went on record as being against immediate issuance of playing cards by the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

If there is any way to lose a ball game, leave it to the 1939 edition of the Belleville Bay of Quinte nine to not only think of it, but put it into practice for good measure. Yesterday the locals dropped their third consecutive game in the Quinte loop, taking a 5-1 beating at the hands of Walt Gerow's nine. Contrary to their practice of the previous two games the locals only tossed away a couple of runs via the error route, but yesterday they couldn't hit the size of their hats, which was also contrary to their efforts of previous games, which doesn't mean they're consistent, no matter which angle you look at 'em.

We are not trying to detract from the splendid effort of Joe Jocko, on the Napanee mound. The kid hurled fine ball and literally had the locals eating out of his hand in a six-hit effort, two of which were cheap hits. However, two or three local base runners were caught sound asleep off the initial sack, while still others ran bases as though they were at an old maid's picnic, but found the Napanee infield not quite as endearing as the referred to picnic. However, the box score reveals the locals only had a pick-up team and Skipper Bud Wilkins is now centring all of his efforts on Thursday night's game versus the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" the latter's initiation into the Bay of Quinte League here. If one can judge the Flyers' baseball with that of their hockey prowess, the ball fans of the district are in for a sweet battle here Thursday, as Skipper Wilkins is set on bolstering his infield for this game.

Let's glance over a few statistics of yesterday's game. Lefty Weeks whiffed 11, striking out the side in the sixth with the base paths jammed to capacity. True he allowed 10 hits but Napanee only had two earned runs. Weeks became wild in the second, hitting two and walking one, which in no way assisted his effort, but all in all the Belleville pitching has been superior to other departments thus far this season. Jocko, the Napanee hurler, whiffed six, but scattered well the six hits he allowed, but his great success lay in the poor running of the locals on the runways. Freddie Churchill, Belleville's tireless catcher, sustained two fractured ribs when struck with a foul tip yesterday, which will mean his departure from the game for a month.

Local softball fans saw their closest contested game of the current season last night at the Flats when the Dracup "tiremen" chased the Point Anne lads to the wire in a 4-3 battle, with Ox Point nine coming down in front, thanks to the superb pitching of "Ding" Luffman. Now we find Bud Gaulin's nine pinching the shoes of the league leading Shell "Oilers" once again and our softball race is still undecided. Luffman was in rare form as he sent 14 "tiremen" back to the bench via the strikeout route and was never in trouble until the ninth when a disputed umpires' decision forced him to bear down and strikeout a third batter in the last inning, which is no mean chore in any man's ball game. Following last night's game the Belleville Softball Association held a dance at the Hume arena, that wasn't attended by the so-called softball moguls and their hirelings, of which we'll hear more.

A rather unique golfing bet was won in London, England, recently by one Richard Sutton, London stockbroker, but only by the sporting instincts of Metropolitan police was the feat possible. Sutton accepted a wager that he couldn't drive a golf ball on a Sunday from the famous Tower Bridge to the steps of White's Club, St. James Street, in less than 2,000 strokes, a distance of roughly five miles. Such a distance would mean some 8,800 yards, in round numbers and through the winding streets of old London Town to make the hazard that much tougher. Sutton surprised all by making the distance in exactly 142 strokes, or an average of about 50 yards to the individual stroke. The giver of the odds against, however, had reckoned on the police stopping the performance, and in fact he was stopped on several occasions, but allowed to proceed, when he explained he was doing it "for a bet." So chalk one down for the sporting instincts of the London 'bobbies.'

The late Phil J. Reid, managing editor of the Detroit Free Press, dubbed the Detroit entry in the American League "the Tigers" after he first saw them in orange and black striped stockings and the name stuck.

Sports Horizon: Apparently the Toronto Maple Leafs have taken a new lease on life and are attempting to lure the hinterlands into their stadium....Three former major leaguers were signed by Dan Howley's pets during the past 24 hours, Tony Lazzeri as manager, Tommy Heath and outfielder Heinie Manush, but they still need the odd hitter or so....The identical field to run the Orpen Memorial last Saturday will again face the barrier next Saturday at Dufferin Park in a race that will include Archworth, Bunty Lawless, Suffern, Mona Bell, last week's winner, Jelwell and Cabin Gal ..... An old fashioned "choose-up" game was played at Cooperstown to celebrate the 100th anniversary of baseball yesterday, Hans Wagner and Eddie Collins being the choosers up.

MAXIE BERGER, MONTREAL, WINS

Canadian Lightweight Has Red Guggino Groggy in Eight Rounds

New York, June 13 (CP)—Maxie Berger, likeable lightweight from Montreal, is back flinging his fists in the Metropolitan fight area and, as usual, is doing right well for himself, with Carl (Red) Guggino of Hartford, Conn., his latest victim.

Guggino a rugged fellow, escaped a knockout only because Maxie was too good a sportsman to put over the crusher in the last round of their fight last night when the Connecticut clouter was helpless.

As it was, Berger had things his own way for virtually all of the eight-round main event bout in Dexter Park's inaugural outdoor card of the season.

He clipped Carl with a hard left to the jaw in the third round. That appeared to be the deciding blow because from there on Guggino was in no hurry to sample more of the same.

"STORY OF ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL"

Out of the stirring past of this great nation emerges a drama of accomplishment that symbolizes the tradition of America—the story of Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone. His is the dramatic romance of one who dreamed and struggled, loved and achieved. Simple, human and inspiring, the magnificent motion picture coming next to the Belle Theatre pays homage to his genius and to a woman's devotion. Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell", a Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox, with Don Ameche (in the title role), Loretta Young and Henry Fonda sharing stellar honors, tells with power, with humor and with profound humanity the drama of a great man and the love that inspired him.

Bell's is a story that belongs to America—the obscure young scientist, his discouraging struggles, his invention of the telephone, his desperate battle against public ridicule and powerful opponents, his ultimate triumph, the flame of his genius kept alight by the love and faith of the woman he adored.

So intense was the struggle against poverty, disappointment and powerful opponents—a struggle which prevented his marriage to the girl he loved, that Bell halted on the threshold of his invention ready to sacrifice it so he could find happiness with Mabel Hubbard. To her, in his darkest hour, he wrote: "Ever since I held you in my arms, I've known! My invention must be given up. This is little enough to do if it means that I may call you sweetheart and wife! The telephone will be born some day—and I do not care one bit who gets the glory so long as the world gets the benefit...."

But the courageous Mabel spurred on the dreamer who believed men could talk through a wire. It was their romance that gave the world the power to span oceans and continents with the human voice.

"When next you talk vast distances to those dear to you", says Associate Producer Kenneth Macgowan, "Remember it was a great romance that wrought the miracle!"

Included in the cast are Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Spring Byington and the three sisters of Loretta Young; Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young and Georgiana Young. Irving Cummings directed the screen play.

The film was previewed at the San Francisco World's Fair, the first time such an honor has been accorded a motion picture.

AT THE McCARTHY

"The Soldier and the Lady" "Sorority House"

"The Soldier and the Lady," R.K.O Radio's romantic spectacle based on Jules Verne's adventure classic "Michael Strogoff" and featuring Hollywood's sensational new romantic star, Anton Walbrook, with Elizabeth Allan, Margot Grahame, Akim Tamiroff, Fay Bainter, Eric Blore and a splendid surrounding cast of 10,000 is now on the screen at the McCarthy theatre and you have only to ask some one of the many patrons, who have already attended a performance, to know that this production is Hollywood's biggest and finest spectacle drama of all time.

Faithful reproductions of the Czar's palace, Russian railroad coaches and stations, country inns and towns, the richly decorated tents of the Tartar chieftains, the Siberian City of Irkutsk and a river steamer of the period are all prominently seen in the screen version plus the conflicting emotions, action and heroism, barbaric horror and cruelty, comedy and romance and the priceless story of one man's courage and resource surmounting tremendous odds, makes "The Soldier and the Lady" the most pretentious motion picture ever produced. Do not miss it.

Companion Feature Hit

"Sorority House" with Anne Shirley, James Ellison, Barbara Reid and J. M. Kerrigan, makes a grand companion feature now on the screen at the McCarthy theatre to "The Soldier and the Lady" and offers a most delightful combination of comedy, drama, thrills and romance that is appealing to all, college minded or otherwise. In addition to the feature attractions an excellent musical treat entitled "Venetian Moonlight" is also presented at each performance.

TRIAL ORDERED

Lawlor, an Australian, contended through his counsel, however, that he had "no intention of causing any harm."

Specific accusations against him were firing through a window in the residence of the Princess Royal, sister of the King and wife of the Earl of Harewood, on June 4, and one day later shooting his rifle near the Duchess of Kent as she was leaving her Belgrave Square home.

Counsel for the defendant said Lawlor was eager to let the public know at the first opportunity that he had no desire or intention of causing harm or injury at either of these places and "had no designs on any member of the royal family at all."

Motive a Mystery

His motive, however, remained a mystery. Immediately after proclaiming the absence of criminal intention, defence counsel Leslie Marks said: "I don't think it desirable to say any more at this stage."

He entered a formal plea of not guilty but did not disclose details of the defence.

Prosecutor H. A. K. Morgan said Lawlor, who had been working on Waterloo Bridge as a welder's assistant, had come to Great Britain April 6 and was an Australian.

The prosecutor said that 21 rounds of ammunition for the seized rifle were found in Lawlor's possession, together with 10 airgun pellets. One thousand more pellets were found at Lawlor's lodgings, the prosecutor said.

Addresses Printed

Morgan said it had now developed that the gun permit which he said Lawlor flourished as an excuse for his action in Belgrave Square had on the back of it notations of the Belgrave Square address of the Kents and the Green Street address of the Princess Royal.

The prosecutor quoted Lawlor as explaining that his rifle had jammed a few days before and he was "trying to undo it when it went off."

GERMAN ARMIES

Germany's General Ludendorf failed in an experiment designed to win the war quickly and lost it instead.

General Edmonds has collected a timetable of day-to-day events during the days when the Germans pressed hard against the French sector of the western front, partly in an effort to cause diversion of troops from the British sector which they desired particularly to weaken.

Beaten Before Offensive.

General Edmonds holds the German army was beaten before the allies took the offensive in August, 1918, less than three months before Germany capitulated.

It is his argument the German army was beaten by the offensive obsession of its high command. Ludendorf, he says, might have harbored the delusion as late as July 9 that his next and fifth offensive would win. But Ludendorf was removed from the actual scene of the conflict and the men who did the fighting felt differently.

As evidence of this he says they "had ceased to trouble about burying or removing the dead, or to make latrines." They were demoralized by failure of oft-repeated promises that the next offensive would be the last and would bring peace with victory.

Loss of Morale Helped.

Disappointed hopes and consequent loss of morale, bad food and the ravages of the influenza epidemic which was sweeping the world finished them, says General Edmonds.

He writes: "No one knew better than the Germans that victory can be obtained only by attack." But he held that "knowledge" was too theoretical and that "misled by his experience of offensive warfare of the eastern front," Ludendorf "failed to reckon the cost of offensives against French, American and British troops in 1918."

The book contains little mention of the Canadian Corps, then under the command of the late General Sir Arthur Currie, but its tables and maps show the disposition of Canadian units throughout the period it covers.

Sidelights on Royal Visit

L'Isle Verte, Que., June 13 (CP)—An illuminated sign of welcome to the King and Queen was set up last night at the station of this village outside Riviere Du Loup. Residents knew the Royal train would not stop here but built the sign just the same, hoping their Majesties might see it as they sped by.

Rieux, Que., June 13 (CP)—The Royal train made an unexpected 30-minute stop last night at this little village far down the south shore of the St. Lawrence River. Local officials said the stop was to enable the King to sign letters and documents before retiring.

Peterborough, Ont., June 13 (CP)—C. G. Collins, merchant here, has vowed he never will use a camera again. He went to Beaverton to see the King and Queen, and sneaked up close among the newspapermen to take pictures with his movie camera. He took shot after shot of the King and Queen. Returning, he left the camera in a photographic shop. The store phoned him a few minutes later. The camera had been empty all the time.

St. George, Ont., June 13 (CP)—Mrs. John German said today she had received permission from the King and Queen to forward a present of an oil painting she did of Canadian wild roses on a square of black satin. She said she received permission while the Royal party was in Paris.

Millerton, N.B., June 13 (CP) — This little village of the Royal automobile route from Newcastle to Fredericton was thrilled today when the car bearing their Majesties made an unscheduled stop. In front of the Anglican church where 600 school children of the district were gathered the Royal car was brought to a stop. Here little Eleanor Flett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Flett, stepped forward with a bouquet of roses for the Queen.

Saint John, N.B., June 13 (CP)—Lawrence Murphy of Rentrat Greenwick, N.B., drove 25 miles today to see the King and Queen—and he wasn't going to let a little thing like bruises and possible broken bones interfere with his plans. A fast-moving taxicab struck him, hurling him with such force that he landed beneath a parked car. He was being placed in a car to be driven to the hospital when he came to. "Nothing doing," he said. "I'm not going to miss the show."

And so, on a cot from which he could look out the window of a building the injured man was placed where he could see the King and Queen.

London Papers Praise Kennedy

Say British Monarchs Have Shown New Conception of British Life and Character to the Americans

London, June 13—(CP)—Several London papers today praised Ambassador Joseph E. Kennedy because the United States visit of the King and Queen was such a success.

The Daily Express (Independent) said:

"The success of the American visit has been immense. We must praise our monarch and his consort. They have shown a new conception of British life and character to the Americans.

"But we owe the immense benefits and advantages of the visit to the judgment and discretion of American Ambassador Joe Kennedy. For it was he who said the trip could be undertaken with confidence. His was the advice on which the King and Queen acted in the United States."

Kennedy's Prophecy

The Diarist of The Star (Liberal) wrote:

"Now that the King and Queen have left United States, one may recall the half-hearted doubts of many high up in the official world regarding the prospects for the trip.

"But for Joseph Kennedy, Ambassador to London, they would have cancelled the visit when the last European attack of nerves presented an excuse.

"Mr. Kennedy would not hear of it. He had pledged his reputation on the prophecy that the King and Queen would receive the greatest reception that any visitor to the United States had ever had. His confidence was so sure that it could not be withstood."

4 Halifax People Await Coming Of Sovereigns

Halifax, June 13—(CP)— Memories of previous meetings with members of the royal family grew more vivid today for four Halifax people as they looked forward to seeing the King and Queen when Their Majesties visit Halifax Thursday.

Rev. Colin Kerr and his daughter, Margaret, met the Queen at a parish affair in Scotland when she was Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. Arthur Coffin was guide to the King when he visited Canada in 1913 as Duke of York.

Joseph Welch, never knew the present King but he cherishes his memories of his father, King George V. and Queen Mary. Welch, now a railway steward, was steward on H.M.S. Ophir when King George and his consort, as Duke and Duchess of York, visited the countries of the empire 38 years ago.

He prizes the ash-tray which the Duke gave him. It is of silver, representing the white rose of York. He also has a watch which members of the royal suite presented him with after the trip.

THEIR WAITING NEVER ENDED

Scenes like this one, tragic and poignant, were enacted over and over in Birkenhead, England, at the yards of the Cammell Laird Co., builders of the British submarine, Thetis, that sank in the mud of Liverpool Bay, taking with it 103 men, but four of whom were able to emerge to safety. This is one of the first actual photographs of only two of the many anxious vigils kept for many hours after all hope had been given up for those entombed in the Thetis, now subject to a rigorous investigation following the storm of protest from the public and press that broke after the tragedy.

The Perfect Accident

By ROBERT LE VITRE

Maxwell Judd raised his rifle slowly and the eye that sighted along its barrel had the cold ruthlessness of a stalking tiger's. For four days he had waited for this, and now the setting was perfect. He had heard Masters shooting over across the ravine two minutes ago. Then he saw the big buck, wounded, charging up through the sparse aspens. It was following the top of the ridge. When it fell dead its body was out of sight. Only its head showed.

That was the beautiful part, Judd saw grimly. its head had become propped in the brush as it fell. From where he stood it appeared still alive. It seemed just a cautious deer, frozen into listening immobility before it ventured over the ridge. Its four-point horns were wide and unmistakable against the sky. A natural shot for a hunter. He became still as the stone he lay behind as he heard Jim Masters making his way up the far side of the ridge, coming up to his kill.

As the time for action neared Maxwell Judd felt cold drops of perspiration on his temples, knew that his determination was ebbing. Desperately he called to his mind a picture of Gloria Masters. He dwelt upon the intoxicating glamour of her; upon her physical beauty that made her so desirable it filled a man with madness. He lived again the times she had met him clandestinely; seemed to feel her once more trembling in his arms. There was only one way. Jim Masters must be put out of the picture!

It had been her idea, too, he told himself. He had to do it for her sake.

"Jim will never give me a divorce," she had said, that last night he saw her. "And anyway, dear, we need his insurance money. Maybe fate is just sending you on this hunting trip. There are so many hunting accidents, you know. It would be so easy to mistake him for a deer."

Five of them from the insurance office had come down here to the Salt Creek Range for a week's hunting. Since their arrival Judd had waited patiently for this chance.

He felt himself trembling again as the head of Jim Masters appeared behind the big horns. He cradled his left hand more firmly on the stone, steadied the gun barrel. The sights settled between the spread of horns, found the hunter who stood there. Then his finger tightened; the gun barked. There must be no bungling. He worked the bolt; shot again and again.

It was such an obvious accident. Hours later, almost overcome with grief, he explained it to the other members of the party. Told them oevr and over how it happened. He insisted that they come with him and stand where he had been. They had to realize that it was not his fault. They looked—and understood. The deer had not been moved. They pictured the drama and realized that doubtless they would have made the same shot. Knowing this they sympathized with him the more deeply. In their hearts they could not even accuse him of carelessness.

At late evening the sorrowing party brought their dead comrade into camp. Maxwell Judd walked behind the improvised stretcher, solemn-faced, his handkerchief constantly in his hand. Secretly he was exulant. His innocence was established beyond any doubt.

They packed hastily and were on the verge of departing when a car came rapidly up the narrow canyon and stopped beside them. Two sober-faced men alighted and strode to where they were working.

"We're from the sheriff's office," the smaller of the two explained. "We're looking for the hunting party of James W. Masters. Have some bad news for him, His wife has been seriously injured in an auto accident."

The hunters looked at one another for a moment of stunned silence. So Jim's death wasn't enough hard luck! Maxwell Judd stared at the speaker in utter bewilderment.

"I helped take her to the hospital," the larger of the two said. "She's in pretty bad shape. Delirious. Kept raving about her husband being shot for a deer".

Again glance met glance in wonderment. The hunters sensed a strange tension in the situation. One of them spoke in an awed voice. "Her husband was shot by mistake for a deer. Maxwell Judd did it. Entirely accidental."

Maxwell Judd stepped forward suddenly, caution forgotten, his mask of mock grief changed to one of anxiety. "Is Gloria—is Mrs. Masters hurt very badly? Will she die?"

"Probably," the officer said. Then suddenly he looked at the hunter searchingly while his brow wrinkled. "Say", he asked, "what did you say your name was?"

The other had collected himself and was wearing his mask of grief again.

"Judd," he said quietly. "Maxwell Judd."

The officer repeated the name musingly. "Maxwell Judd . . . Mighty strange. And you seem to take quite an interest in Mrs. Masters, too. By Jove, it fits together! Maxwell Judd—I have it now!"

His voice rang with conviction. He stepped forward and grasped the hunter's arm.

"That's the name she kept repeating," he exclaimed. "The name of the man she said would shoot her husband!"

Little Benny's Note Book

I was sitting on my front steps just sitting there and Shorty Judge came up and sat down without saying anything, and pretty soon he pulled a watch out of his watch pocket and looked at it and stuck it back again, saying, Jimminy, it's 13 minutes to 5.

Me not saying anything, thinking. That must be the watch he got for his birthday and he wants me to say something about it.

Wich I didn't on account of not wanting to give him the sattisfaction, and after a little while he took it out and looked at it again, saying, Holey smokes 9 minutes to 5 already, time certainly flies.

INDEPENDENT

O I dont know, no more than usual, I said, and Shorty said, Well, let it fly, as long as I know it's absilutely correct.

And he put the watch back slow, being a big watch and looking like silver but maybe only being tin, and he pulled it right out again saying, I thought so, it's exactly 30 seconds later.

G. you must be a pretty good guesser, I said, and he said, Guesser nothing.

And he pulled it out again, saying, Now it's another whole minute, gosh, a minute must seem like nothing to a watch.

Why, what made you think of a watch? I said, and Shorty said Aw, you're just jelliss.

Why, what did I say, who do you mean, jelliss of what, what's a matter? I said, and Shorty said, Aw you wouldn't even know if I told you, you're too jelliss.

And he got up and walked away trying to look independent, and I yelled after him, Hay Shorty wait a minute and I'll go in and find out what time it is for you.

Proberly proving I really was jelliss.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 13—(CP)—Following a weak early period the Toronto list today was inclined to work higher in the early afternoon. BRITAIN EXERTING

The cabinet foreign affairs committee met to decide what action should be taken if Japanese were to blockade the British and French concessions in Tientsin, one of the main points of Anglo-Japanese tension.

There was no intimation as to what decision was reached but official circles said British authorities at Tientsin were making every effort to avert a blockade. Great Britain already has made it clear she will consider such action illegal.

Reports from China said Japanese authorities had threatened a blockade as the result of Britain's refusal to hand over four Chinese accused by the Japanese of terrorism. British authorities demanded proof of the men's guilt first.

"Serious View"

The British government was said also to be taking a 'serious view' of the fatal bayoneting of R. M. Tinkler, British business man who died June 7 after a scuffle with a Japanese naval landing party in Pootung, across the Woosung river from Shanghai.

The foreign office said the British Ambassador to Japan Sir Robert Craigie, had been instructed to make a formal protest in Tokyo backing up the protest made by British authorities in Shanghai.

In the House of Lords yesterday, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax said the Japanese asserted that military necessity justified many of their acts "limiting British rights and interests" but that Britain refused to recognize this as "excuse for impairment of rights secured to our nation under solemn treaty provisions."

Watch Reaction

Meanwhile government leaders watched for reaction of Moscow and Berlin to Viscount Halifax' declaration of a willingness to negotiate a European settlement but a determination to meet force with force.

The feeling in Moscow may determine the outcome of negotiations for an Anglo-Soviet mutual assistance agreement, for Lord Halifax, speaking in the House of Lords, sought to erase any suspicion that Great Britain was returning to "appeasement."

British Officer Arrested

Tientsin, June 13—(CP-Havas—Britons in Tientsin said today they would resist the Japanese attempt to blockade the British and French concessions.

Men of the first battalion of Durham Light Infantry patrolled the borders of the British area in trucks.

The blockade was announced as effective from 6 a.m. tomorrow.

This morning the Japanese arrested a British army officer as he arrived in Tientsin.

Major E. L. Law was arrested as he came to Tientsin from Dairen on a Japanese steamship. He was charged with taking photos of the third Tientsin district, the former German concession now a forbidden zone under Japanese control.

All Traffic Forbidden

The Japanese army blockade proclamation forbade all traffic between the two foreign areas and the adjacent sections of the city. Bridges across the Pei river linking them to the city proper will be raised between 6 a.m. and midnight.

The Chinese population of the two areas were quitting them in panic. Foreigners' servants joined the stampede. Food prices skyrocketed 20 per cent.

The blockade measure was taken in retaliation for British refusal to hand over to the Japanese four Chinese accused of murdering a pro-Japanese customs official in the British concession last April.

Patience Exhausted

Tokyo, June 13 —(CP-Havas) — The Japanese foreign office spokesman said today that "our patience is now exhausted" by the final British rejection of Japan's demand for extradition of four alleged terrorists from Tientsin.

"To maintain peace and order in North China and as a measure of self-defence, we have decided to take necessary measures," he declared. "There is no use in further negotiations with Britain on the subject," he said.

The threat to blockade the British and French concessions in the North China port was due to be carried out today.

International Settlement

Shanghai, June 13—(CP)— The Japanese embassy spokesman warned today that "Japan might occupy the Shanghai international settlement in case of serious incidents."

The spokesman made his statement in commenting upon a speech in the House of Lords by Viscount Elibank. (Viscount Elibank expressed grave concern over the situation in the Far East and said it was not an idle rumor that the Japanese are considering the seizure of Shanghai's international settlement.)

The Japanese Embassy spokesman reviewed Japan's policy toward the international concessions since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war and said:

Modification to be Sought

"The Japanese government will not cease to demand modification of the statutes of these concessions. If the powers continue to oppose these demands the Japanese government might resort to different methods."

Meanwhile the Japanese consulate in Tientsin notified third power consular officials today that searches at all traffic barriers would be started tomorrow and furnished them with special seals for stamping passports.

Napanee Telephone System to be Improved This Year

Bell Company to Erect New Exchange and Business Office

Preparatory to the conversion of Napanee's telephone system from magneto to common battery operation about the end of the year, a new exchange and business office will be erected shortly on the east side of Centre street at the corner of Fire Hall square.

According to J. D. Gardner, local manager for The Bell Telephone Company of Canada, the Company's new exchange will be housed in a one-storey brick building, designed along commercial lines to blend with other buildings in the vicinity. It will contain a business office, the new common battery switchboard, and operators' quarters.

The switchboard will be one of the most modern products of the Northern Electric Company, the Ontario Intelligencer was informed. After the conversion, it will no longer be necessary to use a hand generator to signal the operator. Merely lifting the receiver causes a small lamp to glow on the board, indicating to the operator that a party is calling.

"Present plans call for extensive changes in telephone equipment in Napanee", the Bell manager said. "Installers will modify the present Bell telephones —over 600 of them—for temporary use as common battery instruments after the conversion, until they can be exchanged for smaller and neater telephones.

"Commencing in the fall, outside lines will be changed and reconditioned. Increased and improved facilities are being provided and, with the co-operation of the Public Utilities Commission of Napanee, certain of our facilities will be reconstructed and 43 poles will be replaced. All wires will be removed from the poles on the north side of Ontario street, east from Centre street, as these poles—which we shared with the Public Utilities Commission—are to be used by the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario for a high tension line. Larger main cable routes, providing improved distribution facilities, will be erected to serve the section south of the river and on Bridge Street. In other localities, open wires will be replaced by cable, thereby enhancing the appearance of town's streets.

"When this project is completed," Mr. Gardner concluded, "Napanee will enjoy a telephone service equal to that serving many large towns and cities. Ample provision is being made for growth in this district, and it is expected that the present installation will serve the town satisfactorily for some time to come".

Unofficially, it is reported that the entire project will involve an expenditure of approximately $46,000.

TRIUMPHAL TOUR

TAKE B NEW BRUNSWICK

Queen Elizabeth looked charming in a grey silk suit with long coat and white fox furs on the sleeves. She wore a grey straw hat with violets and a small veil trimming it. Her gloves and shoes were of the same shade of grey and she wore two-stranded pearls.

King Inspects Guard

While the King inspected the guard of honor at the legislature from the officers' training corps of the University of New Brunswick here the Queen chatted with Premier A. A. Dysart and Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

The welcome by 7,000 children in stands opposite the legislative building was a noisy one. The youngsters started cheering when the first gun of the 21-gun salute was fired and before Their Majesties were in sight, and kept it up until the band started playing "God Save The King," in which they joined.

After the King had inspected the guard of honor he was supposed to have inspected 100 veterans lined up on the legislative building lawn but he wished to postpone the second ceremony and told attending officers it would be carried out after the legislature ceremony.

As the royal couple stepped from their motor car they were greeted by Lieutenant-Governor Murray MacLaren, Premier Dysart and Mayor C. H. Forbes.

By MALCOLM MacLEOD

Fredericton, N.B., June 13 (CP)—Cool weather with occasional sunshine greeted crowds here today as the New Brunswick capital welcomed King George and Queen Elizabeth after their drive from Newcastle. Clouds took the edge off the heat for the crowds that filled the tree-lined city.

Because of the long route of the Royal drive through Fredericton, there was little crush in the streets even before their Majesties arrived. Parading bands held the attention of spectators as units of militia, veterans and Boy Scouts were marshalled to take their parts in events of the day.

The Edmundston, N.B., girls' band, a 46-piece organization brought together a year and a halm ago, attracted many eyes as it lined up. The band is composed of girls from nine to seventeen years old. Even more picturesque was a band of Maliseet Indians, in the ceremonial dress of their tribe.

City At Best In Appearance.

The city, level and green, was at its best in early June foliage. The dignified legislative buildings were decorated with designs typical of the country, topped by a figure of Britannia. University of New Brunswick's Beaverbrook Hall, prepared for an official luncheon attended by their Majesties, was draped simply. The Royal Cipher appeared prominently in all decorations.

The town's normal population of 12,000 was swollen to an estimated 45,000, many of whom came from Maine to see the Royal couple. Visitors from northern New Brunswick also swarmed into the capital, and highways into the city were packed with traffic before they were closed.

JEWISH FACTIONS CLASH IN POLICY

Band of 'Moderates' Tries to Sack Offices of Revisionist Youth

Jerusalem, June 18—(CP)—Palestine Jewish factions clashed today over the question of policy toward the British project for an independent state in the Holy Land.

A band of Jewish "Moderates"—opposed to the use of violence—raided the headquarters of the Revisionist Youth Association, centre of the Extremist wing of Jewish organizations in Palestine, and attempted to sack the premises.

Six young Revisionists were injured in the clash while the attackers smashed movable furniture and ripped a portrait of Vladimir Jabotinsky, leader of the Revisionists.

Five Arabs were slain during the night in a village on the outskirts of Haifa by a band of men dressed in European clothing.

Nine bomb explosions were reported from various parts of the Holy Land. In Tel Aviv, seven bombs exploded in telephone booths.

In Jaffa a bomb exploded near the Jewish quarter, wounding a British policeman. On the Petahtikva Road an Arab was injured when a bomb planted in the road exploded close to him.

'Ovaltine' Jersey Herd Wins High Awards At Oxfordshire Show

The Oxfordshire Show, which opened at Oxford today, is the first of the big County Shows of the season and is consequently of especial interest. In the Jersey section the famous "Ovaltine" Herd captured high honours, including First Prizes and Championship, as well as 9 other awards.

The superb condition of the "Ovaltine" Jersey Herd and its consistent record of success—772 awards have been won since 1933—are due to the very high standards of hygiene and the advanced scientific methods adopted at the "Ovaltine" Dairy Farm at Abbot's Langley, Herts.

GREENBUSH BARN STRUCK BY BOLT DURING STORM

Cecil Walker's Loss on Sunday Partly Covered by Insurance

TREE STRUCK, BURNED

Picton, June 13—During a short but severe electrical storm which swept over Prince Edward County over the weekend, the barn of Cecil Walker of Greenbush was struck by lightning and totally destroyed. In the barn were 25 tons of hay, grain, a number of hens and other articles. All were lost. The fire spread to a machine shed and a large quantity of machinery was lost. Fortunately all livestock was in the pasture though they would have been inside five minutes later as Mr. Walker was setting out to do his chores. The barn was soon a mass of flames. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

A tree near the home of Nelson Mitchell, not far distant from the scene of the fire, was also struck by lightning and burned.

There was little rain which is greatly needed at the present time. All canning crops, meadows and spring sown grain are in great need of moisture. High winds which have prevailed for some days are also doing damage to trees and to tomato plants which have been set out in the fields.

Concert at Point Petre

On Sunday several hundred people went to the Anti-Aircraft camp at Point Petre where the band from the Petawawa camp was scheduled to give a concert. Due to some unknown reason the band did not arrive until nearly six o'clock and there was a small crowd for the evening concert. The band was of a very high order and the selections were much enjoyed by those privileged to hear them.

The work with the anti-aircraft guns has not yet commenced, but the men are busy with machine guns and rifles.

There are 75 men in camp with more coming from Montreal in July. The add materially to the crowds in town and add a military touch with their khaki uniforms.

Pilgrimage to Conger Chapel

The annual pilgrimage to the White Chapel or as it is called by many the Conger chapel, will take place next Sunday afternoon. On this occasion, Rev. David Wren will preach his farewell sermon to county people. Following the service that day he will return to spend a month at Wellington, for holidays Capt. the Rev. J. P. Reycraft will come to Picton from Stratford.

Thirty members of the Holy Name Society from Picton went to Kingston on Sunday to take part in the Holy Name Society rally. Rev. J. A. Meehan accompanied them.

Gordon Bell of Toronto spent the week end with Mrs. Bell and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Goodwin and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Goodwin of Maynooth were in town for the funeral on Saturday of Mr. Andrew Goodwin.

Though search is carried on in every way possible, there has been no trace yet of the body of James Miller who was drowned in the lake off Waupoos at the same time as Andrew Goodwin. This week the lake has been too rough to permit boats to go out.

SAYS STATE MEDICINE SHOULD BE TRIED

Toronto, June 13.—(CP)— State Medicine should be tried as a means of providing adequate health service, Dr. John A. Ferrell of New York, Associate Director, International Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation suggested in an interview here today.

"It seems to me that most of the things that are worthwhile are developed by the trial and error method," Dr. Ferrell said. "I believe that an adaptable program of State medicine could be evolved by the process of experimenting in different parts of the country and in rural and in urban areas."

WOOLER TRUCKER FOUND GUILTY

Kenneth Flindall Remanded for Sentence on Charge of Criminal Negligence

Kenneth Flindall, 33-year-old Wooler trucker, was convicted of a charge of criminal negligence by His Honour Judge Deroche in County Court here today and remanded in custody for sentence until June 22nd next. The charge arose out of a motor accident on Highway No. 2 three miles west of Belleville on the evening of Dec. 9th last and resulting in the death of Mrs. Mary McDonald, of Toronto.

The accident occurred when a motor car driven by John McDonald, Toronto, crashed into the rear end of a parked truck, operated by the accused Flindall. The truck had been brought to a stop owing to a fuse burning out, witnesses stated in court today.

Flindall, who was not represented by counsel, conducted his own cross-examination of Crown witnesses, who were called by County Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K. C. who stated he would not deal at length in the matter of summing up the case at the conclusion of the evidence. "You have all of the avaible evidence before you and as the accused is not represented by counsel, I will not deliberate too long on summing up the case, Your Honour," stated Mr. Donnan.

"However, I hold the accused man omitted to do an act he should have done, namely to remove his vehicle from the travelled portion of the highway. And I also might point out that the law must be enforced in these matters, as a precaution", added Mr. Donnan.

Provincial Constable W. E. Smith and H. T. O. Caldwell, both of whom investigated the accident, testified that Flindall's truck was partially on the highway when struck by Mr. McDonald's car.

In defence Flindall stated he was only stopped for the matter of one minute to replace a blown out fuse and felt he could not have placed flares on the highway any sooner than he had repaired the damaged fuse.

REPORTERS STILL WITH ROYAL TRAIN

Many of Them Will Continue to Newfoundland Before Returning Home

By A. E. FULFORD

Aboard royal pilot train, June 13—(CP)—Most of the newspaper reporters who boarded the pilot train May 17 when the King and Queen arrived in Canada are hanging on grimly to the end of the royal visit.

At the start of the 3,000 mile journey across Canada and back, 50 male reporters and six women writers joined the train which preceded the royal train. There are still 40 men and the same six women.

Seven American, two English and an Australian dropped off in New York, called off the Maritime end of the trip by their home offices. But the news services and most of the New York, London and large Canadian newspapers are still represented. Most will return to Montreal on the pilot train, leaving Halifax midnight Thursday.

A few are going on to Newfoundland or returning to the United States by boat and plane. A dozen men and one girl reporter dropped off the train during the four-day American tour last week but they rejoined it at Sherbrooke Monday.

COULDN'T SLEEP
COULDN'T WORK

What a relief to settle down to a real night's rest, and awake fully refreshed, ready for the day's duties. I was tortured by fretful nights—tossing, turning—never comfortable. Half awake daytime—over-tired, driving body and mind to work when they needed rest. "Try Dodd's Kidney Pills," said a friend—"it may be your kidneys". I'm glad I followed his advice as now I'm sleeping like a top—thanks to 111

BITTER and disillusioned, Houston tries to drown his sorrows in liquor. Lannie Upchurch, now Houston's lone friend, takes him back to the Cherokee Nation. Under the guiding influence of Lannie and Oolooteka, Houston conquers his craving for drink, and resumes the peaceful life he had known among the Cherokees before his venture into war.

INDIAN agents from Washington visit the settlement with government orders that the Cherokees are to move 200 miles further west to the Badlands of Oklahoma. Unscrupulous white men soon dupe the Indians out of most of the money the government has paid for the Cherokee lands, and the Cherokees soon throw away the balance of their cash for liquor.

HOUSTON goes to Washington, where Distinguished statesmen, diplomats, social leaders, and their wives, attending a brilliant Washington ball, are horrified by the sudden appearance of Sam Houston, clad in typical Indian garb.

HOUSTON, Upchurch and their Cherokee friends are snubbed by the gathering. But, the lovely Margaret Lea (Gail Patrick) is cordial to him, and they dance together. Margaret tells him that she is leaving for Texas.

LATER that evening, Jackson explains to Houston that the country needs the Cherokee lands for white settlers and points out to him that the Indians will be paid in Arkansas as they had been paid in Tennessee. But, Houston is not satisfied because, as he tells Jackson, the Indians are being duped out of their money. Jackson offers Houston a proposition; he agrees to give the Cherokee everything Houston has asked for, if Houston will quit the Indians and become a white man again. Houston accepts and leaves in anger.

Britain May Retaliate Against Blockade at Tientsin

Protest Lodged Against Blockade As 'Unfriendly Act'

British Authorities Receive Orders to 'Dig Their Heels in' in British Concession in Tientsin

BLOCKADE BEGINS

Question is Raised of Barring Japanese Ships from Britain's Far Eastern Ports of Hong Kong, Singapore and Penang

Tokyo, June 14. —(AP) — The British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie, protested today to the Japanese Foreign Minister, Hachiro Arita, against the blockade of the British Concession at Tientsin as an "Unfriendly Act". The Japanese reply was not made known.

Later Arita conferred with Premier Kiichiro Hiranuma and War Minister Seishiro Itagaki on the matter.

An authoritative source said that if the present "economic blockade", failed to achieve the desired result it would be extended to food and other vital necessities. (A Tientsin dispatch said that already had been the effect of the Japanese cordon around the British and French Concessions.)

First Steps Cautious

Informed quarters said the blockading police would proceed cautiously, at first merely examining persons and instituting curfews and then, step by step, twist the "thumb screws" until the desired objective is attained—a "guarantee against further anti-Japanism" within the British area.

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen

Canada's rainfall! From 184 inches at Surf Inlet, B.C., to only about 13 inches in southern Alberta is the range of Canada's annual rainfall. There are five types of rainfall recognized in that country. That on the Pacific coast has decided maximum in early winter, while in the interior of British Columbia the rainfall is distributed very evenly throughout the year. The Plains type of rainfall prevails over the greater portion of interior Canada. This type has a decided summer maximum, most of the rain falling from May to August which helps the great grain growing region. Then there is the St. Lawrence type of even distribution throughout the year, and the Nova Scotia type with a pronounced maximum in the winter months.

ONE BITE TOO MANY FOR OLD MOUNTAINEER

Logan, W. Va., June 14 (AP)—Rattlesnakes finally got Lee Mooney, 77-year-old mountaineer who awed more timorous citizens for 15 years by strolling through town with the reptiles in his shirt bosom. When the snake struck him he paid little attention to the wound, placing his dependence in a home remedy.

"I guess it just wasn't mixed right," said the mountaineer upon entering a hospital where he died yesterday.

Food supplies were running low in Nome.

PREROGATIVE OF MERCY EXTENDED

Term of Every Prisoner Sentenced Over 3 Months to be Reduced 1 Month

Ottawa, June 14—(CP)—On the eve of the King's departure from Canada, the royal prerogative of mercy was extended today to every prisoner in Canada serving a sentence of three months or more for an offence against the Criminal Code. Under a Governor-General's order, made public by Justice Minister Lapointe, every such sentence will be reduced by one month.

Additional consideration may be expected in individual cases of prisoners serving long term or penitentiary offences, it was announced. Such cases, however, will be dealt with as they come under review in the remission service and may be reduced by more than one month if the prisoner's conduct is good and clemency is indicated.

Act of Mercy

The order was signed by Sir Lyman P. Duff, Chief Justice of Canada and acting Governor General. It read in part:

"Their Royal Majesties, King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, who have spent several weeks in Canada on their first visit as King and Queen, are now about to sail for England. Their visit constitutes an event of historic importance and has given rise to extraordinary manifestations of loyalty and affection during Their Majesties' tour of Canada from coast to coast.

Associated Press Foreign Staff

Tientsin, China, June 14—(AP)—Japanese gendarmes, aided by Chinese police, blockaded the British and French concessions today, in effect cutting the flow of all goods to a population of 120,000.

No fresh food entered the concessions today and prices leaped 54 per cent. There was an immediate scarcity. Officially the passage of such supplies was not barred but Chinese carriers, fearing charges of anti-Japanism, brought virtually no food into the concessions.

Dozens of food-laden junks were seen on the Nai River but none unloading at the concession docks. This correspondent saw a white Russian living outside the British area toss a bundle of food across a barbed wire barricade to a friend when the Japanese were not looking.

Folks in Old Land Deeply Impressed With Welcome Given in Canada

London, June 14—(CP Cable) — Britons whose newspapers for days have been filled with glowing accounts of the enthusiastic reception given the King and Queen throughout Canada and in the United States are preparing in English parlance to "do a spot of cheering themselves" when the royal travellers return.

The tremendous welcome accorded Their Majesties on the historic trip has deeply impressed their subjects in the United Kingdom. The phlegmatic islanders are determined to show they can be equally vociferous.

The King, Queen Will Leave Canada In Better Health Than on Arrival

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aboard royal pilot train, June 14—(CP)—Their Majesties will leave Canada in better health and spirits than when they reached the Dominion, an official statement from the royal train said today. This despite the fact that at times they have felt a natural fatigue during their strenuous program.

The spontaneous welcome received on all sides pleased them greatly. They have noticed that while facing difficulties the people of Canada and the United States are showing toward their fellow citizens and toward their neighbor countries a spirit of goodwill definitely heartening to them.

The King and Queen have been touched most deeply, the report said, by the way in which the people of Canada and of the parts of the United States visited have received them. The informality and genuineness of the welcome demonstrated, they feel, that their reception has sprung from the hearts of a free people.

Last night Prime Minister Mackenzie King dined alone with the King and Queen and the statement was issued soon after. The dinner was in the nature of a private farewell as today is a full day and the departure is scheduled before the dinner hour Thursday.

General discussions of many subjects took place, especially of the impressions Their Majesties have received on the royal tour.

AS THE QUEEN SIGNED SHERBROOKE'S GUEST BOOK

Arriving back in Canada after their four-day visit to the United States, the King and Queen were given a mighty international reception upon their arrival in Sherbrooke, Que. Ten thousand visitors from Maine, Vermont and Massachusettes, joined their cheers with those of 150,000 French and English-speaking inhabitants from every corner of southeastern Quebec. The Queen is shown as she placed her royal autograph in Sherbrooke's guest book, while the King smilingly looks on.

PLENTY OF WORK FACING PREMIER ON RETURN HOME

More Than Likely General Election Will be Held in October

MAY CHANGE CABINET

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Ottawa, June 14—(CP)—In the rustic seclusion of Kingsmere in the Gatineau hills, Prime Minister Mackenzie King will retire this week-end to his summer home to meditate over the weighty problems of government, following his month as minister in attendance upon the King during the royal tour of Canada and the United States.

Foremost among those problems is that of deciding whether his party should go to the polls this year, and, if this year, what date. Rumors of a fall election have been in the air for a long time and a decisive announcement is expected shortly.

Many other problems await the Prime Minister who will reach Ottawa some time Saturday morning. Appointments are to be made which may involve cabinet changes and cabinet changes are usually avoided when possible until the eve of an election. There are three vacancies in the House of Commons necessitating by-elections unless a general election is to be held shortly.

Come on Royal Train

The Prime Minister will come home on the royal train which leaves Halifax immediately after Their Majesties sail from that port tomorrow night, and returns direct to Ottawa. It is understood here he will go at once to his summer home, which is in Quebec and only a short drive from Ottawa. He will probably meet his cabinet Tuesday for the first time in more than a month.

Picturesque New Brunswick Unwillingly Bade Fond Farewell To King George and His Consort

By JOHN MOSHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Saint John, N.B., June 14—(CP)—Picturesque New Brunswick unwillingly bade farewell today to the King and Queen as Prince Edward Island took up the cry of welcome that has sounded continuously since Their Majesties arrived in Canada four weeks ago today.

The final au revoir was shouted from Cape Tormentine, rocky promontory on Northumberland Strait, from where the royal couple sailed this morning aboard H. M. C. S. Skeena for Charlottetown and the four-hour Prince Edward Island visit. Tonight Nova Scotia welcomes them and tomorrow the visit will end.

The brief voyage to the island marked the second time the King and Queen have left the Dominion's mainland. They spent a day two weeks ago at Victoria, British Columbia's capital, on Vancouver Island.

Slept by Sea

Last night they slept by the sea near Cape Tormentine after a day which would have tired most people but in the course of which the King, with 28 such days behind him and the Queen, remarked: "Well, after 15,000 miles, I am not feeling too badly."

The royal train entered New Brunswick from Quebec at Matapedia early yesterday and passed through Campbellton and Bathurst before making the first royal stop at the old town of Newcastle beside the Miramichi.

From there the royal couple went by automobile to Fredericton— a 108-mile drive, the longest by car in their tour. The royal train proceeded empty to Saint John, Their Majesties making the 63-mile trip from the provincial capital by special train. They boarded the royal train again at Saint John for the 85-mile ride to Moncton.

New York, June 14—(CP)—The chain-letter mania has reached New York again and this time no money is involved. Only wives. Men-about-town have begun to receive letters which say:

Send a copy of this letter to five male friends, then bundle up your wife and send her to the person who heads the list. When your name works up to the top of the list you will receive 15,175 women.

Queen's Personality Thrills Crowds As Much Now as on Her Arrival

By MURIEL ADAMS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aboard royal pilot train, June 14—(CP)—The magnetic personalities of King George and Queen Elizabeth are as crowd-thrilling today as the Wednesday they set foot upon Canadian soil exactly four weeks ago.

That electric expectancy just before the royal couple appears grips all. Even the ladies-in-waiting and others of the royal suite stand by to watch; faces smiling and eyes brightening as if spellbound. The instant their Majesties appear there is a gasp from the crowd and then a roar of cheers.

It was the same a month ago in Quebec. It will be the same tomorrow in Halifax the end of the royal tour in Canada.

The Queen was a womanly charm all her own. Always at ease, sometimes laughing lightly, she accepts the admiration of all and saunters almost coyly with the King in the few informal seconds before they leave a station to greet those waiting.

She has a half-inquisitive look as she stands before the presentation line. If there is a pause between presentations the Queen glances about at the crowds, quick to nod to a smiling onlooker.

Knew Instinctively

She seems to know instinctively where to look in a crowd and to reach with her eyes past the front rows to the eager faces almost lost in the throng.

Queen Elizabeth might well be called the belle of the ball informally as well as formally. In the evening when she steps from the royal train to attend a formal function, equerries, personal police attendants and other officials, im-

Charlottetown, June 14—(CP)—The Canadian destroyer Skeena, carrying King George and Queen Elizabeth, steamed into the crowded harbor of this Prince Edward Island capital today to be greeted by throaty crescendo of whistles of fishing vessels and other craft that jammed all the unrestricted harbor waters.

The greyish-blue destroyer, accompanied by a roaring air escort, came into view only a few yards from shore, as pouring rain hid its earlier progress across the Strait of Northumberland from Cape Tormentine, N.B.

Rough Weather Encountered

Their Majesties rode into about the worst weather encountered on any part of the long royal tour through Canada, and the United States. It had rained for hours before their arrival and still was beating down heavily as the royal craft pulled alongside her pier at 12.25 EDT.

But the welcome was none the less enthusiastic. The sodden crowd dotted with fishermen clad in oilskins and farmers in overalls, let up a roaring cheer as soon as the shrieking marine whistles and booming royal salute from a bat-

NOVA SCOTIA WAITS TO PLEDGE FEALTY TO THRONE

Fishermen, Miners, Farmers, Town and City Folk to Say Greeting and Au Revoir

ADIEUS TO CANADA

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, June 14—(CP)—Impatient of the hours that separate them from royalty's coming, Nova Scotia's people awaited tensely today to pledge anew their fealty to the British throne through the King and Queen who come to this old land by nightfall.

Through the length and breadth of this province by the sea, expectancy was keened to razor-sharp pitch as a loyal population turned its eyes toward little Pictou, where King George brings his Queen into Nova Scotia this evening for the start of the province's welcome, and of Canada's reluctant farewell.

Greatest Greeting in History

Fisherman and miner and farmer, enthusiasm swelling as the time drew near, promised a reception such as no arriving guest has received in the province's long history. From Pictou to Halifax, where the royal visitors make their adieus to the Dominion, acclaim is assured at every step.

Towns and villages not on the royal route are pouring thousands of persons into these communities that will see the King and Queen.

Speediest Bombers in World Now Belong to Gt. Britain

London, June 14 (CP)—A Bristol Beaufort twin-engined bomber with a speed of more than 300 miles an hour and a prototype fighter with a speed said to be 520 miles an hour will make the Royal Air Force the speediest in the world, according to Robert Walling, writing in the London Evening Standard.

The new fighter, recently placed on the secret list, is said to be able to do 720 miles an hour in a power dive. This fighter may largely supersede the Spitfire and Hawker Hurricane planes. The former has a speed of 362 miles an hour and the latter 330.

The Society of British Aircraft Constructors, announcing the new bomber is ready for production, said it can attain speeds considerably higher than are attainable by the Blenheim which has a top speed of 295 miles an hour.

The Beaufort can be used as a torpedo-plane, as a "general purpose" aircraft, or a long-range reconnaissance aircraft.

It is designed for rapid production and is of all-metal construction. It carries a crew of four, a power-operated gun-turret amidships, and other guns mounted forward. It will also be constructed in Australia to supply the Far East command.

BOY STRUCK BY FLYING BALL BAT

Struck accidentally by a flying baseball bat when it left the hands of a fellow-pupil, Billy Calberry, 18 Franklin Street, youthful student of Queen Alexandra School, was rushed to Belleville General Hospital this morning suffering from a badly lacerated scalp.

Dr. Cronk attended the injured boy immediately following the accident and ordered him to hospital where stitches were inserted in the wound.

Young Calberry was playing in the school grounds when another pupil accidentally let a baseball bat fly out of his hands. The bat struck young Calberry on the head with the above-mentioned results.

PROSPECTIVE TOURISTS ENQUIRE ABOUT FISHING IN THIS AREA

The tourist business has as yet not reached the normal summer level, though a strengthening of the number of visitors now in the district has been noted during the past week or so, according to the local office of the Chamber of Commerce.

Enquiries received lately from points south of the border by the Chamber are concerned mainly with the type of fishing which may be had in Hastings County. The majority of would-be fishermen unanimously favor bass fishing, with pickerel also a close favorite, it is indicated by enquiries.

Normal business is not expected by the Chamber nor local store keepers until schools close for the summer in the United States when the annual summer hegira will commence.

YOUNG DEER SEEN NEAR HIGHWAYS

Far south of their usual haunts in the north woods, several young deer were seen yesterday near the highway between Bancroft and Millbridge, county councillors driving to the city for the regular June session of Hastings County Council stated.

Reeve David Mawson said he saw a handsome young buck dash across the road, ahead of his automobile, while County Clerk Erie Denyes and ex-warden Wesley Gray returning from the Chamber of Commerce cavalcade held in Bancroft last week saw a pair of young deer skirting the side of the road.

Veteran north woodsmen stated, that deer flies are exceptionally numerous in the woods this year, and there is a possibility that they have driven the deer south.

KIWANIS CLUB TO SEND 25 BOYS TO SUMMER CAMP

All Expenses Will be Paid at Moira Lake for Those Chosen

Twenty-five underprivileged children picked with great care will enjoy ten days at the Boys' Camp at Moira Lake at the expense of the Kiwanis Club this summer according to an announcement made by Ivan Scott, chairman of Boys and Girls work, at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club held at the Queen's Hotel on Tuesday. Clayton Johnson, district manager for Investors Syndicate, showed the film, "The Blind Spot of Science", the lecture being dealt with in Monday's issue of this paper in connection with the Rotary luncheon. The pictures were most interesting and instructive.

Ivan Scott explained to the club in connection with the Boys' Camp that $225 would be required to give the 25 boys a much needed holiday. These boys will be picked by the principals of the various schools, through members of the local club and then finally passed on by the whole committee. The boys will assemble at the "Y" where an interview will take place and the requirements of each boy noted. Blankets will be secured from the Red Cross Society and other needed articles will be supplied. Mr. Scott also stated it was not the intention of the Club to drop these boys, when they returned from camp, but to keep in touch with them and if possible continue the education that will b started at the camp. The chairman also requested the services of the members at a bee at the camp the latter part of June to fix up the dining room, put screens on the windows and close the sides of the cabins below the floors. A carpenter will be taken along to supervise the work.

Morley Wyman, new manager at Zellers, was introduced to the club by Eddie Logan, chairman of the Membership Committee. Mr. Wyman has been stationed in the Maritimes for some years and was born in Manitoulin Island. Secretary George Griffin proposed a motion passed by the Rotary Club, that all papers be asked to refrain from writing scare war headlines. "Half of the stories are only propaganda", said Mr. Griffin. The club unanimously concurred in the resolution. The Kinsmen Club were thanked by the president for relinquishing their date so that the Ladies' Night could be held on Monday evening. "Dick" Flynn presided at the luncheon. The speaker was introduced by George Griffin and Kiwanis appreciation expressed by Jack Trudeau.

Efficiency and Precision Of 'Tank' Battalion is Praised By Staff Inspecting Officer

EXCELLENT DRILL

Private G. C. Barnhardt Wins Award for Best Recruit and "B" Company for Best Drilled

Marching and countermarching in neat precision to the skirl of pipes and the beat of drums of the trim uniformed Pipe Band with the snap and precision of veteran campaigners, members of the Argyll Light Infantry (Tank) Battalion, who paraded in annual review and inspection before Major General H. A. Constantine, D.S.O. Officer Commanding Military District No. 3, Kingston, last evening at the Armouries were praised by the inspecting officer for their high efficiency so well presented.

Last evening's annual inspection was the culmination of months of training by the Battalion carried out under the efficient leadership of Lt. Col. A. B. Gribble, E.D. Officer Commanding, assisted by Major H. F. Alford, V.D., second in command, and the Company Commanders, Major G. N. Davison of "B" Company, and Major J. A. Lazier of "A" Company, and staff officers.

"B" Company Wins

To "B" Company last evening went the annual honors of cup presentation for best company drill, and the commendation of the Officer Commanding, and of Major General Constantine, who announced the award. And to Private C. G. Barnhardt, Shannonville, of "B" Company fell the honor of being named the Battalion's "best recruit" during the past year, an honor, which was graced with the presentation of the Imperial Veterans' Club of Belleville cup. The presentation of this award, was made by ex-Sergeant James Shepherd, who complimented the youth upon his fine performance in drill and training during the past year. The personal thanks of the Officer Commanding, Lt. Col Gribble, was also publicly made at the announcement of the award. An individual cup will be awarded Private Barnhardt, and the name of this year's winner will be engraved on the large cup, which will remain the property of the Veterans' Club.

Impressed With Efficiency

"I am impressed with the efficiency of your drill and the appearance of this Battalion", commended Major General Constantine after he had examined all ranks, assisted by his staff, composed of Lt. Col. Devey, A.A.Q.M.G. of District Headquarters and Lt. Col. Dewart, Peterborough, Brigadier of the 9th Infantry Brigade. Major J. W. Howard of the local Battalion as Brigade Major of the 9th Infantry Brigade also assisted the staff in the general inspection.

"With the equipment you have here available, you have made an excellent showing and a fine impression. The training you have received under your officers during the past months has been well shown", continued Major General Constantine addressing the Battalion drawn up on the Armouries floor.

Splendid Showing

"We hope that in the near future you will have the proper equipment to train as a regular Tank Battalion. You have made a splendid showing here this evening, and you deserve the thanks and appreciation of your officers."

Lt. Col. Gribble, O.C., also expressed his personal thanks to all ranks.

"You have carried out your drill splendidly, and shown the results of the training you have received during the past winter. You have co-operated splendidly with your officers and I ask that this same co-operation be given in future."

Lt. Col. Gribble voiced the possibility soon of a trip by the Battalion to Kingston and the Vickers gun range there, which training would complete that of floor training now received on this arm. He reminded also of the annual trip to Camp Borden in August, and voiced the hope, that the personnel of the unit would remain intact during the summer.

Previous to the annual inspection it was announced that Stretcher Bearer and Medical Assistance Certificates had been awarded Sergeant Alec Foster of the Pipe Band, and Lance Corporal Donald Grant Senior of the Band. Sergeant Ellarby was also announced as receiving his full qualification.

Immediately after the annual parade officers of the Battalion were hosts to their friends in the officers' quarters where a social hour was spent.

Radio Theme of E. Naylor's Talk To S. A. Young People

Monday evening, Mr. E. Naylor addressed the Salvation Army Youth Group on "The Radio and Broadcasting".

"The radio today is just in its infancy but is the greatest medium of advertising, and connecting the four corners of the earth," he said.

Mr. Naylor has been studying the radio for three years and has had the privilege of broadcasting several times. The cost of broadcasting is very high, but at small stations the cost is moderate compared with that of large stations.

Radio is not only a help in advertising, but is also a help in the spiritual life. To illustrate this Mr. Naylor said that during one of his broadcasts a gentleman and his wife at the point of despair, happened to listen to his broadcast and their minds were changed concerning spiritual things.

At the close of his address Mr. Naylor gave an illustration of broadcasting by means of an electrical transcription.

During the evening, Misses June Wardle and Dorothy Green gave a vocal duet. A violin duet by Isabel and Jean Sharpe. These numbers were greatly enjoyed by all.

SUPT., MATRON, ADVISORY BOARD OF HOME PRAISED

J. Charleston of Welfare Dept. at Toronto Addresses County Council

SYSTEM COMMENDED

Tribute to the Advisory Board of the Hastings County Home, the County Council and the superintendent and matron, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Sandercock, was paid yesterday by J. Charleston, of the Ontario Department of Welfare in a brief address to council shortly after the first meeting of the June session was opened in Shire Hall.

"The Hastings County Home is one of the best in the province, and one that is getting better every year," Mr. Charleston told the council, in congratulating it on the erection of the new east end addition, that is an infirmary and sun-parlor combined.

"Your Home has always received one hundred percent cooperation from its advisory board and council and that is to be commended," he said.

"The infirmary is a very necessary thing, and one of the last things we can do for these aged people," the speaker pointed out, adding that he hoped council could see its way clear in the near future to erect a similar addition to the west end of the Home for the accommodation of the aged male inmates.

Commended System

He commended the system of the council in retaining members of the Advisory Board year after year, and suggested that a new plan in which members would serve on the board for a period of three years be adopted.

"A regrettable fact," Mr. Charleston stated, "is that we have over four hundred incurable cases in the county homes of the province. These cases are a heavy burden on the management and were never intended to be housed in the county homes. However they have developed in the homes from various causes, and it is to be hoped that in the near future the proper hospitalization will be available for these unfortunate people".

He expressed pleasure at the way in which the home was being managed and complimented council on the various improvements for the comfort of the inmates, that have been installed during the past year. He recommended that a brick shelter be placed over the door of the furnace room and new foundations for the front verandah of the home be installed.

Tribute to Superintendent

He paid fine tribute to the work of the superintendent and matron of the home. "Superintendents and matrons of these institutions are the hardest worked, and sometimes the most maligned people in the county," he said. "They are taking care of people whom others have thrown out, and they deserve the fullest cooperation from every angle. This council, I am pleased to say, has always given its home and officials one hundred percent cooperation and it should be commended on this stand."

Mr. Charleston regretted the fact that the heads of the Department of Welfare could not see their way clear to visit the various homes of the province. "However", he said, "I hope to have the minister and other officials of the department pay a visit to your home and see what wonderful changes have been made during the past five years."

He urged that council pass a resolution permitting members of the Advisory Board and the Superintendent and Matron be permitted to attend the convention of county home officials being held in Powassan, Ont., this year.

"CULTIVATING QUALITY"

"This tobacco has been growing for about a month. Right along, especially after a rain, the top soil has to be broken up—'cultivating' we call it. This keeps the moisture around the roots. Sure it's hard work. But we aim to produce the finest quality leaf—and that's what we're getting now in Canada!"
—J. D. (tobacco grower).

ROYAL TOUR NEARS END

In a few short hours Their Majesties King George Sixth and Queen Elizabeth will have bidden farewell and sailed for the home of British sovereigns since time immemorial. The parting will be touching for the Rulers and our people for the past four weeks have been an occasion unprecedented in the history of this Dominion. No event, not even Confederation, has so stirred Canadians as meeting with their Sovereigns, whom they have acclaimed, and have loved, and to whom they will say goodbye and au revoir with a catch in their voice. To the Sovereigns it has been one of the events of their lifetime and a throne experience which cannot be forgotten. Everyone knows that peoples separated by space and conditions develop along different lines as the people of England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland have developed, and the people of Canada have naturally developed ways which are not quite the ways of the British people, customs which differ somewhat, but in the essentials of civilization and liberty they are the same. This speaks for the breadth and extensiveness of the ideals of British liberty.

Canadians will feel the departure of the King and Queen, for when good friends depart the depths of emotion are reached. Their Majesties have been so gracious, so kindly, so thoughtful, so considerate, they have met so many Canadians and shaken them by the hand and they would have met far more had time allowed, that the visit will ever be remembered. They have been the most delightful guests, ever ready to please those who welcome them for their desire to please comes from appreciation of the sincerity and open-heartedness of those who pay them homage.

Though they did not bring the physical throne from Westminster to Canada, they brought the real throne—for they are the Throne and in their weeks in Canada, our people learned what the Throne has meant through the ages. And Their Majesties, rulers of the freedom-loving Commonwealth of Nations, have learned something of the free spirit of liberty which breathes in one of their Dominions, one of the vastest lands on earth and bearing the promise of a future which no one can fully appreciate. They have seen and come to know individual Canadians, while Canadians have discovered the richness of the personality of the Sovereigns.

Their visit has been not only a triumph of Empire ties but a triumph of personality. The inspiration they have shed about them should forever make Canadians go forward with determination to the fullest achievement in Canada in the paths of peace and freedom.

Now our royal guests are passing through the Maritimes, one of the oldest sections of Canada where hospitality is proverbial and tradition is strong.

They have seen much and inspired the people greatly—theirs has been the most successful visit of its kind in history, but it seems hardly appropriate to speak of the success of such a visit for it is greater than success, it means spirit, sympathy, personality and understanding, which are beyond the rules of success.

CANADA'S LARGEST AIRPORT

Lethbridge Herald has published an air development number on the official opening of Kenyon Field, Lethbridge's airport by the Lieutenant-Governor of Alberta. The edition contains messages from airline cities, a message from the Hon. C. D. Howe, Federal Minister of Transport and many other features.

The first airplane flight in Western Canada between Winnipeg and Vancouver was at Lethbridge on June 14, 1911, there being two short "hops" at the Lethbridge Fair Grounds. The gradual increase in size and speed of aircraft has caused expansion of facilities for air liners.

Twenty years ago next August, Capt. Roy flew over the Rockies, making the first flight of the kind in history. Since then the air development of the West has been steady and Lethbridge has kept abreast with developments. Today Lethbridge is one of the most important divisional points on the Trans-Canada Airlines.

The opening of the airport was taken as an occasion to pay honor to the world famous airman, Air Commnader Herbert Hollick-Kenyon, an official of the Trans-Canada Airlines. It was he who flew the first airmail to Lethbridge. He was with Antarctic and Arctic explorations as is well known.

The Herald edition gives interesting stories of developments and narratives in regard to the growth of the air development in that city.

Lethbridge must be praised on its enterprise in building the largest air port in Canada and the Herald has presented in a comprehensive form the story of the growth of aviation with Lethbridge as centre during the past twenty years.

The Herald expresses hope that the great new transportation service which has already practically wiped out distance in the Dominion, will bring East and West more closely together than ever dreamed of by the Fathers of Confederation, whose first thought was to bind Canada together by a railway from the Atlantic to the Pacific, as a Herald editorial says.

THE FLOWERS OF JUNE

The wild rose blooms in beauty
Beside the rural way,
The buttercup is glowing
Throughout the Summer day,
And in the fragrant meadow
Gleams clover, red and white,
Oh! how the flowers of June-time
Bring fragrance and delight!

Beside the old-time farm home
The peony blushes red,
The snow-ball in the garden
Nods a knowing head,
The rose, so sweet and fragrant,
Blooms modestly near by—
What like the old-time flowers
To gladden heart and eye!

O sweet, sweet flowers of June-time!
Your beauty brings again
Memories of by-gone Summers—
Past pleasures and past pain;
And though your blooms are fleeting
They bring in very truth,
The essence of the Summer
The spirit of our youth.

A SUGGESTION OF AN EMINENTLY PRACTICAL NATURE that will interest all Canadians has been made by the Standard-Freeholder of Cornwall. Commenting editorially upon the fact that King George stands at attention at Ottawa while "O Canada" is being sung, the paper points out this may be perhaps regarded as giving that song official status as the National Anthem of the Dominion, but that in any event it would be a good idea if we could come to an agreement as to what English version to adopt.

x

At the present time, it points out, there are at least four English versions of Judge Routhier's hymn, if not more; and that whereas the original is known by every French-Canadian in the land, comparatively few English people seem to know any one of the various English versions from beginning to end, and even that most commonly used is begun with great enthusiasm in the first line and then is left to the band to continue until the last line, which is concluded with an equal burst of enthusiasm. It would be a good thing to adopt one English version and constitute that the accepted version to be sung from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

There is no question whatever as to the desirability of this, says the Montreal Star, which states the case for a standard English version of "O Canada" as follows:

"The fact is that there is more mumbling than singing in nearly every instance where an English version of "O Canada" is sung in public. You might find possibly one out of every twenty citizens selected at random who could tell you the words of the first verse. If a National Anthem is worth having, it is worth knowing. The tune of "O Canada" is dignified and inspiring, easy to remember and easy to sing. It should be suited to equally dignified and inspiring words in English. The matter might very easily be settled by a committee representing all the provinces, or, if necessary, there might be a national competition for a new version in order to avoid any recriminations as to the old ones. But whatever is done, let us adopt one English version only,—and stick to it henceforth."

UP TO HIS TRICKS

Some waxwork models were being brought out of storage. One, a lifelike figure of Henry VIII, was on a trolley pushed by a rather short workman who was hidden behind it.

A short-sighted woman, seeing the model coming towards her apparently of its own volition, gave a gasp and fled.

The workman looked first at the flying figure, then at the model, and said: "Lumme! He's at it again?"

JUNE 14TH, 1919

Favored with beautiful weather the visit of His Excellency, the Duke of Devonshire, Governor-General of Canada, the Duchess of Devonshire and their daughters, Lady Dorothy and Lady Rachael, to Belleville to day, is one of pleasure to the distinguished visitors and of great interest to the citizens of Belleville and the many persons from the surrounding country attracted here by the notable event. Preliminary arrangements for the reception of the Vice Regal party were made by Mayor Platt, representing the city council, Col. L. W. Marsh, representing the Board of Trade and Mr. Fred S. Deacon, representing the Board of Education, and they headed the reception committee which met the Governor General and party at the G.T.R. station at 10.30 o'clock this Saturday morning. A large crowd was present at the station upon the arrival of the Vice Regal train and a cordial welcome was given. A procession was formed and proceeded by way of Station, Mill and Front Streets to the Court House terrace where the formal reception took place. Upon the arrival of the party the band played the National Anthem, following which Mayor Platt read an address of welcome to which his Excellency replied. On the terrace members of the G.W.V.A., veterans of 1866 and of the South African War were lined up, as were also the high school pupils. Upon the platform were members of the city council, the council and the reception committee. Beautiful bouquets of roses were presented to the Duchess and Lady Dorothy and Lady Rachael. They were the gifts of the Women's Patriotic organizations and the city. The following members of the Great War Veterans' Association were formally presented to His Excellency, who pinned upon their breasts decorations worthily won for acts of bravery: W. C. Jack, Robert Logue, P. L. Yeomans, W. Smith, W. Crearer S. Ray and R. W. Crighton. Mrs. Evelyn Dann, Cannifton Road, received the Albert Royal Medal, which was awarded to her brother, the late Stoker Petty Officer Edward S. Beard, R.N.C., V.R., for gallantry at the time of the great explosion in the Halifax harbor on Dec. 6th, 1917. Members of the city and county council, clergymen, members of the Ladies' Patriotic Societies and citizens who desired, were presented to the members of the Vice Regal party. At the close of the proceedings here the party left and visited Queen Alexandra School. The pupils of that school, Queen Mary School, Victoria, Grier Street and St. Michael's Schools were paraded upon the lawn. Mr. Fred S. Deacon, Chairman of the Board of Education, read an address upon behalf of the Board. Mr. Mott, the Principal of the school, made a short address and the principals and teachers of the various schools were presented to the Vice Regal Party. Upon leaving the school the party proceeded to the Ontario School for the Deaf where luncheon was served at the residence of the principal, Dr. Coughlin. Besides Dr. and Mrs. Coughlin, Mayor Platt, Mrs. Platt, Col. W. N. Ponton and Mr. John Elliott took luncheon with the party. After inspecting the school and being received by the pupils, the party visited St. Agnes School, and the city hospital. At St. Agnes School the Ven. Archdeacon Beamish made a short address and flowers were presented. His Excellency signed the register. At the hospital the party was received by the Superintendent, Miss Green, the nurses, members of the W.C.A. and the medical profession. Refreshments were served in the assembly room after which the party left for the station where they took the train for Kingston at 5.30 o'clock.

GENGHIS KHAN

The Japanese, it is reported, are hatching a plan to seize the remains og Genghis Kahn, which have lain for seven centuries in a silver casket at Etsinhoro, Suiyuan, and place them within their own conquered territory in China. The idea would be to win the allegiance of Mongol descendants of followers of the Great Khan who carried his conquests across Asia and half-way across Europe in the thirteenth century.

Well, it's not a bad idea. But it could be carried still farther. Why not seize the bones of the most ruthless and unscrupulous of all conquerors and carry them instead to Europe. Then the peaceful country of Switzerland could be overrun, the inhabitants bombed and butchered and the bones of Genghis Khan enshrined atop the tallest Alp, in the midst of a desert.

That would be setting up an appropriate idol in the very midst of Europe which should inspire the armament race in all countries during the next twenty years until Genghis Khan's ideals are finally completely triumphant and civilization returns to the point where he dominated so much of it, back in the thirteenth century.—Sherbrooke Record.

PLENTY OF WORK

There are numerous appointments awaiting the Prime Minister's approval including nine to the Senate, and these, if filled now, will undoubtedly mean cabinet changes. Other appointments, such as chairmanship of the tariff board, parliamentary librarian, a Deputy Minister of Fisheries, and the three man penitentiary commission, are almost certain to take sitting members if not members of the cabinet itself.

Nearing End of Journey

Today the Prime Minister, visiting Prince Edward Island with Their Majesties, was nearing the end of an unprecedented experience which will close when the King and Queen sail from Halifax Thursday night.

On Dec. 17 next, Mr. Mackenzie King will celebrate his 65th birthday. On Aug. 8th next he will celebrate the 20th anniversary of his selection as leader of the Liberal party. He has been Prime Minister on three separate occasions with periods in opposition benches between — from Dec. 29, 1921 to June 28, 1926; from Sept. 25, 1926 to Aug. 7, 1930, and from Oct. 23, 1935 to the present, an aggregate of about 13 years.

Now the time has come when the Prime Minister must decide whether to go the full five years allowed by statute or follow the traditional custom, and one he has often upheld, of making a fresh appeal to the people after four years in office.

Expect October Date

The general belief is that an election will be held in October and that the announcement will come when the Prime Minister is banqueted in Toronto by his supporters Aug. 8, if not before.

The present government took office Oct. 23, 1935 and could, if desired, postpone an election until the spring of 1941. That would take up the statutory five years permitted, and the six months of grace for the purpose of holding an election.

But the fate of political parties clinging to office for the full five year period has in the past been defeated at the polls. A classic example was in 1935 when Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, after five years in office through the worst of the depression, met an unprecedented defeat and the Liberal party won the largest majority recorded by a national party since confederation.

BRITONS PREPARE

Southampton and London both are preparing festive welcomes.

The royal liner, the Empress of Britain, is due to dock at 2:45 p.m. BST (9:45 a.m. EDT) June 22 at Southampton. A quarter of a million people are expected to pack streets and special dockside stands to see the King and Queen step ashore and drive to the station.

A Family Welcome

There will be a family welcome too. Queen Mary, Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester, the Duke and Duchess of Kent, the Princess Royal and the Earl of Harewood, all are expected to be at the docks. It is understood the Queen mother, who has virtually recovered from her automobile accident, is resting at present and will make no further public appearances before greeting her son and daughter-in-law.

A special train will convey the royal party from Southampton to Waterloo station here, from which they will drive direct to Buckingham Palace.

No special arrangements have been made to greet Their Majesties in London that evening, but citizens can be depended upon to give them a rousing welcome and streets will be gay with flags and bunting.

On the following day, June 23, a state drive to the Guildhall will be the occasion of a formal welcome home by the City.

Hernia (Rupture) — Operation or Injection?

In days when physical fitness and man power mean much to a nation, anything that will make a fit of an unfit man receives careful consideration. One of the simple defects that makes a man unfit for front line service is hernia or rupture. Except in cases where the abdominal wall is weak, if the hernia is repaired, the man can go on light duty in three months and heavy duty in six months, after operation.

At present a working man has to do some planning and figuring if he wishes to have his hernia repaired by operation, as it means two or three weeks in hospital, surgeon's fee, anaesthetist's fee, and four to six weeks perhaps away from his work. In addition to the cost, there is the natural fear most people have of operation and also of the anaesthetic. It is not to be wondered at therefore that so many who are ruptured would sooner wear a truss and get along as best they can than undergo operation.

What about the injection method? Notwithstanding the thousands hundreds of thousands in fact, of cases successfully treated by the injection method, there are still many surgeons who will use no other method but operation. Their experience with a few cases has not been satisfactory and they would sooner use the surgical than the injection method. When one surgeon reports 99 per cent cures by the injection method and another about as many failures, there is something wrong somewhere.

The truth of the matter is that the injection method is suitable for only "selected" cases, whereas surgery is suitable for "all cases". Thus if all cases, without selection, were given the injection treatment there is bound to be many failures whereas, in selected cases the injection method might be successful in 99 of every 100 cases.

Dr. George Earl, St. Paul, in Minnesota Medicine, reporting on 38 patients on whom he used surgery and 42 cases he injected says:

"A simple indirect hernia is relatively easy of closure by the injection method. All other types deserve careful consideration before using any other method but surgery. To secure results the injection method takes more persistence, close attention to detail and study of the individual case than some are willing to give when operation offers satisfactory results."

If, then, you have a hernia, and have been afraid of the expense, the loss of time, the anaesthetic and operation, why not have your physician refer you to a surgeon who uses both methods —injection and operation?

Australia Will Oppose Return Of Former German Colonies Says W. G. Marshall of Sydney

Commonwealth Feels Her Importance and Duty in Question of Defence

PICTURES OF SYDNEY

Son of Rt. Rev. Bishop Marshall Pays Visit Here During World Wide Tour

Australia, the oldest continent in the world, one as large as the United States of America, twenty-five times as large as Great Britain and Ireland, and three quarters the size of Europe, a land of tropical allure, snow-capped mountains, of modern architecture, roads and a climate that is unsurpassed in the world, was graphically described yesterday by Mr. W. G. Marshall, of Sydney, third largest city in the British Empire, who is spending a three weeks' holiday with his parents the Right Rev. Bishop George Marshall and Mrs. Marshall, 52 Victoria Avenue.

Mr. Marshall and his wife, who have completed approximately half of a world tour, arrived Monday from New York where they landed from the "Queen Mary" after spending some six weeks in England. Mr. Marshall is the manager of Peek Frean, Australia Ltd., Australian subsidiary of the famous English biscuit firm and is a director of Foster-Clark Australia Ltd., famous British food company.

The Marshalls left Australia in March sailing by a P. & O. steamer for Colombo. They visited India, travelling from there to the Mediterranean to Marseilles, calling at Cannes, Nice, Monao, San Remo, Italy, Port Said, Paris and London. While in Canada they will visit Toronto Montreal and Ottawa before leaving for Chicago and Colorado where they will see the famous Grand Canyon, going from there to Hollywood and thence to San Francisco, sailing from that port for their home city of Sydney, Australia where they expect to arrive sometime in August.

In his clipped Australian accent, Mr. Marshall told a vivid story of the country he has lived in for the past twenty-six years. He was born in England and went to Australia when a young man.

The economic set-up in Australia is good, he said.

"Unemployment there is about eight per cent. Government relief works controlled by the state parliaments absorbed the most of the unemployment. As it is, Australia has over 24,000 factories employing more than 480,000 people and paying annually $82,000,000 in salaries and wages. Business is good and prospects for its continuance are exceedingly bright," he said, "unless of course an international upheaval ensues. However," he smiled, "Australia is intensely patriotic and will back up the British Empire in whatever happens."

Australian currency is at a twenty-five per cent discount in the British markets, Mr. Marshall said. "Of course this is of great benefit to the primary producer for if the Australian farmer ships four thousand pounds worth of wool to England, he gets five thousand in Australian currency for it. It is not much good however to the fellow sending money home."

Increasing Army

Australia boasts a standing army of thirty thousand troops, Mr. Marshall said, while during the past three months seventy thousand militia have been recruited. Her navy is a fast growing unit. New docks capable of accommodating battle cruisers of the "Renown" type are now under construction at Sydney. This project has been launched since Britain adopted a new policy at the strategic naval base at Singapore. Airplane factories are being built at various places and will be in production within a short time. Australia feels that in the event of war she will be called upon to take an important part, he said.

Will Oppose Return of Colonies

Australia will strongly oppose the return of former German colonies to the Reich in view of the fact that the island of Robaul, former German New Guinea and now under Australian mandate, will be a strategic base of operations for Germany should war be declared Mr. Marshall pointed out. Sydney is within airplane striking distance of this important place, and the oldest continent in the world considers it a vital point.

Feel Nearer England

"We feel nearer the Mother Country since the Imperial Airways Air transports have opened communication between England and Australia", he said. "Vastly different to the six weeks journey by water are the fleet aerial cabin planes, that negotiate the distance in a few days. One can post a letter in Darwin and in twelve days it will be delivered in London. Fifteen days is all it takes for a letter to travel from New Zealand to the Old Country."

Mr. Marshall is inordinately and justifiably proud of the city of his adoption." The climate is ideal there" he said. "A day like today would be one of our midwinter days. It never snows, although snow is visible on the nearby mountain ranges, and the temperature never drops to the freezing point.

Washington of Australia

The city of Sydney, that boasts one and one-half million population is one of the most modern cities in the world. It has splendid roads of concrete and macadam, subways, electricity and all the modern scientific achievements that American or European cities boast. Its beautiful harbor, the third largest in the world is a scene of picturesque beauty. A bridge two-thirds of a mile long spans it, while its four shores dotted with modern residences is called the 'dress circle' of the Washington of Australia. It is the third largest city in the British Empire, Mr. Marshall said.

Painting a general picture of the continent as a whole, the genial Australian said about 54,000 aborigines, full-blooded, are still in-existence. Thirty-four thousand of these are nomadic and still live in the remote unsettled parts of the interior and Northern Australia. They exist in the primitive style of the stone age using the fire-stick, stone knife, and tomahawk. Others are employed in cattle stations, and in government supervised camps.

Universal adult suffrage ensures for Australia democratic governments irrespective of party. Religious, political and social extremes are absent. In Australia, too, a man, his capabilities and his ideas are assessed at their value.

City life in Australia has all the amenities of civilization in older countries—modern hotels, cinemas, restaurants, art galleries, club shops and stores, sports palaces, electric train, bus taxi and ferry services. Canberra is the Federal capital.

"I must tell you more about Sydney's beautiful bridge," Mr. Marshall smiled. "Its main arch and steel spans are 3,770 feet long and weigh 50,000 tons. It is constructed to carry four lines of electric railway traffic, six lines of vehicular traffic and two footways. Its capacity is 138 trains, 6,000 road vehicles, and 40,000 pedestrians an hour."

Australian Wool

Australia boasts the finest wool in the world, he said. It is the Commonwealth's most important industry and is worth approximately three hundred million dollars a year. It provides more than a quarter of the world's requirements. In the year 1932-33 it had the record wool-clip of 1,063,000,000 pounds. The first sheep census in 1788 was 29 animals. Latest returns show 112,100,000.

Wheat produced at a substantially lower cost than most European countries averages 172,000,000 bushels yearly, 115,000,000 bushels of which are exported, Mr. Marshall said. Cattle and horse-raising are prominent industries, with 1,760,000 horses and 13,910,000 cattle now grazing on its pastures. Cattle stations cover enormous areas, one lease alone occupying 11,000 acres.

"There are plenty of 'sweets' in Australia", Mr. Marshall smiled. "Over 335,000 acres in various parts of the country are utilized in the growing of sugar cane. The annual yield is 4,400,000 tons and the quantity of sugar recovered is 620,000 tons at a value of $10,000,000.

Splendid Climate

A splendid climate, year-round pastures of rich grasses, cold storage, and application of co-operative marketing principles have resulted in rapid strides in dairy farming, he said. Four hundred thirty four millions of pounds of butter worth $133,000,000. 39,000,000 million pounds of cheese valued at approximately $6,450,000 were produced in 1936.

Fruits galore, vineyards producing 16,000,000 gallons of wine annually, rice-growing, the world finest hardwoods, minerals are some of the resources enjoyed by this continent of six and one-quarter millions of people, Mr. Marshall said. Its industries are protected by a customs tariff, while the country offers a fruitful field for the manufacturer. Many outstanding British firms are well established in the country. And not withstanding its small population, Australia is Britain's third largest customer.

While the standard of living is high, the cost of living, paradoxically is low. The average cost of a man, his wife and two children is approximately seventeen dollars weekly.

Basic wages in most industries are fixed by Federal and State tribunals, Mr. Marshall asserted. Typical wage rates fixed in awards and industrial agreements are (some of them) bakers $26-$32 dollars weekly; carpenters $26-$30; compositors $26-$36; bricklayers $25-$31; painters $26-$29; plumbers $24-$30; tailors $23-$26; wharf-laborers, roughly 68 cents per-hour.

Plenty of Sport

"Lovers of sport do not lack for their favorite pastimes in Australia," he declared. "There one can see an international test cricket match, he can see the famous Melbourne Cup race run; he can play golf, polo, tennis, football, baseball, lacrosse, motor, yacht the year round, ride a horse, camel or a surf board, enjoy skiing, tobogganing and ice skating. He can hunt, or shoot game or wild fowl, and if he wants excitement he can shoot buffalo or crocodile. Well-stocked streams offer fighting trout while the deep-sea fisherman can get excellent sport with the striped marlin, the black marlin and the broad-bill swordfish."

"Twelve thousand miles of white sand beaches provide bathing and surfing the year round. It is a grand country," Mr. Marshall concluded, "and one that a lot of people of America, Canada and Europe know little about."

"After all," he smiled, "we are not so far from Canada. Last year, I talked with my father via the telephone from my home in Sydney, a distance of twelve thousand miles. While the conversation was not as distinctly clear as it might have been, owing to the distance and atmospheric conditions, yet I could hear him plainly."

Mrs. Marshall, who is an Australian-born girl, is with Mr. Marshall and is enjoying her first glimpse of Canada.

Truth About Gasoline Prices

Before we told motorists that IT WAS NOT NECESSARY to pay 18½c or 20½a a gallon for gasoline (plus tax) most high grade gasolines (except our own "Blue Star") sold for 18½c or 20½c a gallon (plus tax)

Now consider what has happened.

Tens of thousands of motorists have proven for themselves by using GOOD RICH' FIRST GRADE "BLUE STAR" gasoline that what we said is TRUE.

So now what do you see? You see a flood of THIRD Grade gasolines being offered at a price similar to "BLUE STAR".

Well, the price is similar, but the third Grade gasoline isn't. Not by any means. It can't be. It is not even made by the same process.

The simple fact is, that "BLUE STAR" is GOOD RICH' FIRST GRADE gasoline. It has been officially rated in the same group with other standard high grade gasolines.

The Third Grade gasolines being offered at "BLUE STAR" price are not in the same group at all

SO DON'T BE MISLED.

Get a tankful of "Blue Star." Give it the most rigorous test you can think of. Prove it for yourself. You will be delighted with it. And don't forget the saving—up to 5c on every gallon.

WARDEN URGES MEMBERS TO KEEP TAX RATE DOWN

June Session of County Council Opened With Singing of National Anthem

CONDITIONS IMPROVE

Warden Thompson, However, Tells Members Rain is Urgently Needed

The austere walls of Shire Hall rang to the strange sound of singing voices yesterday afternoon when members of the Hastings County Council at the inaugural meeting of the June session signified their staunch loyalty to the British Crown by the singing of the National Anthem.

"The visit of Their Majesties to Canada and the United States has had a far-reaching beneficial effect on both countries", Reeve J. L. Churcher, Dungannon said, in forwarding the motion that council reiterate its loyalty by the singing of the National Anthem. "It is a fitting time to sing it", he said. A few seconds later, the Hall rang to the voices of the councillors as they joined lustily in the refrain.

An appeal to council to bear in mind that crop prospects do not look as good as they did some time ago, and to keep the tax rate as low as possible and expenditures at a minimum, was voiced by Warden George Thompson in his opening remarks to the body.

General Conditions Better

"Dairying, the basic industry of the county is in none too good shape", he said, "while crops will not be as good as was expected unless rain comes. General conditions have improved thanks to the visit of Their Majesties the King and Queen, which has resulted in the war-scare headlines disappearing from the front pages of the press. This has had an effect on business and farming in general", he said.

Another serious problem, that must be looked after is relief and unemployment, Warden Thompson pointed out. "This problem is as bad as ever, and while there is talk of a Federal election, and the government as all governments do when faced with an election, might launch public works programs, we must not take this for granted, but must be prepared to meet the problems of relief and unemployment.

He extended a welcome to the councillors and thanked them for the co-operation given him during his first session as warden, adding that he hoped he would receive the same help and support in the forthcoming session.

On Standard Time

The first skirmish of the session took place when members after a mild argument decided by a vote of 14-10 to adopt Standard Time for the four-day session. A motion by Reeve William West, that the county clerk send a letter of sympathy to ex-Warden Thomas Montgomery at present lying seriously ill in Belleville General Hospital was unanimously carried.

The Warden then appointed the committees for estimates, and equalization. These are —Estimates — Messrs. G. Bedford, chairman, Wm. Linn, James Moore, U. A. Hubbell, Chas. Rollins, Wm. Davis, R. Robson, Chas. Rush, J. Nicholson, James Haggerty, Erle Denyes and the Warden.

Equalization—Messrs. Geo. Sherman, chairman; G. MacDonald, W. West, G. Bush, T. Fleming, G. Jordan, J. L. Churcher, Dr. S. S. Lumb, J. Nickle, Chas. Kerr, Erle Denyes and the Warden.

Dr. Wallace Crawford, of London, Ont., a Canadian missionary who has worked for 30 years in China, has been appointed to the staff of the first leper hospital in China. Dr. Crawford will direct China's first scientific fight against the dreaded disease which claims hundreds of lives each year.

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Ridicule of Stutterer Serves to Aggravate Condition

Few afflictions a child suffers will embarrass him more or perhaps warp his life more than a serious defect in speech. Speech is our most important means of communication and when this is impaired, the individual is handicapped just that much in his struggle in the world.

There are two terms applied to speech defects—stammering and stuttering. But I'll wager that very few people, even some of the victims themselves, know that the two terms do not apply to the same condition. I didn't myself for a long time in spite of the fact that I was a sufferer.

Stammering is a term applied to an impairment of speech due to a definite anatomical or organic abnormality such as a cleft palate, harelip or any mouth, chest or throat condition which interferes physically with talking.

Stuttering is that hesitant manner of speaking which is the more common of the two types. It is characterized by either clonic or tonic spasms. By that I mean alternative convulsive and relaxing, or by rigid unrelaxing spasms. In a true sense, it isn't a disorder of speech at all. Rather, it is a psychological manifestation of a fear of talking—an obsession with attending inhibitions. There is no true impairment of the speech mechanism.

You have all seen adult stutterers, and you have seen how their affliction affects their whole lives. Most of the professions are closed to them, as are many other ways of earning a livelihood.

Stuttering first makes its appearance in a young child, very often after a scare of some kind—just as I told you yesterday in my own case. The trouble is in his inheritance of a nervous system, that is weak at some point. The shock swings this nervous constitution out of balance, and this is reflected in the delicate mechanism of speech. Now these children are unusually shy and sensitive. They are afraid of being ridiculed because they have trouble with words, and so they begin to make conscious efforts to prevent themselves from stuttering. His terrible experiences with words give rise to obsessions in the subconscious mind, and these obsession inhibit normal speech reflexes, causing greater incoordination of the muscles and greater tendency to those spasms we see so often in stutterers.

Why do people laugh at stutterers? People often ask me that. others, who write me in desperation about their boy's struggles to speak want to know about this. Personally, I think it is because there is no apparent reason a person should stutter We expect to see a person with an injured leg limp. But to see a person, apparently well in every way, unable to utter simple everyday words seems to be a matter of merriment. It is very unfortunate, too, for it only helps increase the psychological tangle that is at the bottom of the trouble.

AT THE McCARTHY

"SOMETHING TO SING ABOUT"

As dynamic and full of surprises, as he always is, but in an entirely new role, that of a popular orchestra leader, who goes Hollywood, James Cagney is proving a sensation in his latest picture, "Something to Sing About," which opens here next at the McCarthy Theatre. Victor Schertzinger, who wrote the story and directed the picture, and with Zion Myers produced it, saw a chance to give Cagney fans a new thrill, by showing them that their favorite was an accomplished song and dance man, as well as dramatic actor of supreme versatility.

Jimmy does two eccentric solo dances, which will bring the audience to the edge of their seats, and another in which he is the centre of a dancing trio, the other two members of which are the oldtime vaudeville headliners, Harland Dixon and Johnny Boyle. In one of the last sequences in "Something to Sing About," he puts on a battle that will make new screen history, just to show that he hasn't forgotten the traditional Cagney form.

Action-Packed Second feature

Tim Holt, son of the famous screen star, Jack Holt, comes next to the McCarthy Theatre in his first starring role, although he has been featured in two recent hits at the McCarthy Theatre, namely as the "Tonto Kid" in Law West of Tombstone", and also as a young lieutenant in "Stagecoach", the feature "The Rookie Cop" produced by R. K. O. Radio, gives him his first opportunity to show his talent as a star and perhaps eventually to become as popular as his famous father.

"The Rookie Cop" is presented as an excellent action-packed second feature hit, in addition to James Cagney in "Something to Sing About", and promises to be something out of the ordinary in entertainment and with an entirely new background for its plot, drama and adventure which is certain to find favor with all Belleville and vicinity theatregoers. Virginia Weidler as an eleven-year-old pal of Holt's and Janet Shaw as his fiancee are the principals in the supporting cast, but ACE the wonder dog of the screen has a featured role which surpasses his marvelous canine acting that he did in his two previous pictures namely "Orphans of the Street" and "Almost A Gentleman." A clever technicolor cartoon and another episode of "Flying G-Men" which is presented on the McCarthy programme each week, completes this exceptional fine screen offering to be presented this week end.

"The Soldier and the Lady"
"Sorority House"

Anton Walbrook, Elizabeth Allan, Margot Grahame, Akim Tamiroff, Fay Bainter and Eric Blore, who are featured in "The Soldier and the Lady", which is the screen version of Jules Verne's greatest adventure novel, "Michael Strogoff" and the grand companion feature featuring Anne Shirley, James Ellison and Barbara Reid entitled "Sorority House" will be presented for the last times at the McCarthy Theatre and for an ideal evening's screen enjoyment, we urge all, not to miss these two splendid attractions as they are both exceptionally fine productions, that the McCarthy Theatre management takes pleasure in presenting to you.

AT THE BELLE

"THE STORY OF ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL"

The immortal role of the woman whose love inspired one of the most thrilling achievements in America's past is brought to life by Loretta Young in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell", now at the Belle Theatre.

The popular star has the greatest portrayal in her career in this stirring romantic drama as Mabel Hubbard, the beautiful deaf girl who loved the young dreamer, and out of whose affliction was inspired the invention of the telephone.

Don Ameche is starred opposite Miss Young in the title role of this Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox, which depicts in simple, human and inspiring terms the hopes and struggles of the handsome young man whom people called mad because he believed it was possible for men's voices to span continents through a copper wire. Henry Fonda shares stellar honors with the pair as Thomas Watson, Bell's tireless assistant and ardent admirer.

Some idea of the intensity of Bell's love for the beautiful and courageous Mabel may be derived from the fact that he was willing to abandon the invention of the telephone—the dream of his life—when he feared that further experiment with it would delay their marriage indefinitely.

Charles Coburn plays Mabel's father in the film, while Spring Byinton is cast as her mother. Associate Producer Kenneth Macgowan achieved a casting group by giving the roles of Mabel Hubbard's three sisters to the sisters of Loretta Young; Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young and Georgiana Young. Gene Lockhart is also prominently cast in the picture as Thomas Sanders, the man whose deaf child Alexander Graham Bell taught to speak.

Latest Royal Visit Films

The latest Royal visit pictures are a special attraction at the Belle tonight only. The new films include the visit to Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria and Edmonton, where five miles of bleacher seats are erected and 90,000 people cheer the sovereign's triumphant tour. "Champaigne Music" a smart musical revue will be presented on the same program.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

The Truth is the Best

Dear Miss Fairfax

I am not yet of age, but have seen a good deal of life since I was 15 years old. My stepfather sent me out to work, and I didn't know how to take care of myself. After some pretty dreadful experiences, and becoming hard-boiled, I became self-protective.

About six months ago, I met a man, different from all the others. He wasn't selfish, did not try to exploit me, was considerate and respectful. When he asked me to marry him, I thought the only decent and square thing to do was to tell him the kind of life I had led after my stepfather put me out.

He seemed to feel so sorry for the poor little waif I had been, kicked from pillar to post with no means of self-protection, and he applauded the fight I made to get an education and the fact that I hold a responsible job.

We are still good friends, and yet something has crept into our relationship. It is not as it was before I made my confession, and I am wondering if I did the wise thing in telling him the truth. I care so much for him I could not bear the thought of deception.

M.

You're not only courageous and square, but you did the right thing. Leaving out of the question ideals of truth and loyalty, and coming down to a practical plane, it is probable this man might have heard something of your earlier life from other sources.

From what you tell me of him, I believe he cannot think any less of you for being truthful.

Don't Elope to be Accommodating

Dear Miss Fairfax

I do not like the gentleman who has asked me to elope with him. I am 16 and he is 40. His wife died and he comes to our house a lot to see my aunt and grandmother. I never thought he liked me. I always felt toward him as if he were old and must be treated with respect because he's a prominent person.

The other night he caught me downstairs by myself, and hugged me and said he wanted me to elope with him. He asked me to meet him in his car and said he would motor to the city and be married and then call up my family. I was so surprised I couldn't say anything. I didn't want to be rude to him, on account of his being so prominent and my family looking up to him. Still I don't like him a bit and don't want to marry him. And I'm afraid my family might make me do it, because they respect him so much.

I would rather run away first. How does one try to get work?' I've always helped 'round the house, and they say I'm quick to learn.

An Orphan

Prominent or not, this man strikes me as an unpleasant person. And for a girl of 16 to marry a man of 40, whom he doesn't like, is thoroughly repulsive. Talk to your family and decline to marry the ardent suitor either by an elopement or a church wedding.

If the relatives with whom you live try to force you into this, haven't you some others to whom you can write and ask for protection? If you have not, go to the Children's Aid Society, in your city and state your case. Girls, let alone children like you, aren't married these days to be accommodating, or because they feel it would be rude to refuse.

Etiquette News From Here and There

Appropriateness is one of the essential qualities of etiquette—even for drum majors! The "too spectacular antics of drum majors" were severely criticised by Colonel William A. Dawkins, Adjutant General of the G.A.R. after a Memorial Day parade. Colonel Dawkins showed sound taste and a sure sense of suitability when he said:

"The baton-wielders rather burlesqued the occasion of a memorial".

The directors of the increasing cult of baton-wielders should give this justified criticism serious thoughts. The glory of the parades of veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic on Memorial Day should not have been tarnished by the absurd monkeyshines of unadvised baton-wielders.

Cheers for Dr. Edward J. Ryan of Evanston, Illinois, for his tip to dentists, on consideration—a human interest note for all of us! Said Dr. Ryan, to the delegates of the Dental Society convention:

"Dentists should not keep their patients waiting, because the longer they sit in the waiting room, the greater their fears. Dentists do not always appreciate the mental shock which dental operations cause patients. If they are sympathetic, they will help a patient over such a time, but if they are inconsiderate, the patient may suffer a psychological effect which will make him unhappy for the rest of his life".

I salute the charming taste of a bride whose wedding in a lovely garden I went to yesterday. Choosing the simple and lovely beauty of field daisies, she carried a loose bouquet of these bright-faced flowers, and in her dark hair wore a wreath of daisies. Couldn't have been simpler and no sophisticated flower could have been more effective. I have always wondered why more garden-wedding or country-wedding brides don't do this.

Another unique and artistic fashion note from the same wedding: the maid of honor and the six bridesmaids wore wreaths of small glistening ivy leaves, and carried old-fashioned bouquets of ivy

I wonder why some women . . . often just the women, who because of their outstanding accomplishments, are the ones who shouldn't have such clumsy taste . . . persist in adding fuel to the unjust and antiquated idea that women don't work together cooperatively and amicably. If they make these inept statements in public, as they are apt to do, they sound absurd, not funny, and they look absurd in print.

Why shouldn't women work together and remain good friends? Why dishonor women, especially women who work conscientiously and who think constructively, by such destructive thinking? Let's resist that impulse to win a crooked smile!

JAPANESE POLICE

taken as a result of refusal by British concession authorities to relinquish four Chinese whom the Japanese accused of slaying a Chinese official of the Tientsin provisional government. The British authorities had held there was insufficient evidence to warrant surrender of the men.

Proposal Turned Down

The Japanese, apparently turning down a British proposal of a three-power settlement of the dispute, declared further negotiations would be fruitless and argued it was necessary to isolate the concessions as "a nest of intrigue and plots."

At barricades ringing the adjoining British and French zones hundreds of Chinese workers arrived early, hoping to reach their jobs in the concessions without trouble. But the police were there ahead of them. The Chinese were forced to pass through narrow alleyways where they were searched behind closed doors at the rate of one a minute.

The Japanese controlled Chinese-language newspaper, Yung-Pao, published the regulations governing entry into the concessions as follows:

1. Only those whose presence inside is absolutely necessary to be permitted to enter.
2. Searches to be conducted inside special runways adjacent to the concessions' entrances but third power nations to be exempted if they carry consular passes.
3. All cargo vehicles to be examined.

Not Heavily Manned

(The foreign population of the British concession, according to a 1938 census figure, is 4,043 and that of the French concession, 915. The remainder of the inhabitants are Chinese. The British military establishment numbers 750 and the French 1,500).

Only five entrances to the concessions were open to traffic, virtually at a standstill because of the searches. Automobiles at the barricades were strictly searched. Seats were turned up and door linings ripped open.

Soldiers and police patrolled the British concession in small trucks. No disorders were reported.

Whether the Japanese would attempt to halt all foreign ships on the Hai River still was not clear because none attempted to reach British and French docks. A British lighter was stopped this morning but soon released.

The Chinese Mayor of Tientsin declared in a statement, published by Yung-Pao, that "no obstacles whatever can hinder creation of the new order in East Asia and, as the British are protecting as political prisoners several hired assassins this grave situation is entirely a British responsibility which the British alone can solve.

Conflagration Possible

"A single spark now may cause a big conflagration. Therefore it is impossible to predict what changes may occur in the next 10 days."

The commander of a British mule corps at Hong Kong, Major E. L. Law, who was arrested yesterday upon his arrival at Tientsin with Mrs. Law, was freed following British representations. Mrs. Law had taken photographs of the Japanese bund before their vessel docked. She was detained briefly.

Eric Mayell, a British subject and cameraman for Fox Movietone Newsreel, was arrested in the midst of photographing Japanese barricades and activities from the international bridge.

Mayell remonstrated that the bridge was international, whereupon the Japanese gendarmes pulled him and his camera into the Japanese-occupied area and placed him in a guardhouse. The British consulate started an inquiry.

maculate in evening dress, stand for several minutes on the platform waiting until she appears to bow before her.

The King seems to enjoy the admiring glances cast upon his Queen. Her ladies-in-waiting, exquisitely gowned and diamond tiaras sparkling, stay back from the royal suite and as the Queen approaches bow in a deep curtsy before following to the royal cars.

Always After Passing

The charged atmosphere of crowd reaction to the royal couple's appearance has been found everywhere. In Quebec, Their Majesties' first meeting with Canadian people, the Queen smiled into a sea of faces over a 15-mile route. The spellbound thousands suddenly shouted their acclaim, but always a split second behind the progress of royal car.

Victoria, usually reserved, broke all bounds. Even policemen were caught by the intensity of the moment and went along with the crowds. Two miles of singing bleachers greeted Their Majesties in Edmonton.

In Saskatoon, returned men who had guarded the crowd-lined curbs, let loose and fell in eight deep behind the last car in the royal procession. A subdued scene at the station platform, when Their Majesties chatted with old-timers before departure changed in a second to bedlam as the crowds clamored and swept like a wave up to the train. The King looked worried as he watched small children being pushed from vantage points. He leaned forward from the train and urged all to "take care." As the crowd subsided a bit, he smiled broadly, spoke to the Queen and lifted his arm high to wave so all could see.

PICTURESQUE

That was the day which King George and Queen Elizabeth spent with their New Brunswick subjects—a conservative, hospitable people who showed only the latter trait in greeting their sovereigns.

Nothing Conservative

There was nothing Conservative in New Brunswick's welcome, they shouted and screamed—schoolchildren and adults alike. At Fredericton, Indians from nearby reservations hailed the "great white fathers" and his consort with war whoops.

Four frightened children were overwhelmed as their sovereigns spoke to them at Saint John.

About 20,000 looked on as the Mahaney quadruplets, three girls and a boy, met Their Majesties. For a while during the ceremonies at the Barrack Green here, it appeared that the 15-year-old "quads" would receive no attention.

But Mayor D. L. MacLaren called the King's attention to John, standing on crutches with his broken left leg in a cast, and his three sisters.

The King and Queen walked over and spoke to them.

To John, who left the hospital only Monday so that he might see the royal couple, the King said:

"How did you hurt your leg?"

"Playing football" was the nervous reply.

"That's annoying" said His Majesty. The Queen, meanwhile, commented on pins which the three girls, May, Edna and Christine were wearing.

Pale Blue Ensemble

Throughout the day, Queen Elizabeth wore a pale blue ensemble, with gloves and shoes of grey. Her straw hat was trimmed with violets. The King wore morning clothes at Newcastle, Fredericton and Saint John, but changed to a double-breasted business suit, dark grey with a darker stripe, blue shirt and tie for Moncton.

At Newcastle, with a normal population of 3,500, about 20,000 gathered to pay homage. Presentation of town officials and other prominent district residents occupied almost all of the 10-minute stop, although the King had his usual chat with assembled war veterans.

Fredericton's normal population of 12,000 was swollen to an estimated 45,000 as the royal party arrived for the New Brunswick government's official reception. Seven thousand school-children massed outside the legislative building roared as the King and Queen arrived.

Many Received

Their Majesties received 183 provincial and other officials and their wives inside the building and left for Lady Beaverbrook Hall on the University of New Brunswick campus.

There they were tendered a luncheon by Lieutenant-Governor Murray MacLaren and the executive council. The King ate every course, but Her Majesty did not touch dessert.

Immediately on their arrival at Saint John, Their Majesties were taken on a tour of the west side waterfront, and then driven to Government House, in the city proper, where they had tea with Lieutenant - Governor MacLaren and Miss Margaret MacLaren.

Large Crowds Visit Stirling School's Open House Program

Stirling — On Thursday evening of last week Stirling public school and Stirling high school conducted an open house and many local residents and parents accepted the opportunity of seeing the pupils' work on display. Great interest was shown in the work of the pupils in the public school displayed in the four rooms under the supervision of Principal C. A. Wells, Miss L. Turner, Miss Montgomery and Miss P. Fenwick.

At the high school the visitors were welcomed by members of the staff led by Principal J. Good and conducted on a tour through the work room of the Household and Domestic Science classes and also through the general workshop and manual training room. Senior pupils explained the uses of the various machines in these departments and excellent samples of work were on display. The guests were then directed to the new gymnasium where luncheon was served to the guests with Mrs. Walt Wright, wife of the chairman of the Stirling Board of Education, and Mrs. (Dr.) C. F. Walt, pouring tea. The evening was one of great interest to the parents and friends of the pupils, many of whom had never been through the newly-constructed school rooms. Household Science classes are directed by Miss Lacey, and Mrs. C. A. Wells directs the studies in shop work and manual training.

STIRLING L.O.L. AND L.O.B.A. ATTEND DIVINE SERVICE

Augmented by visiting brethren and sisters from neighboring communities, Stirling L.O.L. and L.O.B.A formed a long and colorful procession on the streets of Stirling when on Sunday morning they marched to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where special service was conducted by Rev. W. H. V. Walker, minister. The procession formed at the Orange Hall and proceeded at the appointed time to the church with the sisters of the L.O.B.A. and visiting friends occupying the front seats and the members of the L.O.L. 110 and their visiting friends filling in the remaining seats of the centre section of the church auditorium.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker, basing his remarks on the Old Testament story of the stolen birthright urged those present for a greater display of loyalty to all things Christian, to the Church, the Lodge, to Friends, to King and Country. "These are the things handed down to us at a cost of blood and suffering," he said, "today as we seem to accept them as a matter of course we are apt to be led easily astray by many 'unBritish isms' that would destroy us from within, as one of the world's greatest empires. Let us stand firm to the things upon which our vast Empire has been founded."

It was a most inspiring message and well titled "Rungs in the Ladder of Orangism." Mrs. R. H. Williams and Miss Grace Pitman presided at the organ and piano respectively as duet numbers added to the service. Special music by the choir included an anthem and a vocal solo by Arthur Duncan. The church was artistically decorated with flowers of red, white and blue in honor of the visiting brothers and sisters and lodge banners draped the organ on either side.

Me and Cousin Artie were taking a walk with pop on account of it being Sunday afternoon, pop just smoking and walking and me and Artie talking and arguing about different subjects, and Artie started to practice whisseling through his fingers, being his hobby lately only he cant do it, and I said, Good night, you'll be 150 years old before you learn how to do that, and even then it wont sound like anything on account of your whiskers.

Aw you couldn't even make a steam whissle blow by just pulling a cord, that's how dum you are, Artie said, and I said, O is that so, well you couldn't even blow out a candle a inch and a half away because you're so dum you couldn't even aim straight.

Come come boys, a little politeness, pop said. Fifty million Frenchmen have the right idea, no matter what's in the back of their minds they keep on paying each other lovely compliments and the result is they're the most cheerful people in the world and have the best digestions. So try to be more tolerant of each other's little vanities. A sneer at the age of 9 means an additional wrinkle at the age of 90, he said, and I said, Okay, I'll pay him a compliment. Hay Artie you're so good at whisseling through your fingers a deff man in the next room wouldn't know the difference, I said.

Thanks for the compliment and excuse me for saying you're dum, Artie said. You're so smart that if you were 10 times smarter you might remember your own name but not where you live, he said, and I said. Thanks for the compliment, I'll tell you how smart you are.

For Peet sake no, save it for your memoirs, pop said. I see you've both caught the general idea, so let it go at that.

Wich we did.

Pepper Martin of Cardinals On Injured List as Cincinnati Opens Crucial 3-Game Series

"Wild Hoss" Cracked Wrist and Will be Out for Some Time

GOOD HURLING

Lon Warneke and Curt Davis Carrying Brunt of Hurling Chores

There is a suspicion going around that the pretenders to the National Baseball League throne — St. Louis Cardinals—are not being given full credit for a job well done.

Considerable fuss has been made over the league-leading Cincinnati Reds and the amazing Brooklyn Dodgers, but ever since May 26 the Cards have been hanging on the Reds' heels—close enough that it hasn't been safe to say the race has developed into a runaway.

If Lon Warneke and Curt Davis can keep up their recent pitching performances, aided by Bob Bowman, who looks like a real find; Bill McGee, who is pitching good ball, and Bob Weiland, who has a tendency to blow hot and cold, the Cards look like one of the best bets to chase Cincinnati out of the throne room.

But there's cause for considerable worry around St. Louis for those Dodgers open an important three-game series in Sportsman's Park today and Pepper Martin won't be in there doing the usual amount of damage to the opposition.

Main Reason For Spurt

Pepper's comeback—not that he has been far away—was one of the main reasons why the Cards got up where they are. The "Wild Hoss" who drove the opposition frantic a few years back, was going at a pace that was remininscent of the days when the Gas House gang threw cold chills up and down every National Leaguer's spine.

Undistinguished as a sponge most of last season, the madcap Martin compiled a .330 batting average, drove in 14 runs and scored 22 himself—most of them probably sliding on his stomach, one of his favorite ways of getting home. But he took one slide too many and cracked up a wrist, so the Cards sent him home while they were in Boston.

Right after that, the Cards ran into a slump that had cost them four of their last five games and now they tackle the Dodgers with only a game and a half margin to work on.

"Meatmen" Continue To Dominate Loop

The Luckins "meatmen" continued to dominate the city "No Knock" softball loop as they hung up their third win in four starts at the expense of the Kinsmen club nine by a 21 to 9 score. The game was played at the Collegiate grounds and was keenly contested until the Luckins nine "butchered" the service club boys in a last inning rally, that netted Jack Cooke's butcher boys nine runs.

Jerry Hurley went to the hilltop for the Kinsmen Club and fared better than average until the final inning when the Luckins nine swung potent bats and decided the issue. Hits by Flagler, Marvell and Hurley gave the Kinsmen a two run start in the first inning, but their lead was short-lived as Luckins scored three in the third. The game continued at rather even terms until the last big inning for Luckins.

The lineups:

Luckin Butchers: Stewart, Cook, Hannah, Goldie, Fitzgibbon, Mattis, Ferguson, Reid and Balyx.

New York, June 14 (AP)— This Berg golf firm may wind up with a monoply....Patty has a toe-hold on the women's end and now brother Herman is showing so much stuff he is being touted for a shot at the big time....Herm is 18, certainly red-headed and has just grabbed off the Minnesota high school title....Judge Landis will make your hair stand straight up when he announces his findings in that long-drawn-out farm club probe....Somehow the Yanks didn't look like themselves when they blew in from the west yesterday without Lou Gehrig—the first time since 1924.

The Pacific Coast League may climb on the bandwagon and put on an all-star game....It just doesn't look right to see the New York papers playing the Dodger games over those of the Yanks and Giants, but that's what they're doing.

Nine hundred turned out to see the world's champions in St. Louis the other day....We don't know whether the Yanks are slipping or business in St. Louis is picking up ....Some days ago, Bill Cissell, Hollywood second sacker, did a bit of popping off in words and music ....He was quoted in an Oakland paper that W. C. (Two Gun) Tuttle, coast league President, knew nothing about baseball and recommended umpire George Hildebrand for the job....Tuttle slapped a $200 fine on Cissell....A Seattle paper conducted a "man-on-the-street" poll and the unanimous verdict was Tuttle went too far.

YOUNG LOU NOVA AWAITS CHANCE TO FIGHT LOUIS

Thinks He Can Put Heavyweight Champion to the Canvass

BELIEVES IN SELF

Nova Fooled All the Critics in Fights With Barlund, Baer and Farr

(By Alan Randal Canadian Press Staff Writer).

New York, June 14 (CP)—Young Lou Nova, who should be happy as a lark at getting past Maxie Baer, is quite warm under the collar these days because some of the Broadway mob say that Lou, if he lives to be 100, has no business in same ring with Joe Louis.

"They don't know what they are talking about and they will find that out in the fall," Nova retorted when such talk is started.

That was just after Nova biffed Baer about for 11 rounds and won on a technical knockout here. Lou did well against the aging Baer but looked green.

But Nova is a believer in his own destiny. As such he feels the fight mob should string along with a young, determined man like himself that nobody, including Louis, is invincible. That is much the way Gene Tunney felt about Jack Dempsey.

The future books don't make Lou much of a bet against the champion in their scheduled unpleasantness this autumn but Nova's record shows some justification for his injured feelings. At least he is the only steadily improving top-line heavyweight on the champion's trail.

Beat Barlund Twice

Way back when they matched him with Gunnar Barlund, the flailing Finn, ring sages were quick to say Lou was overmatched. So Nova beat Barlund. The fact the Gunnar cut easily helped of course, but Nova beat him twice just to show it was no fluke.

Then came Tommy Farr, the durable Welshman. Nova once more the short-ender, wobbled about a good deal before he did it but he gave Farr his worst walloping on these shores and followed it up by getting Baer carved and ready for serving in 11 rounds.

Manager Ray Carlin, after the Baer bout, expressed doubt about Lou's readiness for Louis. But Lou has been working on Carlin since and now, to talk to either of them, the championship is as good as in the bag, whether it is Louis or Tony Galento that Nova has to take it from in September.

CONSECON SQUAD WINS PASTIME

Rednersville Having Hard Sledding in Loop as Team Loses 21-12

Rednersville, June 14 (Special)—Rednersville took another trimming last night at the hands of the Consecon squad. The Fishermen scored twenty-one runs to the organge and black twelve.

Dempsey started on the mound for Rednersville to be replaced by Wannamaker in the fifth after allowing eight hits and issuing five free passes. Wannamaker allowed four hits and walked two.

Phillips starad for Consecon yielding eleven safeties and giving three walks. Carmichael took over in the fifth to allow the visitors five hits in two frames and giving Ward a free pass.

Rednersville opened the scoring in the first when B. Thompson walked and advanced to third on M. Thompson's hit scoring as Wannamaker grounded out to second.

Consecon scored two in their half, Clarke singled and scored on Madis' home run. They scored three in the second one in the third and eight in the fourth when Dempsey blew for the visitors allowing three hits and walking in two runs.

The fishermen tallied two more in the sixth to put the total to 21.

The orange and black scored four in the fourth and four in the fifth for a total of twelve.

Rednersville committed four errors while the fishermen muffed two. The visitors collected sixteen hits while the homesters netted twelve but they came when needed.

The lineups:

Consecon: B. Clarke cf; R. Clarke 3b; N. Clarke rf; Madis ss; Ierry 2b; K. Clarke c; A. Bedry lf; Phillips p, Carmichael 1b.

Rednersville: B. Thompson cf; M. Thompson 2b; Farley 1b; Wannamaker 3b; G. Thompson c; Dawson lf; Dempsey p; Snell ss; Ward rf; Garbutt for Dempsey in fifth.

MARSH HILL WINS PLAYOFF GAME

Lower Fourth Defeated in Heavy Hitting Contest 18 to 12

Foxboro, June 14 (Special)—Proving themselves as being a trifle more adept in the history-wielding department, the Marsh Hill entrants in the Sidney Softball League pounded out a decisive 18-12 victory over the Lower Fourth aggregation in the first game of the league's semi-finals on the latter's diamond last evening.

The Marsh Hill batters lost no time in going to work on the losing hurler's slants as they pounded Woods' deliveries for extra base hits galore to score runs in every inning. Ralph Campbell led the way at the plate for the winners as he connected safely four times, including a homer in the sixth, to score four of his team's runs while Frederick and Herman also went well at the plate for the winners. The hitting prowess of the losers' was more evenly divided with Wright keeping the batters well in check until the fifth when the Fourth Liners began clouting the ball more consistently. Then, after Outingdike had climaxed an eight run scoring splurge by clouting a homer in the fifth with the bases loaded, Wright decided to call it a day and Campbell took up the hurling chores to stop the losers cold. Not a hit was registered off Campbell's deliveries during the balance of the game as the lanky speed artist whizzed his fast one past in a perfect relief hurling job.

The same two teams will battle it out again in the second game of the series on Tuesday evening next at the Marsh Hill diamond and with Campbell as the probable starting hurler for last night's winners it appears that Marsh Hill will be the ones to go into the finals with the fast Centenary nine, who finished first in the regular schedule. Following the windup in the final series it is intended to pick an all star team from the various clubs in the loop to represent Sidney in the forthcoming Junior Farmers' Picnic which is held in July and in the meantime the team will be affiliated with the O.A.S.A. rural division, giving the boys their first experience in actual playdown competition.

Lower Fourth: Yerwood c; Outingdike ss; E. Phillips 1b; Woods p; H. Phillips 2b; Sine lf; Hoskins 3b; Jury cf and McMurter rf.

Score by innings:

Marsh Hill	211 364 1—18
Lower Fourth	011 280 0—12

Umpires: R. Peacock, plate; Gordon Walt, bases.

Ontario Amateur Golf Championship Opens at Kingston

Kingston, Ont., June 14 (CP)—Jack Nash of London, who was being married in Brantford the day the Ontario Amateur Golf championship ended at Toronto last year, hasn't got that kind of a date during the provincial tournament this year.

So Nash—always a hot contender—is back in the entry list for the Ontario event starting tomorrow at Cataraqui Golf Club here. He will be after the title Jim Boeckh of Toronto York Downs won in 1938.

Still missing from the entry list, however, is the name of C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville of London, who skipped the tournament last year to attend Nash's wedding. Somerville, who year by year is devoting more of his time to business, has won the Ontario championship three times, the Canadian amateur five and the United States amateur once.

Main challengers besides Nash for Boeckh's crown will be Joe Thompson of Burlington, who got farther than any other Canadian in the United States Amateur last year, and veterans like Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro and Gordon Taylor, Jr., of Toronto Summit.

LOUIS-GALENTO BRAWL ON IN N.Y. IN A FORTNIGHT

Brown Bomber Making No Prediction When He Will Knock Tony Out

TRAINING HARD

Talk of "Tough" Fight is Followed by Better Business at Box Office

(By Sid Feder Associated Press Sports Writer).

Pompton Lakes, N.J., June 14—(AP)—Here it is only two weeks away from Joe Louis' fight with Tony Galento, and the champion hasn't yet made up his mind just how long he's going to let the two-ton gent stay around.

Their punch party comes off a fortnight from tonight at Yankee stadium. Usually, in his past fights the Brown Bomber decides about his par for the knockout course almost from the day he has to pass up his first pork chop for training diet.

But this time he'll tell you how "tough" the Newark nightstick is, and how he can hit like Babe Ruth, and how it's going to be an awful close fight. It seems, all in all, that he has changed his mind about Galento because less than six months go, he was around advising one and all he could take Tony just as easily as John Henry Lewis and Max Schmeling.

Maybe the possibilities such a change may have on the lure for the cash customers has caused him to sing the different tune. Anyway, all he tells you now is that he's going to get it over with as soon as possible.

"Yes, suh," he said today, "I'm going to work on Mr. Galento as soon as the bell rings. I don't know how long it's going to take, but I'll do it as short and sweet as I can."

How different from the Louis who said just before his meeting with John Henry that he'd flatten the man the first time he hit him!

Joe's song and dance about the likelihood of a tough tangle with Tony has been followed by a profitable up-beat in the box office business for the fight.

On one of those quiz programs the other night, Tommy Armour was asked this question: "What golfer has won every open title?" ......"Sarazen," replied Tommy and got the gong....The answer was "Armour."

SOUTHWORTH HAS BALANCED CLUB IN RED WINGS

Rochester Ruled Roost from 1928-31 and is Hitting High This Year

GOOD BALL CLUB

Not Overloaded With Veterans Nor Packed With Rookies

(By The Associated Press)

During the four years from 1928 to 1931 when Rochester Red Wings ruled the International League, their manager was Billy Southworth. This year, with the same man in charge again, they're setting a hot pace and it looks as though Billy had brought back with him the formula for producing a pennant winner.

A review of their performances up to yesterday's washed-out program indicates the Southworth secret is balance. The Red Wings aren't a collection of stars of major league calibre such as Newark Bears who ran away with the last two pennants. They haven't any blow-em-down pitchers or game-wrecking sluggers. They're neither overloaded with veterans nor packed with rookies.

In brief, Rochester is just a good class "AA" ball club that is heading the league in team batting and fielding and is winning its games with commendable consistency.

The mound mainstays are the veteran Si Johnson and young Ken Raffensberger, who between them won 29 games and lost 21 for last year's Red Wings. The supporting cast includes Roy Henshaw, another veteran; Elgin (Preacher) Roe, sent down by St. Louis, and John Grodzicki, John Wabonick and Henry Gornicki, recruits from Houston, Mobile and Ashville, respectively.

The rest of the line-up shows a similar balance between the new and old with Allen (Dusty) Cooke, former Cincinnati fly chaser, as the leading hitter both of the club and the league. Estel Crabtree and Garden Gillenwater are holdovers from last year with Jimmy Asbell alternating with the latter in left.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with
Ken I. Colling

When in Napanee on Monday we struck up a conversation with Walt Gerow, veteran baseball mentor of the district, who informed us he recently saw a 15-year-old pitcher from Belleville, who showed much promise. "Last Saturday a team of teen-year-old kids from Belleville came down to Napanee and played a local juvenile nine. On the Belleville team was a lad named Russ Weller, who is the most natural pitcher I've seen in years. The kid cocks up his leg like a big leaguer and fogs 'em through" Walter informed us. When a bunch of teen-aged kids are sufficiently interested in team sports to organize their own ball team and have to travel as far as Napanee for competition, they deserve more than the usual acknowledgement and should be encouraged and given an opportunity to put their athletic ability to better advantage.

We know of no better dividend paying activity than that of sporting recreation among teen-aged boys. The encouragement of team sports among teen-aged boys is the surest method of combating juvenile delinquency and teen-aged crime that has as yet been devised by the mind of man in an effort to combat such crime. Wherever one sees a community where team sports are neglected among the youth of the community, you will invariably find increased crime among the juveniles of such a community. This fact has been repeatedly proven and the advancement of team sports advocated in large American cities in an effort to diminish juvenile crime and delinquency. Unfortunately in Belleville there is only the various Ki-Y enterprises to take care of our city's sporting activities among the kids and we seriously recommend something be done to increase sporting activities among the teen-aged children before it is too late.

Did you know?—Hank Lieber, Cubs' fielder, owns three cattle ranches in Arizona. Gene Lillard, one-time Cub infielder, now back with the club as a pitcher, is rated by experts as the fastest moundsman on the team. Outfielder Carl Reynolds of the Cubs while attending Southwestern College, was president of his freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior classes. The Cubs used one-fifth of all the baseballs required in the National league last year. Rookie Cub first baseman, Glen Russell, is rated the equal defensively of any National league first-sacker.

According to rumours emanating from up around the Airport, the "Flyers" boast of several diamond celebrities from eastern Canada, where baseball is the chief summer sport. There has always been keen and bitter rivalry between Air Force and Belleville teams in sport and this feeling will doubtless be continued when the Airmen play their first Bay of Quinte League game versus Bud Wilkins' charges at the local ball bivouac Thursday evening. The Belleville nine was minus the services of three regulars on Monday, all of whom will be back on the job versus Skipper Van Vliet's "air-minded" ballsters. Of course the actual strength of the "flying men" cannot be determined until they actually meet league competition in scheduled play, but the fans can rest assured the R.C.A.F. who did not enter the Quinte loop without the concrete assurance of a few tried and proven baseball players. No doubt Sammy Ellis, who hurled such a good game against Picton last week, will be given the Belleville mound assignment and providing his team mates give him support we expect to see a tidy diamond tussle.

Chuck Barnett's Corbys A.C. shuffled up their team somewhat and journeyed over to Trenton for an exhibition softball tilt with the Yourex nine of that town. Doubles by Murray and Cole gave Corbys a decided lead of three runs in the first inning as they went on to win 6 to 3. Art Cole punched out two hits, including a home run in the fourth to be the only Belleville batter to get over one safety, although Reid and McGuire had extra base hits. Tommy Cain led the homesters with two singles, as Schrieder and Harris restricted the Trenton batters to six singles. Belleville got eight hits off the combined mound efforts of two Trenton hurlers. A return game will be played tomorrow.

Paced by Tommy Foley, their hard hitting, fleet footed outfielder the Peterboro ballsters solidified their second place standing in the Inter-city ball loop with a 7-2 win over the Columbus Grads yesterday. The Petes used two hurlers both well known here, Eddie Whitehill, brother of Earl Whitehill major league moundsman, and 'Spo' Scriver.

Sports Jottings — Toronto Maple Leafs are trying desperately to regain the confidence of Ontario ball fans, they signed three major leaguers including Tony Lazzeri to head their squad, yesterday and now announced the acquisition of outfielder Melvin Mazzera from the St. Louis Browns, and more to come....The Luckin butchers continue to 'mow 'em down' in the "No Knock" loop....No other heavyweight boxing champion has ever successfully defended his crown more than six times during the present century; Joe Louis will try No. 7 versus Tony Galento on the 28th instant.....There are some who believe the appointment of Tony Lazzeri as manager of the Leafs is only a stepping stone into the majors.....Present weather conditions are not too inviting for golf these cool afternoons, except perhaps at the 19th hole; so let's go fellas.

First Band Concert Of Season Attended By Large Tweed Crowd

Tweed—The first band concert of the season was given in Tweed Memorial Park on Sunday evening under the direction of Mr. W. J. Burgoyne, bandmaster. The large crowd was not slow in showing its appreciation of a very fine concert which was featured by several groups of favourite hymn tunes. Mr. Burgoyne suffered a heart attack shortly before the concert began, but insisted upon proceeding with the programme as arranged rather than disappoint the audience, few of whom were aware of his condition.

Mr. Burgoyne remained at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ed Rath, where he was under the care of a doctor. His condition was considerably improved on Monday night and he will return to his home in Belleville in a day or so.

The first softball game of the season was played at Memorial Park on Friday evening as the locals and Deloro engaged in a seesaw affair which saw the home team emerge as winners by the narrow margin of 11 to 10. Luffman, Tweed, and C. O'Neill were on the mound and both were hit freely. N. O'Neill connected safely for four out of five and scored four of his team's runs. C. O'Neill helped his own cause along by scoring twice, one of which was a four-base knock.

Wagar, Tummon and March each scored twice for the locals, Wagar and Lajoie made homers. The lineups were:

Deloro—Gazely, Elliott, Loveless, Brown, Callery, Townson, Gray, N. O'Neill, C. O'Neill.

Tweed—Wagar, Orr, Tummon, Sayers, Lindsay, Prevost, Marsh, Lajoie, Luffman, Meraw, Burrows.

The Right Type

By ALLEN AYLWIN

"If you was a printer an' stood on your dogs all day," said Jimmy Quin disgustedly, with a frown upon his brow, "you wouldn't care nothin' about golf neither."

Jeanne Pinet swung the shiny driver in a graceful arc, grazing the carpet and then the chandelier overhead.

"Oscar says my follow through is bad," said Jeanne, twisted as a pretzel, with the driver hovering around the chandelier. Slowly she unwound, teetered back and forth with feet apart, shuffled, shifted, hesitated then gazed out of the bay window to an imaginary fairway which in reality blundered into a cinder alley.

Jimmy said: "You remind me of an old hen scratchin' in the weeds. Do you have to wiggle, an' what're you lookin' at?"

The other settled back on her heels and gave him a disdainful stare. "You wouldn't understand," she said. "You couldn't expect a dumb printer to understand such things!" She propped herself against the club with a casual air. "Golf does something to you. It gives you a sense of elation to watch the ball sail for miles an' miles down the fairway. Why, Oscar can—"

Jimmy interrupted with disgust in his voice. "Oscar can drive two hundred an' fifty yards without battin' an eye. That's all I've heard since you took up the game. Anyway he gets in my hair. Mein' we're engaged you might just forget to mention that guy!"

A honk from the curb interrupted. Jeanne swung a bag of rattling clubs over a slim shoulder and dashed for the door, pecking a hasty kiss on Jimmy's freckled nose. "Don't be silly, dear," she said, turning for a moment at the door, "he's just a friend. See you tonight. Got to hurry. Oscar's teaching me to relax this afternoon."

A week later Jimmy startled Jeanne with a confession of his desire to learn the game. "Honey," he said brightly, "people in love just gotta like the same things if they're gonna get along. I'll bet I'm nuts about the game 'fore long. Why, the boss was just tellin' me today all printers make good golfers You know bein' on their feet all day, cranking a proof press an' everything I kinda thought Oscar bein' a good friend of yours, he might just as well be teachin' me while he's teachin' you. You know it'd be kinda fun, just the three of us."

"Oh—I—Jimmy, that's swell," said Jeanne with no sign of elation.

Oscar arrived in his blue roadster a moment later.

"Jimmy's going to learn to play golf," exclaimed Jeanne. "He thought maybe you'd teach him."

"I'll just go 'round today an' get some pointers," said Jimmy.

The public course in the suburbs of Wiley, Kansas, boasted nine holes. The third hole found Jeanne ever slicing into the rough, and displaying a vicious frown. Jimmy, loaded down with the weight of two heavy bags, brought up the rear.

"Relax," yelled Oscar in exasperation. "How many times have I told you to keep your eye on the ball? I've never seen such a—"

Jimmy interrupted. "She's doin' all right. Can't you see it's the wind that's blowin' the ball over there?"

"I said she's slicing that ball. You don't know anything about it. You stick to your printin'—"

"An' one more crack like that an' you stick your chin out an' I'll knock it off."

"You an' who else?"

Jimmy hunched his shoulders upwards, and clenched his fists. The other, sensing danger, struck first without warning. Launching himself to the attack, Jimmy swung a long hard right to the body, only to find the dangling bags with their leather straps around his neck bringing the situation to a critical point. He stumbled for a moment trying to regain his balance only to topple over on his face, followed by a heavy body that lodged in the middle of his back. In the next few moments he was aware of blows raining down on his unprotected head; after that things grew foggy. Then out of the void he was aware of a woman's high pitched scream, and the annoying object slowly easing itself down his left side.

"Jimmy darling, are you hurt much?" Jeanne cried in an anxious voice.

With a grunt Jimmy moved an arm, a leg, then slowly sat up. Jeanne's arms encircled his shoulders, and her lips were hot upon his cheeks. Through a rapidly clearing mist he could see Oscar sitting dejectedly on the grass holding his head between his hands.

"This is sure a rough game" sighed Jimmy slowly, with a broken grin.

Jeanne looked squarely into his gray eyes. "Jimmy", she said, "I lost my head just a minute ago. I love you so, Jimmy, an' I couldn't bear to see you lying there with that coward beating on your head. For the moment everything seemed to go black. I—I—guess I might have killed him—anyway—I didn't slice that drive—"

Jimmy took Jeanne into his strong arms. "Jeanne," he said finally, "I guess a printer knows his type after all."

Fabric contrast catches the eye in a dinner dress with full skirt of ivory moire and shirtwaist bodice in white silk chiffon.

For an all-day trek there is a swell non-crushable linen frock, two-piece with scallop-embroidered square neck, skirt hem, breast pockets, and short sleeves. Pretty in blue and white.

Object of Blockade is "to Obtain Wider Co-operation from British Authorities in China," Japanese Officials State

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

London, June 15—(CP Cable)—Prime Minister Chamberlain warned in the House of Commons today that if Japan is blockading the British concession at Tientsin to force Great Britain to co-operate with the Japanese in China, the government might seek co-operation of other nations in resisting that aim.

The Prime Minister described as "grave" the situation created by the Japanese blockade of the British and French settlements in the North China port.

He told the House of Commons that a Japanese spokesman at Tientsin had indicated the object of Japans blockade was to "obtain a much wider form of co-operation from British authorities in China."

"Such demands would raise important questions of policy in which other great powers are concerned no less than this country and closest touch is being main-

Why the Weather!

By Major A. H. Thiessen
Science Service Meteorologist

Soil losses! The latest wholesale loss of precious topsoil occurred in New England, New York and New Jersey, caused by the September hurricane of 1938. Some topsoil is lost with every rain. While it is almost imperceptible on a single farm, it is enormous for the country as a whole. In the September hurricane, however the loss of the soil rivalled in dramatic effect the destruction of forests, telephone and telegraph wires, houses and so on. In cost the soil loss was as great as all other losses combined. The soil at that time was particularly vulnerable, having been prepared for fall seeding and laid bare by harvesting; it was quickly reduced to a semi-fluid condition which the winds and rains quickly carried away.

NAVAL BLOCKADE OF AMOY IN CHINA ADDS TO TENSION

Three Japanese Warships Isolate the Island of Kulangsu

MUST REVERSE POLICY

Two Blockades Are Based on Demands for Suppression of "Anti-Japanism"

Shanghai, June 15—(AP)— The new struggle over occidental interests in China was broadened today by a Japanese naval blockade of the international settlement at Amoy, in addition to the police blockade of the British and French concessions at Tientsin.

Foreign advices from Amoy said three Japanese warships had isolated the island of Kulangsu, which is the Amoy settlement, halting all traffic and preventing landing of vegetables and other supplies.

Messages from foreign sources at Hankow said Japanese forces had blockaded offices, warehouses and

ROYAL TRAIN POST OFFICE CLOSES TONIGHT

Hundreds of Thousands of Pieces of Mail Handled in Past Month

TYPES OF MAIL

Ottawa, June 15—(CP)—Unsung by the public but lauded by departmental officials for efficient performance of an exacting task, the royal train post office closes tonight with the departure from Canada of Their Majesties.

The travelling post office staff of three experts in the last month handled literally hundreds of thousands of pieces of mail for the King and Queen personally, for the royal party, government officials, accompanying newspaper people and—last but not least—stamp collectors.

No official estimate is available as to the quantity of official mail handled by the perambulating post office but on the Canadian end of the tour at least 150,000 pieces of mail were handled for stamp collectors. At Washington alone the train picked up 100,000 pieces of mail for American collectors intent on saving the distinctive stamp cancellations. Much more than that was taken on at New York.

King Most Interested in Meeting Men Who Fought for His Father

By A. K. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, June 15—(CP)—If you could ask the King what he liked most in Canada—and no one can because he never is interviewed—he probably would tell you he was most interested in meeting the men who fought during the war for his father.

During the long tour which ends today, he gave unmistakable evidence of this. Newspapermen who have accompanied the King and Queen have been astonished at some places by the almost off-hand way in which the King has greeted civic or provincial dignitaries and then moved along to chat and shake hands with bereted veterans who interested him more than the notables dressed in morning clothes.

And the King has not given second place to the Queen in his interest in children. Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose are the Queen's daughters but they also are the King's daughters, and his attitude toward children, generated by the fact he has two, has been no less intense than the Queen's.

Everywhere he has gone, the King has been seen craning his neck over crowds to get a better look at little girls who might be like his girls, and he seemed all the while to be very lonley for his daughters, just as any other father might be after so long an absence.

Interest Never Leaves Him

His interest in veterans — he fought at the battle of Jutland—never left him as he reviewed unending lines of them across the country.

He had a word and hand shake for all those he could reach and a bit of heartening chatter for "those poor chaps" who lost an arm or leg or were otherwise maimed.

He was interested particularly in Victoria Cross winners, those valorous Canadian soldiers who won the highest award in action on the fields of France and Flanders. He met two score of them across the Dominion and had a hearty hand shake and a few words of commendation for each.

When he went into Canada's Rocky Mountains, into her northern woods and moved along the fish-laden rivers of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, the sporting instincts of the King, who is noted for his sportsmanship, asserted themselves. He took a keen delight in seeing mule deer in the rookies, in glimpsing bear there and photographing every moving animal he could.

But it is whispered that the King isn't such a good photographer. He either isn't accustomed to using a motion picture camera or isn't a particularly good photographer, according to experts riding the royal pilot train. He takes too much film on one subject, wasting it when he shouldn't.

Their Majesties

Halifax, June 15 (CP)—Following
King and Queen delivered over an En to-day:

THE

The time has come for the Queen and myself to say goodbye to the people of Canada.

You have given us a welcome of which the memory will always be dear to us. In our travels across your great country, we have seen not a little of its infinite variety of natural wealth and natural beauty. We have had the privilege of meeting Canadians, old and young, of many proud racial origins and in all walks of life. We hope we have made many friends among you. We have had the opportunity, also, of crossing your border and paying an all too brief visit to Canada's great and friendly neighbor to the south. Our minds and hearts are full. We leave your shores after some of the most inspiring and illuminating weeks in our lives.

(Note: The following paragraph was delivered in French.)

My first duty is to thank you all from the bottom of my heart, in a very short time you have enabled us to see many things. We have to thank you not only for your personal kindness, but for the perfection of

THE

I cannot leave Canada without saying a word of farewell to you all, and thanking you for the wealth of affection that you have offered us throughout these unforgettable weeks.

Seeing this country, with all its varied beauty and interest, has been a real delight to me; but what has warmed my heart in a way I cannot express in words is the proof you have given us everywhere that you were glad to see us. And in return, I want particularly to tell the women and children of Canada how glad I am to have seen so many of them. Some, I know, came scores of miles Charlottetown, June 15—(CP-—Prince Edward Islanders went back to work today content in the knowledge Canada's smallest province had given the King and Queen a hearty welcome.

Thousands withstood drenching rain to line the route along which Their Majesties were driven as they visited the island capital yesterday.

May Bring Children

The people got a particular thrill from hearing that their royal guests would like to come back some day with their children. The King's wish for another Canadian visit, "we share your hope that at some future time we may be able, accompanied by our daughters, to visit you again," was expressed in an address presented to Premier Thane A. Campbell.

They jammed the streets to watch the procession as the royal couple stepped ashore from H. M. C. S. Skeena after a 2 1-2 hour trip down Northumberland Strait from Cape Tormentine, N.B.

The new club may be called the Deseronto Flying School.

Large Group of Rochester Visitors to Arrive Friday

Members of Yacht Club Will be Welcomed to City by C. of C. Officials and Municipal Band

SECOND VISIT

An estimated two hundred visitors, members of the Rochester, New York, yacht club will take this city by storm tomorrow morning, but the invasion will be a peaceful and welcome one, and the key and hospitality of the city will be freely extended by members of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and citizens at large.

At eight o'clock in the morning the large steamer Kingston will warp to her berth at the government dock to receive the welcome of the Belleville Municipal Band and firm handclasp extended to the passengers by local residents. Formal presentation of the key of the city will be made to the visitors by Chamber of Commerce officials and the day will be spent by the visitors in extended tour of the immediate Belleville district, fishing on the Bay of Quinte, golfing at the Bay of Quinte Country Club, and general visiting. This visit is the second annual one, following the success of last year's trip when first firm friendships were formed.

Visitor Gets Hair Singed Without Help of Barber

An amusing incident which might have had an unhappily painful ending for the local victim was related in Marmora last evening following the visit of the Belleville delegation of the Chamber of Commerce to the Deloro mines, through which workings they were personally conducted by company guides.

Equipped with regular miners' suits and lamps, the local men prepared to descend the pit. One of the delegation attempted to adjust his safety lamp, an operation which was followed by another member of the party who bent over closely to see. Immediately there was a puff of flame which was followed by agitated action of the group. Fire which ignited the dry, bushy hair of the observer, was quickly extinguished before much more than a light scorching was sustained.

BELLS ON COLLARS OF CATS HELP TO SAVE BIRD-LIFE

Belling the cat has lately become a popular pastime for local pet owners. At the present time, members of the Belleville and District Humane Society note with increased appreciation a fair percentage of the city's felines are now equipped with small collars from which depend little bells, to warn the birds in backyard flower gardens of the stealthy approach of pussy.

This belling of the cats had previously been suggested by officers of the Society, particularly those cats which will be taken to summer camps by their owners, a suggestion which has apparently received full approval of bird lovers.

LARGE AMOUNT SPENT ON FLAGS

Some indication of the extent to which the country went in the matter of dressing up and decorating for the visit of Their Majesties, the King and Queen to Canada is given by the statement of a local manufacturer who this week visited a large Toronto concern to learn that during the days just prior to the royal visit a total of 11,000 woollen flags were sold by this one firm alone. Each flag cost six dollars, making the grand total of $66,000 for this single item the local man was told.

CALLED TO MILLBROOK

Peterborough, Ont., June 15—(CP)—An unanimous call to the Presbyterian charge of Millbrook and Centreville was extended last night to the Rev. G. W. Gibson of Mitchell. The charge has been vacant since January when the Rev. H. R. Williams resigned.

CITIZENS ARE ASKED TO HELP CAUSE

Citizens of Belleville will have the opportunity on Saturday of contributing to a very worthy cause, the work in the city of the Victorian Order of Nurses, when the Committee holds the annual tag day customary with the organization. The health program of the Victorian Order is well known in Belleville. Hundreds of citizens have been grateful for the services of this excellent part-time nursing arrangement and in order that all those unable to pay as well as the many paying patients, may have the same opportunities for skilled nursing care, the supoprt of the community is urgently needed. The committee is confident that the people of Belleville, will be as generous in their response as they have been in th past.

INDIAN BURIAL GROUND FOUND

Believed Members of Huron Tribe at One Time Inhabited Section

Workmen, excavating in the vicinity of Bunker's Hill, Trenton, unearthed seven skeletons buried beneath only three feet of earth this week. The veritable pile of human bones was found by Hinde and Dauch Company workmen, the remains having apparently been thrown into a common grave with abandon and it is the general belief, that the workmen disturbed an old Indian burying ground, where multiple burials were common, according to history.

Police were immediately notified of the incident and Sergeant Walter Probert accompanied Coroner Dr. J. W. Farley investigated to subsequently be of the opinion the bodies were those of North American Indians, to have been buried over a century ago in a collective burial.

According to history the Huron tribe at one time inhabited this section of the continent and each spring the Hurons held a "burial day" during which the Indian dead of the winter were buried in a large common grave early in the spring during which tribal ceremonies followed. The Indians of the tribe for many miles around would bring their dead to a central burying spot, usually on a hillside, such as Bunker's Hill in Trenton. A ceremonial "pow wow" would follow and the multiple burials conducted by Huron chieftains. During the reign of the North American Indian the Trent River was one of the chief arteries of waterway travel in this part of the continent and used by the Indians in their nomadic travel to favorite hunting gorunds.

Previously workmen unearthed several ancient copper coins nearby, one bearing thirteen stars, which is believed to have been coined during the period of the "Thirteen Colonies", before the Declaration of Independence, proving that trading posts were located in this vicinity previous to the Declaration of Independence. At that time the Bay of Quinte and Trent River were main waterways for both the Indians and early settlers.

Sidelights on Royal Visit

Belleville, Ont., June 15—(CP)—Business is better because of the Royal Visit, a service club group decided here. They said the newspapers devoted so much front-page space to the Royal Visit that there was no chance for people to worry about international affairs and possible war.

Quebec, June 15—(CP)—Plans for an Empire Youth Camp at Banff, in the Canadian Rockies, "as a permanent means of commemorating Their Majesties' visit to Canada," were announced by Major Frederick Ney, executive secretary of the Overseas Education League, before sailing for England today.

Major Ney said the camp would be built through co-operation of Provincial Departments of Education and private donations.

If Royal permission is granted the site, known as Middle Springs, will bear the name "King's Camp."

New Glasgow, N.S., June 15—(CP)—Two sets of three-day-old twins, each a boy and a girl, will be named after King George and Queen Elizabeth.

Parents of the youngsters decided on the names Wednesday, shortly before Their Majesties passed through this town. Both sets of twins were born Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Maxwell, of nearby Hopewell, will name their son and daughter just plain George and Elizabeth. Mr. and Mrs. John Gillan of New Glasgow will call theirs John George and Jean Elizabeth.

Canberra June 15—(CP—Reuters)—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies today said he knew nothing about any projected visit of the King and Queen to Australia. The Prime Minister said "Australia would be delighted at any time to have a Royal visit but I realize that there would be great difficulties about any visit in the near future.

Halifax, June 15—(CP)—Just like the next fellow, Premier Angus L. Macdonald presented his ticket to get into Providence Building today for the reception to the King and Queen.

The Premier, going into the building, fished into the pocket of his morning coat and produced a pass. The policeman at the door scrutinized it and then waved the Premier inside.

Windsor, Ont., June 15—(CP)—Failure of the Royal Train to stop in front of the school children's stand during the visit of the King and Queen here June 6th was a blessing, Trustee E. W. Morris told Board of Education last night. Trustee Morris, said, that if Their Majesties had stepped on the low platform provided for them, the crush of children to see them would have created a "most dangerous" condition.

DOG IS DESTROYED AFTER BITING MAN

Charles Wellman, Bonarlaw, was bitten on the leg and his trousers torn when attacked by a dog on Brassey Street yesterday. The matter was reported to Thos. Thorne, city pound custodian, who upon investigation found the canine belonged to Mr. A. Young, 23 Brassey Street. Upon instructions from Mr. Young the dog was removed to the city dog pound and destroyed last night.

Mr. S. R. Burrows, C. L. U., has qualified for membership in the Mutual Life Assurance Company's Conservation Club for the year 1939, one of the highest honors for a member of the field force.

Police Blotter

Activities in police circles continue to be serene and mild, no arrests being reported by the city or provincial constabulary this week.

In County Police Court, held before Magistrate E. J. Butler, K.C., today, however, a test case was slated to be heard, but adjourned for one week. A charge of selling confectionery at Oak Lake, preferred against Arthur Baragar by Township officials and alleged to be against the Lord's Day Alliance Act, was read by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan, K.C. No evidence was adduced today, the matter being laid over.

A bicycle was recovered from the waters of the bay off the government dock by Maurice Callaghan yesterday. The bike was the property of Douglas Lattimer and had accidentally fallen into the water. Mr. Callaghan recovered the bicycle with grappling irons in some twenty feet of water, police were told.

Prominent Officials View Rearing Ponds Of Deer Lake Hatchery

Deer Lake fish hatchery near Cordova entertained its most prominent visitor this week when the Hon. Harry Nixon, Ontario Minister of Game and Fisheries paid a surprise visit to the hatchery, with Deputy Minister J. A. Taylor and A. L. Elliott, M.L.A., Mayor James Hamilton of Peterborough; H. H. McKay, the department's chief biologist; T. J. Carley, K.C., and Charles Kingan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association.

Tribute to the efficient manner in which the hatchery was being administered was voiced by the minister and his party and there was a hint from Mr. Nixon that the hatchery would be enlarged to include at least one more rearing pond in the near future.

Ninety-five bass nets are now laid about the largest rearing pond and the Minister paddled out with Mr. Elliott to see for himself how the male bass stand guard over eggs placed on the gravel bottom. Close to a million bass fry are expected to be raised in the pond this season.

TODAY IS FAREWELL

Today is a memorable day in Canada for the Dominion says farewell to Their Majesties who close an epoch-making tour of the Dominion along with a visit to the United States to which they were heartily welcomed. Their adieus are made at Halifax, the old city of the Maritimes, set in a part of New Scotland, Nova Scotia. There will be but one more touch with the New World, when tomorrow they visit the oldest of the British Colonies, Newfoundland. It is then the ocean voyage and fair sailing and after that the welcome at Southampton and all the way to London.

The Dominion is reluctant to see Their Sovereigns depart and her people know that in the hearts of the King and Queen is a very warm spot for Canada. This nation will look forward with hope to a day when these kindly Rulers will return for a long sojourn. They have won the hearts of all and Canadians have faith that the Dominion has won the hearts of the royal guests.

That Their Majesties will come back is no idle hope for the King himself during the course of his reply to the welcome to Prince Edward Island said "we share your hope that at some future time we may be able, accompanied by our daughters, to visit you again."

On that hope Canada builds.

MAGNA CHARTA DAY

Seven hundred and twenty-four years ago today at Runnymede, King John, forced by his barons, signed the great charter of British liberty. In many countries freedom has been won by the people but the first blow in England for liberty was struck by the barons, surely a happy omen of the course of British history. The barons knew the essence of liberty and laid down the foundations on which it has been built a democratic constitution for seven and a quarter centuries.

Today in the British Isles, in the British Dominions, and in the United States, this event is celebrated with due observance, for all these lands owe the basis of their freedom to that precious document on which the unpopular and tyrannical king of those days signed his name and sealed British liberty. At the New York World's Fair in one of the most precious copies of that document. In many a Britisher's home and in many a home in Canada is a reproduction of that charter.

Magna Charta's most important articles are those providing for the liberty of the individual. It enacted that no one be proceeded against or imprisoned without due process of law, by the lawful judgment of his peers or by the laws of the land. The Great Charter placed in the General Council of the Kingdom the right to raise money. Tyranny was held in check by other clauses directed against the abuses of King John's power as feudal lord or superior. This charter was confirmed several times during succeeding reigns.

Rightly it is called the "keystone of British liberty."

Today we have a King, who is the very expression of the people's democratic will under the limited monarchy and representative government.

Today we think of those bold barons who dared to face a tyrant and extract from him the guarantee of liberty.

IT CAN BE DONE

That serious accidents were practically eliminated throughout Ontario in the areas immediately adjacent to the municipalities visited by the King and Queen on the day Their Majesties were there, is the report of the motor vehicles branch of the Department of Highways.

The abolition of accidents on these occasions is taken as proof that accidents can be prevented on an every-day basis. A Department statement is that "education, engineering and enforcement" can eventually obliterate the terrible annual toll of life and limb which followed the popularization of the automobile. It is said that "during the visit of the King and Queen, the department of highways determined to apply the "three E plan" of education, engineering and enforcement to prevent accidents by means of a strenuous campaign to ensure that the royal progress throughout the Province should not be marred by any traffic fatality or serious accident.

Though these days of heavy traffic were practically accidentless, May's record is almost as bad as a year ago.

Some day traffic deaths will be largely eliminated and what happens today will cause amazement among those people who use highways generations hence.

MY GARDEN

There's a seat at the end of my garden
'Neath a tree where 'tis shady and still,
And the marigolds neat
And the roses so sweet
Spread out to the brow of the hill.

There's a peace in my beautiful garden,
Which lures me away from my task,
The bee's humming drone
Makes a sleepy intone
As the flowers in the sun dream and bask.

Would the Master but come to my garden,
Speak soft to my listening ear,
Bring joy to my heart,
Bid my cares all depart
Let me kneel in His Presence so dear.

Then a shrine would I make in my garden,
White lilies would bloom at His Feet
And the incense of flowers
Would ascend through the hours,
As prayers from the hallowed retreat.

WHAT THE WEATHER DOES

A MERCHANT WAS DISCUSSING his business problems in a reasonable sort of way with a Peterboro Examiner representative, and naturally enough he made reference to the backward state of the weather. This was his experience:

"I think we have to take just as much chance as the farmer does. I admit he has no control over the weather and when he puts in his crop he cannot see ahead to the day of harvest and have any proper idea of what he is going to get by way of return for his investment and effort.

"We do much the same. We have to base our buying on what we anticipate in the way of turnover from normal weather. This year spring weather remained so cold that men were wearing the same overcoats they did in the winter time and they were late in feeling the need of making a change. But we had stocked spring overcoats in anticipation of the usual seasonal demand and we have disposed of only a few of them. Those who are in the ladies' wear business are finding it somewhat the same and in some ways they have to take greater chances because styles change more rapidly than they do in men's wear.

"I am not asking my farmer friend to feel sorry for men in business, but merely suggesting that the man in business has to take just about as much of a weather-chance as the man who depends on the land for his living."

A NEW YORK MAGISTRATE has handed down a ruling upon the ancient and offensive act known as "nose thumbing" in which he declares that this particular form of derisive action is within legal bounds provided the thumber is at a safe distance "about 10 feet from the thumbee". The case originated in a thumbing bee between two women. The magistrate's decision was as follows:

"Whether thumbing one's nose at another constitutes disorderly conduct depends upon the circumstances. It may be done in such a manner as to constitute a breach of peace. In this case before me, the defendant, or "thumber", was at the bottom of the stairs and retreating, whereas the one thumbed at was at the top of the stairs, or a distance of about ten feet away. Under such circumstances I do not think it invited a conflict."

Magistrate Ford speaking with weighted seriousness, also pointed out that no one else had seen the nose-thumbing in question. He then dismissed the summons.

CAME THE DAWN

The inebriated one was leaning against a lampost when a policeman found him. He shook the man.

"You can't stand around here," he advised. "Go on home to bed."

The reveller blinked a bleary eye.

"What time ish it?" he inquired.

The officer looked at his watch.

"It's just six o'clock in the morning."

"Too late," the other hiccoughed "I get up at five-thirty."

GOOD WILL

Replete With Adventures

It was an afternoon replete with new adventure and more intimate searching into the lesser explored industries of the county for many of the Belleville contingent, who left early in the day to avail themselves of the invitation of Marmora and Deloro leaders to visit the mines and other points of interest through the area. Thousands of feet underground, dressed in miner's garb and led by competent guides through dim tunnels, many of the Belleville visitors were shown the workings of a modern mine, where many classes of minerals were wrested from the earth under working pressures, which were a new experience for those who descended. Others were shown through the huge plant and refinery of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company by Mr. R. A. Elliott, superintendent, while still other groups visited the new fish hatchery at Deer Lake near Marmora, or paddled briefly on the sun-flecked waters of Crowe Lake.

Visited Shops

There were the broad, tree-shadowed streets of Marmora's residential section to be visited by the Belleville men, and the open doors of the shops along the business section beckoned invitingly for those from the city, who had small purchases to make and time for genial chat with cordially welcoming shop keepers and residents. The visitors strolled hatless and coatless, warming to the friendly reception so marked a part of smaller community life.

At seven forty-five in the evening members of the Belleville Municipal Band, trim in uniform and appearance visited the main corner of the village and presented a fifteen minute period of special music. Residents of the community encored the efforts of the band heartily.

At the Marmora Community Hall where Belleville and outside visitors were the guests of members of the Marmora Booster Club, every accommodation had been prepared by the Women's Institute. Long tables which filled the interior of the hall sagged under the weight and variety of the home-cooked edibles so freely and plentifully heaped and efficiently served.

Ald. Haig Chairman

Here, after the scene and atmosphere had been thoroughly warmed and informality banished by the sparkling efforts of song leader Sandy Burrows assisted by the Chamber of Commerce Band, A McLean Haig, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, for the third time as chairman of the evening, extended the hand of good fellowship on behalf of the City of Belleville and Chamber of Commerce to those who so cordially welcomed the local contingent as guests and brothers.

Facing his large audience, president Haig declared it was again his privilege to be present and take part in the third visit of the Good Will Cavalcade.

"When we first broached this subject of having weekly visits made to the various municipalities of the county, we, some of us, were a bit doubtful over the reception we might receive," he declared. "But the extraordinary reception we have been having, of which tonight's is but one evidence has dispelled all our fears."

To Foster Friendship

President Haig pointed out the Belleville men had come "and been royally received and entertained".

"The purpose of this cavalcade is to foster and develop friendships throughout the county. It has been nice to visit these municipalities we have and make so many friends, and then go back and meet these friends again and come to feel as if we had known them all our life. That is the true spirit and aim of these visits, and we of Belleville can only hope that you in turn will come and visit us so that we can get to know each other better and have all pulling for a bigger and better county. We have been wonderfully pleased to get the receptions we have and we can only hope that some day we may be able to return the compliment", added the chairman.

In his introduction of the Chamber of Commerce band, which during the evening and so far during the series has assisted nobly in providing entertainment Mr. Haig declared: "We are very proud of our band in Belleville and under the leadership of Lt. Fred Jobson, it has attained an eminence and recognition of which we may justly be proud".

Mr. I. G. Hefkey, manager of the local branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, in his toast to the Village of Marmora, supported the statements of the chairman in reference to the friendly greetings that have characterized the visits by the local contingent. He paid tribute to the natural beauty of Marmora Village, and declared himself impressed with the magnificence of the rural scenery. Mr. Hefkey gave brief highlights of the afternoon trip through the Deloro Smelting and Refinery plant and complimented the village upon the eminence it had attained in the manufacturing world.

Response by Reeve

The response to the toast to the village was made by Reeve W. R. Linn who expressed himself eager to "extend the hand of fellowship to all the visitors".

Briefly Reeve Linn recounted the early history of Marmora Village and district, referring to the first iron works which had resulted in early settlement of the municipality. At one time Marmora was the site of the encampment of the Crowe Indian tribe, from which the present lake derives its name. Old unforgotten names, names such as Forsyth, McGill, Haig, and others, the streets of the village thus perpetuating them in name to this day, were revived by Reeve Linn as among the early settlers.

"Proud descendants of these pioneers still live within the district", it was pointed out.

Natural advantages of Marmora district have year by year attracted more and more tourists until today this section has been recognized by the visitors as one of the best playgrounds of the north in summer.

"All we need now is the construction of a road from Marmora to Coe Hill, and we're hoping that we may have the assistance of Belleville in getting this road which will do so much to open up other sections for the tourists", stated the Reeve.

Chairman Haig in his reply declared Marmora would get every assistance possible in this regard. "We welcome the opportunity to help you get the road, or anything else needed, in so far as we are able", he said.

In his toast to the City of Belleville, Mr. H. W. Sabine, editor and publisher of the Marmora Herald, introduced by the chairman as "one who had assisted the Belleville Chamber greatly in arranging the visit, declared his early remembrances of Marmora and Belleville were unique ones.

Interestingly and humourously he recounted trips to Belleville over rutted roads in a swaying, horse drawn buggy when these trips were necessary. One trip in a buggy drawn by a white horse on a snowy night stood out as a highlight in his earlier recollections of Bellevile.

Always Get Welcome

Editor Sabine in referring to the City of Belleville in more modern mood declared, that no one ever questioned its big heartedness, nor the ability of its residents to give the stranger within the gates a welcome and good time.

"Belleville has often been called the heart of the county; often some have wondered where is the head," he added, pleading for more and lengthier visits by Belleville residents to the municipalities of the north.

"You down in Belleville have a fair there each year, and so have we up here. We generally attend your fair in large numbers, but if we could see a crowd from Belleville coming up here, it would make us much happier.

"And when you come to Marmora, or some of the other villages on your visits, don't make too sure, that your gasoline tank is filled up before you leave. We sell gasoline and other things here, too. It's just as nice a drive from Belleville to Marmora as it is from Marmora to Belleville, and we up here think if you get that habit, you'll like that drive and take it more often.

We have lots of nice stores here, and we can supply you with anything you want, even in the way of nice dinners. You don't always have to fill your car up with the things you'll need when you come here, because we have them right here," added Mr. Sabine humourously.

"With better roads has come the tendency for the people of Hastings to get out of the County when they take a trip. But we of Hastings, if we simply stopped to think, could do much more right at home to build this County up and have just as good a time doing it."

The speaker referred to the coming street dance and community night which will be held in Marmora on July 26th, and tendered a special invitation to be present. "You come and help us out when we have something like this, and we'll be only too glad to return the compliment to Belleville", he assured.

Mr. MacLaurin Heard

In a stirring address lighted at intervals with visions of an Utopian existence for toiling mankind of today if but simple rules of everyday, common sense living were obeyed, Mr. P. C. MacLaurin, Principal of the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational Institute responded to publisher Sabine's eulogy to Belleville.

From Webster's dictionary the full meaning of the word "Cavalcade" was obtained, a meaning which gave the word the dignity of horses and carriages, or in later use, "a procession of men on horseback."

"We of this Good Will Cavalcade have not come on horse back to you, but in automobiles. Perhaps the need is for the coinage of a new word, that of 'Autocade'" suggested Mr. MacLaurin. "But no matter how we come, we are here in the friendliest of spirit, happy that we have been given the welcome and reception of friendliness that has been so marked," he added.

Mr. MacLaurin referred to the "greatest cavalcade that has just crossed the continent, one which doubled back through the great West, into the United States and Washington and New York....that blue and silver train carrying our beloved King and Queen....a cavalcade, that will go down in the history of the nations...... (applause).

"In the hearts of all of us, every Canadian, must have had that grand thought as he picked up his paper, or listened to the radio describing the triumphant tour, how great it was to live in a country such as Canada, and have such a King and Queen.

A toast is an eulogy, and a fitting eulogy has been paid the City of Belleville by Mr. Sabine. But what constitutes a city?" asked Mr. MacLaurin. "It is a place where citizens live and work, thought and built, a place of schools and parks and playgrounds, good factories, police protection, good homes, streets, water and light ......all things to make life easy and comfortable for those who reside within. A place of good churches, service clubs, hospitals, doctors and nurses. But we cannot stop there; we must have good business management to succeed.

Must Change Our Modes

"It now dawns on us that to keep up with the times we must change our modes. We must put our lives on a good business basis, and work scientifically to produce results. We must have that thought constantly—this is my city....this is my home. Not the place where I can sit and stretch out my hand for help, but a place in which I may live and extend my hospitality and friendliness.

"A place is no better than the type of citizens who inhabit it. We must aim for this: for better citizenship and better living.

"Don't grouch and whimper and complain. Shoulder to shoulder we must join this great cavalcade and show our citizens how good we can be and how much we desire to build up the places in which we live.

"In some places I am struck by the methods employed to bolster up a city. The aim of many has long been to attract industry to the city, to induce outside capital and residents to come in. Rather than the thought, can we form little groups or clubs according to the means of the individual, invest them in small but paying concerns which will build from year to year. Assure the workers of these industries steady employment so badly needed. Allow them to live in peace and the comfort which is intended.

"Belleville may be a city without a head, as Mr. Sabine has humourously suggested, but there is one certainty, it is not without a heart," concluded Mr. MacLaurin. "We believe we have the finest city in the finest county of the finest province in the Dominion."

Toast to County

Mr. H. W. Ackerman of Belleville, in his toast to the County of Hastings referred to the greatness of the mining potentialities of the county with which Hastings is so richly endowed and declared that of all minerals now commercially employed, Hastings no doubt could supply most of them directly from the ground. The county's natural advantages are but part of the wealth she possesses, he enumerated, citing dairying and allied industries of this important branch as but one part of the vast work being carried on within the borders.

"But among the greatest treasures possessed by the county are the staunch men and women, descendants of the pioneers who cleared the land and wrested a living therefrom," declared Mr. Ackerman, bowing to the spontaneous applause.

The speaker referred to the entertainment given by the City of Belleville to members of the county council in past years, but declared this year as an alternative, Belleville residents were visiting members of the council right in their own sections.

In his response to the toast by Mr. Ackerman, Warden of the County, Geo. Thompson, recalled that on past occasions the county council had been entertained "royally" by the city. "We have always treasured this friendliness and welcome you of the city have given us, and we are happy to have had the co-operation so freely given," he assured. "We have all the resources to make Hastings the greatest county within the Dominion, and we are proud to belong to such a rich county. In the south we have the ideal farming section; in the north we have the mines and minerals, and the timber and increasingly popular lakes and streams which yearly attract more and more visitors."

Holding aloft one of the new county tourist guide books issued jointly by the city and county and distributed by the Chamber of Commerce, Warden Thompson declared that it contained over 300 miles of provincial roads shown within the county, and 270 miles of county road, all of which traverses the county from one end to the other. "Our finances are also in excellent shape. At the present time we have a debenture debt of only $45,000 which will likely be retired in 1943" he said.

Mr. R. A. Elliott, of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company, who was congratulated by Chairman MacLean Haig upon his recent promotion with the company during his introduction, voiced the privilege he felt in being offered the chance to propose the toast to Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

In witty, inimitable style, Mr. Elliott humorously characterized the expert speaker, as one "who stood up to be seen, spoke up to be heard, and sat down to be appreciated".

Mr. P. C. MacLaurin had briefly referred to the industry of Deloro handling nothing less than $500 packages of minerals for export. This brought the statement from Speaker Elliott that "this may have impressed Mr. MacLaurin, but I'd like to point out that he is the head of the greatest industry we have in the County of Hastings, that of educating the youth of the city and county".

"When you see here tonight the type of men who represent the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, then Belleville people should have no fear or doubt over the ability of the Chamber to serve the city and serve it well", continued Mr. Elliott. "Such a body has come to Marmora, has been at Madoc and Bancroft, and will go to Tweed, spreading the gospel of good will. This is an organization, which is supported by voluntary contribution of the members, and in carrying on of this free work, the City of Belleville should feel deeply grateful for the effort of the members. I am happy to offer this toast to the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. R. D. Arnott, K.C., M.P.P., for West Hastings, in his response to Mr. Elliott's toast declared Belleville again led the way in the fostering of good will through new and unique channels. The promotion of such friendliness and cooperation was an example to the rest of the Province, an example in that it attempted to get the other fellows' side of the picture and viewpoint, so that all could join in the forward movement of bettering the county. Never before had such co-operation been so essential as it is today, pointed out Mr. Arnott in referring to recent days of crises in Europe.

Trip Helps Unity

"Unity within the county, within the province and Dominion is needed more than ever since dark war clouds have been hovering over the world, and I was proud to represent the riding of West Hastings at Queen's Park when the unanimous vote of confidence and loyalty to the British Crown was passed there recently. That was something I shall never forget, nor would have missed for any amount.

"The trip of Their Majesties, the King and Queen through Canada has done more to unify the country than any other agency" asserted Mr. Arnott amid applause.

"At times it is believed by some residents of the county, that the City of Belleville has been trying to hog everything it can. But I can assure you such is not the case. The people of Belleville are always proud to have you come and visit them; they are anxious to help you in any way they can. Belleville is your county town, and as such your invitation to visit there is always open. We of the city have no narrow attitude regarding the County of Hastings. And if you enjoy being with us as much as we enjoy being with you, then we are bound to be successful in any undertaking.

Mr. Arnott's remarks concluded the addresses of the evening, but as a final act in this most successful good will visit, Mr. Fred Jobson, of the Belleville Municipal Band offered with his band a special arrangement of Col. Mackenzie Rogan's Tattoo, which had as its finale the grand hymn "Abide With Me", beautifully rendered by the band, assisted by the Belleville Male Quartette, including Harry Moorman, James Bankier; Alfred Evans, and Harold Howard, with J. Arnold Thomson and Mr. Sandy Burrows. An encore was a special arrangement by assistant bandmaster Reg. Hinchey of the Beer Barrel Polka. During the evening James Bankier offered several vocal solos, and Mr. Leo Riggs assisted throughout with his inimitable mastery of the piano.

Special thanks was tendered by Chairman MacLean Haig to the Marmora Women's Institute members, the Marmora Booster Club, and all who assisted in the fine success of the evening.

NO COMPROMISE ON NEUTRALITY SAY 21 U. S. SENATORS

Washington, June 15 —(AP) — Twenty-one United States Senators have signed a challenge to President Roosevelt's administration declaring that there can be no compromise of any neutrality legislation which would repeal the automatic arms embargo.

Circulated in the form of a round robin, the statement was disclosed authoritatively to assert that an open alliance with Great Britain, France, Russia or Japan would be "more honest" than the sale of munitions in time of war to nations which control the seas.

Repeal of the arms embargo, which now is mandatory whenever the neutrality law is invoked, was recommended by Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, and is embodied in a bill approved by the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives.

Strong Criticism Levelled At Administration Costs By County Council Members

Cost for County is $3,000 Higher Than Year Ago Says Report

TAX RATE UP

Members Forced to Raise Rate One-Quarter Mill for This Year

Increase of 1-4 mill, from the 1938 of 10 1-4 mills to the new rate of 10 1-2 mills as presented in report of the Estimates Committee of Hastings County Council to that body yesterday afternoon, provided the spark that fired two hours of strenuous debate in which members launched a strong verbal attack on the increasing costs of administration of justice; argued the advisibility of erecting a new west wing to the county home, and criticised other phases of the report, before it was finally adopted upon motion of Committee Chairman Reeve George Bedford and Reeve William Davis.

Particularly strong criticism was levelled at the cost of administration of justice which, according to the report, is some three thousand dollars in excess of that of a year ago. Salaries of the County Crown Attorney and other officials were under fire, while suggestions that new agreements of equalization of the cost between the city of Belleville, the Town of Trenton and the county were advanced. Figures of the old agreements made years ago were produced and members were emphatic in their demands that costs then be investigated and compared to the costs of the last three years.

Referring to the $80,000 estimate cost for repair and maintenance of county roads, Reeve George Bush, Sidney, asked why an additional five thousand dollars over the amount of $75,000 approved by the Department of Highways was included in the estimate.

"We have assurance that the extra five thousand dollars will be approved, although the actual approval has not come through as yet," Chairman of Roads, Reeve James Moore answered. "We forwarded an estimate of $91,000.00, but the Department saw fit to reduce this amount to $75,000.00."

Concur in Resolution

Prior to the presentation of the Estimates Committee report, the report of the Finance and [illegible] Property Committee was read and unanimously adopted. Council also concurred in several requests submitted by various county councils of the province in which were included resolutions that—"the consent of the reeves of municipalities must be first obtained before any parliamentary debates be broadcast to the Canadian public"—"that the Dominion Government be asked to bear the load of the cost of unemployment and thus relieve the municipalities of the burden of taxation"— "that the government be asked to subsidize municipalities 81 per cent for winter roads."

Warden George E. Thompson, of Hastings County Council, now presiding over the annual June session of that body in Shire Hall. Warden Thompson in his opening speech urged his council to use caution in expenditures and if possible keep the tax rate down. "General conditions are not as good as they appear to be, although the visit of Their Majesties had a beneficial effect on business and farming throughout the country," he said.

Three Thousand Dollar Increase

"This thing is reaching heights, and will gain heights never before attained", Reeve Charles Rush, Hungerford, stated referring to the increased cost of administration of justice, shortly after the report was presented for adoption. "It is climbing year after year, and I see by this report that it is up another three thousand dollars."

Reeve Charles Rollins, Wollaston, chairman of the audit committee for the administration of justice, attempted to throw oil on waters, that gave evidence of argumentative storm.

"For some reason," he said, "the cost is advancing, but there is nothing we can do about it. I am informed that all accounts are correct according to the statutes, and are alright."

"Why are some cases that are brought up in court, long drawn out, with witnesses and others having to come to town three and four times at the county's expense? They can be settled at much less expense, I think," Reeve William Linn, Marmora, asked.

"I understand these things are absolutely necessary," Reeve Rollins argued. "I am informed these delays are for the betterment of justice, and have to be done."

Reeve William Davis, Bangor, told the council that "in 1928 the salary of the County Crown Attorney was thousands of dollars less than it is today. It has climbed where other fellows have had to take a cut. This should be investigated."

Reeve Rollins—"I understand the C. A. is paid by fees, and could charge more if he wished. When these figures reach a certain amount, the money goes to the province."

Reeve Davis—"Then take it up with the Attorney-General's dept. Poor people can't afford to pay such fees."

Deputy Reeve Dies, Tyendinaga—"I think Reeve Davis is right. This matter should be taken to the Attorney-General's Department."

Reeve Rollins — "There hasn't been an adjustment of administration of justice as to equalization between Trenton, Belleville and the county since 1926. I suggest this be looked into, we might find something there."

Cost Gone Up Since '26

Reeve Robson, Thurlow— "Since 1926 when the last equalization was made, administration of justice has gone up from 8 to 10,000 dollars. If the cost of this thing in those years be gone into, we could compare the cost to the county then with that of today. I think it is time for a new agreement".

Reeve West, Madoc—"Are policemen paid for their mileage."

"Yes."

"Then that is a lot of unnecessary expense. It took three policemen to convey a young boy from my village to Belleville. And they stayed for dinner".

Reeve Bush, Sidney—"Why does Crown Attorney Donnan draw yet another salary as Clerk of the Peace?"

Reeve Rollins, — "That is his regular fee, the rest is done on commissions. He has no control over accidents. However it is all correct according to statutes".

Reeve Robson—"This $9,000 item, does this all go to Mr. Donnan."

Reeve Rollins—"He gets a certain amount the balance goes to the government".

Warden Thompson—"I examined lists in the C. A.'s office some time ago and as far as I could see, we can't get around them."

Reeve Charles Kerr, Tweed, cited a case in Tweed where a child was killed and an inquest held which seemed unnecessary. "This $30,000 is too much and should be cut down," he said.

At this point Reeve Davis read the figures of the equalization of cost of administration of justice made in 1928 between the city of Belleville, the Town of Trenton and the county. "The agreement was that the city pay the sum of $6,500 and the town of Trenton, the sum of $2,850 yearly over a period of five years. The total cost of administration in those years was $20,000."

"That is a small proportion for these municipalities to pay now when the cost is thirty thousand dollars," Reeve Robson declared.

"It is high time a new agreement was made."

Strongly Object to Rate

Reeve Robson — Last year the rate was 10 1-4 mills and we built a wing on the House of Refuge. I believe 10 1-2 mills should take care of the new proposed wing, yet I am advised that this won't be done, but the rate is still 10 1-2 mills."

"Business is poor, crops look bad, unemployment is the same, and I feel this increase is not justified. This is the wrong year to try and get $4,000 for the miscellaneous account. I believe the rate could be kept down to a trifle over 10 1-4 mills, but in view of the general situation, this council is not justified in raising the rate. I strongly object to it."

"It is not wise to cut down the mill rate until we are a little more sure of our receipts, Reeve Wm. Davis, Bangor stated in support of the new rate.

Reeve Robson—"With this estimate in front of me, I cannot see where the finance committee will have a balance of $5,000 at the end of the year."

"The 1-4 mill doesn't amount to much. I believe in paying as you go," Reeve Linn stated. "As regards building the new wing to the county Home, there are twice as many men as women in the home. It is up to this Council as to whether it will build the new wing, and look after these men."

Warden Thompson in supporting the 1-4 mill rise stated it would counteract the lack of county rates paid and if they were, would leave a small balance and put the county on a sound financial footing.

Opposes New Wing

Reeve Chas. Rush—"I am opposed to building the new wing to the County Home this year. Do the minor repairs but let us take a year's rest in construction."

Reeve Geo. Bedford supported Reeve Rush. "Last year, the women's wing was an absolute necessity, but we can forego the men's wing, for this year at least," he asserted.

Reeve Wr. Davis, Bangor immediately seconded the adoption of the report which carried by a large majority.

In special orders, council carried a motion to defer the building of a new wing to the county home and to do necessary minor repairs.

ROYAL TRAIN

Flow of Official Mail

In handling mail for all those actually travelling on the royal train and on the pilot train, maximum despatch was achieved only as a result of weeks of advance planning by which the continually moving post office could synchronize its operations with the routine post office facilities across the country.

Secrecy of official government mail was also a vital consideration. There was a continual flow of mail to the train through the external affairs office here from the Canadian, British and American governments, for which assured secret delivery was as essential as speed. The post office department had continual problem of delivering other official mail from the United Kingdom addressed merely "Royal Train," at its nearest station as it travelled back and forth across the continent.

Schedule Worked Out

The post office schedule was worked out weeks in advance by officials and Major G. W. Ross, assistant superintendent of railway mail service, who manned the royal train post office with two helpers.

The trip involved such detailed care, for instance, as the periodic servicing of the cancelling machine which was in operation a full month. For that purpose the post office department even sent a man to Washington, to work during the brief stop there.

In Canada mail from the royal train bore a circular cancellation date mark containing the words "royal train Canada," while to the right was a copy of the royal standard. "We didn't know whether we'd be put in the tower for using the royal standard or not, but decided to take a chance," an official laughingly confessed today.

Cancelling Die in U.S.A.

In the United States, the cancelling die was changed, bearing the words "royal train U.S.A." and then to the right a conventional rectangle in which appeared merely the words "railway mail service." United States stamps were, of course, required on mail posted with the train in the United States.

Because the King and Queen were originally expected to arrive in Canada May 15, the three commemorative stamps were issued that day, regardless of the fact Their Majesties did not actually arrive at Quebec until two days later.

For the same reason, the royal train post office started cancelling the stamps on collectors' mail May 15, although the train did not begin to move until two days later. That was done, according to post office officials, to "keep up with the philatelists" who were anxious to have the special stamps bear a cancellation date of the day of their first issue.

used by other school children to jab her 10-year-old daughter. She swore the child's body was covered with tiny wounds and scratches.

"Who jabbed the child?" asked defence counsel J. P. Pringle.

"Not the teacher?"

"No. Another little girl. I wouldn't say which one" Hawley answered. "I told the teacher I had better take my girl home. I called out to her but the teacher caught me by the shoulder and told her to go back inside. She gave me a black eye. Then I took my daughter home."

Arnold Schannick, one of three schoolboys to give evidence, said Miss Cross did not strike Hawley in the eye. "She slapped the back of his neck with the palm of her hand," he said. The school trustees were ordered to pay costs for the counter-charge against Hawley of disturbing class.

AT THE McCARTHY

"Something to Sing About"

Presenting the inimitable Jimmy Cagney, with all the pep and wallop-packing thrills for which this popular red-headed star is famous, but offering him in a role such as his admirers have never before seen him on the screen, 'Something to Sing About' his new musical-comedy production, is now on the screen at the McCarthy Theatre.

Victor Schertzinger, who made "One Night of Love" which starred Grace Moore, is firm in his conviction that his latest discovery, Miss Evelyn Daw, who makes her screen debut in 'Something to Sing About" opposite James Gagney, will prove to be one of the great singing actresses of this generation. And for this reason she was selected to co-star with the No. 1 dynamic actor of the screen, James Cagney.

In his role, Cagney proves to be as capable a dancer and singer, as he is an actor. His dancing, especially in its novelty and perfection of technique will be a revelation to most of his admirers, and he has no less than seven of the most eminent tap and eccentric dance experts in the country in his support, headed by the old-time headliners Harland Dixon and Johnny Boyle. Others in the notable supporting cast of "Something To Sing About" include William Frawley, Mona Barrie, Gene Lockhart, (former resident of Belleville); James Newill and a list of well known names of radio, stage, screen and dance distinction too numerous to record in full here.

"The Rookie Cop"

As a swell companion feature attraction Tim Holt is presented in his first starring production for R.K.O. Radio, "The Rookie Cop" with Virginia Weidler, Janet Shaw and Ace the screen's wonder dog, in the top roles of the excellent supporting case. Fast action, thrills, and plenty of comedy marks this as one of this season's very finest screen offering and a splendid co-feature to James Cagney in "Something to Sing About". An amusing technicolor cartoon and a thrill-packed episode of 'Flying G-Men" the serial presentation, makes up the balance of the program which we assure you is perfect entertainment for each and every member of the family.

AT THE BELLE

"THE STORY OF ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL"

Out of the stirring past of this great nation has emerged this drama of accomplishment that symbolizes the tradition of America. Bell's story is the dramatic romance of one who dreamed and struggled, loved and achieved. Simple, human and inspiring, the Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox is a magnificent motion picture that pays homage to Bell's genius and a woman's devotion.

The drama of a great man and the love that inspired him is told with power, humor and profound emotion, with Don Ameche as Bell, Loretta Young as the lovely Mabel Hubbard, out of whose deafness the inspiration for the telephone, and Henry Fonda as Thomas A. Watson, Bell's assistant.

All those in last night's audience, when they talk vast distances to those dear to them, will now remember with a thrill that it was a great romance that wrought the miracle. They will remember for a long time the obscure young scientist, his discouraging struggles, his invention of the telephone, his desperate battle against public ridicule and powerful opponents, his ultimate triumph —and the flame of his genius kept alight by the love and faith of a young girl. They will remember how Bell halted on the threshold of his great achievement, ready to sacrifice it because it kept him from the woman he loved, and how it was she who made him go on.

The screen play by Lamar Trotti, based on an original story by Ray Harris, is a splendid tribute to Americanism, for Bell's is a story that only could happen here. Directed by Irving Cummings, with Kenneth Macgowan associate producer, "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell" is a picture as great as the love it immortalizes, a love as enduring as the miracle it wrought.

Charles Coburn, Gene Lockhart, Spring Byington and Loretta Young's three sisters: Sally Blane, Polly Ann Young and Georgiana Young, are featured in the film. Alexander Graham Bell is another immortal character for the motion picture gallery of the great.

A magnificent motion picture that pays homage to a man's genius and a woman's devotion is now on the Belle Theatre screen where Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell," is the feature attraction. "Champagne Music" a smart musical Revue, and "Hunting Dog" a clever sportation precede the feature attraction.

Thurlow Reeve Voices Criticism Of Secondary School Education

R. Robson States Cost is Too High and High School Education Helps to Remove Young People from the Farms

WRONG THINGS TAUGHT

Sharp criticism of secondary school education in that "it is educating the rural youth of the country away from the farm rather than teaching it the requisites of agricultural training" was levelled yesterday by Reeve Robson of Thurlow Township, and other members of the Hastings County Council in session at Shire Hall.

The discussion and criticism followed the request of the Elgin County Council for the Hastings body to concur in a resolution that "we are in favor of an increase in government grants to schools by one million dollars until at least 50 per cent is borne by the province. These grants to be computed on an equitable basis."

Previous to the reading of this clause, another resolution from the same county council that "In our opinion wealth in the form of mortgages, bank accounts, and stocks should bear the burden of taxation for educational purposes as well as real estate" received the unanimous concurrence of the Hastings County body.

The increased schools grant clause provided the argumentative spark that flamed the discussion that lasted for sometime. While only a few members voiced their opinions in forceful language, Reeve Robson did not pull his verbal punches against the system of education in general and secondary school instruction in particular.

Pass Resolution

Some members backed the Thurlow Reeve in his spirited stand while others offered but mild counter arguments. The discussion ended with a motion that was carried by a large majority to the effect that "whereas the cost of secondary education is increasing regardless of larger governmental grants and whereas the county pays a large percentage of the cost, this County Council hereby requests the different High School and Continuation School Boards to so curb expenditures as to give taxpayers the benefit of the extra help that is expected to be passed along to them."

Did us No Good

Reeve Roscoe Robson stated that "increased grants were paid to secondary schools last year but that did us no good."

The per diem rate paid by his township was 69 1-2 cents per pupil. Two hundred pupils were in attendance at a cost to the municipality of $134.00. Previous to that year the rate was 55c per day and the extra fourteen cents was "put on the county."

"It is the intention of the government to increase these grants but no assurance has been given that it will bear 50 per cent of the cost. Once they get up to bearing 50 per cent they will have the control of the situation and we wouldn't get off with any less than we are now," Reeve Robson charged.

"If the government increases the grants, it will increase the services," Reeve Robson continued. "There is a movement afoot now to subsidize rural students going to city high schools to the extent of 50 per cent of their board. Buses will be run in to the city schools all at a greater expense."

Educated Away From Farm

Lower school education is very necessary, the Thurlow Reeve stated," but plenty of middle and upper school education is useless."

"Supposing we send all our rural children to high school where will they get a job? They are being educated away from the farms where there is a job for them, albeit a poor one. Education is getting a step ahead of itself with its changing of courses of study. How many of these students are especially adapted for the jobs they can't get when they leave school? It is money wasted and a terrific expense."

Reeve George West, Madoc Village thought the new courses of study in high school would be beneficial in years to come. Boys are learning a trade, and get a chance to get a job. "Perhaps science is travelling too fast, and these young men have to be trained in school." Since taking agricultural courses, or attending agricultural colleges young farmers are taking more interest in the farm, Reeve West stated.

The new courses include electrical appliances of all sorts, Reeve Robson countered. Rural children learn to cook, sew and do other things on electrical appliances, things they do not have in their own homes, and things that their parents in the most of cases cannot afford. "This education is of absolutely no use to them," he declared.

"Agricultural courses in our district are on the wane," he said. "Our young men are leaving the farm and trying to get jobs in the city because it is along these lines that they are being educated. If this education was as good as it appears on paper I would support it, but it isn't."

Criticizes Public School System

The Thurlow Reeve lashed out at the public school system of education. "In these schools," he said "rural pupils should be taught more about things agricultural. They should learn about cheese and butter, how to test, and make these things. If we want the future young people to stay on the farm we should teach them the things of the farm. That is where our system of education is falling down. It should teach the rural pupil to stay on the farm instead of bringing them to city high schools for an education that is useless to them, and that costs the municipality from which they come 68 1-2 cents per day for nothing."

Farming has not improved one iota in the last twenty years, Reeve William Linn of Marmora stated. "The trouble with it today is that the bright intelligent farm youth is sent away to college while those not so bright are kept at home on the farms. Doctors, lawyers and other walks of life have improved with science and the years but the farm today is in the same old rut."

Hastings Motors Ltd. Extends Cordial Invitation to Public To Visit Their New Business Quarters Located on Front St.

Mr. Ivan Scott Takes Over Cities Service Station and Adds Many Improvements to Give Better Service to the Public — Products of Chrysler Company on Display — Motion Pictures Will be Shown and Door Prizes Distributed Free

GRAND OPENING SATURDAY

Marking further strides in the general progress of the company since its inception, and inaugural operation of business in Belleville three and one-half years ago, the Hastings Motors Ltd., one of this city's progressive automobile sales, service and gasoline companies, will hold "open house" on Saturday when it invites the general public to inspect its new salesrooms, and service station at 118-124 Front St. Spick and span in new coats of black and white, with its spacious grounds freshly graded; levelled and cindered, with its fences moved back to incorporate all its buildings into an attractive whole, the new home of the Hastings Motors Ltd, presents a bright, attractive appearance, one that adds a distinctive touch to that section of the city in which it is located.

Splendid Show Rooms

Nor has the management been satisfied with just letting the public wander through the up-to-date salesrooms where gleaming models of Chrysler and Plymouth cars and Fargo trucks await proudly the critical inspection of the motor-minded and other people. It has provided for its "Grand Opening", amusement that will be enjoyed by both old and young. In the large white building that houses the office and salesrooms, a modern motion picture projector will be placed on Saturday and highly entertaining films that include the famous Major Bowes and his amateur units, and other prominent films will be shown. In addition, fifteen useful door prizes will be given away, President Ivan Scott stated today. Tickets will be given free to every person attending the grand opening on Saturday, and at ten o'clock in the evening the prizes will be drawn for. "There is no obligation on any one's part, it is all free," Mr. Scott stated.

When the company was originated three and one-half years ago, it conducted its first business in the J. Warren Building opposite to its present up-to-date location. Driven out by the great flood of 1936, the company removed to 211 Pinnacle Street where application of good business ethics, a sense of fair dealing and other qualities that make for success laid the foundation for the flourishing concern that is now the Hastings Motors, Ltd.

But here, after three years of successful operation and cooperation with the motor public, expansion became necessary. Larger quarters were deemed advisable, and a locality that was closer to the public was needed. Foresight and business acumen resulted in the acquisition of the present fine premises and a few weeks ago the company transferred its activities to the new locale.

Today a staff of six competent mechanics, equipped with modern tools and up-to-date scientific apparatus, do their work in an environment that is pleasant as well as facilitative. Three courteous salesmen stand ready to offer the company's wares in a manner that bespeaks long experience and training. The service staff is courteous, obliging and efficient and is well trained to meet the public and give it the best service the company has to offer.

Modern Outdoor Rest-Garden

Not only has the new service station modern well-equipped restrooms for its patrons, but it has a distinct innovation in service-station conveniences in a rest-garden. At the rear of the station awning-covered chairs are placed on lush green grass overlooking the river Moira. Tables are in evidence. Here lady travellers can rest conveniently while their car requirements are filled.

Manager Ivan Scott and his staff of the Hastings Motors Ltd., extend a cordial invitation to all and sundry to visit their new home at 118-124 Front Street on Saturday.

Staff of Royal Train Glad That Trip is Nearly Over

Saint John, June 14—Now that the Royal tour is almost over the crew of porters who have to do with Their Majesties and their staff is quite willing to admit it has been a stiffer endurance test than any previous visit of Royalty or trip made by a Governor-General, writes Mollie McGee, special writer for the Globe and Mail.

Also, by tactful questioning, I found out the King has never "let down" behind the scenes, nor has the Queen's smile and charming manner undergone any change once the door of the observation platform had closed and cheers faded into the distance.

The staff know they are tired. "It wouldn't be human not to be," one man remarked; also meals served in the green dining-room off the King's sitting-room have become lighter and lighter. But, despite that, Their Majesties are just as considerate as when they first boarded the blue travelling palace at Quebec.

Bob Davidson is the colored porter the public has seen most frequently. He steps down a moment or two after the train comes to a stop and assists Her Majesty to reach the platform and return.

Calm and Collected

Neat almost to the point of impossibility, Bob is quite accustomed to crowds and even the excitement at the big cities found him calm and collected.

He has been attached to the viceregal cars which Their Majesties used since 1929, and he originally came from Amherst, Nova Scotia. He loves his job, has never had any mishaps in assisting the Queen, though he said that once or twice when she went for a walk down the tracks with the King in some secluded country spot, they had quite a hard time negotiating the steep banks when the time came for them to get back.

"She is a charming lady and so young in her ways," Bob said. "The other morning she went skipping down the ties just like a schoolgirl."

It falls to Bob's lot to draw back the curtains in the Queen's sitting room after the train leaves big cities so she may see the scenery. He says she uses the radio very little, spends much time waving to stray groups of people who stand by the tracks in the hope of seeing her.

"The telephone operator lets her know when there are a lot of people waiting," Bob explained. "The switchboard is way up in the cars ahead. But she often sees a few people standing and goes to the window for them."

Little Time Alone

Wilfred Nobely, who is the attendant in His Majesty's sitting room, came from Ireland and has toured the country with Queen Marie and Lord Tweedsmuir.

"The King has little time alone," he said, "there seems to be almost unending correspondence to attend to. Then, of course, visitors get on at all important stations."

Wilfred looks after the flowers that arrive in great baskets and boxes as gifts. He also breaks up Her Majesty's bouquets so flowers can be used in vases. When the car left for Canada the King had two bowls of orchids on his desk that were part of a $500 breakfast bouquet sent by the Mayor and people of Asbury Park, N.J., in an engraved silver bowl.

Acknowledging bouquets is the duty of the King's secretary and Lady Katherine Seymour, who spends days typing.

James Morgan, chef in the tiny immaculate Royal kitchen, is well accustomed to cooking for important people. He has been travelling cook for viceregal parties since Lord Willingdon's day and has host of souvenirs.

Short Stops Spoils Meals

He finds his present job one of the most difficult. "Short stops put us out for meal times," he said.

He pointed out, though, that the Royal menu is usually a simple one. Breakfast is a plain egg dish with toast and coffee, lunch a light entree and dinner never more than four courses. Soup is never served. "None of the Royal family seems to like it." The Prince of Wales never took it over here and the King and Queen also omit it entirely, he explained.

Mr. Morgan's last duty at night is to make tea for the King and Queen, they both take it with milk, not cream, and without sugar.

The menu is sent in to the Queen at ten in the morning, and she ticks off what she wants for the day.

She has had dinner alone with the King a number of times, but more frequently the eight chairs in the dining-room are used for lunch and dinner as dignitaries and friends are entertained as the train goes through the country.

The Royal kitchen—supplied with very adequate refrigerator, full of frozen fresh vegetables, chicken, game and even tomato juice—has a coal stove. During the sweltering trip to Washington and New York the thermometer on the wall reached its highest mark, 120 degrees. Morgan calculated the temperature was about 140.

Bert Warrington, steward of the Royal coaches, is an Englishman, who comes from Newmarket. He is well accustomed to dealing with Royal visitors, he has had years of experience. He says this trip has been most exacting and blames short stops and the number of visitors. "Sometimes we have served as many as 101 meals a day in the Royal household's dining room. Aides, ladies-in-waiting, others entertain notables from each district while the chiefs dine with the King," he said.

"Then, too, the staff has so little time. Miss Catta MacLean, the Queen's personal maid, comes running in for a bite—'I only have ten minutes,' she says to me; she has to get something for she is as nervous as can be after all this strain."

Robert Strong is leader of contingent of seven colored porters on whose shoulders fall the duty of moving around the black uniform cases marked "The King," or great square leather trunks with "The Queen" in black on the lids. They also take messages from staff to secretaries, make up the beds that have taken the place of the usual sleeping bunks in the cream and chintz bedrooms.

Bob Strong is an organist, he studied in his home town of Calgary. He gave a recital for staff while they were in Vancouver. Though he admits he hasn't much time to practice now, and though he is enjoying the experience will be glad when he is on Calgary-Vancouver run again, and can spend his Sundays at home.

Noel Napp, Ethelbert Bartholomew and R. M. Defreitas of Montreal, feel about the same. D. Baird of Halifax, Horace Jones of Kingston and Perc Corbin are glad they will have stories to tell when they get home. But as one remarked: "Sure, the prestige is all right, but what is getting us all is the continuity of this trip."

Melville and Windsor get cake for receptions according to these interested spectators on the Royal train. "But, we'll sure be glad when we can tell you who said the best good-bye and we don't mean any disrespect to the King and Queen. Lordy miss, if we're tired, what are they?"

INSTAL OFFICERS IN CANDLELIGHT B.Y.P.U. SERVICE

Impressive Wind-up to Season's Activities is Featured by Banquet in Baptist Church Parlors

Climaxing a year of satisfactory progress and achievement, the Senior B.Y.P.U. of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held their closing banquet in the church parlors Monday evening. The tables were tastefully decorated with flags and flowers and this, together with the excellence of the food, attested to the painstaking efforts of Miss Katherine Hogle, Social Convener, and her committee.

Miss Della Anderson, the retiring president, conducted a period of devotion. Following a scripture reading by Miss Edna Jobson, Miss Anderson led in prayer and Mr. Arthur Wynne contributed with a splendid vocal solo.

In a solemn and impressive candlelight service the following newly-elected officers were installed by Miss Anderson, assisted by Mr. R. L. Orr and Miss Nora Hales: Honorary President—R. L. Orr; President—John Jury; Vice-Presidents—Wilfrid Hales, Jean Thompson; Secretary—May Hobson; Asst. Secy—Alice Knight; Treasurer — Dorothy Moorman; Group Leaders—Mrs. C. Franklin; Edna Jobson; Nellie Hales; Ted Russell; Social Convener — Helen Thompson; Usher—Ed. Burn; Reporter — Alan Haw. Councillors elected are Rev. C. T. Olmstead and Mr. G. L. Dixon.

"Convention Echoes" were brought by those members who attended the B. Y. P. U. portion of the Baptist Jubilee Convention of Ontario and Quebec held in the Automotive Building at the Toronto Exhibition grounds. During this, the largest religious gathering ever to be held in Toronto, many inspiring messages were heard from prominent missionaries and religious leaders and the highlights of the various sessions were interestingly told by Mr. John Jury, Mr. Arthur Wynne, Miss Della Anderson, Mrs. Chas Franklin, Mr. W. Hales, Mr. Chas. Franklin, Mr. Bert Orr and Miss Edith Looker.

Report of Conference

At the Saturday night session, Principal Nicodemus Jonadab, of the Normal School at Cocanada, India, in his picturesque native garb, told the young people, that youth can and should accept the challenge of conditions in the world today. In the opinion of Dr. Jonadab there never was time in the history of the world when the effort of youth was more needed to cope with world-wide problems.

He deplored the caste system in his own country and expressed thanks for the missionary work being done among the natives. "We know how your missionaries suffer for the sake of my country, for we have seen them return to your country broken in health," he declared.

At a holy communion service on Sunday morning in Yorkminster Baptist Church 1,000 persons partook of the sacrament. Rev. H. E. Aubrey, C.H., general secretary of the Baptist Union of Great Britain and Ireland, delivered the sermon: "We're living in a world that seems to have gone mad for we have more bewilderment now than at any time since the break-up of the Roman Empire."

The speaker lauded the Baptist faith for its contribution to education and enlightenment in the world. He warned against the feeling of cynicism so prevalent in the world today. This feeling was, he said, accompanied by fear and despair. He urged delegates not to cease their efforts with educational training and to face their many problems with faith, knowledge and courage. He paid tribute to Canada's schools, colleges and universities and declared: "only those who love the truth for its own sake can contribute to education."

Mrs Matthews on Platform

Among those present on the platform at this service were Chancellor H. P. Whidden, M.A., D.D., of McMaster University and Mrs. Albert Matthews, wife of Ontario's Lieutenant-Governor.

Dr. J. B. McLaurin, head of Baptist missions in India, speaking on "The Christian's Contribution to Peace" stated that, though the very thought of war was abhorrent, there was no doubt that it was a Christian's duty to fight for his country if it were attacked by aggressors who denied Christian liberty and ideals. Some people held the view that a Christian nation should completely disarm but this, it was argued, would not prevent gangster nations, who had thrown aside worship of God, from moving in and forcing their materialistic, Godless creed upon innocent and peace-loving people. Peace the conference decided, could not be lasting as long as gangsters shed innocent blood, as long as churches could not forget their differences in the common cause and so long as individuals were ruled by passion.

Other conferences attended by Belleville delegates included a musical festival, life service meeting, business meeting and a Sunday evening mass meeting of 3,500 delegates.

Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It is their vital job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 15—(CP)—A group of the Secondary and Junior Golds traded in volume on the Toronto Stock Exchange today and carried the gold list to a minor gain in the early session in the face of moderate general weakness and decidedly lower prices in New York and London. Volume was fairly heavy with 318,000 shares changing hands in the first three hours.

Features of the Gold share trade were Aunor, Kerr-Addison, Uchi. O'Brien and Chesterville. Aunor advanced to a new high at 2.57, up 15 cents for the day. McIntyre sold at a new record high at 59 1-4, trading actively on news that a bonus of $1 would be paid with the regular dividend this year.

Base Metal stocks sold down, especially Nickel, Hudson Bay and Pend Oreille.

Selling was active in International Petroleum and Imperial Oil and these oil leaders dropped to new lows for the year. A feature on the up side in the Industrial section were the Canadian car issues.

Western oils were weak at the opening but prices firmed narrowly in the early afternoon. They were still off slightly in the index.

WALL STREET

New York, June 15 (AP)—A few signs of revival appeared in today's stock market but leaders generally inclined to inch downward. With the ticker tape resting frequently, losses of fractions to a point or more predominated near the fourth hour.

Stocks in the lagging column most of the time were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Consolidated Edison, Santa Fe, Westinghouse, General Electric, Anaconda, Douglas Aircraft and Montgomery Ward.

McIntyre Porcupine shot up more than 2 points in the Canadian group but fractional declines were posted by C.P.R. and Distillers. Dominion 4s were in fair demand. Modest resistance was displayed by Chesapeake & Ohio, American Smelting, Woolworth and Celanese.

Graded Eggs, Butter Easier at Toronto

Toronto, June 15.—Prices receded for butter and graded eggs during Wednesday's session of the Toronto open produce market, according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Reports of a decline in English quotations imparted weakness to the butter market. Trading was limited, with dealers finding it difficult to clear current receipts. Ontario creamery solids decreased to the range of 21⅝c to 22c for No. 1 grades and 21c to 21¼c for 38 score. Prints traded at 23¼c to 24c for top grades and 22⅝c to 23¼c for 38 score.

Fresh receipts were in excess of the light demand on the egg market, and prices were shaded down in the graded section. Other divisions were easy at previous levels. Graded shipments moved slowly at 20c for grade A-large, 18c for medium, 16c for B's and 14½c for C grades.

Montreal Produce Weak.

Montreal, June 15. — Weakening tendencies developed in butter and egg markets yesterday, but cheese prices held steady, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Quebec No. 1 pasteurized in wholesale jobbing lots made 21⅞c. Receipts: 5,017 boxes.

Ontario white cheese was offered at 12½c a pound, and colored at 12¼c. Quebec white traded for 11⅝c, and colored for 11⅞c. Receipts: 3,614 boxes.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases were offered at 21-21½c a dozen for A-large, 18-18½c for A-medium, 17 for B-large, 15 for C. Receipts: 1,160 cases.

ECCLES J. GOTT, SOUTH ESSEX, DIES

Represented Riding of South Essex as Conservative for Ten Years

Amherstburg, Ont., June 15—(CP)—Eccles J. Gott, former Conservative Member of Parliament for South Essex, died at his home here today. He had been in ill health for several months.

Mr. Gott, 54, was named Conservative candidate in the next general election for the riding which he represented for 10 years. He had been in ill health since suffering an attack of influenza in January.

Only two weeks ago, Mr. Gott, then in poor health, expressed a determination to "begin my campaign by July 1."

He began his political career in 1925 when he unexpectedly defeated Hon. George P. Graham, now Senator Graham of Brockville, in a by-election. He was returned to office by increasing majorities in general elections in 1926 and 1930. He lost the seat in 1935 when Murray Clark of Harrow, Liberal candidate, was successful in a three-cornered fight.

A bachelor, Mr. Gott is survived by one sister, Edith, Amherstburg; and three brothers, Charles, Windsor and John and Stanley, Amherstburg.

Funeral will be held Sunday after a public service.

QUEEN MEETS GIRL WHO GAVE BOUQUET

Halifax, June 15—(CP)— Queen Elizabeth chatted today with 22-year-old Margaret Kerr, daughter of a Halifax Presbyterian minister, who as a child had presented her with a bouquet.

When Miss Kerr was presented in Province House, Premier A. L. Macdonald told the King about the presentation in Scotland and how Kerrs had lived not far from Glam's Castle. The King then related the story to the Queen.

"How lovely," Her Majesty said. "When was it? When you were a little girl?"

"Yes, Your Majesty, some 15 years ago in Scotland."

"And did you come out to Canada very soon after?"

"Yes, Your Majesty."

"I'm very glad to have met you again," Her Majesty said.

HITLER TO MARK TIME OVER DANZIG

European Opinion is He Will Wait Till Nazi Congress in September

Geneva, June 15—(AP)— Karl Burckhardt, League of Nations High Commissioner for Danzig, was reported in League circles today to have decided to return to his post at once as a result of German assurance no serious tension over the Free City could be expected before September.

Burckhardt was reported to have received the assurances during a visit to Germany.

Burckhardt also said that Chancellor Hitler had decided to mark time as far as Danzig was concerned until the Nuremberg Nazi Party Congress in September.

Paris, June 15—(CP-Havas) — Genevieve Tabouis, noted French foreign affairs commentator, reported today that Italy has massed troops in Libya and Albania near the Egyptian and Greek borders respectively, leading diplomatic circles in Rome to believe that the danger of war has increased.

"There is increasing talk of very serious Italian preparation at two points, in Libya on the border of Egypt and in Albania," she wrote in L'Oeuvre.

THEIR MAJESTIES RESPOND TO CALLS

Make Unscheduled Appearance from Rear Platform of Royal Train

By GEORGE HERMAN
Canadian Press Correspondent

Truro, N. S., June 15—(CP) — King George and Queen Elizabeth responded to the cheers of their Colchester County subjects today by making an unscheduled appearance at the station platform of this Shire town, second last stop on their Canadian itinerary.

Fifteen thousand delighted onlookers gave Their Majesties roaring acclaim for 10 minutes before the blue and silver Royal train pulled out at 9.18 a.m. EDT for Halifax, where the Royal pair embark on the Empress of Britain tonight for Newfoundland and home.

The train had stopped here for servicing, after laying up for the night on a siding a few miles east of here. The Royal couple stepped out on the rear platform of their travelling palace.

Dressed as Admiral

For the brief appearance, the King wore the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet. The Queen was dressed in a powder blue suit with an off-the-face hat.

The Queen appeared fresh and eager, but His Majesty looked somewhat drawn as the result of yesterday's exhausting progress through the three Maritime Provinces in bad weather.

Among the first to be introduced by Deputy Mayor Ward Murdoch were two 98-year-old twins, claimed the oldest in Canada. They were trundled up to the side of the train in wheel chairs—Mrs. Hettie Brenton of Truro and Mrs. Rhoda Dart of nearby Brookfield.

Waiting for Their Majesties on the station platform was Lord Tweedsmuir, who had motored up from Halifax where he arrived two days ago from Quebec on the liner Empress of Britain. The Governor-General joined the Royal train for the 60-mile run into Halifax.

WINDSOR TRACK STAND BURNS

$50,000 Loss Estimated—Racetrack Closed Since Year 1936

Windsor, Ont, June 15—(CP)—An early-morning fire today destroyed the grandstand at Devonshire race track with a loss the owners estimated at $50,000.

The track has been closed since 1936. It was popular with Detroit racing fans before Michigan legalized pari-mutuel betting in 1935.

Milton Burnstine, one of the track owners, said the structure was partially insured. He estimated it would cost $250,000 to place the plant in operating order but said there was little chance of that being done. The 500-foot stand had seating capacity for more than 10,000 persons.

Combustion Among Rags Blamed

Previous to the fire owners had considered a short meet next summer if the current Detroit racing season was a success.

Basement of the stand had been used as a storehouse for two years and spontaneous combustion among bundles of rags there was believed responsible for the conflagration. Flames spread through the wooden plant rapidly and the roof fell in less than an hour. The structure was tinder dry and flames leaped 200 feet in the air.

The track is just outside Windsor City limits in Sandwich East township and the city fire department, according to regulations, had to wait special authorization before making the run. Finally Controller Norman D. Eansor gave permission for one pumper to go but the stand was then in ruins.

Fire department officials said little could have been done in any case because of dryness of the wood and lack of water facilities. The firemen kept sparks from igniting the adjacent $60,000 clubhouse.

BLAMES GERMANY FOR 2 DISASTERS

Board Places Blame for Munition Plant Blasts Before U.S. Entered War

Washington, June 15 —(AP)— The Mixed Claims Commission today held Germany responsible for the Black Tom and Kingsland, N. J., munitions disasters prior to the entry of the United States into the Great War.

The International Tribunal of which Justice Owen Roberts of the United States Supreme Court is Umpire reversed its Hamburg decision of 1930 which accepted the "industrial accident" theory of the fires and explosions which rocked the New York metropolitan area in 1916 and 1917.

North American claimants who sought damages of $50,000,000 from the Reich have contended throughout 12 years of litigation that the destruction of the Lehigh Valley railroad terminal at Black Tom in 1916 and the Kingsland assembly plant, owned by the Canadian Car and Foundry Corporation, early in 1917 was the work of saboteurs in the pay of the Imperial German Government.

Germany was equally persistent in her denials, advancing the theory that the vast quantities of munitions which had been destined for the Allied Powers, were destroyed by accident, not design.

ROYAL TRAIN CREW THANKED

King and Queen Walk Down Line and Offer Words of Thanks to Men

By A. E. FULFORD

Halifax, June 15 (CP)—After the official welcome to Halifax by provincial and civic officials, their Majesties took time out to say good-bye to the sixty-five of the men who looked after them during their six-weeks trans-continental tour.

Walking down the line formed on the station platform, the King and Queen paused to speak to Emil Lemay, headwaiter of the Royal train. Her Majesty asked him in French, "Do you work hard, M. Lemay? I should think you would be very tired."

"It's a pleasure to be tired for you, your Majesty," the waiter replied.

Dr. E. H. Coleman, Assistant Under Secretary of State, presented the train crew members.

'Splendidly Done,' Says Queen.

Her Majesty was overheard to tell several of the men they had done "splendidly".

To G. A. Bilodeau, baggage master of the blue and silver special, Queen Elizabeth had a special word of thanks. "You have done wonderfully in taking care of our baggage. I thank you so much."

As the King and Queen turned away from their "palace on wheels" to receive the welcome to Halifax, a voice from the line of trainmen was heard to say in a heavy English accent: "She's a marvel, that's what she is".

QUEEN STUDENT OF COLLOQUALISM

Uses Words 'Swell,' 'You Bet' and 'Show' in Conversation

Halifax, June 15—(CP)—Queen Elizabeth revealed herself during the royal tour as an apt student of North American colloquialisms. "Swell" and "you bet" are two of the typical expressions Her Majesty garnered.

In the vernacular, the Queen nearly floored Colonel Mark Kimberling, New Jersey State Police superintendent, with "I think they're swell." She had remarked the State Troopers appeared on a par with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

When a bronzed Scottish veteran at Paris, Ont., shouted "Will ye no come back again?" the Queen, smiling on the rear platform of the royal train, replied: "You bet I will, my laddie."

Her Majesty told one blind veteran at Winnipeg's Deer Lodge Military Hospital that "this is a better show anyway," when he said it was too bad the Royal guests were unable to stop at the institution on their first visit to the Manitoba capital.

No one tried to sell her the Brooklyn Bridge, but the Queen asked Capt. H. H. Nedden of the steamship Prince Robert if it were possible to buy one of the islands in the Strait of Georgia in British Columbia.

CROSS UNDER 44 ARCHES

St. John's Nfld., June 15—(CP Cable)—King George and Queen Elizabeth will pass under 44 arches erected between their point of arrival, Holyrood, and Port Portugal, where they will leave Newfoundland.

ITALIANS LIKE ENGLISH PEOPLE SAYS MacKENZIE

Montreal, June 15 (CP)—Sir Alexander MacKenzie, former head of Brazilian Traction Light and Power Company now living in retirement in Florence, Italy, believes that in Italy "the man on the street has no quarrel with England—no quarrel whatever."

"The Italians like English people just as much as they do the people of any other race," Sir Alexander said in an interview. He is en route to Toronto and his former home town of Kincardine, Ont.

QUEEN ELIZABETH

She had been touched deeply by the fact many had come miles to see her and the King but there were many others who had been unable to come because of illness or finance, and she sent a special word of greeting to them.

"This wonderful tour of ours has given me memories that the passage of time will never dim," the Queen said. "To the people of Canada and to all the kind people in the United States who welcomed us so warmly last week—to one and all on this great friendly continent, I say thank you. God be with you and God bless you."

Arrival at Halifax

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, June 15—(CP)— King George and Queen Elizabeth disembarked today for the last time from the royal train that had carried them more than 8,000 miles across Canada and into the United States, as they stepped into this Nova Scotian capital on the last stop before sailing for home via Newfoundland.

The royal train that had been the "official residence" for most of the first trip ever made by a reigning British sovereign to America, pulled into the gaily-decorated station, not far from the spot where hundreds of trains unloaded Canadian soldiers bound for overseas during the war.

Their Majesties Alight Smiling

Their Majesties were smiling as they alighted from the train at 11.00 a.m. EDT to be welcomed officially by Premier Angus Macdonald and Lord Tweedsmuir, who had joined the royal train at Truro, 60 miles east of the city.

Thunderous cheering broke out immediately the guns began booming the royal salute to signal the royal arrival. The King wore his admiral's uniform, as he has all through the Maritimes, and the Queen, a blue ensemble, the v-neck trimmed with Irish lace. She also wore the blue felt off-the-face hat that she wore in Vancouver. It was trimmed with coarse blue and white veiling. She wore her favored diamond maple leaf pin and two strands of pearls. On her feet were white pumps.

While the King stepped over to inspect the guard of honor, the Queen chatted with Lieutenant-Governor Robert Irwin.

Royal Train Crew Presented

Meanwhile, the entire train crew was lined up near the royal platform and Their Majesties received those whom they had not met previously. They shook hands with virtually every crew member, and the Queen stopped to talk briefly with a porter.

Procession is Slow

Mayor Walter Mitchell and district military officers followed in the parade with others of the official welcoming party when the King and Queen stepped into the royal car and headed along the procession route to Province House.

The royal procession moved slowly along the crowded avenues, the King and Queen smiling and waving to the people who jammed the sidewalks of the sunlit streets. The weather was perfect.

The greatest pilgrimage in the history of the Maritime Provinces converged here as crowds from near and far came to roar a welcome and farewell to the King and Queen.

All through the night they came, by train, bus, automobile and on foot.

A gentle breeze and a warm sun rapidly dried out bunting and decorations sodden from more than 12 hours of heavy rain.

Watchers Take Places Early

As early as 6 a.m. EDT five hours before the blue-and-silver royal train's scheduled stop beside a bunting-hidden platform near pier 21, the first group of watchers had taken up positions along Terminal Street, leading to the piers.

More than two hours before the royal arrival, police estimated 50,000 persons were lined along the main section of the route, with another 10,000 gathered around the city hall.

Bursts of cheering arose repeatedly as the royal entourage arrived at the legislature buildings and entered to receive the address of welcome signed by the Lieutenant-Governor and the Premier.

Tribute to Her Majesty

First personal tribute to the Queen came from the Mayor's wife who described Her Majesty as "just sweet." Mrs. Mitchell said "she puts you right at your ease."

While crowds waited anxiously outside, the Royal visitors stood on a dais in the Province Building's ancient Council Chamber where the new-defunct Legislative Council used to sit, to hear read the official welcome address. Little Coline Macdonald, the Premier's daughter, wearing the tartan of the clan Ranald Macdonalds, mounted the dais to present a bouquet to the Queen.

As they stood in the building, the King chatted animatedly with the Premier, who pointed out old portraits, including those of King George 11 and King George 111.

King Unveils Portrait of Father

Then the King unveiled a portrait of his father, King George V, by Sir Wyly Grier. Their Majesties stepped back a few paces to get a better view of the portrait.

After receiving local dignitaries, Their Majesties left Province House for a drive to City Hall where Mayor Mitchell presented a civic address of welcome on a platform outside the building while thousands of persons shouted and cheered from their standing room on the "grand parade" square.

Then the Royal parade continued along the rest of the route where a couple of spectators who had fallen asleep in a third-floor window, awakened with a jolt and almost fell to the pavement.

Police Lines Broken

So enthusiastic was the crowd they broke through police lines and temporarily cut off the procession, jamming in front of the line of cars following behind those of the King and Queen, and the Governor-General.

After lunch, Their Majesties were invited to Citadel Hill to watch a pageant depicting the early days of Nova Scotia, the last big public event before the Royal departure tonight on the liner Empress of Britain.

nights, had another at Jasper, Alta., one at the White House in Washington and another at the Hyde Park, N.Y. home of Mrs. Sarah Roosevelt, mother of the United States President.

Travelled 9,031 Miles

To Halifax they travelled in miles, in Canada: by rail 7,605; by motor 186; by water 275; Canadian total 8,066. In the United States: by rail 1,099; by motor 96; by water 40; United States total 1,235. Grand total 9,301.

During the nights they have slept on the royal train and have not travelled they have been closely guarded by squads of Royal Canadian Mounted Police who make sure no unauthorized person gets near the royal train.

They erected searchlights between the pilot and royal train — which are side-tracked together — and questioned everyone who came near. Many a luckless correspondent, left behind to finish a story at some point had a searchlight levelled on him and had to produce his credentials at three or four o'clock in the morning. The blinds of the royal car always were drawn so that the lights did not bother Their Majesties.

Last night they were on a siding two miles from the Valley station and the only disturbance in the neighborhood occurred when 26 reporters, who had been stranded in Pictou after crossing from Charlottetown arrived by automobile near midnight, dripping wet, swearing mildly but still glad there was only 24 more hours before the royal tour would end and they could entrain for their homes.

NAVAL BLOCKADE

docks of a large British shipping firm, Butterfield and Swire, refusing passage to British and Chinese employees. The concern is located near the Hankow customs house.

A Japanese spokesman was quoted as saying that the purpose of the blockade was to "bring the (Kulangsu) municipal council to its senses" with regard to Japanese demands for a greater hand in control of the settlement.

Accept Some Demands

Before negotiations were halted last week by the departure of the Japanese Consul General from Amoy for Tokyo the council announced its willingness to accept two of five Japanese demands, holding that complete acceptance would give Japan control of the Kulangsu government.

Last month, about the time the United States, Great Britain and France matched a Japanese landing party three-to-one with their own marines and blue-jackets at Kulangsu, the Japanese halted shipping between Kulangsu and the mainland. However, a few days ago a Shanghai spokesman said that Japanese blockade had been lifted.

Establish New Record.

The issue at Tientsin was drawn along similar lines with Japanese officers declaring the cordon around the British and French concessions would not be lifted until "the British reverse their policy and afford us complete co-operation."

Behind both blockades is the Japanese effort, through the invasion of China started July 7, 1937, to establish a "new order in eastern Asia". Both are based on Japanese demands for suppression of "anti-landing at Kulangsu was predicted landing at Kulangsu was predicted on a shooting affair in which the Japanese said one of their naval officers was endangered. The original demand at Tientsin was for delivery by the British authorities of four Chinese accused of killing a local Chinese official.

Pinch Becomes Acute.

There was no further word of the food situation among Kulangsu's 250 foreigners and 40,000 Chinese but at Tientsin more than 1,000 miles north of Amoy, the pinch was rapidly becoming acute.

All Britons passing back and forth through police-guarded entrances to the concessions were reported thoroughly searched. One Briton had his watch smashed when gendarmes discovered it was set for Tientsin instead of Tokyo time. Other Britons, along with Chinese, were forced partially to undress to show they were not smuggling forbidden goods or the outlawed currency of the Chinese Central Government.

tained with the French and United States governments," he said.

The Prime Minister told the House that Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador in Tokyo, had made representations to the Japanese government about the blockade.

"The government has under consideration" what steps should be taken to protect British trade in North China, he declared while reports persisted outside parliament that economic retaliaton would be started by Great Britain.

Given Full Information

Vincent Massey, the Canadian High Commissioner in London, and other Dominions representatives were given full information on the Tientsin incident at a long conference with Sir Thomas Inskip, the Dominions secretary earlier today.

Mr. Chamberlain tol the House that if the statement attributed to Japanese spokesman in Tientsin represented the views of authorities in Tokyo, "the Japanese are using the incident to make demands wider and more far-reaching than the handing over of the four men."

He referred to Japan's earlier demand for delivery to Japanese authorities of four Chinese accused of killing a Tientsin official and now detained in the British concession there. Great Britain's rejection of this demand led to imposition of the blocade Wednesday morning.

He said that while the situation was "obviously a grave one," he was not prepared to say at the moment what action the government may decide to take.

Measures Not Known

What type of economic measures Britain will adopt to counter Japanese pressure in the China concessions was not known, but the weapons at her disposal include discriminatory tariffs, eclusion of Japanese ships from British-controlled ports in the Far East such as Singapore and Hong Kong and embargoes against raw materials shipped to Japan.

Britain also could make things difficult for Japan by increasing financial assistance to General Chiang Kai-Shek in his efforts to resist apanese establishment of a "new order" in China.

A government spokesman said Japan had rejected Britain's suggestion for an impartial inquiry into the evidence against four alleged Chinese terrorists now held in the British concession at Tientsin and wanted by the Japanese as the alleged slayers of a Chinese memoers of the Japan-supported orth China bank.

ISLANDERS

Welcome of city and province was extended at a reception in Province House. Then Their Majesties attended a government luncheon.

No Speeches at Luncheon

There were no speeches at the luncheon. Two toasts were offered—to the King and Queen —and they were drunk in unfermented and "unintoxicating" wine according to a Government House announcement. Prince Edward Island is Canada's only 'dry' province.

Prince Edward Island resembles England, the King told Lieut.-Governor George D. DeBlois at the luncheon. The King made this remark, the Lieut.-Governor said, after he had looked intently for some time at the red cliffs and green meadows across Charlottetown harbor.

The King recalled the days when he was here in 1913 as a midshipman aboard the H.M.S. Cumberland, Lieut.-Governor DeBlois said.

They were pleasant memories, the monarch told Prince Edward Island's governor.

The King took a great interest in John Duffy, aged butler at Government House. It was John's 73rd birthday.

Spoke to Butler

After the royal couple had been introduced to more than 60 of Prince Edward Island dignitaries, the King strode up to John who was standing by the door and asked him how long he had been at Government House.

"Fifty-two years, Your Majesty."

"My, that's a long time. How old are you?"

"I'm 73 today sir."

"Isn't that wonderful," said King George turing to the Queen.

Enthusiasm of Charlottetown crowds sent them flowing through police barriers and gave officials a few anxious moments as the royal couple drove down a wharf to embark for Nova Scotia.

Two hundred and fifty persons burst through guards and fences and swarmed onto the wharf in a body as the royal car proceeded along the wharfside just eight feet from the water of Charlottetown harbor.

King Unflustered

The car reached its destination, 15 feet from where the destroyer Skeena lay moored, just as the van of the crowd came up to it. Unfustered, the King and Queen stepped out. His Majesty saluting and the Queen smiling broadly and waving.

The crowd halted six feet away, and cut loose with a salvo of cheers as Their Majesties walked to the destroyer.

To get onto the wharf, reserved for officials, about 100 of them had burst past astonished police at the gate. Another 150, men, women and children, clambered over fences and piled lumber in a dash to get close to the departing royal guests.

Tigers Extend Winning Streak To Seven Straight Victories By Defeating Boston Twice

Bob Feller Muffles Bats of the Yankees to Win Tenth of Season

DODGERS BEATEN

Cardinals Win but Make No Progress as Reds Take Phillies

(By Judson Bailey Associated Press Sports Writer).

There are not enough great pitchers in the American League to keep New York Yankees from another baseball championship, perhaps, but their rivals' freshly formed policy of playing their aces from the top of the deck promises some unforeseen interference.

Young Bob Feller muffled the Bronx bombers on four hits for eight innings yesterday to enable Cleveland Indians to triumph 4-2.

This was a welcome answer to the plea of Detroit's manager Del Baker that other clubs follow his example of aiming their biggest guns at the Yankees. He fired Dizzy Trout, Tommy Bridges and Buck Newsom at the New Yorkers on successive days last week and won two out of three games.

Feller engaged Monte Pearson in a pitching duel which in the end was not decided by either although Feller got credit for his 10th victory against two defeats.

Two Unearned Runs

The youngster gave only two hits until the eighth inning when a walk, two singles and an error gave the Yankees two unearned runs. The only run Pearson permitted the Indians in eight innings was forced in on three passes after a single. Then both were removed for pinch-hitters and the Tribe teed off on Johnny Murphy for three tallies and the ball game in the ninth—with Ben Chapman driving in the winning runs on a double.

Meanwhile the Tigers extended to seven straight victories the string they started with the noble experiment against the Yanks. They bested Boston Red Sox 9-8 and 6-2 in a double defeat which dropped the Sox within a game of Cleveland.

Washington Senators moved past Philadelphia Athletics into sixth place on the four-hit shutout pitching of Knuckleballer Dutch Leonard, who strapped Chicago White Sox 3-0.

A's Are Trounced

The A's were trounced 6-0 at night by St. Louis Browns, who have been in the American League cellar long enough to know their way around in darkness. Vernon Kennedy provided a heady three-hit pitching performance, which was camouflaged by his teammates' four home runs acounting foor all the Brownies' scores.

Cincinnati rampaging Reds had to come from behind to beat Philadelphia Phillies 10-7 but proved themselves capable. St. Louis Cardinals collected 15 hits, including a home run by Terry Moore with two on base, to blast Brooklyn Dodgers 9-2. Lefty Bob Weiland held the Flatbush Picories in check on seven seven hits.

The defeat placed the Dodgers to a virtual tie for third place in the National League with their hated enemies, New York Giants, who climbed over Chicago into the first division by defeating the Cubs 2-1. Both New York runs were homers by Zeke Bonura, his fifth and sixth of the season.

Boston's game at Pittsburgh was rained out.

KI-Y LEAGUE

Three games of midget softball were played in the Ki-Y groups last evening with rather one-sided scores resulting in two of the matches.

At Queen Mary School grounds, however, a tidy game resulted in the West End Club eking out a 9 to 7 victory over the Personality Kids. The losers connected for five runs in the initial frame, but the West End kids had to score all in a knot by the end of the second and notched three more to cinch the piece in the fifth. Ernie Blake handled this game as umpire.

At Queen Alexandra School grounds the St. Mikes "Irish" won 25 to six over the East End nine, while at Queen Victoria School grounds the Flying Arrows poundout a 25 to 7 win over the Scoregetters.

In an exhibition softball game played at Bancroft yesterday the Luckin "meatmen" downed the northern villagers 10 to 2. The Luckins nine are leading the city "No Kick" mushball loop and journeyed to Bancroft for an afternoon's outing and an exhibition game.

Picton Intermediates Defeat Napanee 8-4

Picton, June 15 (Special) — Picton intermediates increased their lead in the Bay of Quinte League here yesterday afternoon when they won their third successive game defeating Napanee 8 to 4.

Dainard on the mound for Picton kept the nine hits scattered, but five were doubles and one triple. Sparkling work in the field and timely hitting by the locals kept them in the lead. Hudgin led the locals at bat with two triples. McCutcheon had two triples for Napanee, Switzer a double and two singles, Lucas two doubles. Picton gathered twelve hits off Switzer, nine singles, two triples and a double.

"SONNY" GREEN, VETERAN HURLER, STOPS DAIRYMEN

Shell "Oilers" Win Sixth Consecutive Game in Softball Loop

SCORE IS 14-6

Besides Pitching Fine Game Green Has Perfect Batting Average

Lengthening their string of consecutive victories in the Belleville Softball loop to six in a row the Shell "Oilers" road rough-shod over the Citizen's Dairy "Juniors" to win 14 to 6 at the flats last evening to remain undefeated this season.

That veteran pitcher "Sonny" Green went to the mound for the victors and showed plenty of his hurling cunningness, that carried him to softball heights over a decade ago. Although Red Townsend's juniors took an early game lead, Green pitched slow and steady, showing a fine change of pace to baffle the kids and scatter an even dozen hits well. Green was slightly wobbly in the first two frames, as the juniors scored four runs, but he soon settled away, as his team mates gave him some runs and sparkling support, to take command of the situation. Steve Hook, the juniors' elongated moundsman from Kitchener, hurled fair ball but was slightly wild at times, as his support in the infield collapsed, especially around the keystone sack. Errors proved costly to the kids as the Oilers applied the willow in the latter stages.

Battling at even terms the fans were treated to a fair mushball game until Johnny Ronsky blasted one of Hook's fast ones for a double with three aboard and the Oilers continued their apple-knocking to score four in the sixth and eighth to win handily. Besides pitching steady ball Green assisted his own cause with a perfect batting average on the day of three hits in as many tries. Sero had three for five and Amo and Whalen two each. Yarrow with a home run and a single led the juniors, as Clare, Ethier and Hook came through with two hits each. The fielding sensations were supplied by Johnnie Bawden and Stan Amo, both making fine running catches in the Oiler's outfield. The Oilers outhit the kids 14-12.

The lineups:

Citizen's Dairy Juniors: Samain ss; Ethier 3b; Yarrow lf; Mansfield 2b; Mitchell 1b; Goyer c; Hook c; Clare cf; Cooke rf; and Doherty.

Shell Aajamma Club: Rowbotham c; Ronsky 3b; Bawden cf; Sero ss; Amo lf; Dickey rf; Moon 2b; Whalen 1b and Green p.

Belleville Wins

In the first inter-club game of the current golf season, played at the Trenton Golf Club, the visiting Belleville Golf Club defeated the homesters by 5 1-2 points on the day's play.

LENGTHEN WINNING STREAK

Winnipeg, June 15 (CP)— The touring Scottish soccer team moved on to Toronto today for their next game if the United States and Canadian tour. The Scots lengthened their winning streak in Canada last night when they walloped a Manitoba all-star select eleven 6-1.

During their tour the Scots have played 11 games and won 10. The other was a 1-1 draw at New York. They have scored 53 goals against their opponents with only 10 finding their way into the International net.

Kiwanis Servicemen Win First Game By Defeating Barbers

Combining good pitching with timely hitting, a combination hard to beat any man's mushball game, the Kiwanis Club servicemen knocked the city barbers off their lofty perch in the city "No Kick" softball loop at the Collegiate grounds last evening as the "big boys" gave the Barbers a dose of their own medicine in a close shave and an 8 to 6 trim.

Hits by Frank Domenico and A. Lloyd culminated by a home run from the bat of Secretary George Griffin gave the Kiwanis a nice three run lead in the second, Secretary George having a perfect batting average for the game and scoring three runs. Bill Cook and Frank Follwell coupled hits in succession to score two runs in the eighth and assure the big "K" ballsters of a win. Al Skinner, Bill Warren and Shinny Harris accounted for the losers' hitting power.

The loss was the first in three starts for the "Clippers" while the Kiwanis nine claim they have just struck their stride as they registered their initial victory in three starts last night. Secretary Griffin will have an excellent report to present President Dick Flynn next Tuesday, suggested Eddie Logan after the game. Chuck Barriage hurled for the Barbers and Ted Follwell delivered them up for the winners.

The lineups:

Kiwanis: Logan, J. Follwell, H. Fox, Domenico, T. Follwell, Cook, Lloyd, Griffin and F. Follwell.

City Barbers: Rush, Covert, Skinner, Barriage, Warren, Harris, Calnan, Stark and Moore

SYRACUSE CHIEFS PROVE METTLE BY BEATING WINGS

Team Spots Rochester Four Runs and Beats Them 6 to 5

BISONS DOWNED

Toronto Leafs Win Third Straight by Defeating Orioles 11-7

(By The Associated Press)

Syracuse Chiefs, who have been coming along in big league style lately, proved their mettle again last night by spotting the elague leading Rochester Red Wings four runs in the first inning and beating them 6-5 to gain an even break in the four-game series.

Jack Tising went the distance for the victors and limited the Wings to seven hits. His mates collected three runs off Ray Henshaw, Rochester starter, sending him to the showers in the second, and got three more tallies off Mike Ryba in the sixth.

The victory enabled Syracuse to keep within one game of the third place Newark Bears, who defeated Montreal 8-6, in an afternoon game. The Bears used four pitchers and, although outhit 13-11, homers by Schulte, Kelleher and Suder and a pinch double by Geo. Washburn gave them the power needed. John Haley, who entered the game in the eighth and faced only four batters, was credited with the triumph.

Bisons Downed

In the afternoon game Jersey City Giants downed Buffalo Bisons 5-3, to take the series three games to one. Tom Hafey, hard-hitting third baseman, led the Jersey attack with two singles and a double. His two-bagger in the eighth scored Johnny Dickshot from second base to win the game. Bill Harris, who relieved Bob Carpenter in the eighth was the winning pitcher.

Toronto Maple Leafs won their third straignt victory 11-7, at the expense of Baltimore Orioles. Jack Burns, M. Smith and Bob Elliott hit homers for the Leafs and accounted for as many runs as the Flock made. Bill Weir started for the Leafs but was routed in the ninth.

CANNIFTON TEAM ON TOP RUNG OF S. HASTINGS LOOP

Merriwell Finish Staged by Squad Defeats Shannonville 9-8

LATTA SHUTOUT

Only Two Latta Batters Got as Far as First Base in Their Loss to Foxboro

Foxboro, June 15 (Special) —The Collins-Empson led Cannifton aggregation are out on top all alone in the South Hastings League standing today as the result of their staging a typical Merriwell finish on the Shannonville diamond last night, when they eked out a close 9-8 decision over the homesters. Trailing 7-0 going into the fourth, the Cannifton boys suddenly began clouting the ball and rapidly overcame their seven run deficit and at same time give Loucks his second straight win of the season. Shannonville's defeat coupled with Foxboro's nifty 3-0 shutout over the Latta team on the same night places the two former teams in a tie for second position, each having a win and a loss to their credit, while the Latta boys are bringing up the rear having lost their first two starts.

In the game over at Latta last night, the two rival hurlers, Dunning for the homesters and Ken Peacock for the Foxboro team, hooked up in the first mound duel of the season with the evening's honors being slightly in favor fo the lanky Foxboro lad. Pitching his first game of the year, Peacock literally had the Latta boys eating out of his hand as he hung up an impressive row of an even dozen strikeouts and limited the losers to one stingy hit. Only two Latta batters got as far as first base, with Faulkner muffing Hodgen's fly to left in the second to put one aboard and J. Gowe gave the home fans their sole opportunity to cheer when going in as a pinch hitter in the last inning he lashed out a single to give his team their only hit of the night. Dunning, however, did almost equally as well for the losers as he limited the visitors to only four safeties, while he struck out seven and walked only two.

Foxboro got their runs in third inning when Noley Guay was safe on the third baseman's error and moved ahead on Wright's single to left. Spencer was safe on a fielder's choice which failed to click as Guay scored from third on the play. Faulkner then drove in two more runs, when he got his second hit of the night to put his team three ahead to end the scoring for the night.

On Friday evening, June 16, Foxboro will journey to Shannonville for a battle in which second position will be at stake, while if the Latta boys happen to take a fall out of Cannifton when they visit that village on the same night there will be a three- way tie for first place.

The teams:

Foxboro: Noley Guay c; Wright 2b; Norman Guay b; Spencer ss; Walt 3b; Faulkner lf; Vanderwater rf; Peacock p and Burd cf.

Latta: Harrison rf; Colden 3b; Hall 2b; Hodgen c; Simms cf; Gowe 1b; Carleton ss; Dunning p and Lawrenson lf.

Umpires: Elmer Breese, plate; Donald Hall, bases.

Galento's Manager Makes Serious Charge Against Joe Louis

(By Sid Feder Associated Press Sports Writer).

Summit, N.J., June 15 (AP)— Manager Joe Jacobs is a master at boxing ballyhoo and nobody ever doubted it but perhaps he never made a more profitable blurb for Joe Jacobs than his latest outburst, a hint that Joe Louis used more than his fists to knock out Max Schmeling.

In the opinion of observers Joe's outburst yesterday might well add anywhere up to $200,000 to the gate for the Louis-Tony Galento championship fight June 28. It means more money in the Jacobs' pocket of course because "yussel the muscle" is El Galento's pilot.

Tony and his training troupe opened their new base in this hilly country today after moving from Asbury Park's seashore atmosphere at the suggestion of the New York State Athletic Commission.

Wants Examination

In actual timing, the "Gimmick" incident yesterday didn't last long. Jacobs said he didn't like the way Louis flattened Schmeling a year ago, and wanted round-by-round examination of the Brown Bomber's gloves for protection for Galento. Major General John G. Phelan, New York Athletic Commission chairman, couldn't see the joke and forced "Yussel" to withdraw the charges. The penalty for refusing probably would have been revoking of Jacobs' licence to second his fighter.

Just for the records, A Gimmick is a blunt metal instrument, known variously in the fight business as a "persuader" and a "slug". If and when used, it is camouflaged to resemble a portion of boxing glove and is carried in the palm of the glove, with just enough protruding to do fearful things when brought into contact with an opponent's anatomy.

Trainer Laughs

Jack Blackburn, Louis' trainer, laughed off Jacobs' whole statement at Joe's Pompton Lakes training camp. "Only gimmick that Louis boy needs," he chuckled, "is the five-fingered one he's got hanging on the end of his arm."

Galento, himself, didn't pay much attention to the song-and-dance.

"Say, if anybody tries a gimmick on me," he shouted, "I'll bite him."

Sports Roundup

(By Eddie Brietz Associated Press Sports Writer).

Asbury Park, N.J., June 15 (AP) —When spies reported Joe Louis is featuring the very swing "beer barrel porker—pardon—"poker" on his portable phonograph these days, Signor Galento immediately shifted headquarters from here to Summit, which is six miles further to Summit Pompton Lakes—Doc. Prothro sure is making things tough for the Philly front office by popping off that he wouldn't swap Morris Arnovich for Joe Medwick.....Morris will remember that one come next February.

Broadway wire: Ty Cobb, one of the all time baseball greats being featured on the first page of New York sheets.....George Parnassus, the coast fight manager and Jim Johnston, Jr., son of the old maestro, brawling in a gym. Result—a draw.....Helen Wills Moody guest starring on "information please" and batting darn near 1,000.....Everyone along the great white way wondering what (if anything) the Mayo experts will find wrong with Lou Gehrig.

Not long ago Leo Durocher cornered John Carmichael of the Chicago Daily News and spent 20 minutes telling him how, by windness, persuasion, hypnotism, etc., he had made a changed man out of Boots Poffenberger.....Carmichael rushed his story to the wire and it was rolling merrily along in the first edition when along came this ap joy-killer: "Poffenberger, fined $400, jumps Dodgers"

A guy named Mickey Hayes hiked 1,000 miles from Milwaukee to become a sparring partner for Joe Louis.....Flash! Giants beat the Yanks—eight delegates to seven at the Copperstown baseball show .....Columbus and Minneapolis applied reverse English to that old saw, "from the sublime to the ridiculous," the other day by playing a double-header, 21-14 and 2-0.

In a desperate effort to bolster each others weaker points, the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers completed a player trade yesterday, that saw outfielder Earl Averill of the Indians, go to the Tigers in exchange for pitcher Harry Eisenstat and cash. Averill, a left-handed batter has spent his entire major league career with the Indians and has been a member of all five American all-star teams. Averill finished the 1938 season with a batting average of .330 after hitting .377 until late in the year. The Tigers felt they needed more hitting strength in the outer garden, while Oscar Vitt's pitching staff needs bolstering, thus the acquisition of Eisenstat a lefthander. Incidentally the deadline for major trades is the last week in June. Throughout the entire months of July and August no big league player trades are permitted, but again in September the majors may bring up youthful prospects, who have shown promise during their minor league campaign of the current season.

The elements of weather proved too strong for the Belleville Yacht Club punt sailors yesterday in more ways than one. First the "A" class craft, Semark's Alaska and Callaghan's After You 3rd moved towards the starting buoy, but in so doing Semark's mainsail caught on the Imperial Oil Company dock, tearing the canvas so badly the Alaska was forced to retire. Skipper Callaghan took one look at the torn mainsail and the heavy blow and promptly headed his "After You" for the home port, calling it a day. The lighter craft in the "B" class put out, but the halyard of the Scrapper was blown off and they immediately called it quits, owing to the heavy gale. No doubt the sailors too well remembered the fate of the Alaska last week end, when Semark's craft capsized in a heavy gale similar to the strong blow of yesterday.

The city barbers experienced their first defeat of the season in the "No Kick" softball loop last night, falling before Frank Follwell's Kiwanis nine by a 7 to 6 score. Strangely it was the first win of the schedule registered by the Kiwanis and the first loss sustained by the barbers, who got "clipped" themselves yesterday.

They may call him 'old Sonny', but last night "Sonny" Green perennial diamond star from Ox Point showed 'em there's plenty of life in the old boy yet. Sonny went to the mound for the Shell "Oilers" and although he got away to a poor start, the veteran soon settled away to have matters his own way and chalk up the sixth consecutive win of the season registered by the yellow and red clad Oilers. Besides scattering 12 hits well, Green showed the younger element how to swing a mean bludgeon as he walked off the field with a perfect batting average for the game, three hits in as many official times at bat. Incidentally Red Towsend's teen-aged infield bobbled too many last night, while the Oilers fielded sensationally in the outfield to supply the feature plays.

We saw "Speedy" St. Louis taking in last night's softball game and wonder if Coach Bud Wilkins will line St. Louis up for tonight's R.C.A.F. at Belleville ball game at the Fair Grounds? With "Speedy" handling any of the four Belleville pitchers tonight we feel the local ball nine might get into the win column for a change. The acquisition of a seasoned catcher and a shortstop would doubtless work miracles in the ranks of the Belleville nine who desire nothing more than to pin back the Flyers' ears at baseball tonight.

Leo Goyer's sojourn to Simcoe, or points north as reported, was apparently somewhat abbreviated as Goyer was again seen in a junior softball uniform last night. Far away fields look green, we know, but on the other hand something should be done to provide our own prospective hockey players with employment, if at all possible. After all Goyer is only seeking gainful employment.

The golf season officially opened, insofar as local golfers are concerned, yesterday. The annual Dubs and Duffers tournament was held with much success, at the Bay of Quinte Country Club yesterday, while Jock Mitchell and the Belleville Golf Club golfers journeyed to Trenton Wednesday for an inter-club match, which the local team won by a margin of something like 5 1-2 points. During the Dubs and Duffers tournament at the Country Club however, a hole competition was held in conjunction with the play and some real good fun enjoyed. Messrs. W. J. Cook, W. Knowles, W. Childs, J. Hartwick, Bob King, Bob Martin and, O. Alyea were the lucky winners, although Perc Allen says he got more satisfaction out of beating Jack McKeown than winning golf balls.

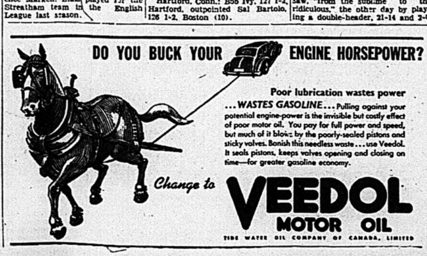
Bob Feller rung up his tenth American League victory at the expense of the powerful Yankees yesterday as the Indians triumphed 4-2 with Feller scattering five hits, superbly. Recently Tommy Bridges and Buck Newsom of the Tigers beat the Yankees and the Detroit press immediately called upon all other American League clubs to groom and save their ace hurlers in an effort to stop the slugging McCarthymen. Feller's effort yesterday proved to some degree the suggestion of the Detroit press, namely it takes top-ranking pitchers to beat a good club. In past series the lower bracket clubs have used any old hurler against the champions, saving their better class pitchers for starts against so-called weaker clubs. This practice may now be forsaken and the Yankees given a harder [illegible] to hoe in the future. If the McCarthymen have to face top-ranking hurlers daily throughout the season, with the remaining seven clubs ganging 'em, maybe a different October story would be forthcoming.

Sport Clippings—Picton continued undefeated in the Quinte loop with an 8 to 4 win over Napanee yesterday, [illegible] Dainard hitting the gong for another win.... Joe Jacobs, mouthpiece for Tony (or is it Phony) Galento, says Joe Louis lugged a ton of scrap iron into the ring in his bandages the night he knocked Max Schmeling kicking....Monty Stratton, who shot his leg off during the off season last winter, hasn't given up hope of returning to the White Sox mound next spring. He practices pitching on one artificial leg, and a good one to boot, daily. .... Bob Porter Toronto-born outfielder, was farmed out to Wilkes-Barre of the Eastern League, by the Leafs yesterday....Funny thing the Senators only make errors when Krakaskaus is pitching, o do they? See you at the ball game tonight

MAY PLAY FOR ACES

Montreal, June 15 (CP)—Russ McConnell starry forward with McGill Redmen in the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said yesterday he was considering an offer of a position in Quebec and if he accepted he would line up with Quebec Aces.

"I am seriously considering the offer of a position in Quebec and will decide definitely tomorrow," McConnell said. "In the event that I do go to Quebec, I will play for Aces."



DO YOU BUCK YOUR ENGINE HORSEPOWER?

Poor lubrication wastes power

...WASTES GASOLINE... Pulling against your potential engine-power is the invisible but costly effect of poor motor oil. You pay for full power and speed, but much of it blows by the poorly-sealed pistons and sticky valves. Banish this needless waste ... use Veedol. It seals pistons, keeps valves opening and closing on time—for greater gasoline economy.

“TITAN TOWER” by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

When Linda came home that night, after her new-formed friendship with Mr. Avon began, her thoughts kept playing hopscotch. She would take two or three mental jumps forward along the line of solution of the problem of Bill Blaine and what to do about him, and then her thoughts would skip sideways—to Mr. Avon, to Steve Hubbard and again backwards to Mike. After she went to bed, her subconscious carried on the game in that strange half-world of dreams.

Tossing restlessly, sometimes half awake, sometimes more than half asleep, Linda saw Mike Morton, in a tiny plane with burning wings, trapped at the top of a fog-filled pit, which sometimes looked like a huge elevator shaft. And, she saw a handsome young doctor, who sometimes was Bill Blaine, trying to save Mike from his fate.

She dreamed of a woman, who was Linda for sure, dressed in smart evening gowns and fur wraps, going dancing and to gay parties, laughing, playing, enjoying life—and always on the arm of a very handsome man, who was sometimes dark like Mike and sometimes tall and blond like Bill Blaine. Sometimes he was her own Mickey, looking all strange and grown up in a tuxedo, dancing with mother.

And then she saw another Linda, a Linda who didn't dance, but who sat motionless in a rocking chair while her hair grew white. She didn't move, because she was scarcely alive.

CHAPTER FOURTEEN

Linda didn't know what time it was when she threw the covers back from the bed, covered her eyes with her hands—palms outward—as though to fend off a horrible vision, and then swiftly rose, and went to Mickey's crib.

She stood there a long time, looking down on him without waking him, watching him sleep the deep, restful sleep of the very young.

“Mickey, dear,” she said softly, “you'll understand some day.”

And then she walked from the room, straight out through the front room and into the hall, leaving her door ajar behind her.

Jo Monroe was yawning and grumbling in alternate breaths when she opened the door of her apartment.

But Janice, who stood behind her, was more hospitable.

“Come right in, honey,” Janice said, “what's the matter? Is something wrong?”

“Nothing's wrong, Jan,” Linda said, throwing her arms about Janice. “Everything's right—now.”

“Jo,” Linda said, emphatically, turning to the tall girl, who stood, leaning with elbow on wall scratching her tousled head, “Jo, I'm going to do it.”

“Do you have to do it right NOW?” Jo yawned. “Why at 2 o'clock in the morning?”

“Do what, honey?” Janice asked as she climbed back into bed and Jo sat on the edge.

“I'm going to take Jo's advice,” Linda said. “My mind's made up now—definitely. I've just decided. I'm a single woman and I'm going to act like one—I'm going to have fun like one!”

If Jo was not as tremendously moved by the announcement as Linda had expected, Janice was more so.

“O. K., Lin,” Jo said. “I'm really glad that you've finally seen the light....”

“I'm NOT!” It was Janice.

“I think it's terrible,” Janice said. “Don't you do it, honey! Don't you be so foolish as to let him think you're single. If I loved a man, I'd tell him everything: no half measures. I'd....”

“But Jan dear,” Jo interrupted. “You're so DIFFERENT. Lucky man that gets you—lucky you, if you get a man.”

Linda went back to her own room and slept very soundly the few remaining hours until her alarm clock jangled her into consciousness again.

Her lack of sleep showed in the tired lines about her bloodshot eyes the next morning. The look was still there at noon when she again met Mr. Avon in the little sandwich shop. After they had talked awhile, on generalities, he said:

“Linda, the old shoulder's still here. Sure you don't want to use it? You look as though you'd better confide in someone, before you become another non-paying patient for your boss....”

“You're sweet,” Linda smiled gratefully, and Mr. Avon wondered as she said it why this same lovely girl could confide in an anonymous old man but would become all stiff and awed and frightened if she knew he was really J. R. Blaine, ‘Mr. Titan Tower’, himself.

“But, really,” Linda continued, “I don't need a shoulder to cry on—not now, anyway. My problem's all solved. Do you mind if I tell you all about it?”

Mr. Avon didn't mind.

Linda told him everything. She told him about Mike and about Mickey; about Jo's formula for Linda's happiness, about the difficult dilemma it placed her in, about Janice's warning against her final decision. Linda told Mr. Avon the whole story—but she told it like a story, third person, without names.

When he had finished, Mr. Avon spoke without hesitation.

“If that course will bring her happiness, Linda, she should take it by all means. She has happiness coming to her; all she can get out of this tough old world. If she's sure she loves this young man nothing should stand in the way..

“But remember, child,” he went on, “that line about ‘it's fun to be fooled’ wasn't written about men in love. Way back—a hundred years or so ago, when I was a kid in school—I learned a poem that's stuck with me pretty well all through life. You know it:

“‘Oh, what a tangled web we weave
“‘When first we practice to deceive....’”

“Yes,” said Linda, “I know it.”

She wished she didn't know it, later that afternoon in the office, when the couplet kept running through her mind, incessantly set to the tune of a popular song. No matter how strongly she willed against it, the words kept cropping up in her mind.

The words were there when Bill Blaine telephoned. He asked if he might see her that night and Linda pleaded a prior engagement.

“Tomorrow then, Linda,” Bill had urged. “I have to stop and ask myself if I'm a doctor or a disease, the way you avoid me.”

“I won't any more, Bill,” Linda answered. “Tomorrow, then.”

Linda was in a mood several shades darker when she opened the door of her apartment, later, to find her front room in turmoil, with two tangled forms—a big one and a very small one—wrestling on the floor, impeded by a huge mass of tawny fur, which leaped in and out of the tangle.

From the middle of the rug, Steve Hubbard's face, what she could see of it, for Mickey's small arm flung across the nose and mouth, peered up at her.

As soon as he had dislodged the young strangle-hold, Steve grinned up at Linda and said:

“Howdy, stranger. Drag up a ringside seat for the champeenship match. Right now Mighty Mickey has one fall on Strong-Arm Steve. Also, meet Major, the referee. He's the panting one.”

“Hello, mother,” Mickey beamed. His face was flushed, happy. “We're fighting.”

“So I see,” Linda said, and she didn't smile.

“Must you be so rough?” she said. Major bounded up to her and tried to lick her hand. “And, PLEASE take that big dog out of here.”

When Steve was on his feet, trying futilely to smooth his rumpled hair, his grin was something to behold. When he and the dog had gone, Mickey stood there, in the middle of the rug utterly devastated, heart-broken.

“Mother,” he said, “why did you make Steve go 'way? I like him, and....”

His lower lip trembled, dangerously close to tears.

“....and dogs AREN'T bad!”

Linda gathered him to her.

“No, dear,” she said. “Mothers sometimes are....”

X X X X

That night, when Linda, Janice and Jo got together to map out the start of the courtship campaign aimed at Dr. Bill Blaine, Linda's feeling had changed. In the place of genuine self-censure, which had been so difficult to subdue before she decided upon this course, there was that tingling of intrigue's excitements.

“Hmmm,” said Jo standing back and surveying Linda through narrowed, critical eyes, hand on hips. “Lessee, not much needed in the way of makeup or costuming for the part. But as for ‘props’—ah, yes....”

Linda's gaze, sparkling interest in her eyes, followed the line of Jo's vision to the third finger of Linda's left hand. There was the beautiful combination engagement and wedding ring which Mike Morton had given her—eye-holding as an ornament but unobtrusive as a marriage symbol. At least, Bill Blaine certainly hadn't recognized it as such.

A flicker of a shadow crossed Linda's brow but didn't linger.

“Okeh,” Linda said. “They're off!”

But Janice gasped in dismay.

“Linda!” she remonstrated. “That's terrible! I'd—I'd NEVER take mine off.”

AIKENS W.M.S.

The June meeting of Aikens' Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Harley Hubble on Wednesday afternoon. The opening hymn was followed by prayer by the president, Mrs. Thomas Irwin who also gave a short paper, “Your King Needs You”.

The Scripture reading was given by Miss Ferne McMullen with a commentary by Mrs. S. Spafford.

Sixteen members answered to the roll call with a verse of Scripture on “Temperance”. Miss Ruth Spafford then gave a fine temperance reading.

The topic, “Should Canada Admit Refugees” was presented by Mrs. W. Wheeler and Mrs. E. K. Hubble. This timely subject was discussed and the secretary was requested to endorse the resolution presented by the National Committee on Refugees. One verse of a hymn was then sung.

“Excuses for not being active in work for missions met by Scripture,” an interesting playlet was given by Mrs. Fred Westover and Mrs. S. Westover.

There were readings, “Don'ts for Auxiliaries” by Mrs. H. Hubble and “Do Not Doubt” by Mrs. William Wheeler.

Mrs. Fred Moon told a story, “Our Allocation Window”. The glass in this window was “vita” or “life-giving” and was composed, Mrs. Moon said, of tiny envelopes which became life-bearing when placed under the radiance of the rays proceeding from the Cross which was at the top of the window. Some pieces of glass were more brilliant than others, the envelopes had been treated with a mixture of love, sacrifice and prayer, before being placed in the allocation window; others had become blotted with the ink of careless indifference, and no light could pass through to the women beyond, or to the soul of the one who placed them there. “Our allocation window”, as told by Mrs. Moon held the interest of the members as she went on to tell of the results that could be seen through the window of service and prayer. Prayer was offered by Mrs. (Rev.) Johnson and Mrs. H. Hubble.

During the business part of the meeting plans were made for a strawberry shortcake social to be held in the near future. A donation that had been received on Mother's Day from Irene Grills and Hazel Ash was gratefully accepted.

One verse of a hymn and benediction brought the meeting to a close.

Lunch was served and a social hour spent.

MASSASSAGA W.A.

The Ladies' Aid of Massassaga held their June meeting at Miss Hattie Broad's home. With Mrs. John Weese at the piano, Hymn 511 was sung after which Miss Alma Ackerman read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. George Flower had charge of the program. The delegates who attended the W. A. convention in Tweed on April 30 gave splendid reports from this convention. Mrs. C. Thompson gave interesting notes from the morning session. Mrs. W. Jose gave inspiring and helpful suggestions from the different speakers of the afternoon meeting.

Mrs. Korah Ackerman favored with a song very nicely. Business for the month was conducted by the president. The decorating of the interior of the church was discussed. It will likely be done in the near future. The roll call was answered by seventeen members. Collection for the afternoon amounted to $3.64.

Rawdon

RAWDON.—The home of Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Tucker was the scene of a large gathering when friends from Bethel and Salem communities gathered and tendered their daughters and their husbands each a miscellaneous shower. The large array of useful gifts which took over an hour to unwrap testified to the esteem of Laura and Irene. Rev. J. E. Beckel presided over the program and all enjoyed community singing with Miss Laurene Scott as pianist. Mrs. Bill Heath contributed a piano solo and Miss Della McMaster gave a reading. Miss Elda McMullen rendered a vocal number with guitar accompaniment. Miss Laurene Scott gave two elocution numbers. Mrs. Leslie Thompson read an address and the four newlyweds all responded and graciously thanked their friends for the lovely gifts. At the close an appetizing lunch was served. The address is as follows:

Bethel, Ont., June 5, 1939.

Dear Laura and Ray, Irene and Carleton:

We, your friends and neighbors have gathered in your home this evening to show in a small manner the high esteem in which you are held in this community.

Laura, you have always been faithful to your church and in all community activities as organist of our Bethel church and you have been faithful to the Y.P.S. and Unity Class. However we are hoping we may not lose you from our little circle and that you may give of your time and talents as generously as you have in the past.

To you, Irene, we feel a little sorrowful tonight because we know we are losing you from our community. You too have given very generously of your time as president of our Y.P.S. as organist of our Sunday school and as a faithful member of our choir and Unity Class. We are going to miss your bright smile and cheery disposition but we know our loss has been Mount Pleasant's gain and we feel sure they will appreciate you in their community as we have.

Both of you girls have helped wherever possible in the Salem community and your Salem friends are here tonight to show their appreciation.

To you, Ray and Carleton, we congratulate you on your choice of brides. They have come from a Christian home and a Christian community and we feel sure they will help you to set Christian ideals in your homes.

To you young people whom we regard so highly we offer these trivial gifts and we hope they may remind you of your friends and neighbors who have gathered in your home this evening to extend to you our best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous wedded life and may God's richest blessing rest upon you.

Signed on behalf of your Bethel and Salem friends—Anne Warren, Ollie Thompson, Ella Donald, Ella Sutherland, Vera Ketcheson, Edna McMaster.

Rain is badly needed all over the township. Meadows, gardens, growing crops all are in need of more moisture. On Friday a mud turtle was seen crawling along a lane, and it was evidently making its way to find a pond as it was several miles from the river.

Mr. John McMullen is the proud possessor of six lovely fox pups. Early in the spring the baby fox pups were found in the woods by his son. An old cat, a pet of the household, had just given birth to baby cats and these were disposed of and in their place the cat was given the pups as a substitute. The cat nursed her family to maturity and very proudly displays her active family to all sightseers. The young pups are now very fond of rabbits and chickens.

On Friday evening Glen Ross softball team was defeated at Mount Pleasant and a large number of fans were in attendance.

Several young people visited Mr. and Mrs. Carleton Potts on Thursday evening.

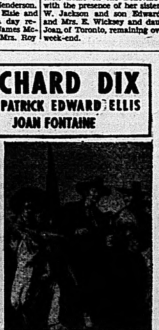
JACKSON comes to Texas and pleads with Houston to aid Texas. Houston is swayed. At the head of the motley New Orleans Grays, he marches to the Texas Constitutional Convention. For seven hours, the Convention has been unable to decide upon a Commander-in-Chief, and Houston, with Jackson's recommendation, is unanimously elected.

“DEAF” SMITH brings the news that Santa Ana is marching, three thousand strong, against the Alamo. Houston orders Smith to ride back and order William Travis (Victor Jory) to blow up the Alamo and retreat. Rather than destroy the Alamo, Travis and his followers, pretend that they had never received the order.

WITH a scant supply of ammunition and food, the handful of men under Travis take their posts to await the onslaught of the Mexican army. The odds are overwhelming, and the losses on both sides are extremely heavy, but the heroes of the Alamo hold out for eleven days. Then, on the eleventh day with all hope of success gone, the heroes gather to consider surrender as Santa Ana attacks.

HOPING against hope for reinforcements, the heroes of the Alamo face death bravely, rather than surrender to the forces of Santa Ana. For two days more, they hold out against the attackers. Then, on the thirteenth day, more than half their number dead, they make their last stand.



“DEAF” SMITH returns to Houston with the news that the defenders of the Alamo have refused to surrender. But, before Houston can muster his men and ride to the scene of the bloody massacre, the Alamo has fallen. Santa Ana begins a march of destruction that will only end when he meets Houstons army at San Jacinto.

S. L. Joss, Sec'y. of O. C. P. A. Gives Report of Impressions Received on Trip to the U. K.

States Enterprise Shown by Canadian Government in Opening up British Market for Canada's Cheese and Foodstuffs

QUALITY IMPORTANT

Some observations in connection with the Marketing of Canadian Cheese in the United Kingdom as given by Mr. Joss yesterday at Brockville:

During the past six weeks, which I spent in Great Britain, I had the privilege of interviewing officials of forty-five United Kingdom produce firms in connection with Canadian Cheddar Cheese. The firms referred to represent large importers who may also be wholesalers and grinders; wholesalers who deal only with the retail trade; multiple shop buyers; co-operative companies; brokers; grinders and a few retailers. In addition to the foregoing buyers, who are interested in our cheese because of the fact that they are buyers, I interviewed officials of the New Zealand Dairy Sales Division, the Scottish Milk Marketing Board, the National Farmers' Union, and the British Farmers' Association. I mention the last four because they are of vital importance in considering the marketing of our cheese in the United Kingdom.

In practically all of my interviews an extraordinary frankness prevailed and I think I have been fortunate in gathering data of importance which I believe should be passed on to higher authorities and probably investigated further. Because of this belief I am prompted to write this report in the hope that something of value to the cheese industry may emanate from it.

There are many angles to this subject and many factors influencing one's opinion regarding it. For instance, during the past year the buying and selling of cheese has been most discouraging from practically every angle, even retail sales in the United Kingdom during the past four months have been reported as disappointing. The opening prices this season on our country cheese boards are far below what the average person expected and unfortunately there is no reason for any great optimism regarding the immediate future. Under conditions such as these there is a tendency to condemn present methods of marketing and advocate changes without any sound reason for making such recommendations. I have considered these points very thoughtfully and my endeavour in this report will be to try and bring to the attention of the producer of milk for cheese purposes a clear picture of conditions surrounding the marketing of our cheese in the United Kingdom and the efforts being made by those concerned in this marketing to bring about improvements.

I intend to confine myself as much as possible to my interviews and set forth as nearly as I can the views expressed by the different persons I interviewed. My personal comments will not be of any great length as I prefer to let the information obtained in my interviews determine the action, if any, your Association may decide to take.

In preparing this paper I have time only for the minimum amount of detail and in order to follow the line of thought more clearly it seems necessary to commence with the sale of cheese in Canada and try to follow it through to the retail counters in the United Kingdom. This is not quite as easy as it appears on paper as there are instances where it is nearly impossible to determine whether cheese offered on the United Kingdom retail counters is Canadian or some other country's product. Some very good work is being done, however, to correct this situation through the Canada Calling Campaign. I intend to deal with this campaign at some length as I am thoroughly convinced that it is one of the most important contributions toward more profitable merchandising of our products that has yet been attempted.

I shall endeavour to cover this report under the following five headings:

1. Price.
2. Quality.
3. Availability and Continuity of Supply.
4. Price Control.
5. Canada Calling Campaign.

PRICE:

Prices of foodstuffs are relative and if this fundamental fact is overlooked we miss the principal point in considering the whole question. For instance, at the time of writing, (May 10, 1939) New Zealand cheese, three to six months old, is selling at 54/– to 55 /– per cwt (112 lbs.). Canadian 1938 make is selling at 68/– to 73/– per cwt. (112 lbs.). Australians are selling at 52/– per cwt. (112 lbs.). These are all spot prices. It will be noted that Canadians are enjoying a premium of 14/– to 18/– over the New Zealand and 16/– to 21/– over Australians. We might continue with comparisons of cheese with other foods and if data were available a study of it would disclose the fact that when a commodity gets out of line in price, consumption is either retarded or increased accordingly with a corresponding or relative decrease or increase in some other line. There are many prominent produce people who maintain that cheese consumption is definitely retarded when the retail price goes over 10d. per lb. and conversely, when the retail price is 6d. per lb. consumption is greatly stimulated.

I have drawn special attention to the premium we are receiving for our cheese over New Zealands and Australians, as many in the produce trade in Great Britain made the statement that they were finding it very difficult to maintain this high premium. To some extent this is quite correct. As to what exten it is hard to say, and would require more study.

To deal intelligently with the matter of price the subject must be considered from the initial sale of our cheese on the country boards in Canada to the retail counter in the United Kingdom. Coupled to this it is necessary to know our buyers in Canada. For instance, are they regular buyers who make their purchases on the cheese board and become the actual owners of the goods or are they brokers who never own the goods but just act as a medium between firms? It has been stated that some of these brokers are a curse to both the producer and regular buyers. To support such a statement, it has been intimated that each week after our cheese boards are over the prices are cabled to the United Kingdom by the broker buyer who, having no overhead expenses to take care of, offers to fill the requirements of the British dealers at prices barely above cost. In trying to fill orders thus received the broker will canvass the trade and if successful the effect is that the whole price structure will be brought down to the level of that particular sale. This practice has been most embarrassing to the regular buyers who are either forced to come down to market prices as established by the brokers, or hold in the hope of obtaining their price later. If the latter practice is followed a free movement of goods is retarded.

Very little is known about these broker buyers except by the trade. They never appear on our cheese boards and are not primary buyers, which exempts them from all legislation provided under the Farm Products Control Act (Ontario).

Following this line of thought further, when calling on a firm I was invariably asked, and in many instances pressed, for cable offers. I was told quite frankly that following our weekly cheese board sales many cable offers of cheese were made from Canada. Naturally, all things being equal, the interest would be shown in the lowest offer. Although no one said that with so many offers in hand one was played that this practice would be followed, and no doubt that is the reason why offers from Canada are solicited. A condition such as this most decidedly tends to depress the market and develops a buyers' market.

QUALITY:

It has been said that we are losing the good will of the British buyers for our cheese. There does not seem to be any good argument to back up such a statement. For instance, I have already pointed out that at the time of writing we are enjoying a premium of 14/– to 15/– per cwt. over New Zealand, and 16/– to 21/– over Australians. A comparison of the following prices, (furnished by the Marketing Department of the Scottish Milk Marketing Board) will be interesting:

Average prices of cheese — Board Creameries, Farmhouse, New Zealand and Canadian, per cwt.:

	1934	1935	1936	1937	1938
Board Creameries	41/7	42/9	58/7	71/–	67/2
Farmhouse	52/2	47/2	62/5	70/9	69/4
New Zealand	46/3	49/1	60/8	66/4	69/6
Canadian	52/8	60/–	66/4	73/2	75/5

It will be noted from the foregoing table that our average price was high.

"Keep your quality up and you need have no fear about retaining this market for your very fine Canadian cheese," was the comment I met in nearly all places I visited when quality was discussed. The importance of quality, therefore, cannot be overestimated, nor can it be stressed too much.

At the time of writing Junes and Septembers, 1937 make, are bringing 1/– to 1/4 per lb. retail. 1938 make is retailing at 10d. to 1/– per lb. What percentage is bringing the higher prices? Would a concentrated effect to bring the quality of our poor cheese up to that of our best, combined with a continued advertising policy such as the excellent campaign that is now being carried out by the Dominion Government increase the percentage of retail sales at the higher figures? There is not the slightest doubt but that the premium we are enjoying for our cheese exists because we come in a different different category from our competitors in so far as quality is concerned. It is, however, ridiculous to say that the price our competitors are receiving has no influence on the price we will receive, nevertheless, that price influence is materially minimized because of the excellent quality of our cheese.

The production of high class farmhouse cheddars in the United Kingdom has been greatly reduced in recent years. The production of cheese, generally, however, has not been reduced to the same extent, as the tendency is for more factory cheese and less farmhouse.

PRODUCTION OF CHEESE IN THE AREA OF THE SCOTTISH MILK MARKETING SCHEME:

(Supplied by the Scottish Milk Marketing Board, Marketing Department.)

1934 to 1938 inclusive.

	1934	1935	1936	1937	1938
	Cwts.	Cwts.	Cwts.	Cwts.	Cwts.
Farm Cheesemakers	87,500	75,200	69,900	61,800	52,600
Board Creameries (ftys)	59,400	50,100	26,200	20,800	31,500
Prop. Creameries (ftys) .	41,300	50,500	46,400	30,400	49,500
	188,200	175,800	142,500	113,000	133,600

It will be noted from the foregoing table that each year the production of farmhouse cheddars was reduced and that in 1938 there was quite a large increase in the Board Creameries and Proprietary Creameries production. This bears out the oft-repeated statement that once the producing of cheese on the farm is discontinued only a small percentage of farmers return to it. The importance of all this, from our point of view, is that our cheese, provided the quality is kept up, will take the place of this high class farmhouse cheddar. Our market here appears to be widening.

AVAILABILITY AND CONTINUITY OF SUPPLY:

I might have dealt with this section of m report under separate readings, viz., "Availability of Supply" and "Continuity of Supply", as there need not be any close relationship between these two factors. For instance, the goods can be available, yet owing to the difference of ideas between buyer and seller in regard to price, continuity of supply may not be functioning. Another example, some British buyers will not purchase matured cheese other than Junes and Septembers unless subject to their inspection. This means that if the goods are held on this side it will be necessary at times to sell them subject to buyer's inspection. On the other hand, if the goods are on spot they will be readily available for inspection. The importance of this point is that with goods available buying will be facilitated.

The fact that the buyer will not make purchases of matured goods except subject to his inspection does not reflect in any way upon our grading; in fact our grading system is held in the highest respect in Great Britain. The point is that in buying cheese three to twelve months old you are taking something that has reached a stage where its ultimate character can be definitely known. The United Kingdom buyer for different centres knows exactly what cheddar characteristics are most desirable for his customers and since these characteristics can be determined in a cheese showing maturity, and the fact that there is a difference in various cheeses, it naturally follows that he more or less insists on inspecting the goods before purchasing. The importance of this point is well known to those who have had the privilege of studying the United Kingdom market. One might say, and I believe rightly so, that if the price meets with the idea of the seller the goods will be both available and in continuous supply within the limits of our exportable surplus.

PRICE CONTROL:

No doubt there is a long story behind the attempts that have been made to control prices but so far as this report is concerned we are principally interested in the results of these attempts.

Price fixing is undoubtedly unpopular in the United Kingdom but to say definitely that it is a disastrous policy would be condemning something that many able men have pronounced as sound for their respective countries. So far, however, it seems to have been a failure as every known attempt has resulted in an accumulation of stocks which precipitated a most disastrous fall in prices and a heavy financial loss to the people it was intended to help.

There is, however, a debatable point in price control that must be considered, viz., would conditions be worse if the market were allowed to find its own level? The general opinion in the United Kingdom trade is that without restrictions such as are being attempted we would have a much healthier market with a freer movement of produce, better consumption, and in the end, just as good or a better average price. The accumulation of stocks following price fixing is, in the opinion of the average trader, a curse to good merchandising.

What is more, the British food distributor sees in such price fixing or centralized selling systems a direct threat to his own business. For reasons of self-preservation, as well as because of individualistic and trading backgrounds, the distributing trades wholeheartedly oppose such systems. Psychologically, it has proved bad policy to try and shove things down the English trade's throat. It is in too good a position to retaliate, and can usually be depended on to do so, even though its methods may be silent.

On the other hand, those who advocate price fixing claim that speculation must be reduced to the minimum and that supplies must be regulated, otherwise proper marketing is jeopardized. The law of Supply and Demand, in the opinion of the price fixing advocates, can no longer be depended upon for even distribution.

CANADA CALLING CAMPAIGN:

S. L. JOSS

Secretary-Manager of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association who addressed the Association yesterday at Brockville.

are concerned, cannot be determined in the same manner as our own market. This is a very important consideration as without a thorough understanding of this point no merchandising project could be successful. The large British importers have agents in all the principal centres in the United ingdom and one is reasonably safe in assuming that in each centre the requirements differ. To learn exactly what these requirements are takes years of study and experience. In order, however, that this point may be made clear I will enumerate some of the factors that influence merchandising methods in Canada and the United Kingdom.

It seems that the basic reason for the difference between merchandising in Canada and the United Kingdom lies in the fact that Canada supplies its own food with the exception of out of season items bought by a limited market, and fruit not grown in Canada. The United Kingdom buys four-fifths of its foods abroad.

We have no basis in Canada upon which to compare the value of food products from other countries, whereas in the United Kingdom the very fact that four-fifths of their requirements comes from abroad has developed the greatest connoisseurs of foods in the world. These comparisons of the various foods from foreign countries are the very factors that govern the entire trade.

Many devices are used in Canada to promote sales, such as vigorous selling and advertising methods. To a large extent this advertising is controlled by a few large companies and due to the influence of their campaigns in this field they fairly well dominate the methods of merchandising as practised in this country.

The trade structure in the United Kingdom is entirely different, as owing to its tremendous purchases abroad a system that is unique in itself has been developed. The supply is largely in the hands of brokers and distributors who have made their purchases through their own agents abroad. This buying is done for their own labels or brands and under specifications as to quality that suit their own specific trade.

Since the war the fight for the British market has been greatly intensified and European countries have been seeking business there on a desperate basis. From their sales they receive payment in currency, which somewhat offsets the hardships imposed on their agricultural workers due to the low prices at which they sell their produce. These countries enter into competition with Canada and appear to be selling at a loss. Only our preference as part of the Empire allows us to compete. Such competition results in lower prices for foods which is most important from the viewpoint of millions of people in the Old Country.

In Canada large companies, as previously stated, determine to a large extent the merchandising policy of the country. The selling is practically all done on a commission basis under strict supervision. In the United Kingdom selling direction is not so easy to achieve as the business is a more or less personal trade and the commission men sell the items that pay them the best.

Dividend paying co-operative societies in the United Kingdom wield a tremendous influence on trade as their business runs into hundreds of millions of pounds sterling every year. In Canada there are practically so such co-operatives.

Owing to the fact that trade in the United Kingdom originates from all over the world the packaging and marking that prevails in the country of origin carry right through to the United Kingdom and the goods are sold under such packages and markings. In Canada packages and markings are more or less standardized because most of our foods are produced at home.

Regulations attempting to standardize goods in weight, package and size, etc., are practically disregarded in the United Kingdom. The various tastes of the consumer in different districts not only makes such standardization unnecessary but also undesirable. The United Kingdom distributor is usually the one with the money invested in the goods, therefore he determines what is the best policy to follow. In Canada standardization again plays a large part in deciding this question.

One of the most important considerations in connection with this great market is, as already stated, that its requirements cannot be determined in the same manner as the Canadian market. The importance of this point requires enlarging upon.

Every large British distributor has agents in all principal centres in the United Kingdom and it is safe to say that each centre has its own peculiarities in so far as foods are concerned. To carry on efficient merchandising a thorough knowledge of these peculiarities is absolutely essential. What is meant here is that cheese will vary in size, texture, flavour, and colour, yet all be in the same grade. These variations are not a handicap but might be considered an asset due to the peculiarities of the market they are meant to supply.

The point is that to sell this market it is necessary to produce a quality acceptable to the consumer and to supply that quality consistently at competitive prices. Goods need not always be of superior quality, at least superior in our standards, if they suit the class of trade they are meant for, and kept in that class. There may be a tendency in this country to moralize too much on our idea of quality, or, in other words, we are inclined to tell our customers overseas what they want.

These few examples of the great difference in the wholesale and retail trade of the two countries will indicate the tremendous differences that govern the promotion of sales.

To offset the effect of broker price cutting, to help provide British demand for the larger cheese production which may be anticipated and desired, to maintain the premium which our product commands in the United Kingdom, and particularly in view of the fact that there are only two main markets for Canadian cheese—the domestic and the British one—the Canada Calling Campaign is of prime importance to us cheese producers. In order that you may have a better appreciation of what is being done in this connection I wil deal briefly with the campaign as conducted for the year 1938-39 and the new year 1939-40 now started.

The work commenced the first week of April, 1938 and a staff of representatives were engaged to promote co-operation between the various trades in the selling of Canadian foodstuffs.

In order to arrive at a programme all trade commissioners attended a conference in London in order to formulate a plan that would apparently best suit the different districts. From this conference it

1. Contacting the large buyers at head offices of multiple shops, co-operative societies, and principal stores and wholesalers, importers and brokers.
2. Dealing entirely with the retail trade. A staff of ten men was employed throughout the period.

The advertising plan and all the work supporting it was carried out by concentrating on specially selected areas. In order to get the best results the advertising supported individual products and concentrated on them entirely during the most seasonable sales period for each.

Before launching any consumer advertising campaign the trade is thoroughly and personally canvassed and their co-operation sought. Circular letters and advertisements in the trade papers announce the details of the advertising campaign. Window displays are arranged and store display materials distributed. This material was dispatched only on requisition from shop-keepers, but it is gratifying to know that last year literally thousands of shop-keepers put in special window and counter displays as a result of the work done by Canada Calling contact men, and tens of thousands of pieces of store display material for cheese, bacon, tomatoes, salmon, etc., were distributed. This undoubtedly indicates in a large measure the effectiveness of the work and I have here today to pass around amongst you typical samples and exhibits of advertisements, display pieces, price tags, etc. used in the campaign.

The main products to be included in the campaign are given special periods for concentrated attention. Tomatoes are first on the programme, to be followed by salmon, then cheese, and next bacon. Some advertising on other products was also done during the year, but the great amount of work was done on the four just mentioned. I understand that cheese had a very substantial amount of money spent on its promotion, only exceeded by a small sum in the case of bacon.

It might be stated, however, that apples were dealt with on an extensive scale but in a different area.

The campaign for 1939-40 will be similar to that of last year except that it will cover a larger area. Some changes will be made, however, to suit the new area to be added in the work. The general campaign of bus, billboard and newspaper advertisements is carried on over the whole area, which will include close to a hundred towns which serve as focal points for the work. Besides the general campaign, however, important population centres in the area being covered are selected for high-spot attention for a period of one week to two weeks. These Canada shops, or "special" shows follow each other one after the other.

The general campaign includes the following:

1. Canada shops during a shopping week or a fortnight.
2. Motion pictures wherever practical.
3. An educational campaign for shop assistants.
4. Window dressing contests, essay contests for children and possibly for shop assistants.

In the Canada shops large envelopes are usually distributed containing recipes, illustrated booklets on Canadian travel, and any booklet that might be contributed by a Canadian mnufacturer, etc.

I have particularly stressed the peculiarities of the United Kingdom market and the important part these peculiarities play in the merchandising of goods in that market. In connection with this point it might be well to define the three thickly populated areas of the British Isles and say a few words in connection with each.

1. London and Greater London, comprising the South.
2. The North, comprising Lancashire and the West riding of Yorkshire.
3. The Lowlands of Scotland ,including Greater Glasgow and Edinburgh, the north east coast having Newcastle-upon-Tyne as the central city.

When comparing these areas there are many conditions that should be understood, as these very conditions have a tremendous influence on the lives and characteristics of the people and in a large measure they are the predominating factor in determining tastes, etc., in foods. In London, which is the nerve centre for the whole country, the people are very cosmopolitan and practically every class of occupation is found within its walls.

The North, which can be considered as the other two areas, is practically all industrial, including cotton manufacturing, coal mining, woollen manufacturing, iron smelting, ship building, and heavy industries. The very nature of this work calls for foods of a high class, yet the spending power of these people is below that of those in the South. The result of such a condition is that less money is spent by the Northern people on amusement and, strange as it may seem, they are supplied with the high class foods at a price below what they are sold at in the South. This last point bears out the fact that in the United Kingdom prices for goods of the same quality are not standardized but are sold in a large way according to what the locality will pay, and in many instances according to the class of store retailing.

The cheese campaign from Sept. 1 to Oct. 21, 1938 was probably the most successful of any of the Canadian products campaign so far. This was probably due to the good reputation our cheese enjoys on the United Kingdom market and the exceptional co-operation rendered by the trade during the drive.

It was decided that the plan should constitute a wide distribution of messages extolling the merits of Canadian Cheddar Cheese. To do this over 115 weekly newspapers in London and Greater London, together with three London leading dailies carried over 39,000,000 messages. The campaign ran for seven weeks.

In addition to the above, window displays, special store advertising material, show card work and outdoor displays on buses, etc., were used extensively.

The whole programme is of the most practical character, uses [illegible] the best tactics of modern business and more than previously has [illegible] listed the co-operation of the whole distributing trade.

Practically all provision people interested in cheese in the area participated in this drive and large combines with hundreds of stores scattered throughout the area use the window display material, etc., by dressing their windows and featuring a "Sell More Canadian Cheese" period.

A great deal more might be written in connection with this work but from the cheese producers' point of view it seems that they should lend every assistance they can in order to see that the work is continued and probably extended, because an aggressive advertising and promotional campaign such as that carried on by the Department of Trade and Commerce can perhaps do more than anything else to meet our problems of price premium and increased sales in Great Britain.

SUMMARY:

A very brief summary of this report might be incorporated in a few comments.

1. Although the marketing system you are following may not be perfect, it would appear the most efficient at the present time because:
   (a) you are extracting as much money from the British market under this system as it appears possible to obtain in relation to the prices of other commodities;
   (b) you are paid for your goods at time of sale, relieving you of the financial risk that might be involved in the holding of cheese for maturity.
2. I would urge you to pass a resolution to-day, approving of the advertising campaign that is being carried out by the Dominion Government in the United Kingdom and forward same to the Minister of Trade and Commerce, requesting that this work be continued.
3. I would also suggest that our Federal and Provincial Governments be approached regarding advertising of cheese on the

Desert Bred

By E. P. O'BRYAN

You would have thought, to hear Pop Travis talk, that by merely looking at a young animal he could tell within the fraction of a second, or thereabouts, just how fast it would run a couple of years hence.

He told me of his ambitions, of his imperishable hopes, and how they finally had to come to rest in that long slender body that was Starlight's.

"I took Desert Lady and bred her to imperishable hopes, and how they figured it was a good combination. Desert Lady was fast in her time—but light. She couldn't carry any weight to speak of. And Thistledown was too heavy. One of the fastest desert horses ever on a track, but he carried too much flesh to compete with the best."

"Listen, Pop," I said. "You can't win on these modern tracks with desert horses. You're getting too old to go on fooling around with these jack-rabbits. Why don't you get wise to yourself and spend a few thousand for some decent blue-grass stock? If you're going to stay in the game, go into it right. I've known you for nearly twenty years and you're always messed around with desert stock. Sort of a second money winner—when you do win. Why, come to think of it, you've never owned a horse that took first money—have you?"

Pop shook his head.

I paid twelve thousand for Bellshire. He was a grand horse. I had counted on him to win the Derby. In fact, I was so sure of it I had laid my last dollar on his nose.

At post time I was as nervous as a mouse in a den of cats. You get that way when you're shooting high. The horse we had to beat, as everyone knew, was Gray Shoes. She was plenty fast.

Then suddenly, we heard the stroke of hoofs against the dirt and they were off.

For a moment I couldn't identify Bellshire in that unbroken line. The important thing was that he was off with the rest.

Suddenly the voice of the crowd lifted.

"Bellshire! Bellshire!"

I saw then what had happened. Bellshire and Gray Shoes had taken the lead, with Bellshire pulling slowly away from her, his powerful thrust carrying him forward rapidly, so that Gray Shoes' neck, which at first had been obscured by the stallion's hind quarters, seemed to lengthen gradually.

By the time Bellshire was leading into the first turn the others were strung out behind him like a train of box cars. Only Gray Shoes seemed to be giving him any competition. This was as it should be. It was in the cards for Bellshire to win.

But suddenly my heart missed a beat, for something was looming up like a house on fire. It was another horse coming out of the dust—and coming wide. The shape took form so quickly that it sort of took your breath away. Was it Gray Shoes? No—now that it popped out of the dust is turned black…blacker than the ace of spades.

"St. Arlight!" The crowd cried it in a single voice. St. Arlight, a long shot—a very long shot indeed—moving up to give my Bellshire competition.

The crowd went crazy—bughouse. Men threw their hats in the air and started yelling warhoops. The women, too.

Then out of the corner of my eye I saw Pop Travis going berserk. St. Arlight? Starlight! All he had done was give that desert jack-rabbit a fancy title. He'd just used a period between the "t" and "a" in Starlight. And I hadn't guessed. In a couple of years one does forget things.

The desert seemed to breathe power into those driving pistons. He came on like an evil wind. His muscles rippled as his hoofs rapped out a challenge to the swift. Stamina gleamed beneath that black coat.

Bellshire took one sidewise look at this black menace and slipped into high gear. They came down the home stretch together, cheek to jowl, wither to wither, their nostrils cups of living flame.

I think that as long as I live I shall never see another race like that one. They were as nearly matched, these two, as twin hurricanes blowing out of the Caribbean. Though half a century or so of royal breeding lay back of him, Bellshire could no more shake off that black wind than he could fly, and they thundered under the wire thirty thousand people leaped to their feet and thirty thousand throats screamed as one.

St. Arlight by a nose!

When Pop found me, the old coot had real tears in his laughing eyes. "It's all right," he said, his voice quaking with deep emotion. "It's just that the desert breed had to win sooner or later and I'm plumb sorry, son, I had to beat one o' your plugs."

Pop is with me now. He owns half my string.

WELL, HOW DO THEY LOOK?
VERY NICE, BUT WHAT MADE YOU PLANT THE GERANIUMS THERE?
IF YOU HAD PUT THE GERANIUMS WHERE THE PETUNIAS ARE, AND THE SALVIA A LITTLE OVER THIS WAY—
THEN THE PETUNIAS COULD HAVE GONE WHERE YOU'VE PUT THE PINKS, DON'T YOU SEE?
YEP, I SEE
AND I ALSO SEE THAT NO MAN EVER SUCCEEDED IN PLANTING FLOWERS TO SUIT HIS WIFE!

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from J. S. McKeown or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

domestic market and that this Association, in order to show its approval of the work, should contribute financially toward this campaign.

RESOLUTIONS

Following Mr. Joss' report, two resolutions were introduced and passed, which read as follows:

Moved by H. L. Montgomery, Prince Edward County,

Seconded by C. W. Fraleigh, Prince Edward County,

That, recognizing the importance of the Canada Calling Campaign to the Cheese Producers of this Province, the delegates here assembled, who represent every cheese producing County in Ontario, wish to express to the Department of Trade and Commerce their whole-hearted approval of this effort to bring before the United Kingdom consumer the fine quality of our Canadian cheese.

And further, we would urge upon the Department of Trade and Commerce to continue this work and, if possible, extend it.

Moved by J. E. Miller, Lennox and Addington County,

Seconded by H. S. Kennedy, Carleton County,

In view of the low per capita consumption of cheese in Canada as compared to many other countries and the fact that our Ontario cheese is second to none in quality, also considering the high food value of cheese, we, the delegates of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association here assembled respectfully urge that the Dominion and Ontario Governments give their most earnest consideration to a domestic advertising campaign in an effort to promote consumption of cheese.

Further, we believe that such an effort would result in benefits not only to the Cheese Industry but to the entire Dairy Industry, as surplus milk would be more adequately taken care of through increased cheese consumption.

We would respectfully request that this matter be taken up at an early date and that the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association share some of the expense of an advertising campaign.

Czech Bata Shoe Company's Canadian Manufacturing Plant May Locate About Frankford

Negotiations for Acquisition of Buildings in Frankford Reported Under Way—Options Taken on 1500 Acres Largely of 'Forest' or Wood Lands Between Frankford and Glen Miller on West Side of Trent River by Representatives of Famous Bata Shoe Company of Former Czecho-Slovakia, it is Stated

MACHINERY SAID TO BE NOW IN CANADA

Only Impediment, it is Said, to Immediate Construction of Huge Industry, Lies in Federal Immigration Laws Regarding Large Number of Technicians Who Would be Necessary for Operation of the Plant—Five-Year Plan of Building is Possible—Firm, it is Reported, Has Its Own Capital—Advantages to Farmers for Hides, Farm Products, and to Municipalities in Employment Are Foreseen

If certain Federal Government immigration barriers can be successfully hurdled, what is said to be a two-million dollar shoe-manufacturing plant, first Canadian subsidiary of the famous Bata Shoe Manufacturing Company of Czecho-Slovakia, will undergo construction near the village of Frankford, Ontario, in the immediate future, according to an announcement made yesterday from a highly reliable and authoritative source.

Negotiations for the acquisition of important buildings in the village of Frankford have been successfully closed. Options for the purchase of approximately fifteen hundred acres of land ,parts of several farms in the vicinity of Frankford and Glen Miller, have been taken up by representatives of the Czecho-Slovakian firm now in Canada, the announcement revealed.

Machinery worth thousands of dollars is already in Canada awaiting installation in the company's new plant, wherever it is erected.

Large Industry Foreseen

The only impediment to the immediate construction of the huge plant, that will in itself be the centre of a self-contained community, are certain immigration laws that forbid the entry into Canada of a large number of world famous Czech technicians, experts and keymen vitally necessary to the construction and operation of the new plant.

The magnitude and immeasurable benefits to be obtained by this district, city and county from a project of this nature have not been lost upon officials, municipal and

County and City Councils Endorse Resolution

Following a brief address by Mr. MacLean Haig, president of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, the Hastings County Council in session in Shire Hall yesterday, passed a motion endorsing a resolution sent to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the Minister of Immigration and Charles A. Cameron, M.P., for Hastings South, urging that certain immigration laws be reconstructed so that certain Czecho-Slovakian employees of the Bata Shoe Manufacturing Company of Czecho-Slovakia, be permitted to enter Canada.

The Czechs referred to, are experts and technicians of the Bata Shoe Company, world famous Czech shoe manufacturers, who, it is reported, are planning to erect a large plant near Frankford, Ont.

Mr. Haig was accompanied by representatives of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce.

City Council Endorses Move

City Council in committee last evening passed a resolution which will be forwarded the Dominion Government at Ottawa expressing full endorsation of any move by the government to select emigrants of desirable type for the purpose of settling them at gainful occupations in this or other districts.

Fog and haze! There are times when one can not tell by ordinary observation whether fog or haze describe the condition of the atmosphere. Instrumental readings may, however, serve as a guide. If the humidity is high, it is probable that fog (actual water drops) predominate; but if the humidity is low, then the obscurity is due to dust, and "haze" properly describes the condition. In either case poor visibility is due to suspended particles in the air—water droplets, or solid matter such as dust, salt crystals, decayed plant fragments, etc. A fog is called a "wet fog" when water is freely deposited upon all exposed surfaces.

Provincial Premiers Struck by Note Of National Unity During King's Visit

By The Canadian Press

Canada's swelling cheers that followed the King and Queen across the country and back struck to at least some government leaders the high note of national unity. They heard the cheers as a unified chorus from a nation, rather than nine provinces.

The Canadian Press asked Canada's provincial premiers what the royal visit had meant to the Dominion and to Canadians.

"The royal visit has awakened the national spirit of Canada," said Premier William Aberhart of Alberta, the first to write his impression, making the point that was taken up across the country.

Receives a Stimulus

Premier Thane A. Campbell of Prince Edward Island said: "Canada's unity should receive a great stimulus from the fact that every province has shared in the reception of our common King and Queen."

Manitoba's Premier, John Bracken, wrote at Ottawa where he is conferring with federal authorities: "Nothing in our history has so absorbed and unified the nation's thinking as the visit of our King and Queen."

Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan added: "The visit has demonstrated that, despite sectional differences, there is an essential spirit of unity existent throughout the entire Dominion and that Canada has proceeded much further along the road toward nationhood than most of us had appreciated."

Dealt With Both Subjects

The statements were an answer to pre-visit declarations in some quarters questioning Canada's closeness to the empire and the Dominion's ability to withstand internal sectional differences.

JAPAN'S TERMS AGAINST BRITISH VERY EXACTING

Unconditional Surrender on All Issues Involved at Tientsin Demanded

MAY INVOKE SANCTIONS

Tokyo Spokesman Says Situation Beyond Question of Holding Four Chinese

Tokyo, June 16—(AP)—Japan's terms for settlement of the Tientsin controversy are unconditional surrender by Great Britain on all issues involved, authoritative sources indicated today.

North China army authorities who are handling the case already have decided upon this stand, informants agreed. The Tientsin officials are acting more or less independently of the Tokyo government, and Lieut.-General Seishiro Itagaki, War Minister, summoned four of his cabinet colleagues (the Premier, navy, foreign and finance ministers) to be advised of the Tientsin decision.

Rumor French Sub. Missing With 60 Men Since Diving

Paris, June 16 (AP)—Rumors circulated in Paris today despite lack of official confirmation that the French submarine Phenix with 60 men aboard had dived off Saigon, French Indo-China, and had not emerged after 30 hours.

Both the navy and colonial ministries declared they had no information whatever and considered the reports "extremely doubtful".

Saigon, French Indo-China, June 16—(CP-Havas)—The French submarine Phenix was missing today off the Indo-China coast with 60 men aboard.

French naval authorities disclosed that the Phenix had been unheard from since it went down in a dive 30 hours ago.

The Phenix is a nine-year old

NORMA TALMADGE SEEKS DIVORCE

Obstacle of Distance May Separate Actress and George Jessel

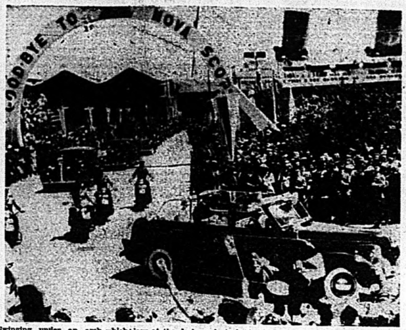
Hollywood, June 16—(AP)—The 3,000 miles which separate Hollywood and New York—an obstacle encountered before in theatrical marriages—cropped up today to push apart Norma Talmadge and George Jessel.

"It is definite that there will be a divorce," said Miss Talmadge, glamorous star of the silent screen.

Jessel, stage and radio favorite, flew in from the east last night. He planned to see his wife today, but she told friends there was no likelihood of a reconciliation. They were married in 1934.

"George's business has been largely in New York" Miss Talmadge declared. "My interests have been here, so it is better that we separate."

NOVA SCOTIA BIDS MONARCH HAIL AND FAREWELL



Swinging under an arch which conveys Scotia's greeting—and farewell—and with the Empress of Britain forming a background as it lays at the dock ready to begin the return voyage to England, the royal car bears the King and Queen through the streets of Halifax, N.S., to the tumultuous acclaim of the Maratimes. This parade of triumph was the last opportunity Canadians had to cheer their Monarchs in person.

2 HANDING FOOD INTO SETTLEMENT WERE SHOT DEAD

Japanese Guards Blockading Foreign Area Are Named as Slayers

TENSION LESSENS

Tientsin, June 16—(AP)— Two Chinese handing food into the British concession were reported shot dead today by Japanese guards blockading the foreign area to press demands for full British "co-operation" in China.

The informant who reported the incident said the Chinese were caught as they handed up a basket of vegetables.

There was some lessening of tension despite this first report of fatalities since the Japanese established their guard about the British and French concessions Wednesday morning. The Japanese, however, continued to search persons entering or leaving the concessions.

New demands advanced by the Japanese emphasized that the dispute—originally over the refuge given four Chinese wanted by the Japanese—was becoming one involving Britain's policy in China, perhaps the future of international trade in the Orient, and a test of prestige between Britain and Japan.

Considerable food was brought into the concessions last night, most of it going to the French markets since the Chinese apparently were avoiding too close association with the British concession.

Some quarters expressed concern over possible developments tomor-

President and Mrs. Roosevelt Express "Extreme Pleasure" Of Visit and Bid Farewell

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Aboard R.M.S. Empress of Britain, June 16—(CP)— Farewell wishes coupled with an expression of the "extreme pleasure" with which the royal visit was received in the United States were sent to King George and Queen Elizabeth by President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The contents of the message were disclosed today by the King's attendants.

Message Received

The message, sent to the King and Queen on their departure from Halifax last evening, said: (110)

"I cannot allow you and the Queen to sail for home without expressing once more the extreme pleasure which your all too brief visit to the United States gave us. The warmth of the welcome accorded you everywhere you visited in this country was the spontaneous outpouring of Americans, who were deeply touched by the tact and graciousness and understanding hearts of our guests.

"I shall always like to think that you felt the sincerity of this manifestation of the friendship of the American people.

"Mrs. Roosevelt joins me in parting felicitations to Your Majesties and best wishes for a safe and pleasant voyage."

24 Knot Speed

The royal yacht was plowing along at 24 knots after being held up slightly by misty patches earlier in the morning. The big liner and her destroyer escorts slowed down a few knots on short stretches of fog for fear of encountering small fishing vessels, many of which travel along the route to and from the fishing banks.

At her present speed it was estimated the Britain with her royal passengers would reach Conception Bay at 8 p.m. E.D.T.

Great Britain to Resist Efforts to Establish "New Order" in China

London, June 16—(CP)— The government today made known its intention to resist actively any Japanese attempt to force Great Britain to cooperate with Nipponese efforts to establish a "new order" in China.

The foreign office took the unusual step of issuing a communique to express concern over statements by Japanese spokesmen that Japan demanded "that the British authorities cooperate with the Japanese in the construction of a 'new order' in the east."

The communique said:

"British circles can not but take a most serious view of the further demands which have been made and which raise the widest issues affecting the rights of all those powers which have treaty rights in China.

"They would mean the abandonment under threats of force of the policy which His Majesty's government have followed in the past, which is the same as that of other great powers with interests in the Far East."

"It is still hoped that the Japanese authorities may not maintain their refusal to give further consideration to the proposals which have been made to localize the (Tientsin) incident.

A Farewell To Their Majesties

HALIFAX, June 16 (CP)—After a month of relaying the doings of the King and Queen in Canada to Canadians from coast to coast, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation last night said farewell to their Majesties.

The CBC presented Duncan Campbell Scott's poem, "A Farewell to Their Majesties" as its "good-bye" gesture. The poem, written especially for the occasion and read from the Halifax studios as the ship bearing their Majesties sailed out of the harbor, was as follows:

"From coast to coast your people with elation
Have given you gladly all their loyal praise;
At last fades out the welcome of a nation,
And into story pass these noble days.

"Take from our hearts these faithful words in parting,
When from our shore the lordly ship goes free,
While the last, swift Canadian gulls are darting,
And the long harbour opens to the sea.

"May many a lovely memory never perish,
Scenes of our glorious country; far above
All the land's peerless beauty may you cherish
The crowning glory of a people's love.

"While the King reigns from ocean to ocean,
Under the wide, serene Canadian sky,
We whom you leave in ageless, deep devotion,
Can never to our Sovereign say good-bye.

"Master of life whose power is never sleeping
In the dark void or in the hearts of men,
Hold them, our King and Queen, safe in Thy keeping
And bring them to their western realm again.

"And for their Canada be watchful ever,
Grant us this boon if there be one alone,
To do our part in high and pure endeavour
To build a peaceful Empire 'round the throne."

Caves, Under the Mendip Hills, Yield Secrets of 2,000 Years Ago

Yoevil, Somerset, England, June 16—(CP)—Wookey Hole Caves, penetrating 500 feet under the Mendip Hills and only two miles from the cathedral city of Wells, have yielded secrets of Britain of 2,000 years ago.

Repository of relics of tribes who lived there from 250 B.C. to 450 A.D. the caves have been recently combed and workmen have found pottery, implements of iron and antlers, Roman coins and dress ornaments, many of exquisite workmanship.

Among the most interesting were a late Celtic vase of black pottery, finely decorated, a bronze brooch, free from corrosion and in such a state of preservation that the hinge of the pin was free and the point sharp .

Wookey also is a home of legends. Staring over the green waters of the River Axe in the first of the vast chambers of the caves is to be seen the face of the witch of Wookey, who, says the local story, was turned into stone for her sins by a Glastonbury priest.

JOY, REGRET MINGLED

Scenes at Halifax Harbor Climax to Month's Tour—King and Queen Wave Farewells from Captain's Bridge of Royal Ship

In Nova Scotia, the theme of the address he delivered over an empire radio hookup through the facilities of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation was of thanks for the fine reception accorded himself and his Queen, and of "comfort" for the way North American nations live together in peace. He considered them an example to the world.

The Queen, who like the King delivered a part of her speech in French, talked particularly to the women and children of Canada. She was glad she had seen so many, delighted that they liked her and the King.

King, Queen Speak at Luncheon

The royal couple spoke at a luncheon tendered them by the government of Nova Scotia. Before it had come a tumultuous reception by 150,000 persons crowded into a city of a normal population of 70,000. After it followed the same deafening acclaim as they drove through packed streets along the remainder of a 10-mile route.

The hours in the capital of "New Scotland" were packed. Besides the luncheon drive, the royal visitors were welcomed at the province building, by the government of Nova Scotia, and outside city hall by the government. They went on a tour of the streets, with stops at hospitals and they stopped to patronize a pageant in their honor depicting the ceding of Nova Scotia to Sir William Alexander by Charles I, an ancestor of the King.

KREMLIN REVIEWS NEW PROPOSALS

Soviet Officials State Anglo-French Proposals "Not Entirely Satisfactory"

Moscow, June 16—(AP)— While the newest Anglo-French proposals for a mutual assistance pact with Russia were being weighed today in the Kremlin balance, official Soviet quarters characterized them as "not entirely satisfactory."

This reaction came a few hours after the British and French Ambassadors, Sir Willia mSeeds and Paul-Emile Naggiar, and a special envoy of the British foreign office, William Strang, had placed the new plan before Foreign Commissar Molotoff.

For the moment the phrase, "not entirely satisfactory," was the only thing to indicate the prospects of agreement or disagreement in the long-drawn negotiations.

In British quarters last night it was intimated further conversations would take place soon.

"G'wan—cut it out—I'm busy." growled Paton.

Meekly, the bad man picked up his gun—and walked out.

His condition was reported as "very serious" this morning by Dr. J. J. Robertson, attending physician.

As Millions Listen Their Majesties Depart

In myriads of homes in metropolitan and provincial cities, in towns, villages and hamlets, in the broad countryside and on the inland waters and on the ocean, men, women and children heard the farewell to the King and Queen last evening. On the Atlantic and Pacific and the entire continent between was heard the parting by broadcast. The climax of the Royal visit came with the departure and a whole Dominion was there at Halifax, represented by the crowds, by their Prime Minister and the Governor-General and officials, the press and the C. B. C. Modern invention has contributed to make King George's visit the greatest of Canadian events, because it was brought to all people through telegraphic news stories which filled the Canadian newspapers, through phonephoto pictures brought by wire from the places where their Majesties were feted and through word pictures painted by commentators of the Broadcasting Corporation. Never was there so great a coordination of events and science to bring the full import of the visit to Canadians, as well as to peoples of other lands.

For two and a half hours early last evening, those who were not in Halifax were in their homes or in their cars with radio listening to the scenes of the Royal departure. It was a vivid picture of the excitement and thrill of the Royal scene being enacted as the picture story with the associated sounds of singing crowds, cheering crowds, moving crowds, and the deep booming of whistles of all sorts of large craft in the great harbor of Halifax, came into almost every home.

Dinners were late last night, streets were almost deserted, it was the fireside that was appealing for coming in were the sounds of the greatest parting in Canadian history. From five o'clock the people listened and it was only when the C.B.C. closed its broadcast and the King's ship had sailed into the brilliance of a June sunset bound for the ocean, when the last sounds were heard from shore as of the choir of six hundred voices singing on the pier, "Will Ye No Come Back Again?" The rest was silence. Far out to sea was steaming the white glistening Royal yacht, the Empress of Britain, which after the stop at Newfoundland Saturday will then head straight for the King's home port.

But before silence came upon the radio broadcast, there had been enacted a drama in the mind's eye not soon forgotten, the picture by words of the waiting crowd, the arrival of the King and Queen, their greeting by the veterans, their passage upon ship, the surge of the crowd, athrill, anxious to see the King and Queen, shouting, singing "Auld Lang Syne", "Tipperary", and war songs, the departure of visitors from the ship, the deep whistle of the Empress of Britain, calling the tugs, the hauling in of the hawsers, the tugging and pushing of the tugs, the appearance of their Majesties high on the Royal ship's bridge, the waving of hands, while the tens of thousands of cheering voices were heard, the descriptions of harbor and of sky and the scene about the port with every coign of vantage occupied, the announcement of the ship's departure, and the continued cheers, the fleet's movement up the channel while the steamboats and tugs whistled, the turning of the great Royal yacht and return which brought the cortege of ships before the tens of thousands of subjects of their Majesties still cheering, the broadcasting from one of his Majesty's Canadian destroyers, a picture painted in Titianlike colors in words, the sounds of pipe bands and Highland music, the singing of a choir and of "God Save the King" by the crowd, and sped on her way led by the Canadian destroyers and followed by the British destroyers Southampton and Glasgow. The announcer came on the radio and the scene closed.

125 Rochesterites Enjoy Day's Recreation in City

Many Golf While Others Go Fishing or Tour Through the District

LEAVE AT 3 P.M.

One hundred and twenty-five ambassadors of good will and international neighborliness, members of the Rochester, New York, Yacht Club, are visitors of the city and district today, enjoying the warm hospitality for which Belleville has long been noted.

The visitors arrived in the city at the government dock this morning on their second annual excursion in the large specially chartered steamship, Kingston, at seven o'clock and were met shortly afterward by representatives of the city, including the Belleville Chamber of Commerce and service clubs. Formal welcome was extended by President MacLean Haig of the Belleville Chamber, by Past President Jack McIntosh and other leading citizens, and the freedom of the city was expressed. The visitors were piped a welcome upon arrival by Piper Jamie Clarke of the former Kilties band, and well known to the Rochester men from last year's excursion.

Automobiles donated by local residents carried the various members of the excursion to points of interest through the district. Many of them took the opportunity to visit the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Plant at Corbyville where they will be conducted through the workings by special guides. Others will spend the greater part of the day on the links of the Bay of Quinte Country Club, while still others will just generally visit the district and fish in well known and advertised waters of the Bay of Quinte and lakes through the north.

Smiles and hearty handshakes characterised the meeting of the Rochester men with those of Belleville this morning, and many friendships gained during the visit last year were renewed today. Familiar greetings were shouted from ship to dock and from dock to ship as the large boat warped to her berth.

Leaving Charlotte at eight last evening the passengers enjoyed an extremely pleasurable trip across the lake and up the Bay of Quinte channels. The boat is due to leave again shortly after three o'clock this afternoon, or when the last few passengers have arrived at the end of a busy and interesting day.

Staff and Students of O. S. D. Show Appreciation of Interest And Support of Community

Open House at This Institution Attended by Large Number from This City

WORK EXHIBITED

Students Perform Dances and Two Rhythm Bands Provide Musical Program

No warmer welcome is extended visitors than that which awaits guests at the Ontario School for the Deaf when staff and students unite in showing appreciation of the interest and support of the community. The Belleville public takes the place of admiring parents when the children of the school present concerts and for this reason attendance at such events is of special significance. And the Belleville public never fails the scholars. Last evening, in spite of the threatening rain, there was a fine representation at the annual Open House program which formally closed the year's events to which the public is invited. This afternoon's presentation of prizes completed the season's program.

Appreciate Interest.

The appreciation of staff and students for the response to the school's invitation to be present last evening was expressed by the superintendent, W. J. Morrison, B.A., B.Paed., at the opening of the stage presentation. The citizens of Belleville were very gracious in coming year after year to these events, he said, and providing an audience for the children, whose own parents could not be present to admire and applaud their efforts. There are three hundred and two children registered at the school and by Wednesday every one will be with their family. With this brief introduction by Mr. Morrison who also commented on the various activities of the vocational department, the program began, taking the form of a series of dances arranged by Miss Helen Keeler who instructs the children in this activity, and selections by the rhythm band in charge of Mr. Alec Gordon who played the splendid musical accompaniment for the evening.

Tiny girls as rosebuds in "baby" dances opened the program and were joined by little boys as sprites who proved as fascinating as their feminine partners. A great variety of dances was presented including a stately minuet, folk dancing with peasant costumes in colorful array, the interesting pickadillo, Highland dances and tap numbers. As the graceful dancers executed the various routines, the audience quite forgot the amazing part of the exhibition, that these children who captured the spirit and rhythm of the Scottish dancing and the zestful swing of the tap, were for the most part totally deaf, depending on the floor vibrations to keep them in step. A Carpathian dance by the boys, classic dancing beautifully done, Pavanne and a gay gypsy dance were included in the performance.

Rhythm Bands.

Two rhythm bands added to the interest of the program. The first was composed of junior boys and girls, while the second was a much larger group of intermediate students and both played their numbers flawlessly reflecting much credit on their instructor. Among the children appearing on the stage last evening were two especially interesting, a tiny Ukrainian girl and a boy whose parents were Czecho-Slovakian.

Following the program the visitors were invited to inspect the display of pupils' work from the vocational classes. In the auditorium was assembled work of the manual training department of which Mr. Carson Stratton is instructor. This course is taken by all intermediate boys and their handiwork was splendid. Other displays included the shoe shop exhibit (Mr. Thomas Truman, instructor) which showed how boys can learn this craft within the school walls. They gain practical experience by doing the shoe repair work for the school, and also complete new shoes. One boy in this department will, upon graduation, take a position in his father's shoe repairing shop. Under the guidance of Mr. Thomas O'Hara, boys receive a thorough training in carpentry and are able to make repairs about the school as well as fashion various useful articles. Exhibits of part of the year's achievements in wood working and upholstery showed the remarkable skill of the young workers under Mr. Harold Vaughan. Mr. Elgin Munday, instructor in agriculture, had arranged a very interesting display of what the boys are taught in the winter months, such as rope making with the aid of a rope machine, leather articles and utensils made of old tin cans.

School Year Book.

From the courses in printing, in charge of Mr. Lea Morrison, there was exhibited the "Canadian", the school's monthly publication, samples of the linotyping, hand composition and press work in programs, calendars, announcements of all kinds which are used in the school. Arousing much admiration was the first appearance of the school year book, "The Quinte Outlook" which was compiled under the direction of Mr. F. Cunningham and printed at the school. The gold and blue cover was designed by one of the students and the volume was dedicated with affection to Miss Catherine Ford by the graduating class of 1939. The new report card to be used at the school which will record on one card the student's progress during his or her entire career at O.S.D. attracted much attention.

Vocational work for the girls includes the study of foods and home-making under Miss Katharine Daly, where girls from 11 to 15 years of age are taught the fundamentals of home-making, and the seniors follow a more intensive course. The visitors inspected the household science room and one of the very practical exhibits was there of various cuts of meat, designed from plaster of paris and realistically painted. A very complete course in beauty parlour work is taught by Mrs. M. Gilbert and last night found the students in action finger waving, marcelling and manicuring with all the ease of professionals.

Sewing Exhibit.

The sewing room presented a very charming appearance with spring flowers vieing with the pretty shades of the dresses shown. Miss Mildred Leacock is in charge of the intermediate work by girls from 12 to 16 and the array of articles completed, rugs, dresses, pajamas, sweaters, embroidery and pretty aprons astonished the visitors. School middies, dresses, a wool suit, most of the articles for the girls' own use were displayed by the senior classes of which Miss Hilda Waite is instructress. The visitors showed much interest in the weaving done by the girls on the Guildcraft small speed looms, which will be gone into more fully next year.

Upstairs was found the exhibits of the art department, in charge of Miss Mabel Cass. Basketry, undertaken for the first time this term, was very well done. There was a demonstration of stencilling in progress and the whole room contained all kinds of fascinating objects over which the guests lingered. The class is interested in puppet making and next year intends having a puppet show of the Pied Piper of Hamelin. One wall was devoted to a collection of original compositions by Miss Velma Francom, memory drawings of scenes about her home which show unusual talent.

Exhibit at C.N.E.

From the vocational department at the school will go articles for an O.S.D. display at the Canadian National Exhibition this year, the purpose of which is to better acquaint the people of Ontario and Canada with the vocations in which the deaf are skilled. Besides the work illustrated last evening, cleaning and pressing, business practice, baking, barbering and home nursing are other vocations taught at the school for which no exhibits were arranged.

Yesterday afternoon the classroom work was open for inspection and among those who visited the school were the pupils of grades nine and ten of St. Michael's Academy with their teachers.

Salvation Army Officials Express Appreciation for The Help Received

Donations to the Salvation Army Building Campaign Fund to be used for the erection of a new citadel here are still acceptable and can be forwarded to Mr. Morley P. Duff, general chairman or Major H. S. Alderman. Those people desirous of contributing to this worthy cause, or those who care to make payments of promised donations can do so through the medium of the chairman.

It is believed that when the amounts pledged reach the general committee the objective aimed at by the local corps will be complete. While six thousand dollars was the original amount to be collected, the committee decided in view of general conditions to aim at a 1939 objective of three thousand dollars. The splendid response to date of the public is believed to have made this possible.

However, next year, if general business and other conditions improve, it is felt by the committee that if opportune, it will launch another campaign that will bring the fund to the amount required.

Appreciation of the fine response of the general public to the appeal of the Salvation Army was voiced today by officials. "It has been gratifying to know that the people of this city and district stand behind a cause that without doubt is a very worthy one."

Equalized Assessment Opposed by Napanee

Napanee, Ont., June 16—(CP)—Lennox and Addington County Council will vote today on a by-law ratifying the 1940 equalized assessment for the municipalities, but Napanee representatives are expected to oppose it.

The committee on equalization reported to council today. It recommended that Napanee's assessment be substantially increased.

The equalization court last January increased Napanee's assessment for the 1939 levy by $770,000. The town instituted proceedings to appeal the increase, but at the instance of the department of municipal affairs the increase was reduced to $430,000 and accepted by the town.

The report to council yesterday recommended equalization on practically the same basis as that objected to by Napanee in January.

Thrilling Feat Duplicated by Local Swimmer

Although Catain Eddie Mabey, a native of Penetang and self-styled provider of thrilling feats for the entertainment of crowds, staged his "leap for life" from atop a 35 foot ladder at Victoria Park into the Belleville harbor last evening, his efforts were dampened in more ways than one when a teen-aged lad, who said his name was Willie Doughney, promptly climbed to the top of the ladder and duplicated Mabey's feat with apparent ease last evening.

A large gallery of thrill-seekers were on hand at Victoria Park last night to see Captain Mabey stage his "leap for life" off a towering ladder into the flaming waters of the Belleville harbor. A quantity of gasoline was placed on the water and ignited just before Mabey took the plunge, but much to the professional thriller's embarrassment 13-year-old Willie Doughney followed Mabey up the ladder and duplicated the feat. Young Doughney received 35 cents, in collection, for his effort.

Mabey stated he had been employed in the Hollywood motion picture industry at one time as a stunt actor, having sustained severe injuries while stunting during the filming of the picture "Men With Wings". He makes his livelihood by this means or thrilling and dangerous stunts endangering his life, but his efforts were somewhat mitigated by a local youth last night.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY E. ANDERSON
(Picton)

After a few weeks illness, Mrs. Mary E. Anderson passed peacefully away at her home on Lake St., Picton, early Monday morning, May 22nd, in her 79th year. The deceased whose maiden name was Mary Elizabeth Dorland was born in Sidney Township, the only daughter of the late Samuel and Clistie Dorland. Her husband, the late J. M. Anderson predeceased her six years ago. Although entirely blind for nine years, she bore her affliction with patience and forbearance, never losing faith in her Master. She was a faithful member of the Methodist Church, now the United Church for a long period of years. She is survived by two sons and three daughters, namely Joshua of Wooler, Ezra of Picton with whom she resided, Mrs. J. N. Chisholm of Wallbridge, Mrs. S. P. Parks of Massassaga, and Mrs. Clare Vanskiver of Bloomfield. A daughter, Mrs. B. E. Hubble of Toronto died five years ago. One brother Mr. S. H. Dorland of Frankford also survives. The funeral service was held from her late residence on Wednesday afternoon, May 24th. Her pastor, Rev. D. Wren conducted the service in his sympathetic manner, taking for his subject "He giveth His beloved sleep." During the service Mr. F. E. Walker sang with much feeling "Good-night and Good Morning." The esteem in which the late Mrs. Anderson was held was shown by the floral offerings and the large attendance and funeral cortege that followed the remains to Stockdale Cemetery where interment was made. The service at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. D. Wren assisted by the Rev. Mr. Lane of Stockdale. Pall bearers were Mr. J. Rhodes, Mr. E. Carter, Mr. F. Tripp, C. McCabe, R. Thompson, H. Campney. (contributed).

THE ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER

THE DAILY ONTARIO INTELLIGENCER is published every afternoon (Sunday and holidays excepted) at The Ontario Intelligencer Building, Front Street, Belleville.

ON THEIR WAY ACROSS THE SEA

Their Majesties have started on their way home across the Atlantic leaving a treasury of memory of two noble and loving characters who will always dwell in the memory of the people of this Dominion. The touching good-byes, the au revoirs, at Halifax, climaxed the tour as with united expression the people bade their King and Queen godspeed and au revoir. At the same time as the people were showing their emotions which have been stirred in a way never before experenced because they came to know their Rulers as man and woman as well as sovereigns, it was clear that the hearts of Their Majesties were full to overflowing in gratitude and appreciation to the Canadian people for their warmth of welcome, for their interest in themselves, and for their expressions of loyalty to the Throne. Sovereigns and people have understood each other for there has been mutual admiration. Now as they travel home it will be the earnest prayers of Canadians, and Americans whom they have recently visited, that the elements be kindly and that gentle seas speed their return to the heart of the Empire, that the days at sea may be halcyon days and that the King and the Queen may have rest and recreation in their journey before they face the acclaim of the British Isles, whose prayers accompany them as they move from the western and new world to the old world.

Canada has memories it will ever treasure and which it will build into the fabric of the national life as a result of the visit of Their Majesties, those kindly royal guests, who while bearing the crown of the greatest of empires with pressing imperial burdens, yet preserve an individuality and a personalty which have been a pleasure and joy to Canadians to have seen, to have met and to have understood.

The greatest satisfaction to Canadians today is to know that they have individually and as a nation done their best to make the royal tour what it should be—a happy occasion for the visiting Royal Couple, who have done their utmost to show to Canadians how much they appreciate this country.

Canadians will follow with interest day by day the course of their return voyage and will feel a sigh of relief when they land safely at home. Now they have a personal interest in the Sovereigns and will eagerly seek to know more of them as they carry on their duties in the hub of the Empire.

ROYAL FAREWELL MESSAGES

The royal farewell to Canada broadcast throughout the Empire by Their Majesties on Thurday afternoon was touching in its reference to the kindnesses of the Canadian people and in exprssions of gratitude and will serve as an inspiration to an entire continent. The King's address was a warm appraisal of the riches of this Dominion in resources and natural beauty, in the stability of the people "of many proud racial origins and in all walks of life", of the friendships the Queen and he had made, and of the opportunity of visiting the United States, so that he could say ing the Unitd States, so that he could say "our minds and hearts are full." We can learn from the King some of this country's vastness and can take pride that His Majesty could say "I return to England with a new sense of the resources and of the responsibilities of our British Empire." He saw ahead of Canada a development of which the pioneers could never have dreamed and declared his confidence that the material future of Canada was fully assured.

But the King touched a deep note of even greater importance than her natural wealth—the spirit of the people. "For her sons and daughters, I wish her an even greater growth in the stature of mind and spirit."

His Majesty set before the world the happy peaceful continent of North America. "From the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the tropics to the Arctic, lies a large part of the earth where there is no possibility of war between neighbors, whose peoples are wholly dedicated to the pursuits of peace, a pattern to all men of how civilized nations should live together."

Typical of Queen Elizabeth, who has won a lasting place in the affections of the people of Canada, was her two hundred word address. In those delightful words of Anglo-Saxon origin which seem so natural on her lips and on such an occasion, she said" what has warmed my heart in a way I cannot express in words is the proof you have given us everywhere that you were glad to see us. And in return, I want particularly to tell the women and children of Canada how glad I am to have seen so many of them. Some, I know, came scores of miles, to meet us, and that has touched me deeply. There were many others, I fear, whom distance or illness, prevented from coming; to these I should send a special word of greeting—they have been always in my thoughts." Here in lines which have very few words which are not of Anglo-Saxon origin, Britain's Queen unburdened her heart. Her words were simple and simple in loveliness as may be said of her physical and her soul beauty.

The King and Queen with that grace which is so kingly and queenly spoke briefly in French and the Queen used a prayer in French for Canada.

The King's speech was a gem in comprehensive expression of a Ruler and man, the Queen's was queenly as she herself.

LET'S EXAMINE THE PATIENT

AN OBSERVER OF THE CANADIAN SCENE writes as follows:

"Canada gave her full share of blood and money to the World War. She suffered her full share of pain and privation during that dark period which history records as the World Depression, but the general condition of her National health right now might well be the subject of a little serious study. Let the home folks appreciate what they really have. Let those "Heaven Sent" Houdinis who are trying their tricks on the taxpayers of other lands learn how and why the legerdemain of legislation is not in any way to be compared with the old-fashioned virtue of private enterprise without its throat cut.

"Bring on your high-powered Doctors of Economics and let them examine the patient. Give her the works — circulation, respiration, heart action — everything from blood test to blood pressure — and then let them compare their old chart with those of other countries.

"This does not mean that Canada can sit back for a moment and take it easy. Canada is exposed to a dangerous, contagious disease — a disease that is epidemic in many parts of the world. For want of a name to adequately express its horror, suppose we call it Political Leprosy. Diagnose it as you will, but diagnose it carefully and make up your mind, if you can, that Canada wants it in any of its stages or forms.

"In different parts of the world they seem to have a different name for the various forms of this political disease, but after all, what's in a name? — Communism, Fascism, Socialism, or any other ism.

"Be that as it may, the symptoms will bear watching with the eye of a hawk—Interference with the legitimate activities of business, supertaxation and the political use of the taxpayer's money, the extension of bureaus and increased political patronage, any attempt to control the votes of the relief rolls, government competition with private enterprise, the sit-down strike or any other interference with any man's inherent right to work, Collectrvism, the legitimate liberty of the individual, or the freedom of the press. To surrender on one point is almost certain to mean surrender on others. It just seems to work that way.

"It is dead certain that the good health of any country depends upon the good health of business. A thorough examination will disclose the fact that Canda is not in need of any quack economics or of any of the various brands of political patent medicines."

Young Wife (anxiously): Oh, I hope not, darling. I took such pains with them. I even sprinkled them with eau de Cologne before I put them on to boil to take away the unpleasant odor.

Another Method of Treating Hay Fever

The hay fever season will be coming along shortly and thousands of sufferers will be wondering just whether the season will be severe or mild. If much ragweed pollen is being carried in the air they know they are in for a miserable time.

Fortunately the use of injections of the ragweed pollen prevents attacks in a great many cases although some sufferers have to take a series of injections for two or three years before they are kept free of attacks.

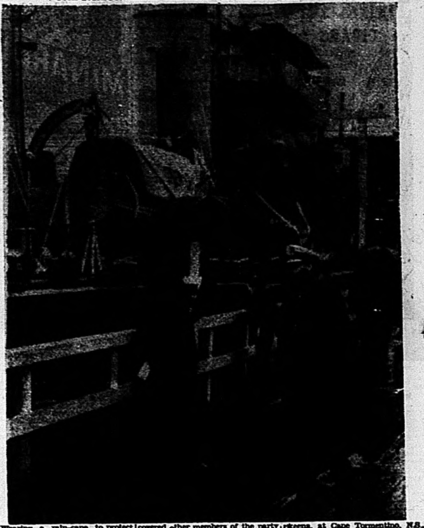
Now why are so many individuals attacked by hay fever and the vast majority is not? Is it something they inherit or something they develop within themselves that makes them sensitive to ragweed pollen (and other substances?.

Just why some individuals are attacked and others are not, is not definitely known but there seems to be two reasons for hay fever attacking this large group. One is an inherited tendency toward allergy or sensitiveness to substances and the other is some change in the gland system of these individuals which interfere with the balance of one gland with another or with several others. For instance, the first thought in the treatment of asthma and hay fever is adrenalin or epinephrine—the extract of the adrenal glands, situated one on top of each kidney. This does not cure asthma or hay fever (which, with eczema are closely related) but it eases and usually stops the asthmatic attack and, if applied to eyes or lining of nose, eases the distress in hay fever.

That the gland system may be at fault is again suggested by Dr. C. S. Bucher, Champaign, Ill., in Medical World, who, by the use of another gland extract—the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull—obtained excellent results in 50 consecutive cases in the treatment of hay fever. With his associates, Dr. Bucher gave hypodermic injections of the extract of the front part of the pituitary gland (15 drops, equal to 18 1-2 grain of fresh gland) once a day for seven days to ten days, then three times a week for two weeks, twice a week for two weeks, and once a week thereafter. About 24 injections were given. This treatment is begun (as with the ragweed treatment) about two months before the usual time for the onset of hay fever.

For those who have obtained no relief from the ragweed injections, this method, with 82 per cent satisfactory results, might well receive consideration.

THE SAILOR KING BOARDS CANADIAN DESTROYER



Wearing a rain-cape to protect him from the soaking down-pour, but shunning the umbrellas that covered other members of the party King George VI—the sailor King—boards the Canadian destroyer, skeena, at Cape Tormentino, N.S., enroute to Prince Edward Island, near the end of his Canadian tour. —Phonephoto

HISTORIC TOUR

the divisions of confederation. The King and Queen saw many flying beside the Union Jack as they drove through the city.

One death was reported, and accident patients were under treatment at three hospitals in the wake of Their Majesties' visit.

An unidentified man was struck and killed by a truck early last night as he was walking along the Dutch Village road in the suburbs of the city. He had evidently been walking away from the city after taking part in the royal visit festivities.

Woman Falls Into Water

At the Halifax infirmary was Mrs. William Knickle, of Lunenburg, who came to the city to see the King and Queen. She took up her post on the waterfront late in the afternoon, to get a good view of the royal yacht sailing out of the harbor.

Mrs. Knickle was sitting on the end of a plank extending out over the edge of a wharf. The person who was sitting on the other end of the plank got up. The Lunenburg woman fell almost 18 feet into the water. She suffered from shock.

As the King and Queen went to the liner, ear-splitting cheers from the tens of thousands along the route followed them. By the time they were at the wharf, more than double the population were ranged along the shore to give them the goodbye.

Mingled With Veterans

Before going aboard the big liner, Their Majesties mingled with war veterans in the huge warehouse shed on the pier. They bid goodbye to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir, Premier Angus L. MacDonald and his wife before stepping up the red-carpeted gangplank.

They appeared once before the gathering soon after going aboard, but that wasn't enough. In response to cries of "we want the King and Queen," they came out to the bridge twice—the last time as the white bulk of the liner laboriously moved out from the concrete pier and slid upharbor, to circle about and rush downward toward the open Atlantic.

Farewells Said to Reporters

Saying farewell to the 55 reporters who have covered the tour Their Majesties met the correspondents on board the Empress of Britain, shook hands with each of them and thanked them for their efforts.

"Are you tired?" the King asked many of the 49 newspapermen and six girl reporters.

Most of them answered they weren't but one girl reporter said later, "why I told a lie to the King. I'm tired as can be."

The Queen was gracious to all. She went down the line, shaking hands with everyone first, the King a step behind her. "Why I remember seeing you in Jasper" she said to one Canadian Press reporter. "Its perfectly amazing how you get around."

Monarch in Happy Mood

The King was in happy mood. When a reporter asked him "are you tired?" he replied, "no but you look all fagged out old chap. I'll wager you're glad we're leaving you."

An English newspaperman who is going to Newfoundland said good-bye to the Queen and then added it probably wouldn't be goodbye because he'd see her at St. John's.

"I'll be glad to see you," the Queen said. "It will be pleasant to have a face we've seen through so many miles of Canada with us on the island."

The Queen had a special smile for the newspaper women. They all curtsied as well as their tired joints would permit. "My heart was right in my mouth" one girl reporter said a minute after the Queen passed by. Her Majesty heard the remark, looked back and laughed heartily.

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Halifax, June 16—(CP)— The King and the Queen sailed away to the east today, sailed away while Canada mingled joy over their visit with regret at the parting.

Behind them, far behind the spreading white wake of the liner Empress of Britain, they left a thunderstruck nation. Canada could not quite become accustomed to a land without its King George and Queen Elizabeth, just as it could not realize a month ago that its monarch and his consort had come to its shores.

Out on the misty Atlantic, heading for old Newfoundland, were George VI and his consort. The huge white liner that left Halifax at 6.32 p.m. E.D.T. last night was due to arrive there tomorrow, to give them a few hours on the soil of Britain's oldest colony before they struck out finally for home and the end of their epochal tour of North America.

Newfoundland Visit Finale

The Newfoundland visit, last of the voyage that left a trail of footnotes for the history books, was the finale of a trip now stretching into its 31st day on this side of the Atlantic. And it was unique in that King George was to perform one more act never done by a British monarch—invest five Newfoundland residents, in Newfoundland, with orders conferred on them in his birthday list.

Before he left, amid the sincere regrets of a domain represented by 150,000 crowding along a Halifax waterfront, the King had conferred honors upon three of the men who contributed in the details that went toward making the tour of himself and his Queen a triumph—none Canadians. But this Newfoundland investiture was a departure from British tradition, one more of the many precedents George VI has added to the list on his trip.

Mingling Unguarded With Crowd

He added a few precedents to the book, too, on the mainland of the continent. Such as the time he and the Queen mixed unguarded with a huge crowd of war veterans in Ottawa without an escort, and when they went into the United States and the King paid his respects at the home of George Washington—the man who succeeded in wresting those states from Great Britain.

From Nova Scotia to British Columbia, a freedom-loving people took wholeheartedly to these departures from the cold hand-book of tradition. Day by day, the King and Queen found themselves entrenched deeper into the hearts of Canadians.

Jean Baptiste first extended his hand to them in Quebec on May 17 as they landed from the Empress of Australia after a tedious journey through the Atlantic's spring ice. And from then on, their tour was just one conquest after another.

Charlottetown, two days ago, was especially electrified when the King's address in reply to the provincial welcome mentioned the possibility of a return to Canada with their children. "We share your hope that at some future time we may be able, accompanied by our daughters, to visit you again," the King told the people of the garden of the gulf.

JAPAN'S TERMS

Itagaki and Prince Kotochito Kanin, chief of the general staff, reported to the Emperor on the situation at Tientsin since Japanese on Wednesday established a blockade of the British and French concessions.

Demands Announced

Demands upon the British authorities were said now to be:

1. Reorganization of the concession government to give greater authority to the Japanese-sponsored Tientsin government;

2. Financial "cooperation" by British banks to facilitate circulation of Japanese currency;

3. "Sweeping pledges of future co-operation with Japanese authorities";

4. Surrender of four Chinese the Japanese suspect of slaying a Tientsin official. The fourth point was the "incident" from which the broader dispute grew.

A foreign office informant said Tasuo Kawai, official spokesman of the Japanese foreign office, "stated the case quite clearly" and declared no further negotiations were likely. Kawai declared in Hsinking, Manchoukuo, interview that "the days of foreign concessions in China are numbered," because they "are relics of the days when China was a quasi-colony of the western powers."

Await Developments

The Tokyo spokesman said: "Situation has gone beyond the mere question of surrender of the four culprits. What the military authorities are determined to get now is a guarantee in terms of Britain's readiness to co-operate in the future. For the time being there is nothing to do but await developments."

He did not discuss the possibility Britain would invoke financial and trade sanctions against Japan, but Tokyo newspapers reported that Japanese financiers doubted Britain would take such steps. They would violate the Anglo-Japanese commercial treaty, the papers said.

"Leaders are saying that sanctions would not be effective even if levied and Japan would instantly retaliate," Asahi said. "Britain must realize that in such a case, British trade with China would be entirely obliterated."

The United States Charge D'Affaires, Eugene Dooman, discussed the controversy in a call at the foreign office today, and government circles believed this might be a preliminary step toward mediation efforts by the United States.

The Stars Say—

For Saturday, June 17

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

CERTAIN conflicting aspects are noted in this day's astral map. While there is promise of definite progress and gain through labor, sound investments or increased property interests, there also is a menace of schemes, deception or collusion. With alertness to all trickery and snares, and with the counsel and co-operation of elders or superiors, there may be profitable developments, although attended by a change or journey.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of opportunity for advancement, with gain through industry, investment and increased property values, as well as by the aid or substantial favours of elders or those in influential position. But there is need of vigilance against trickery, intrigue or pitfalls, and some change of place or plans may be required.

A child born on this day may be steady, persistent, ambitious and shrewd, gaining support from elders and superiors by its steadfastness sound in sight and genial personality.

ALMOST CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Improved Greatly When He Tried Kruschen

There has just come to our notice a case of grand relief from severe rheumatic pains. The seriousness of the man's condition and the step that led to his ultimate recovery, are described in the following letter:—

"For several years I suffered from rheumatism. I had all my teeth out, and still suffered. A year ago I lay in hospital for fourteen weeks, almost crippled. When I got home I continued to take medicine, and began to go down again. A friend of mine asked me to try Kruschen Salts, and I am very pleased to be able to say I have been on the mend ever since."—H.P.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the crystals—the cause of pain and stiffness — and often convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.

As ill health would not permit us having the usual birthday gathering we have come to spend a social hour with you. The Great Cole Bros. Combined Shows with Art Mix, America's No. 1 cowboy and Western movie star, is headed this way.

Thursday, June 29, is the date when performances will be given at 2 and 8 p. m. in Belleville.

Fresh from triumphant Spring engagements in Eastern cities Cole Bros. promise to uncork the very latest in the way of streamlined thrills, with its 300 performers recruited from its 18 foreign countries.

Travelling with the big combined shows this season are 700 people, 20 elephants, 250 menagerie animals and 250 horses. Two special trains will transport the circus from thither to yon. Art Mix, the hero of more than one hundred movies with a congress of rough riders, cowboys and cowgirls, Indians and Cossacks promises to make the old West live again. The famous cinema star will be seen on Silver Dan his prize mount.

Everybody wishes to see the Cole Bros. Circus this year, which recently returned from a triumphal five year tour of Europe, and it is a foregone conclusion that the big tent, seating 10,000 persons, will be filled to the last chair afternoon and night. Six rings and stages and the hippodrome track, will be used for the earth's foremost arenic talent — 300 acknowledged kings and queens of daring, grace, skill and incredible agility. Miss Juanita Repensky, charming and youthful equestrienne will be head of a great array of riders.

One of the largest, finest and costliest street parades will be seen at 11 a.m. Hundreds of horses, 20 elephants and two caravans of camels from the great desert will be seen. In the picturesque line of march will be nearly fifty elaborately carved and gilded allegorical floats, tableau wagons and open dens and cages displaying the menagerie. Doors will open at 1 and 7 p. m. The big shows start at 2 and 8 p. m.

WHALEN—HUNT

St. Vincent de Paul church, Deseronto, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday morning June 10, when Mary Margaret Rose Hunt, Deseronto, was united in marriage to Peter Aloysius, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Whalen of Deseronto.

The ceremony which took place in the sanctuary was performed by Rev. G. T. Martin. The altar was beautifully decorated with summer flowers and the wedding march was played by two brothers of the groom, John and Michael Whalen.

The bride who was given in marriage by her aunt, Miss Mae Hunt, looked lovely in a gown of yellow sheer with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white roses, lily of the valley and fern and carried a white prayer book with white streamers caught with lily of the valley.

She was attended by Miss Catharine Whalen, sister of the groom, in capri blue with white accessories and wore a corsage of pink roses, lily of the valley and fern. The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Eugene Whalen.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's aunt, Miss Mae Hunt.

The happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes on a trip to Eastern points, the bride travelling in a dress of navy blue and white with navy accessories.

Wooler School Bids Farewell to Popular Teacher

WOOLER.—On Monday evening, June 12, the teachers, pupils and parents gathered in the school to bid farewell to Mrs. Rogers, the principal of Wooler Continuation School who has resigned after teaching here five years. The evening was spent in community singing. Mr. E. Nelson acted as chairman.

Music was furnished by the pupils. Several men made impromptu speeches. A solo was given by Lois May, after which Lois Sharpe read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Rogers: Having learned of your resignation as principal of our Continuation School and your subsequent removal from our community we wish, this evening, to convey our sincere wishes for your future success and happiness.

For five years you have given us of your time both faithfully and well—always untiring and sympathetic as a teacher, always willing to help in the affairs of church and community.

Perhaps a PEARL necklace or a ROGERS radio would have been a fitting presentation in appreciation of your talents. However, we have chosen these gifts with which we hope that you and your husband will occasionally find time to relax and think of Wooler.

Signed on behalf of the school board, staff and pupils of W.C.S. and members of the community — Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Regan, A. E. Anderson, Lois K. Sharpe, R. E. McMaster.

Facing the Future

By HELEN FOLLETT

Professional treatments of the complexions vary but they all strive toward the same ends, a thorough cleansing of the pores, a stimulation of blood streams and firming of the tissues. Time was when the facial operator was a strong armed amazon who did a lot of pounding and thumping which may or may not have put feminine faces out of form. Now treatments are light and invigorating. The light touch youthifies; heavy work weakens tissues that have started along the road toward dissolution.

There is a silly superstition about facials, that if you start them you must keep them up or lose the good effects. Nonsense, that is. Each one helps.

Operators have to go through a long course of training, learn about facial fibres, their relation to each other, nerves, tissues, arteries. The beauty trade has stepped a long way since mama was a girl and had her face hammered.

There's nothing more restful or refreshing than a facial treatment given by an expert. It's not only a facial; it includes neck, shoulders and the upper portions of the back. In some shops it includes a quick session at calesthenics so the flesh will be warm, more responive to nourishing oils and lotions that bring color to the cheeks.

But, of course, you have to do your home work, wash and cream your face at bedtime, use cold water in the morning and possibly an astringent.

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

The Ideal College Girls' Husband

This is the season of the year when college girls answer questionnaires and state their specifications for the perfect husband. Well, not perfect, perhaps—but one who is good, or fair to middling, and who will not drive a girl into looking up time tables to Reno for a few years at least.

Demands for perfection in a life partner decrease yearly. Is it that wars are making men extinct, or that girls are becoming more tolerant?

No matter how many degrees girls have taken they all, with very few exceptions, would like HIM to be handsome, or at least not too hard on the eyes. Proof that in spite of higher education, the average girl is still primitive. Her cave-woman ancestress gave an encouraging eye to a good looker for the same reason—she wanted handsome children.

Few demand riches, at least according to questionnaire revelations. All want reasonable comfort, even if they had to earn part of the family income. A good proportion want to continue in whatever profession or business they expect to follow after graduation, with time off for having two or three children and seeing them well started in health and good habits.

The city is preferred to country as a home. Farms seem to have few attractions for the college-bred girl, unless she has specialized at an agricultural institution. One-third of the girls prefer the suburbs within easy motoring distance of the city, as a healthier environment for children and because they'd love to have a flower garden.

Few women are immune to the delights of a flower garden, and may I stop here long enough to offer a suggestion to young men with farms who'd like college girls for wives? Invite them out to see the flowers, even if the garden is a "prop" and you have to call in the services of a gardener to make the "prop" convincing since you yourself don't know a violet from a verbena.

All women almost without exception want a dash of cave-man in their husbands — again the ancient ancestress calling. Subordination of the wife appears to be the accepted status of marriage and what the majority of women still want and expect.

Some of the girls would not object to occasional philandering on the part of their husbands, if the same privilege is granted to them. Shades of Queen Victoria and her prunes and prisms contemporaries! Those sweet dimpled young things in their book muslins and blue sashes, who looked like pictures in lace-trimmed valentines: what would they say to such a statement on the part of their great grand-daughters?

No one wants a man who drinks though few damand total abstainers. But all want a husband who knows when to stop. They would divorce a drunkard, where they would put up with a philanderer. Practically all want a man interested in some form of athletics. This, in the interest of his health, and the keeping of his waistline. Nearly all wanted a good dancer.

He "must be tolerant of my opinions, religious and otherwise, even as I shall be tolerant of his" writes one young thing. And practically all have decided that the happiest marriages are those where respect and admiration is mutual.

The foregoing preferences were culled from lists made from two women's colleges, one co-ed, and four state universities. They make a fairly safe blueprint as to the specifications demanded from young men contemplating matrimony.

Slip Covers Work Wonders

"I want slip covers"! Throughout the land we hear this enthusiastic demand from homemakers who have come to realize that upholstering a piece of furniture is not the only practical or decorative treatment that can be given.

The modern-minded homemaker knows the many alluring advantages of slip covers. She has definitely discarded the outmoded point of view that these covers are "only for summer". She know that not only do they fulfil the primary requirement of being practical, but also make smart and attractive items of decoration. If a room looks "tired" or jadded, she gives it a tonic of a slip cover or two.

Don't think of a slip cover as a makeshift. Think of it as an item that will add friendliness to your room, a fresh, new note of color. Slip covers will add the casual, informal appearance that will keep your room from 'sitting up straight' as is the tendency where there are too many piece of upholstered furniture.

A sofa or a chair will welcome a season change-of-costume as much as you welcome a new hat or a new dress.

Don't think of slip covers as appropriate for only certain types of rooms. They are appropriate for simple rooms and grand rooms, formal rooms and informal rooms. This is the "new, new" story of home decoration.

You would do well to consider doing what many wise homemakers are now doing . . . and at an appreciable saving, too. When they buy new furniture, they buy it in "muslin" and, instead of paying for expensive upholstery fabrics and upholstering, they plan to use slip covers. In this fashion, you may be able to have two sets of slip covers . . .. one for summer use and one for winter.

Slip covers are a real economy, for they can be used on the chairs or sofa we already have. They entirely change the appearance of a jaded piece of furniture. They protect the furniture from wear and tear and can be removed for laundering or cleaning. New slip covers can be substituted for old ones, with very little expense. Even one slip-covered piece of furniture can brighten up a room at any time of year; in summer, a cool chintz cover can effectively conceal the velvet or other warm material with which the piece is upholstered.

Maybe you're admitting that slip covers do have all these glories . . . but maybe, too, you are protesting that they are "too expensive" for you. Don't use this as an excuse for holding back! You will be amazed at the charming and inexpensive materials you can find . . . chintz, glazed or unglazed; plain or printed cottons; cotton or silk corduroy; uncrushable linens; brightly-designed and long-wearing cretonnes, and chenilles. You may find that one of the new highlights in dress materials — gingham, gabardine, printed cotton, for instance—will be what you prefer.

So if your husband, like most husbands, bemoans!

"I love it . . I love it, and who shall dare,
To chide me for loving that old armchair."
don't chide him . . . slip cover it!

DR. DAFOE'S COLUMN on the Quintuplets and the Care of Your Children

Stop the Stutterer at the First Manifestations

It is when a child first begins to stutter that something should be done to stop him. If the defect is allowed to develop, certain psychological entanglements result which make a cure difficult.

As I told you yesterday, children whose nervous systems aren't altogether stable sometimes begin to stutter as the result of a shock or a scare. Usually rest and quiet until the nervous system readjusts itself will do much to remove the hesitation in speech.

I think a tendency toward stuttering is inherited; perhaps it is that the type of nervous system common to stuttering is inherited. Anyway, I have seen cases where a father with this speech defect had a son who had the same trouble. In such cases, I think imitation, unconscious perhaps has a lot to do with it. The son unconsciously copies the father as much as he can, even to the extent of learning his speech defects.

I know of one such father. His wife was dead, and he had but one son. As the son grew up, he began to show signs of the father's tendency to stutter. The father tried in various ways to cure the boy. He warned him what a handicap it was to have such a defect, but it was no use. So the father did a brave thing: he sent his only boy away to a boarding school, away from his influence. Today the father is happy, for his son has conquered the speech defect that was threatening him.

The mechanism of speech —the whole business of talking—is pretty complicated, and stuttering is an apt example of this. For instance, we don't know why it is that some children learn to talk sooner than others.

Children of multiple births are notoriously slow in talking. We ran into this difficulty with the Dionne Quintuplets. Of course in such cases it isn't hard to see what happens. Born and brought up together, such children often learn a language of their own. Since they can talk among themselves, they don't bother learning any other language until they absolutely have to.

So it was with the Quints. We found when they were nearly two years old that they had to be broken of the habit of conversing in their own language. In short, they had to be taught to talk like other people.

With a stutterer it is difficult. Although he doesn't have to be taught how to speak, he must be taught not to interfere with the normal function of talking. And the older the person is when he tries to stop this interference, the harder is the task.

Before these muscular spasms we see in habitual stutterers develop, before the individual begins to make such violent efforts to speak, the task is quite easy. Rest and care will often do it.

But stutterers very quickly become confirmed in the habit. They resent anyone speaking to them about a defect that has exposed them to ridicule.

GERMAN OFFICERS BEFORE TRIBUNAL

Charged With Slaying Czech Policeman Week Ago at Nachod

Prague, June 16—(AP)— The trial of two German policemen on charges of slaying a Czech policeman, Johann Mueller, a week ago at Nachod opened today before a special tribunal in Prague.

Defendants and witnesses were brought to Prague this morning. The prosecutor said the verdict probably would be announced about midnight (7 p.m. EDT). The names of the accused men were not announced.

The scheduled swiftness in handling the case was regarded in Czech quarters as an effort to demonstrate impartiality in the German administration of the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia following stern restrictions imposed on the town of Kladno after the killing of a German policeman. The Kladno killer is still at large.

Baron Konstantin von Neurath, Reich Protector of Bohemia and Moravia, said the proceedings would be carried forward without respect for "whoever may be involved."

Dr. Franz Guertner, German Minister of Justice, was in Prague and Czech circles thought it impossible he would take a personal interest in the trial. Officially, however, the Minister's visit was in connection with German culture week.

EQUALIZATION OF ASSESSMENT IS UNCHANGED

County Council Adopts Schedule for 1940 as Used for Year 1939

NO DISCUSSION

Reeves Reminded County Home is Place for "Aged and Infirm"

What had all the earmarks of being a clever stroke of county council diplomacy ended up in a stalemate at the morning session of the Hastings County body yesterday, when County Clerk Erle Denyes threw a verbal monkey wrench into the machinery set in motion by various members in an effort to foist certain residents of their municipalities on the management of the County Home.

"The County Home is not an outlet for reliefees of the county, it is a home for the Aged and Infirm", Clerk Denyes politely informed council after a mild epidemic of bylaws providing reeves with power to commit individuals to the Home had broken out.

It all started when Reeve S. E. McWhirter of Mayo Township gave notice of motion of a bylaw to provide himself with the power to commit to the Hastings County Home two people, whom he claimed had subsisted on the charity of the municipality for the past two years.

Object to Commitment

Subsequent discussion of the point brought out the information, that the people in question are in their "fifties", and strictly object to being placed in the home.

"I don't know that I want to actually commit them" Reeve McWhirter told council, "but in case it has to be done I would like to have the authority to do so."

"If these people continue to stay on the charity of the municipality —we have no relief — I'm afraid others will do the same thing," Reeve McWhirter continued.

"In other words, your using this attitude to scare the others" laughingly rejoined Reeve William Linn.

Acting on Reeve McWhirter's effort, several other reeves immediately drafted notices of motion empowering themselves with the same authority. Discussion drifted across the council chamber until Clerk Denyes informed council the County Home was not a relief place "but a home for the aged and infirm."

"However, this thing can wait until the second reading of the bylaws" he warned.

Equalization Unchanged

Without a single ripple of discussion disturbing the calm of the council chamber the report of the Committee on Equalization of Assessment of the municipalities of the county was adopted a few seconds after its presentation to council yesterday morning by Chairman George Sherman. Equalization of assessment of the county municipalities for the year 1940 will be the same as this year, the report stated. There was no discussion. The report follows:—

AT THE BELLE

"ROSE OF WASHINGTON SQUARE"

A whiff of lavender, the sight of a once-loved book, the taste of "penny candy"—such are the little inconsequential things that can bring back the past to many of us in a rush of memory. But there is one thing dependable above everything else to work this result, and that's the popular song.

So bound up in the individual romances of our daily lives are the heart songs and hit songs of yesterday and today that just overhearing a familiar refrain opens the gates of memory. This was one of the reasons for the popularity of the recent film, "Alexander's Ragtime Band." To this nostalgia, also, is largely due the acclaim which has greeted the newest entertainment highlight from Darryl F. Zanuck and 20th Century-Fox, "Rose of Washington Square." The romantic stars of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" — Tyrone Power and Alice Faye—are joined by Al Jolson in "Rose of Washington Square", which opens next at the Belle Theatre.

Among the many familiar milestones of melody heard in the production are "My Man", "Toot Tootsie, Goodbye", "April Showers", "Mammy", "I'm Always Chasing Rainbows", "Ja-Da", "I'm Just Wild About Harry," "California, Here I Come", and "Avalon." In addition is the newest hit from Gordon and Revel, "I Never Knew Heaven Could Speak."

But the music serves only as a highlight of the stirring, deeply human romance that is the central theme of the picture, a true-to-life story that is summed up simply in Rose's declaration: "Listen! I love this man from here to breakfast! Want to make something of it? He's tricky! He's hurt me? So what? I love him! He's my man!

Gregory Ratoff directed the film, with Nunnally Johnson, who wrote the screen play, as associate producer. William Frawley, Joyce Compton and Hobart Cavanaugh are featured in the cast.

"Weather Wizard", is the title of another of the ever-welcome Pete Smith Specialties to be presented on the same program with "Barnyard Excitement" a funny comicolor cartoon and the popular Belle Newsreel, including scenes of Their Majesties triumphant tour in Canada. A thrilling chapter of "Hawk of the Wilderness" will be exhibited this week end.

"Alexander Graham Bell"

The beautiful girl adored by the handsome young genius who invented the telephone was deaf and her deafness gave him the inspiration for his great achievement. In what is certainly one of America's most thrilling stories, this stirring romance is now on the Belle Screen in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "The Story of Alexander Graham Bell." Don Ameche, Loretta Young and Henry Fonda head the cast of this magnificent Cosmopolitan production for 20th Century-Fox.

"Hunting Dogs" an unusual Sportfilm and "Champagne Music", a rippling musical revue precede the feature attraction.

DESCENDANT OF NEW BRUNSWICK PIONEER PRESENTS BOUQUET TO QUEEN

During the course of the triumphant royal tour of Canada Her Majesty the Queen has been presented with many bouquets, but none with quite the historical touch of this one she received at Newcastle, New Brunswick. Making the presentation, with her back to the camera, is Marjorie Davidson, and Marjorie's great-great-great grandfather, William Davidson, was the first British settler on the Miramichi in that section of the coastal province. It was in 1764, when most of the explored part of the North American continent was British, that little Miss Davidson's ancestor settled in New Brunswick.

HALIFAX EXTENDS LAST CANADIAN GREETING TO THE KING AND QUEEN

With the hour of their sailing not very far off, the King and Queen drove to the City Hall at Halifax, N.S., to receive the loyal greetings extended to them by residents of the Canadian Maritime Provinces, and particularly of Nova Scotia. Mayor Walter Mitchell, of Halifax, is pictured after the ceremony as the party left the City Hall. Mayor Mitchell is at the left and Mrs. Mitchell at the right; between them stand the King and Queen.

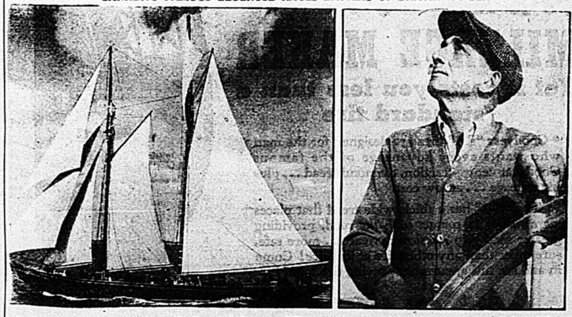
CANADA'S FAMOUS BLUENOSE RACES EMPRESS OF BRITAIN TO SEA



One of Canada's most famous boats, the Nova Scotian fishing schooner, Bluenose, staged a last fleeting treat for the King and Queen as they left Canada by racing with the giant Empress of Britain as she nosed her way into the ocean from Halifax Harbor. Captain Angus Walters, seen at the right, who has guided the Bluenose to many a victory in international racing competition, admitted this farewell to royalty might be the last cruise of his famous vessel. Centre picture shows the Bluenose and at the left some of the crew letting out a hearty cheer as they arrived in Halifax to begin their "chase" with the liner.

Belleville Wins First League Game as Kelleher Hurls No-Hit Game to Win by 8-0 Score

Only Three Airforce Batsmen Reached First Base During Pastime

WHIFFS NINETEEN

Local Team Scores Four Unearned Runs When Hitting Bogs Down

Joe Kelleher, Belleville's youthful righthand moundsman, barely escaped pitching a perfect ball game and entering baseball's time-honored hall of fame last evening when the Belleville nine blanked the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" 8 to 0 in a Bay of Quinte loop fixture on the home lot, Kelleher pitching a no-run- no-hit game. Only three Air Force batsmen reached first base, two by virtue of walks and a third on Belleville's lone error.

Kelleher struck out 19 Air Force batsmen, retiring the side in order in every innings except the second and ninth. The Foster-led "Flyers" only got one man as far as second base, in the second inning, by virtue of a error and subsequent walk. The Belleville squad was never pressed, but offensively only collected eight hits off the combined efforts of three Air Force pitchers, scoring four unearned runs. The game was played on a wet sticky field following the rain.

Opened Scoring in Fourth

Belleville opened the scoring in the fourth and notched three runs on two walks, an error and hits by Riggs and Plummer. Hits by Collins and Plummer gave the locals two more in the seventh and in the eighth McQuaid registered the only hit as the locals scored three runs, mostly accountable to the wildness of Zaycserski, a relief hurler, who was visibly tired and effortless. The win was the first registered by the Belleville nine in four starts, but elevates them out of the cellar position, while it was the Flyers' first league appearance. Both visiting pitchers showed promise, but lacked condition.

Collins, with two hits in two official times at bat led the locals on the attack, Riggs and Plummer getting a brace of safeties as not a single extra base hit was registered throughout the nine frames. The Air Force nine was handicapped in the lack of spiked shoes, playing the game in rubber-soled running shoes. Webb, Marfleet and Tudor looked the best of the Air Force defensively, as Perrier pitched steady ball to allow Belleville only four scratch hits.

DAVE CASTILLOUX K.O'S. RIGHTMIRE IN SIXTH ROUND

Montreal's Ring Smoothie Ready for World's Best Featherweights

Toronto, June 16 (CP)—Montreal's ring smoothie, 22-year-old Dave Castilloux today took a long step along boxing's rough road and seemed assured of a shot at the sport's highest award in his division—the world featherweight title.

Ruler of Canada's feathers, Castilloux put on a masterful display at Maple Leaf Gardens here last night as he blasted, perhaps for ever, title aspirations of Everette Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., veteran of 190 fights. Both men weighed 127 1-2 pounds.

The French-Canadian was declared winner on a technical knockout in the sixth round, but four times previously the bell saved the plucky Rightmire from being counted out. The victory established Castilloux as an outstanding challenger for the world crown now worn by Baltimore's Joey Archibald.

The bout was halted after 55 seconds of the sixth round. Stopping one of Castilloux's dynamic right crosses, Rightmire almost turned a complete somersault across the ring. To save the American fighter from further punishment, referee Herschel Osborne turned quickly and held up the Montreal boy's hand in victory.

Badly Beaten Fighter

A badly-beaten fighter, the blond Rightmire came back with suprising rallies after being felled by his aggressive young opponent. He won the support of a crowd of more than 5,000 fans but cheers were not enough.

Just at the close of the fifth round, Rightmire, highly-ranked among the world's top featherweights, slumped heavily to the canvas and few thought he would answer another bell. But he came out swinging, as the dead-pan French-Canadian waited for the kill.

Rightmire was down for a no count early in the first round and before the bell he heard the count of eight tolled over him. Castilloux dropped him in the second and the American was on the verge of hitting the deck again in the third.

Just when it looked as though it was a matter of time before the Montrealer would fire the final shot, the Sioux City gamester, rallied to take the fourth round. The splurge seemed to sap his strength and he went down again in the fifth.

Boeckh and Thompson Meet in First Round

Kingston, Ont., June 16 (CP)—Broad-shouldered Jim Boeckh of Toronto York Downs and little, dark-skinned Joe Thompson of Burlington, finalists in the 1938 Ontario golf championship, met in another finish fight in the same tournament today—but this time their collision was only in the first round.

The luck of the draw pitted champion Jim against little Joe in the first of four rounds that will be crowded into two days. Last year Boeckh beat the Hamilton district star after three extra holes in the final.

Neither of them was close yesterday to the medallist, Phil Farley of Toronto Scarboro, who has just moved to Toronto from Montreal. Farley, a former winner of the Ontario crown, fashioned a two-over par 72, against 75 for Boeckh and 79 for Thompson.

Farley was brilliant on the outgoing nine, shooting a sub-par 34 that included an eagle three on the long fourth. Coming home he was over par on the 13th, 14th and 15th and hit even figures on the other six holes.

Playing with Farley, Jack Nash of London Hunt was only one stroke worse. He was out in 36 and back in 37 and would have had a tie for the medal if he hadn't missed a two-foot putt on the home hole.

ELEVENTH WIN BY SI JOHNSON IS REGISTERED

Rochester Hurler Hands 3-0 Shutout to Baltimore Orioles

LEAFS RAINED OUT

Buffalo Bisons Regain Victory Column by Beating Newark

(By The Associated Press)

The International League outfielders can start playing back a little deeper now—Ben Warren, second string catcher for Baltimore Orioles, has found his long range batting eye.

Last night Ben showed he was ready now to duplicate his home run hitting feats with Gadsden of the Southeastern League, where he toiled last year, by clouting three homers in six times up. In the Southeastern he hit 20 homers.

Warren's slugging came in the second game which e flock took from the league-leading Rochester Red Wings, 11-1, after dropping the opener 3-0. Although that kind of hitting is always welcome it wasn't really needed because big Jim Reninger kept the Wings well in hand from the outset and allowed them only four hits, for his sixth victory of the season.

Si Johnson went the route for Rochester in the first game and pitched five-hit ball for his 11th triumph against three defeats.

Jersey City Giants lost to Montreal 6-2 in the only other night game. Rain washed out the contest between Toronto and Syracuse. The Royals took the lead with three runs in the first and were never headed as Bobby Porter kept eight Jersey hits well scattered. The victory put Montreal half a game ahead of the sixth place Orioles.

With a five-run rally in the seventh Buffalo Bisons regained the victory colum by downing Newark, 8-5. Joe Martin's single during the uprising drove in Jim Oglesby and Greg Mulleavy with what proved to be the tying and winning runs. George Savino homered for the Bisons in the sixth and batted in three runs.

Champion Joe Louis Is Approaching Perfect Condition

(By Gayle Talbot Associated Press Sports Writer).

New York, June 16 (AP) Twelve days before his fight with Tony Galento champion Joe Louis is approaching perfect condition, physically and mentally, at his training camp in Pompton Lakes, N.J.

The big sleepy-eyed negro weighed 203 after a hard session yesterday in which he boxed six rounds against four rugged partners. He expects to scale 200 even the day of the bout and is hitting sharp and fast with both hands.

Joe seldom has appeared so confident before a big fight. He has little, if any, real respect for Galento as a fighter. Asked to name the round he expected to put the slug on his chubby challenger, he said, softly:

"I don't know whether I can do that. But from the condition I'll be in the night of the fight it oughtn't to last very long. I figure Galento will be easier for me to hit than Uaulino was, and I knocked him out in the fourth."

No Evidence of Rancor

There is no evidence of rancor in the champion's camp over the loose talk about his having employed a "gimmick" to put Max Schmeling in hospital. Both Joe and his co-manager, Julian Black, seemed to think it was a great joke.

"There's the thing I hit Schmeling with," he said, flourishing a fist, "it's just four fingers and a thumb, like Jim Braddock said. But you know that thing the lady of the statue of Liberty is holding up there in her right hand? Well, that's the 'gimmick' Galento's going to think he's getting hit with the night of the fight."

Black has been trying to provide Joe with sparring partners of the approximate height and build of Galento, but they have been difficult to locate and, once found, haven't worn well. Mickey Taylor, a roly-poly Jerseyite, tried to imitate Tony yesterday but doubled up on the floor at the first left Louis sank into his pantry up to the elbow.

Tigers Most Strengthened Club in American League With Acquisition of Averill

Detroit Squad Puts Together Eight - Game Winning Streak

REDS ADVANCE

Cincinnati Gains Full Game by Beating Phillies While Cardinals Lose

(By Judson Bailey Associated Press Sports Writer).

Now that the Major League trading deadline has passed it seems safe to say Detroit Tigers are the most strengthened club in baseball.

Although the Tigers are crouched in fifth place in the American League today, some of the first division clubs must be trembling at thoughts of Detroit's eight-game winning streak which already has out into the second-place Boston Red Sox three times in two days.

The Tigers aren't fooling. They settled the outcome of their game yesterday in eight minutes—taking just time to fill the bases in the first inning ahead of a home run by Pete Fox. With Tommy Bridges pitching six-hit ball they had no trouble thereafter winning 6-3.

Rebuilt in Winter

Rebuilding of last year's fourth place club started during the winter in a deal which brought Pinky Higgins, a .300-hitting third baseman, to Detroit from Boston. An injury kept him from joining the team until late last month.

However, the club did start the season with Barney McCosky, one of the year's prize rookies, in centrefield. Since then it has acquired Buck Newsom, one of the two pitchers in the American League who won 20 games last year; outfielder Earl Averill, 10th best batter in the league in 1938, and an assortment of less notable performers.

Collide With Yanks

This infusion of new spirit and new ability raised the Tigers from a faltering eighth to a challenging fifth within two weeks and enabled them to beat the Yankees two games out of three in their last series. They'll collide with the world champions again tomorrow and something more conclusive may be known when that series is over.

The Yankees lived up to their reputation as great "cooler-offers" yesterday by breaking Cleveland Indians' winning streak at six games. Lefty Gomez and Mel Harder hooked up in a spectacular hurling duel in which each allowed only four hits. A walk, a single and an infield out provided a run in the fourth and a 1-0 Yankee victory.

John Knott uncorked a two-hitter and Thornton Lee encored with a five-hit job to give Chicago White Sox both ends of a double-header at Washington 5-1 and 7-2. St. Louis Browns and Philadelphia Athletics took the day off following their night game on Wednesday.

Cincinnati Reds gained a full game on the second place St. Louis Cardinals by trimming the Phillies 4-1, under the lights at Crosley Field after Brooklyn Dodgers had thumped the Cardinals, 8-3 at St. Louis in the afternoon.

The victory kept the Dodgers two percentage points ahead of New York Giants, who won their seventh straight, 7-4, at Chicago. Boston Bees plucked a free-hitting game from Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5, in the 11th inning when Debs Garms doubled, his fourth hit, and John Cooney singled.

CALLING 'EM

Between the Lines

with

Ken J. Colling

At last the Belleville ballsters found a team they could beat in the Bay of Quinte League and upon that discovery actually went to work to set a modern baseball record of some kind. Joe Kelleher literally curve-balled the R.C.A.F. "Flyers" out of the Fair Grounds last night as the local righthander pitched a no-hit no-run game and only missed a perfect night's work by virtue of two walks and an error. Yes, only three of the Flyers reached first base as Kelleher had matters pretty well his own way as the box score shows 21 putouts for the catcher, four for the first baseman and one each for Russ Collins at second and Jarrell in right. Webb, the Air Force initial sacker, hitting second, skied to Jarrell for the only ball the Airmen hit out of the infield. Kelleher struck out 19 and walked two. Both Perrier and Zayczerski, the Flyer's pitchers, showed promise as they let the locals down, with eight singles, but they are far from condition and also we sincerely hope Manager Poster has a few better batters at the Airport for future games. The visitors' batting was woefully weak, although their defensive ball left nothing to be desired. As their pitchers tired, however, the Wilkinsites raced around the base paths on wild pitches and passed balls for several unearned runs.

There is considerable talk around town of bolstering the local Bay of Quinte entry and really getting into the baseball business in earnest. However, we doubt whether it is worth while, last night's gate receipts amounted to exactly $3.00, which meant an even dozen persons paid through the turnstiles. True enough it rained just about game time, but if the citizens had been interested in baseball they would have been in the stands before the rain commenced. No hit no run games do not come any too often in a lifetime, but when only a dozen fans are on hand to witness such performances when they do come along, it is pretty discouraging. We understand Bud Wilkins will not be able to be with the locals as coach for the next three weeks and the future of the game that once made Belleville popular is now in the balance. Some person should remember three clubs finish in the league play-offs.

A new record has been set for the indoor pole vault by Earl Meadows, former University of California athlete, competing in the Chicago indoor relays. The sensational Californian cleared the bar at 14 feet 6 1-2 inches, bettering the previous mark by an eighth of an inch. Meadows and Bill Sefton are regarded as the two best pole vaulters in the United States, if not in the entire world. Both men believe that before long the outdoor record will be stepped up to 15 feet.

Bill Fritz, Queen's student who created such a fervor with his middle distance running in New York last winter and considered Canada's outstanding quarter-miler, will race at the Princeton track meet on Saturday. Fritz will fly down to the meet that is to see two of the world's best milers, Glenn Cunningham and Syd Wooderson, of England meet. Two other unnamed milers will compete against Wooderson and Cunningham and Fritz may be one of them, although the half mile is his best effort. Wooderson, a small man in stature poured all his concentration and courage into running until he has become at 24, the No. 1 middle distance runner of his country. Wooderson only recently hove on the running horizon, but most auspiciously as he set the world record for the mile at 4.06.4. He also racked the half mile standard with a performance of 1.49.4. Cunningham is regarded as one of the best runners today in the world, but when Wooderson saw Lovelock beat Cunningham in the 200 metres at the last Olympics, the slight Englishman says he "learned more about running than he ever knew before."

Wooderson is as different from the complacent, callous, publicity-wise American athlete as day is from night. For one thing he is a little bit of a guy. He only weighs 126 pounds soaking wet and is about five feet six, standing on a newspaper. Cunningham, on the other hand, is light when he tips the beam at 160. Apparently Cunningham realizes Wooderson's ability, because recently Glenn stated: "Wooderson may beat me one race, but if we raced six times I'd win five of the races," predicted Cunningham. However, they're not racing six races, or even three, and it is as fair for one as the other. The Princeton A.C. will enter two others in the race, making it a four-man run, which might result in some rank outsider coming down in front and upsetting the old dope bucket, which is so frequent the case in these highly publicized sporting events of this modern day and age. Wooderson is a lawyer by profession and refused to appear at the National A.A.U. meet in Lincoln, Neb., owing to business.

Little Tommy Bridges hurled the Detroit Tigers to their eighth straight American League win yesterday as Mel Harder had harder luck, losing 1-0 to the Yankees, as both teams were limited to only four hits. Lefty Gomez hurled his fifth win of the year, as against two reverses, however. As the Cardinals bowed to the Dodgers, Goody Rosen, who is batting second now, had a perfect day at bat yesterday, three for three. The Reds were idle, but advanced their standing when the Cards lost.

We're telling you—They're all atwitter in Toronto over the naming of Tony Lazzeri as manager of the Leafs and a mammoth welcome is being planned for "Push 'em up Tony" next week when he takes over....In all but two innings last night Joe Kelleher set the Flyers back in succession striking out the side on two occasions.... The Boston Red Sox abandoned red-colored stockings in 1907 because of the "danger of dye infection" but the name Red Sox stuck .... Cricket can be a rough pastime at that—a 13-year-old grammar school student at Stratford broke his arm in three places after "throwing in" a ball during a school cricket game.....Two exhibition softball games were rained out last night, but the league schedule calls for games at the Flats and at Point Anne tonight.

GERMAN SLAYER DIES TOMORROW

Eugene Weidmann to be Decapitated in Paris for Deaths of Six Persons

BUYS $12 GRAVE LOT

Paris, June 16—(AP)—Eugene Weidmann, ready to go to the guillotine tomorrow on the same spot where Henri Landru, his predecessor in the "bluebeard" annals of France, died 17 years ago, has bought and paid for a $12 cemetery lot.

A German woman sent by the 31-year-old German ex-convict's family and identified only as "Frau Carlier" went to St. Pierre prison at Versailles shortly after Weidmann's pardon appeal was turned down yesterday by President Albert Lebrun.

Weidmann, former farmhand at Wilkie, Sask., who was deported from Canada in 1930, authorized her to purchase the lot and shortly afterward he paid for it—450 francs. In that lot will lie the body of the killer of six persons, including 22-year-old Jean De Koven, an American dancer. Miss De Koven was lured from Paris to the ex-convict's rented villa in suburban St. Cloud, where Weidmann strangled her July 23, 1937, and buried the body.

CZECH BATA

civic heads and upon those of the population who know the facts. Today and tomorrow telegraph wires will carry messages from Trenton, Belleville, Hastings County Council and other organizations and municipalities of the district urging the Prime Minister, the Minister of Immigration and the Federal Cabinet to remove the barriers that are holding up the project so that the plant will be able to get under construction as soon as possible.

Before Cabinet Council

The presidents of the Chambers of Commerce of Belleville and Trenton waited upon Mr. Charles A. Cameron M.P., for this constituency yesterday afternoon and received his assurance that all in his power to further the project will be done when the question is brought up in the Federal Cabinet Council next week.

Opposition on the part of shoe-manufacturers, it is expected will be made to the application to allow the required number of Czech technicians to enter Canada, said one conversant with the negotiations to locate near Frankford.

If these interests are successful in preventing the entry of the Czechs, the Bata Company will erect the new plant in South America, this was stated. But it is highly desirous to establish it here for two reasons, first, because of British preference and secondly, because of Canada's stability.

Five Year Plan for Company

The company, if successful in locating here will operate on the same plan as it does or did in its native Czecho-Slovakia. There it works on what is called a five-year plan. The first year, construction and operation of the plant is undergone. Gradually houses for its employees, theatres, recreation centres, in fact everything that goes to make a model self-contained community, are built. For every Czecho-Slovakian employee that works in the plant ten Canadians will be employed, the announcement stated.

To make a long story short, the new Bata Plant as planned at present, would absorb all the unemployment in Belleville, Trenton and this district.

Sees Vast Benefit to District

Interviewed last night, Reeve George Spencer, who has been mainly responsible for the endeavor for the securing of the plant near Frankford, stated that the new plant will be of inestimable value to this district. It will mean a tremendous boost to business and to the farmers.

"These people will buy hides, food, farm products, and in general the atmosphere of depression so long a shadow over Hastings County will be greatly removed," he said.

Shoe manufacturers of Canada will not be affected as much as is thought, it was said. The Bata Company will export ninety-eight per cent of its Canadian-manufactured products. Yearly it supplies between seven and eight million pairs of shoes to India alone. The erection and operation of the plant near Frankford calls for an immediate investment of two million dollars.

Plenty of Own Capital

"These people do not want any money, nor help. They have plenty of capital," an authority on the operation stated. "But what they do want and want right away is pressure to bear on the Federal Government to allow the entry into Canada of its technicians, experts and keymen without whom it cannot operate, in order that work on the new plant can start as soon as possible."

"Conditions of the site chosen by officials of the Bata Company a few weeks ago are ideal for their purpose", the authority stated. "There are plenty of 'forests', or woods as we term them, while shipping facilities are good. They were exceptionally well pleased with the conditions there and immediately took up options on fifteen hundred acres of farmlands in the vicinity."

Machinery from Bata

Far-sighted officials of the company apparently read the "hand-writing on the wall" following the sign'ng of the now famous Munich agreement. They immediately removed machinery valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars from their plants in Czecho-Slovakia. Thus when the German soldiers marched into the country last March, all they found was empty factories. As has been before stated a ship-load of this valuable machinery is now in Canada awaiting shipment to its ultimate destination.

$11,771.68 SPENT ON SNOW REMOVAL IN THE COUNTY

Report of Roads and Bridges Committee Tabled for Further Discussion

NEW WORK POSTPONED

$75,000 Only to be Spent in This County During Coming Year

Eleven thousand seven hundred and seventy-one dollars and sixty-eight cents, or one-seventh of the total monies appropriated this year for maintenance and construction on the roads and bridges system of the County of Hastings, was utilized last winter for the removal of snow from the system, the report of the Roads and Bridges Committee revealed yesterday when presented to council by Chairman James A. Moore. "This is a cause for real concern" the report stated.

Cost of snow removal last winter was $10,221.68, and in addition $1,550 worth of snow-fence was purchased. A year ago the cost was roughly $5,000, and the year previous $3,150.00. More snow-fence to the extent of many miles is needed to reduce the cost per mile to a figure the committee can afford but no funds are available for this purpose this year.

Adoption of the report, moved by Chairman Moore was withheld pending an address by a representative of the Department of Highways. Queries regarding the advisability of certain paving of gaps in the Belleville-Madoc highway will be asked. This matter is referred to in the report.

New Work Postponed

Reduction of the proposed expenditure on the roads and bridges system of the county from $91,414 as authorized by by-law, to an approved sum of $75,000 by the Department of Highways, will result in the postponement again of much desirable new work, the report stated.

"It means that the raising of sections of road at places that flood annually, eliminating bad hills and dangerous corners, erecting guard rails at many locations, and the purchase of more badly-needed snow-fence will have to be laid over until we can afford it" the report revealed. "The situation is further aggravated by the very high cost of snow removal last winter, and the increase in wages this year over last."

The county road system came through the spring break-up period extremely well, the report said. While the tremendous amount of snow and seasonal lateness delayed crushing operations by over a month, by working a longer day, the 10 miles of Belleville-Madoc road has been resurfaced and oiling completed a month earlier than last year. All work to date has been of the maintenance nature including resurfacing with crushed rock and gravel, culvert and guard rail repairs, cleaning ditches, dragging and such work.

More Oil Favored

More oil and less calcium chloride was favored this year by the Roads Committee, it was revealed, and dust-laying is being done as rapidly as roads can be prepared for each type of layer. Twenty-five percent of the $12,500 earmarked for this work will be used for chloride and the remainder for oil. This will dust-proof 57 miles of road, 38 of which have been treated to date.

The pressing need of a bylaw, which will enable the limiting of loads during the Spring break-up, to be legally enforced, was embodied in the report. The Committee was of the opinion that much needless damage to the system can be averted if this bylaw is passed and enforced.

Two motor graders are badly needed by the county, but due to financial conditions only one has been purchased. Approval of the Department of Highways was not received until May, and the machine was delivered on May 20th.

Lack of Finances

Lack of finances caused the committee to postpone the installation of low-cost pavement on the 2 1-3 miles of a road adjacent to Belleville in Sidney Township. The Standard Paving Company which has installed an asphalt plant in its Fuller gravel pit in Huntingdon Township, approached the committee with a view to paving the 1 1-4 miles of gaps in the Belleville-Madoc highway. This job is less costly than the one in Sidney as the mileage is only half, and the company have proposed to spread of the payments over three years. This matter is now under consideration, the report stated.

Bridges in Monteagle Township and on the boundary between Tyendinaga and Richmond Townships were inspected with a view to having them taken over by the county. A separate report will be presented regarding this decision.

A Major Problem

Demands of residents living on county roads that more miles be opened up in winter time by truck-plow, rather than the heavy fall of snow last year is constituting a major problem the report said.

The Committee planned last November to keep open 180 miles of county roads by this method, but so urgent were the requests from various parts of the county that this mileage was raised to 217.

Equipment was not adequate to cope with this situation. An additional 37 miles was kept open by horse-drawn plows, and 22 miles not opened at all. Toward the end of the winter 22 miles of the 254 had to be left blocked.

Recommend 2.188 Rate

The report included a recommendation that a 2.188 mill rate be levied for maintenance and construction on the County Roads and Bridges in 1939.

The expenditure for the six months ending May 31st, 1939 was $26,269.17 as compared to $22,969.67 for the same period a year ago. The increase was largely due to the increased costs of snow removal.

Discussion of the report followed in which it was pointed out by Road Superintendent Langlois, that the reason for the committee's change from calcium chloride for dust-laying purposes was because of public opinion. The chloride, it was stated, was injurious to cars, and other objects of metal construction. This opinion was corroborated by several reeves.

Time-Honored Argument

A request by Reeve George West, of Madoc Village for an explanation of the agreements between the villages and the county regarding road costs precipitated the time-honored argument regarding these matters. The question of rebate of county rates for road purposes to villages not having county roads brought about a mild discussion.

Reeve Linn—"Last year we had 3-4 of a mile of county road which cost us $200 to $300 to oil. Do I have to move now to get that money next year. It is not fair that the county should get a rebate on this."

Reeve Lumb—"I understand Bancroft should have got a cheque last April for our road money of last year. It didn't come through and I am asking for our 1938 money, 3-4 of $398 county rates now.

Road Supt. Langlois stated that if the Road Committees deem work necessary on county roads through a village, they do not need the sanction of the reeve of that municipality.

He believed money given Bancroft last year was a special grant and not a rebate as it did not come out of county road money.

Don't Need Oil

Reeve Linn— "Have the villages got any say in this council or not. We can put this money on streets that need it, our people won't stand for the present system. The road doesn't need oil this year and what's the use of spending money".

Reeve Lumb—"This money is not a special grant. We have no county roads, and thus can't spend money on them.

The Act states villages are entitled to 75 per cent of balance of county road rates not used in work, it was pointed out.

Reeve Hubbell—"There are several townships with no county roads, why aren't they entitled to this rebate?

"You are not villages. You get special grants, or regular grants," he was told.

"It looks to me as if you were putting it over the North as usual," Reeve Hubbell said amid laughter.

Reeve Moore — "Your assessment is $174. Your grants come to more than that.

Reeve Linn jumped to his feet. "That's right, the special grants to the north are double what they pay to the county.

Council adjourned at this point.

FIRST PLACE TIE FOR AMSTERDAM

Gloversville Helps the Cause by Defeating Oswego 9 to 8

(By The Canadian Press)

Only a little more than two weeks from the July 4 half-way mark, it looks as though the Canadian-American Baseball League is in for one of the closest pennant races in its short history. A blanket would cover the first three teams.

Amsterdam, with some assistance from Gloversville, moved into a virtual first place tie with Oswego last night by nosing out Ogdensburg 4-3. Glovers' help came in the form of a 9-8 victory over the leaders.

Although they outhit the Colts 13-3, Rugmakers didn't get the winning run until the ninth inning. Then Pat Hoyaradt's single scored Karpel who had come in as relief pitcher in the eighth and was credited with the victory. The loss dropped Colts a full game behind Amsterdam.

Five pitchers gave up 25 hits, including six home runs, in the game at Gloversville. The home team piled up an early lead, holding a 7-2 advantage at one time, but had it whittled down in the late innings and barely managed to pull through as the Nets tallied twice in the final inning.

Skaff batted in five runs for Oswego with a pair of circuit blows while Skilling and Conlon also rapped out homers for the losers. Gimpel and Lehman got the Gloversville four base blows, Gimpel's coming in the first inning with the bases loaded.

The Rome at Ottawa and Utica at Cornwall games were rained out.

Sports Roundup

New York, June 16 (AP)—Another and richer big league baseball club is eyeing Frank Lane, moss of the Reds' farm system....General Phelan announced Galento shifted from Asbury Park to Summit, N.J., because the latter spot afforded better training facilities—including we all hope, floor lamps that won't topple over and give Manager Joe Jacobs black eyes.

New York fight managers are organizing to keep out unethical competition. Haw!....Fight writers here have consigned Joe Jacobs to the doghouse for that cheap publicity hoax at Asbury Park Wednesday. ....His crack about Louis using a "persuader" on Max Schmeling not only reflected on Louis and his handlers, but made a sap of every scribe who went for it.... They say no fighter ever got a worse beating than Sam Snead took on the 18th hole at Philly Saturday.

The wires yesterday confirmed our line that St. Louis Brown directors were asked to come across with five grand apiece.....Jimmy Bradrock's London date with Tommy Farr is definitely off....Peter Reiser, toast of the Dodger training camp, is on the shelf with injuries and Elmira has the blues.

The Indians have released Luke Sewell as a player and resigned him as a coach and some insist the next step will be to fire him as a coach and re-sign him as a manager.

Big Shot for a Day

By MARTIE RAMSON

Lou Mann had a very peculiar way of making his selections. The bookies called it a phoney system. Born on the fifth day of the fifth month, in the year nineteen hundred and five, he sold himself on the theory that five was his lucky number. Each night he would study the entries in the evening paper and make a list of the names of the fifth horse in each race. He never consulted "dope sheets," nor did he care to know anything about the horse's sire or mammy, the weight it was toting, the distance or past performances.

Personally, I say that if you have a hunch, ride it to the sky. Now, Lou had what a horse player calls a criminal habit. He would tout himself away from his own selections, and quite often his number five horse would win, while his second choice—and incidentally, the horse he put his money on—would run out of the money.

No one had ever seen Lou do a real day's work. He had but one ambition in life, and that was to have his own office and make his own book. He always figured a bookie could not lose. He had too great a percentage in his favor. If he could only "get over" for a couple of hundred dollars that would be his next move. He had the location in mind, knew he could get "the service," and all that kept him from opening up was that couple of hundred. If he would only quit touting himself away from his number fives, he was sure of "hittin' it right."

May the fifth, nineteen hundred and thirty-five, is his birthday. Today, he told himself, would be his lucky day. It had to be for wasn't it the fifth day of the fifth month, nineteen thirty-five? Determined to stand or fall by his system, he framed a two-dollar parlay on Sister Zoe in the fifth race and Pacifist in the sixth race, both to win. Each horse was number five down the line of entries. Sister Zoe at a price of three to one, on the line, looks like the outstanding horse in the race. Pacifist is five to one, running against Irish Miss, a two to one favorite.

After Sister Zoe had won, Lou was undecided whether to draw off his winning or let the parlay stand. After much deliberation he decided to let it ride, hoping that number five would realize that today is his birthday. Well according to the fellow at the megaphone, Pacifist is running third at the quarter, Spud is second, and Irish Miss leading by two lengths. At the half Spud is leading by a neck, Irish Miss is second, with Pacifist trailing her by half a length. There's no call at the three-quarter, and during that intermission. I think Lou would have sold out for his original two dollars. Then the megaphone says, "They're in the stretch. Spud, a neck; Pacifist, a length; and Top Hat is third. Here comes the winner, boys." Another slight hesitation, during which Lou was having palpitation of the heart. Again the megaphone says, "The winner, Pacifist, by a length—" Second or third didn't matter with Lou. When the price came in on Pacifist, Lou collected fifty-six dollars and eighty cents. Not bad for a two-dollar parlay, is it?

In the last race, the fifth horse down the line is Last Chance. Lou had a lot of confidence in his number fives by this time. Besides, there was something suggestive here. Last Chance, in the last race, horse number five, on his birthday. For a moment, he was tempted to bet the whole thing on Last Chance. No, he told himself. What if the horse lost? Tomorrow was another day. He'd leave himself with a few dollars, just in case—

He did something that he had never done before. He bet ten dollars across the board, on Last Chance. He wanted to make a stake or no sale. Last Chance was an eight to one shot. Lou didn't want to hear the race come in, so he went out for a cup of coffee. By the time he returned, the race was over, the prices were in and Lou left there with two hundred and seventy-four dollars and some change.

Well, he reflected, he had "hit his stride." He would, at last, realize his ambition. He took a nice little office out on Fifty-fourth street, a busy little community. He knew that there were plenty of men employed in the various stores and banks who would like to make a bet now and then. He wasn't looking for too big a play, as his bank-roll wouldn't stand it. After fixing up the place, his two seventy-five had dwindled to one hundred and sixty dollars.

He spent a whole day letting the neighborhood know that he was open for business. Some places, he left a card or two.

The first day he was open, two young fellows from the bank came in. The first one makes a bet on a horse named Little Nell, and the second says, "If it's good enough for you, it's good enough for me. Make that twenty."

Well, well, figures Lou, twenty bucks for a starter isn't bad at all. He hopes these two fellows wouldn't forget the address. They didn't. The same two were back the next day, but Lou was out of business. Little Nell won and paid eight to one. Figure it out for yourself. By the way, Little Nell was the fifth horse down, on the entry sheet.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself in his private chair and ma said, I heard the most stirring talk this afternoon, Willyum, Jeffry Look the famous forrin correspondent and author of Looks With Look that had such a great sail, addressed the litterary chapter of the Dawters of Cleopattera on the subject Are Two Oceans Enough? He meant of course are we really so safe from attack as some people think, and his answer was by all means no, and if we dont quickly rearm to the last letter of the alphabet it will be too late, and I agree with him perfectly, she said.

ARGUING ABOUT MONEY

Every nation in the world has gone cockeyed over rearmament, pop said. What's really holding the wole works back is the currency question. In Germany and Russia there's plenty of money loose but nothing else is loose to buy with it, in France the frank is hardly worth a frog's leg where it should be worth it's weight in snales, and the Italian lira is only a shell of its former self. In America and England first it's gold and then it's silver and then nobody knows what it's going to be, if anything, so nobody can import and nobody can export, and the world's commodities are piled up where they'll do the least good, almost entirely because of this confounded money, and to make it worse they're adding a million dollers a minute to the general state of dett by piling up more armaments, he said.

That just proves my point, I mean that's the very identical reason this country and every other country should rearm, ma said. After they've payed for enough araments there wont be enough money left in the world to squabble about I mean in other words if it's just simply all gone why then it just simply cant keep them from getting together and doing something constructive, she said, and pop said, Yee gods that sounds so screwy there's probably something in it.

Being the end of the subject.

WALL STREET

New York, June 16—(AP)— A suspicion the stock market may have been "oversold" in the preceding session brought some traders back to the buying side in today's stock market.

While the going was slow throughout, early fractional losses were erased or converted into modest advances in many cases near the fourth hour. An assortment of minor declines, however, was still to be seen.

Shaded downward in the Canadian group were Distillers and Dome. In the bond market Dominion 4s dipped a small fraction.

Motors were aided by word General Motors' Michigan plants had resumed normal work for the first time in a week of labor difficulties. In addition a contra-seasonal jump in this week's automobile production was announced.

Support was accorded Chrysler, General Motors, U.S. Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda, Union Carbide, Allied Chemical, Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Standard Oil of N.J. and Texas Corp.

Backward were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Sperry, North American, Du Pont, Montgomery, Ward and Eastman Kodak.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, June 16 (CP)—Narrow, irregular trading featured the Toronto Stock Exchange today as operators favored specialties throughout an inactive session. Industrials were very irregular throughout, selective golds worked higher while base metals and western oils churned narrowly. Sales dropped to about 350,000.

Canadian Car and Foundry stocks posted additional gains as a result of the award by the mixed claims commission and other industrial groups, including the foods and the utilities were unchanged to slightly higher.

Active and strong golds included Kerr-Addison, O'Brien, Aunor and Uchi and in the base metal list Noranda, Smelters, Waite-Amulet and Nickel improved moderately on Thursday's closing prices.

Western oils were quiet with prices a little firmer for Home, Calgary-Edmonton and Okalta.

Baptists Hold Social at Halloway

Sponsored by the Young People's Society, a delightful social evening was held at Sidney Baptist Church, Halloway, on Thursday evening which was thoroughly enjoyed by a capacity audience.

Miss Aleita Horton conducted a devotional period to open the meeting, during which Rev. Mr. E. M. Cook of Marsh Hill United Church led in prayer and Mrs. Carson read a portion of scripture.

The musical entertainment which followed was appreciated to the full by the large gathering which included many of the Belleville Baptists as well as folk from the surrounding district. The following took part in the program:

Marjorie Park and Irene Coulter—vocal duet.
Arthur Wynne—vocal solo
Dorothy Reid—humorous reading
Mrs. G. Frederick—vocal solo
Muriel Jobson—vocal solo

A musical contest and an "askit basket" contest conducted by Miss Dorothy Reid, injected a splendid spirit of jollity throughout the auditorium and the bounteous supply of ice cream and refreshments which followed rounded out a thoroughly enjoyable evening.

Rev. Mr. P. Ward, pastor of Sidney Baptist Church, who performed the duties of chairman admirably, interjected several humorous stories into the program that kept a current of good nature running throughout the session.

Beaches Association Wants to Learn Extent Of Public's Support

Three New Members Appointed on Special Committee

An immediate effort will be made by members of the Quinte Bay Beaches Association of the city to discover the weight of public support behind the work of this association in the provision of a bathing beach at the east limits of the city on the Bay of Quinte, it was agreed at a special meeting of the Association last evening in the Y. M. C. A.

To this end, three new members have been appointed on the Association as a special committee to learn whether or not Belleville residents do support the work of the organization in the creation of a beach and scenic playground in this beach location. The members named are ex-Mayor Geo. A. Reid, Dr. Van Blakslee and Chris Lewis. They will be charged with a full investigation of the potentialities of this beach which has for some time past been in general use though not entirely finished, and with the discovery of the weight of public opinion on the matter.

No Permanent Chairman Appointed

As yet no permanent chairman of the Association has been named to succeed Mr. Reg Moncrieff, whose resignation was recently announced. Members agreed to delay the naming of a successor until it is definitely learned whether work will proceed on this project to its ultimate conclusion, or whether the beach will be abandoned in its entirety.

Though no longer chairman, Mr. Moncrieff has pledged his full support on further work connected with the beach, and assured members that he will use the same energy in the promotion of the beach as he has for the past four years since the project was first conceived by himself and a number of other citizens of Belleville.

Bancroft Man Held on Charge of Setting Bush Fires

Police investigations in conjunction with the Fire Marshal's Department of the Ontario Government, which have been conducted with the utmost secrecy for the past four years, yesterday resulted in the arrest of Barney Marquardt, Bancroft, who was held on a charge of setting bush fires in the vicinity of Bancroft, thereby damaging Canada's natural resources and threatening the lives of Canadians. Marquardt was admitted to bail on remand until June 20th when he will appear before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd at Bancroft.

The investigation by Deputy Fire Marshal William Stringer and Provincial Constable S. Palmateer, had been carried on for some time before the arrest was made. The charge arose out of a timber fire north of Bancroft in which more than 100 acres of valuable timber was destroyed.

According to Constable Palmateer, a number of fires were set on July 17, 1934 by Henry Marquardt.

CHEESE BOARD

A total of 2808 white, 86 colored and 161 assorted cheese offered on the Belleville Cheese Board last evening, all of June make, except a few from Sidney factory, sold at a price of 12 5-16 cents. Initial bid registered was 12 cents and bidding proceeded briskly from that point. Buying was fairly evenly distributed among Mr. Morton, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Fraleigh, Mr. McCreary and Mr. Cook.

Members of the Board were introduced to a new buyer last evening, Mr. Milton DeLong of Belleville. Questioned by the president as to whom he was purchasing for, Mr. DeLong reported only for himself.

submarine displacing 1,379-tons on the surface and 2,080 tons submerged. Its full complement is 67 men. It is armed with ten 21.7-inch torpedo tubes.

A sister ship to the Phenix, the Promethee, sank during trials in July, 1932 with a loss of 62 lives.

Loss of the Phenix would bring to three the number of underwater vessels lost since late last month.

The United States submarine Squalus became disabled off Portsmouth, N.H., May 26 during a trial dive. Twenty-six of the 59 aboard drowned in a compartment. The others were rescued in a diving bell.

Britain's new submarine H.M.S. Thetis plunged to the bottom as the forward compartments flooded through an open torpedo tube. Four men saved themselves by leaving the disabled craft with Davis "lungs". Ninety-nine men were drowned or asphyxiated.

Child is Crushed Between Truck, Car

Six-year-old Ronald J. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Elliott, 51 St. Paul Street, sustained serious internal injuries when crushed between a moving truck and the wall of his home last evening. The lad was rushed to the Belleville General Hospital where an x-ray disclosed no fractures had resulted, but the lad is being detained at the hospital for observation, Dr. A. Walters, who attended, stated to-day.

The boy was caught between the truck and the house after the emergency brake of the truck had been released by D. Howard, the driver of the truck. After the brake had been released the vehicle moved backward under its own weight, pinning the lad between the side of the house and the truck rack. As he heard the cries of the lad, Mr. Howard immediately stopped the truck and rendered what assistance possible. He did not see the small lad as he entered the cab, Mr. Howard assured P. C. Taylor upon his investigation.

No charges were deemed necessary, police revealed today.

KING AND QUEEN BID FAREWELL TO REPORTERS

Their Majesties Congratulated Newsmen and Women for Their Fine Work

SORRY TO LEAVE

By A. E. FULFORD

Halifax, June 16—(CP)—Saying farewell to the 55 reporters who have covered the tour of the King and Queen through Canada and into the United States, Their Majesties last night met the correspondents on board the liner Empress of Britain, shook hands with each of them and thanked them for their efforts.

"Are you tired?" the King asked many of the 49 newspapermen and six girl reporters who met them at Quebec and have been with them since.

Most of them answered they weren't but one girl reporter said later, "why I told a lie to the King. I'm tired as can be."

The Queen was gracious to all. She went down the line, shaking hands with everyone first, the King a step behind her. "Why I remember seeing you in Jasper," she said to one Canadian Press reporter. "It's perfectly amazing how you get around."

King in Happy Mood

The King was in happy mood. When a reporter asked him "are you tired?" he replied, "no but you look all fagged out old chap. I'll wager you're glad we're leaving you."

An English newspaperman who is going to Newfoundland said good-bye to the Queen and then added it probably wouldn't be good-bye because he'd see her at St. John's.

"I'll be glad to see you," the Queen said. "It will be pleasant to have a face we've seen through so many miles of Canada with us on the island."

The Queen had a special smile for the newspaper women. They all curtsied as well as their tired joints would permit. "My heart was right in my mouth" one girl reporter said a minute after the Queen passed by. Her Majesty heard the remark, looked back and laughed heartily.

An Informal Affair

The reception was an informal affair. The reporters were to have been presented to Their Majesties on the dock but the crush of war veterans who objected to the newspapermen standing before them was so great that arrangements were made to take them on the liner.

"We're sorry to leave you," the King told a Canadian Press reporter. "But I imagine you're glad to see the last of us, you've all done a tremendous job splendidly and I can't quite understand how you got about the country so quickly. You've been almost everywhere we've been and still had ot write your articles. I really think you've had a harder job than we have."

Then turning to look over the group, he said: "Thank you so much, we'll remember you all with gratitude."

Further Weakness In Butter and Eggs

Toronto, June 16.—Further weakness occurred in butter and eggs on the Toronto open produce market yesterday, according to the Dominion Department of Agriculture.

Prices were shaded down in spotty trading on the butter market. Supplies were not pressing, but buyers were indifferent to offerings. Ontario creamery solids eased to 21⅝c for No. 1 grades and 21c for 38 score. Prints traded at the unchanged levels of 23½c to 24c for top grades.

Poor demand prevailed on the egg market and receipts arrived in excess of requirements. Dealers reduced prices ½c to 1c per dozen in all sections in an effort to stimulate trading. Ungraded eggs changed hands at 17c for grade A-large, 15c for medium, 13c for B's, and 12c for C grades, while the graded division closed at 19½c for grade A-large, 17½c for medium, 15½c for B's, and 14½c for C grades. The retail section of the market reflected these declines.

Montreal Butter Steady.

Montreal, June 16.—The undertone of the butter and cheese markets was steady yesterday, but egg prices showed mixed tendencies, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reported.

Quebec No. 1 pasteurized in wholesale jobbing lots made 21⅝c. Receipts: 1,912 boxes.

Ontario white cheese was offered at 12⅛c a pound and colored for 12¾c. Quebec white traded for 11⅝c and colored for 11⅞c. Receipts: 1,216 boxes.

Graded egg shipments in used free cases were offered at 20c-21c a dozen for A-large, 17½-18c for A-medium, 17c for B-large, 15c for C. Receipts: 547 cases.

GREAT BRITAIN

"But if, unhappily, the new demands foreshadowed from official Japanese sources in North China should be persisted in, then it must be said at once that an extremely serious situation will arise and that the British government will have to consider what immediate and active steps they can take for the protection of British-interests in China."

Sidelights on Royal Visit

Halifax, June 16—(CP)—For the people of Canada, Prime Minister Mackenzie King presented Queen Elizabeth before her sailing with a twin silver fox stole trimmed with white gold clasps, it was announced last night.

At the private presentation, the Prime Minister also sent the Queen Mother Mary, through Queen Elizabeth, an Arctic white stole. For the Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, who stayed home, there were sets of marten scarves and muffs.

Halifax, June 16—(CP)—A group of Micmac Indians usurped space reserved for the press at the city hall reception for the King ..and Queen yesterday. But it didn't bother the newspapermen. When the King and Queen arrived both reporters and Indians climbed on an old field gun to get a better view.

Halifax, June 16—(CP)—The old gaelic tune "The Road to The Isles" is a favorite with Scottish Queen Elizabeth. Pipe and fife and drum bands played it at least 10 times during Their Majesties' visit.

Halifax, June 16—(CP)— The royal visit to Canada and the United States has shown the power of goodwill in further international relations, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said last night at a luncheon attended by newspapermen associated with covering the royal tour.

"We have all had the opportunity to see the part played by the crown in the affairs of British communities," Mr. Mackenzie King said. The function of the crown in British communities, he continued, was its faculty of bringing together all parts of the community above party, class, race or creed.

Halifax, June 16—(CP)— Arthur S. Barnstead, Nova Scotia's Deputy Provincial Secretary, carried out his duties of arranging for the royal reception and farewell at Halifax despite deep personal bereavement. Only after the King and Queen had departed, did it become known generally that his father, John Barnstead, died Wednesday.

Halifax, June 16—(CP)—A few minutes before her parents returned from Halifax after seeing King George and Queen Elizabeth depart from Canada, five year old Carrie Hopkins died at East Jeddore, Halifax County village, last night.

The child had been left in the care of a 14 year old girl whose parents also were in the city. When the other girl poured oil on the kitchen fire, a burst of flame from the stove ignited the Hopkins' child's clothing and burned her terribly.

Outfitting Britain's 200,000 Militiamen Is Tremendous Task

July 1st, the date when the first of Britain's 200,000 militiamen are to be called up for Army service, will mark a milestone in British industrial expansion as well as in military history.

Within the next twelve months the factories of Great Britain will be called on to clothe not only the 200,000 militiamen, but also about 200,000 extra Territorials, at a cost of more than £4,000,000.

Preparations have been made to deal with this influx of new business without interfering with normal clothing needs for the three fighting services, and without slowing down the production of cloth for export or for Britain's 47,000,000 civilians of all ages and both sexes.

The vast wollen mills of Yorkshire, the world-famous cotton mills of Lancashire, the mass-output clothing manufacturers all over the Kingdom, and the great boot-making firms have already mobilised their resources to meet the Army's demands.

About 3,000 miles of khaki, enough to span the Atlantic Ocean, is being made for the new classes of fighting men, and British boot manufacturers are now at work on 1,000,000 pairs of boots to meet the needs of these Forces.

The "Service Dress" of each soldier will cost about 10 pounds and consist of:

one cap; two khaki suits; three pairs of woollen socks; two shirts; set of woollen underclothes; one pair of boots; anti-gas equipment.

Priority is being given to the production of this uniform. "Battle Dress" and "Walking-out Dress" will be made while the new Armies are undergoing their training.

Huge machines fitted with "guillotine" knives can cut out the soldiers' suits to the required shapes and sizes in a continuous operation, and so mechanised has become the manufacture of military shirts that a long strip of cloth goes in at one end of a machine and comes out as a complete shirt at the other. The whole process takes only 60 seconds, after which the shirt requires only a little hand-trimming before it is ready for the soldier to wear.

At every factory Government inspectors, representing the War Office, are liable to arrive day or night without notice and examine any articles to make sure they are being made to the exact specifications of quality, size, and workmanship which the State demands for her soldier sons.

Council Hopes to Set Rate Of 45½ Mills for Year 1939

Surplus of $5,000 from Last Year Despite Cut of 3½ Mills

ESTIMATES PARED

In spite of increased expenditures in many departments, and decreased revenues during the year, a saving of one mill in this year's tax rate will again be passed on to Belleville ratepayers, it was announced this morning as the result of last evening's committee meeting of council at which estimates for the year were scanned.

This year the city's revenue is down $3,100 through the loss of slot machine licenses, but in spite of this a surplus of $5,000 from last year is reported, despite the cut in the tax rate of 3 1-2 mills last year.

Repairs will be necessary on the city hall this year, which repairs will include painting, the first time in nineteen years, and the installation of new eave troughing at a cost of $1200.

This year the department of public works will ask for the sum of $31,250, as against the sum of $26,000 for last year. Snow-shovelling costs this year were $5,000 above that of last year. Re-assessment of the city will cost $3,500, a sum greater than expected, and the special audit for the city will cost $1,200. Appropriations for salary for aldermen will cost $3,900, and in referring to this cost, it is pointed out by Mayor Bone that increasingly heavier business has resulted in more and longer meetings of council. Matters connected with social legislation and relief have been the chief business of many of the council.

Last evening in committee, council pared estimates of nearly every department, cutting two and three hundred dollar items from the estimates. Through this effort it was possible to make the one mill reduction, which will bring this year's tax rate down to 45 1-2 mills.

"If the council did not go ahead with the necessary repairs to the city property, the purchase of new equipment, the erection of new traffic lights on East Bridge and Pinnacle, the repairing of roads and many other items, we would have been able to bring in another 2 1-2 mill reduction", announced Mayor Bone.

The Mayor added: "I have been strongly urging council not to accept the estimates of this year's Board of Education It is only proper that the Board should collect their own revenue needed for the year."

POLICE COURT

William Lusk, 16-year-old Belleville youth, was given a six months' suspended sentence when he appeared in city police court for sentence before Magistrate E. J. Butler K.C., today. Lusk was convicted of the theft of a quantity of oil and a set of socket wrenches, the property of Madill's garage, in a previous court and had been remanded in custody for sentence.

"I hope you had time to realize the seriousness of your actions while you were incarcerated. You are apparently heading in the wrong direction, young man, but I hope you see the folly of your erring ways now," lectured His Worship.

"Yes," replied Lusk, who was immediately checked by Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan K.C.

"You might learn to say 'Yes, Sir,' I do, when addressing the Magistrate", suggested Mr. Donnan. Lusk was given into the custody of his parents on a six months' suspended sentence.

A domestic case was held in camera, after the court had been cleared. A local man was charged with non-support, Jacob Goodman, counsel for the accused man, assuring the court a settlement would be forthcoming.

No arrests were again necessary on Belleville leaving the cell block available to the 12 transients, who sought shelter from last night's rain.

Plainclothes Constable Fred Isard accompanied Thos. Thorne, city dog pound custodian, to a Church Street address, where a dog was shot. The animal was annoying the neighbours and had become a menace in the community.

LIGHTNING BOLT KILLS 2, INJURES 5

Parks Department Workers at Kitchener Took Shelter Under a Tree

Kitchener, Ont., June 16—(CP)—Lightning killed two men and injured five here last night when it struck into a group of parks department workers huddled under a tree for protection from the storm.

The bolt left only a few small scratches on the tree under which the men were standing but it splintered a shovel handle held by one of its victims.

Those killed were Lewis Wicks, 58, and Bill Dedyna. For five hours men toiled over them in vain efforts at resuscitation.

Injured were Eric White, Joseph Dunbrook, Duncan Scott, Peter Macmar and Henry Scholl. Of these Dunbrook alone was taken to hospital. The others were stunned or suffered only minor injuries.

One of the men said that there was only one bolt of lightning during the rainstorm and it was the bolt that brought death into the group of Kitchener men.

"We ran under the tree to save ourselves from getting wet, and had only been there a minute when the bolt struck," he said. "We were scattered all over. Some of us got up and walked around, but three others remained quite still. Then all I remember is some men running down from the sewage plant. When they got up to us they started artificial respiration on Wick and Dedyna.

Royal Passenger List Of Empress of Britain Souvenir of Tour

Among the many souvenir publications of the royal visit to Canada and the United States one of the most attractive is a souvenir passenger list which has been issued by the Canadian Pacific for Their Majesties' return voyage to England in the Empress of Britain.

Printed in green and pale gold decorative additions in which the Royal Cipher frequently appears, the booklet is a real souvenir for Their Majesties and members of the Royal party.

It is liberally sprinkled with photographs of Canadian scenes visited by the Royal party, and the front and back covers display reproductions of paintings by Charles W. Simpson, R.C.A., depicting the departure of Their Majesties from Halifax and their arrival at Quebec.

Names of all members of the Royal party, the Empress of Britain's own officers, the commanding officers of cruisers in the Naval Escort, a description of the Empress of Britain and much information about the St. Lawrence route, is included in the eight page volume, in the centre of which is a four-page spread of pictures showing scenes at various ports visited by the Empress of Britain on her world cruises.

PROVINCIAL

Premier Bracken's statement dealt with both these subjects as follows:

"For the past month the thoughts of the Canadian people have been in harmonious agreement on one subject. Nothing in our history has so absorbed and unified the nation's thinking as the visit of our King and Queen. Nothing before has so firmly established the British throne in the minds and hearts of all our people.

"Is it too much to hope that with this evidence of unity before us, we can in the same spirit of unanimity approach the pressing problems that the nation has to face?"

Premier Aberhart asserted the visit had not only awakened a national spirit, but had given Canadians "an appreciation of their high position in the Empire and it has made the world Canada-conscious to a degree unknown before."

New World Markets

The leader of the world's only Social Credit government added:

"It has thrown open the portals of new world markets to the products of Canadian farms, mines, forests and waters, and it has given to the world a greater knowledge of the diversions Canadian parks and playgrounds offer the tourist.

"Finally, it has left in the minds of millions of Canadian boys and girls an ever-fresh memory of the manners and appearance of their King and of the magnetic smile and motherly charm of their Queen—a memory which, as these children cherish it, they will strive to emulate; a memory which, during all their lives, will make theirs a personal song prayer when they sing 'God Save The King'."

Deep-Rooted Attachment

Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia had the following comment:

"The visit of Their Majesties exemplified the deep-rooted attachment of the Canadian people to the motherland and the feelings of our people found more ready manifestation by reason of the understanding personalities of the King and Queen.

"The enthusiasm displayed in the United States was an expression of goodwill from the heart of the American people.

"The love of the King and Queen for humanity is so openly evident and the response of the people is a tribute to their personal charm."

Premier Campbell also referred to the personal charm of Their Majesties as one basic reason for the impressive success of the visit.

"Canadian unity should receive a great stimulus from the fact that every province has shared in the reception of our common King and Queen," the Prince Edward Island Premier said.

"Community spirit has been fostered by the admirable co-operation of all classes toward the object of making our welcome a success.

"An indelible impression has been made upon Canadians of all creeds and classes, and especially upon the school children, who have shared in enjoying the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth."

Difficult to Express

Premier Patterson said the visit meant so much to Canada, so deeply touched the people and produced such profound impressions that it was difficult to express them.

"It was indicated that our people are firmly attached to the British method and system of government, knowing that a limited monarchy is not incompatible with the greatest measure of liberty and self-government.

"The visit has demonstrated, too, that, despite sectional differences, there is an essential spirit of unity existent throughout the entire Dominion and that Canada has proceeded much further along the way towards nationhood than most of us had appreciated. These are only some of the many quite evident effects, but these alone are sufficient to indicate the immeasurable value of the visit of Their Majesties to this Dominion."

Not at his office in Toronto, Premier Hepburn of Ontario was not available for comment. Replies were also not received at once from Premier Duplessis of Quebec, Premier Dysart of New Brunswick and Premier MacDonald of Nova Scotia.

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

"Wait till you get one ON, darling." Jo laughed. "Now, let's see about the stage setting. He can't come to get you at your apartment. Guess you'll have to move in here, for the pretense. We'll be three little gals from school......" She stopped to execute an impromptu dance.

"We're Lin and Jan and Jo," she improvised.

"Three little girls in a row,

"So, yo-ho-ho and a bucket of.."

She stopped midway in a pirouette and dashed for the kitchen, returning a moment later with a bottle—tall, dark and with gilt foil cap.

"Linda," she panted, "I've been saving it for my own wedding, but I'm afraid it won't keep that long. Let's drink to happiness for little Linda!"

When they had finished, Janice's glass was hardly touched.

Before Linda left them, they had decided that Mrs. Blauer must be taken into their scheme, although Janice volunteered to switch places with Linda and to keep Mickey on the nights that Linda had dates.

As she was leaving for work the next morning, after Mrs. Blauer had arrived to keep Mickey for the day, Linda said:

"Bertha, a young man is calling for me tonight. I'm going to have him meet me in Jo and Janice's apartment, because—well, because I don't want him to know I'm married, just yet. Do you mind staying with Mickey?"

"Mind?" Mrs. Blauer echoed. "Do I ever mind keeping the darlin'? I'd like to keep him the rest of my life! But Linda...." she hesitated, and then resolved to speak frankly.

"Linda, dear," she said. "Do you think it's exactly right to keep a young man in the dark that way. I'm just a nosey old woman, but if he's not the kind of a man who would love our Mickey, he's good riddance, say I. You know, dear the best laid plans of mice and men—well, you know what happens to them...."

"Thanks, Bertha," Linda said. "I've thought it all out, and my mind's made up. I know you'll like him, too—when you know him."

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

Linda thought of Mrs. Blauer's reaction, as she stopped for a quick cup of coffee before going into the building for work. Both Mrs. Blauer and Janice had warned her against the deception she was about to practice. Jo had spurred her on. And Mr. Avon — strange what reliance she placed in the judgment of a virtual stranger had told her to "go ahead if it would make her happy."

Linda was sipping her hot coffee when she heard a familiar sound. It was a sound familiar to every early coffee-drinker in the corner coffee shop. It was a bird-like, trilling whistle.

"Oh-oh, she said to herself, "Oriole's out again."

"Oriole Walters was the elevator starter at Titan Tower. He had another name, but no one seemed to know it. His virtuosity at whistling bird notes, which thrilled Oriole even more than it thrilled his involuntary audiences, was his trade-mark. It was only a part of his fame, however. The other part rested upon his reputation for being the vocal newspaper of Titan Tower. No event connected with the building was too unimportant to escape his note; none was too trivial to be unworthy of a special broadcast by Oriole Walters.

Oriole's diet was nearly as spectacular as his talents. Alphonse, the griddleman at the coffee shop, always had an eye—an ear—out for Oriole's matutinal call.

Oriole entered, sat beside Linda and ordered canned peaches, with the juice drained, and spread with honey.

"Peaches—under the drier; bee-sweet," Alphonse intoned, topping it off with a whistle blast that sounded like the Sunset Limited at a grade crossing.

Oriole didn't bat an eye. He was practically insult proof, although Al—and several of the customers—tried their best.

"Good morning," Oriole said pleasantly to Linda, and fell to chatting, while waiting for his order.

"You know," he said, "that little Hanson girl in Dr. Schwartz's office—that little blonde that married Ed, on the fourth elevator? Yes, Ed Warren. Oh dear, no she's not with Dr. Schwartz NOW. She's had a baby. My heart goes out for those two kids; what a fix they're in now—with only one salary and a new baby. Well, they WILL do it...."

He babbeld on, and Linda did her best to pay no attention without outright snubbing. She was succeeding rather well until Oriole got down to the third or fourth news item on his morning broadcast.

When Linda heard the words, "that little Marberry, the sweet thing, with the brown eyes," she was all attention.

"....She's a quiet little thing, and butter wouldn't melt in her mouth—but...." Oriole was saying. And Linda knew he was talking about Janice.

"Well, it looks as though she was doing all right for herself, despite her quiet ways," the starter continued. "What with that Blaine boy so crazy about her, although they both try to hide it.

"Sure, Blaine—the son of Old Man Blaine, himself. Well, Marberry—you know she's in the big insurance office on the nineteenth floor—certainly must have learned lots about insurance. Looks like she's going to marry a permanent annuity....But don't say that I told you...."

Linda paid her check and left. This didn't seem to make sense. It was grotesque. Not little Janice of all people; not Jan. Why, she had told Jan over and over again, that Bill Blaine was the man—and Janice hadn't said a word. Janice was true and fine and loyal. Janice wasn't the type to allow Linda to make a fool of herself that way. Must be only Oriole's idle, malicious gossip. Wait a minute!

Wasn't it Janice who had argued so strongly AGAINST Linda's move? Wasn't it Janice who had tried to dissuade Linda from going with Bill Blaine?

"If I loved a man," Linda could still hear Janice's word, ".... no half measures."

Little Marberry on the nineteenth floor, Oriole had said. The nineteenth floor! Of course. "Dr. William Meredith Blaine, 1902-12." Wasn't THAT on the nineteenth floor, too?

How blind you've been, Linda, how utterly, stupidly blind! Babbling like a stricken schoolgirl, of love and romance, with little Janice—sweet little Janice—laughing up her sweet little sleeve.

No, Linda thought, let's not go conclusion-jumping like that, on the mere say-so of an Oriole Walters. Let's wait and see for ourselves. No ducking out from under now, Linda; no reneging on what you've let yourself in for.

Linda would go through with it, all right. She'd be there when Bill Blaine called tonight for his date. She'd be there—with bells on.

And—don't forget—little Janice would be there, too! Right there, where Linda may watch her and see what's what....

★ MAN OF CONQUEST

RICHARD DIX
GAIL PATRICK EDWARD ELLIS
JOAN FONTAINE

"REMEMBER THE ALAMO!" With this moving battle-cry on their lips, the men follow Houston to avenge the death of their fellow Texans. Houston prepares for his ultimate victory with methodical precision. For days, he retreats before the superior numbers of Santa Ana's conquering horde. His men, eager for the fight, threaten to turn against Houston, but he patiently bears their scorn.

SANTA ANA, fooled into false security by Houston's apparent fear of a decisive battle, marches on heedless of the trap that Houston is setting for him. Finally, with Santa Ana camped with a river to his back, Houston swoops down upon him suddenly, and the very suddenness finds Santa Ana unprepared.

BEFORE he can organize his men into an adequate defense, Houston's small army has prevailed; and, in fifteen minutes of decisive fighting, Texas wins her cherished freedom from the yoke of Santa Ana, and the Lone Star flag flies over the independent Republic of Texas.

DURING Sam Houston's second term as president of Texas, Texas joins the United States, and Houston, his task accomplished, stands by with Margaret Lea, now his wife. The Stars and Stripes replace the Lone Star flag over Texas.

BACK in Tennessee, Jackson, dying, hears the news of Texas' union with the United States. The most cherished hope of his life is realized, and he expresses his joy with the enthusiastic whisper that has all the power that his fast waning strength can muster: "All is safe at last. My old friend and companion in arms, Sam Houston, has been true to his trust." Thus ends the story of Houston, as brought to the screen in Republic's noteworthy picture, "Man of Conquest."

Bata Co. Assured Frankford If 250 Key-Men Allowed In Huge Shoe Plant Will Involve Many Millions' Outlay

Canadian Workmen When Trained, Will Gradually Replace Technicians from Czecho - Slovakia, High-Ranking Official States in Press Conference at Trenton Today

FIVE YEAR PLAN

Plant to be Erected Around Model Self - Contained Community — Park Site Under Option — Official Foresees Solid Industrial Centre Between Trenton and Frankford — Application for Entry of Key-Men to be Made in Ottawa in Few Days

Trenton, Ont., —(Special)— The huge Canadian manufacturing plant of the Bata Shoe Manufacturing Company of Czecho-Slovakia is definitely assured for the locality near the village of Frankford, a high-ranking official of the company told newspapermen in a press conference in the Hotel Gilbert here today.

"The plant and its subsidiaries that will involve the spending of millions of dollars here will go into definite construction providing the Federal Goverhment of Canada gives permission for 250 Czech keymen to enter Canada. In the due course of time, as Canadians become expert in the work they will replace the native technicians, the representative stated.

Formal application for the entry of these men will be made before the Federal Cabinet next week.

If the permission for the entry to Canada of these key-men is not granted, machinery at present stored in Montreal for shipment to Frankford, will be diverted to Baltimore, Md., where an American plant of the company is now under construction.

Present Sales in Canada

Up to the present time the market for Bata shoes in Canada has been 300,000 pairs. The ultimate requirement will be one-half million pairs, the representative added.

The largest plant of the company is located in Zlin, Czecho-Slovakia, while other plants are in operation in Tilbury, England; Poland; Switzerland; France; India; Nigeria; South Africa; and the U.S.A.

Five-Year Expansion Plan

The company will operate on a 5-year expansion plan. The first year, several factories will be built around which a model town will be constructed. This will comprise modern double-dwellings for factory men and families. It will have its own schools, co-operative stores, churches, theatres, parks, swimming pools, and transportation services from Frankford daily.

300 to 400 First Employed

At the start 300-400 men will be employed, 250 of whom are Czech keymen, the balance to be Canadians drawn from Trenton and district. At the end of 5 years the number of employees will exceed 2,000, and at that time practically all will be Canadians.

The key men will act as instructors and will be replaced by Canadians as soon as they are competent to take over the work. Of these 250 key men, 40 will be factory instructors, about 70 will be engineers and research men, others there will be teachers, landscape gardeners and others.

Recreation Park

The company plans to transform a large wood on the west side of the Trent River into a recreation park.

Within a short time all research and engineering work for this large firm for the entire British Empire will be carried on in the Frankford plant.

Asked how the project would affect district unemployment, Mayor Harry Corey, said: "There won't be any unemployed employable men in any section adjacent to this plant. We have a definite agreement with this firm, that outside of the key men, all local labor will be used both in building and operation of this plant."

Asked what production the plant might have the representative stated in the home plant in Czecho-Slovakia, 250,000 pairs of shoes were produced daily. The present head of the firm, Thomas Bata, son of the founder, will be spending most of his time in Canada at the Frankford plant.

Local Area Assured

This industry is definitely assured the local area, unless the decision of the Cabinet-in-Council should prohibit the immigration of the key men.

Should decision be favorable, transportation of machinery from Montreal to Trenton will begin at once.

Several millions of dollars will be spent around Frankford if the project is made possible. The district between Frankford and Trenton will be a solid industrial centre, the representative said.

The first intimation of the arrival of the industry in the local area was received by the Trenton Chamber of Commerce and through their efforts and those of Reeve Geo. Spencer of Frankford, negotiations have reached the present stage.

JAMES MILLER'S BODY IS FOUND FLOATING IN LAKE

Body is Discovered by Two Fishermen Near Waupoos While Lifting Nets

NO INQUEST

Picton, Ont., June 17 (Special)—Discovered floating in the waters of Lake Ontario about two miles from Waupoos where their eighteen foot motor skiff capsized forty-one days ago, the body of James Miller thirty-year-old Picton resident, drowned with Andrew Goodwin 54, also of Picton, was recovered yesterday by Frank Storms, and Morley St. Pierre, Prince Edward County fishermen.

The body of Goodwin was recovered a few days ago floating in the water a few hundred yards from the scene of the double-drowning tragedy.

Chief Coroner Dr. D. S. Lighthall immediately visited the scene of the finding of Miller's body yesterday and decided that no inquest be held.

TENSE RELATIONS AGGRAVATED AT TIENSTIN, CHINA

Japanese Soldiers Arrest British Exporter Following Argument

PREPARE FOR SIEGE

British Government Believes A Show-Down Coming Within Few Months

Tientsin, June 17—(AP)— Tense Anglo-Japanese relations were aggravated today when Japanese soldiers arrested G. A. Smith, a British exporter, following an argument between him and a Chinese policeman outside the British concession.

Smith was alleged to have struck the Chinese in the face. An unidentified companion then circulated a story, later disproved, that a Japanese sentry shot dead a man believed to be a White Russian. The British Consul General took steps to obtain Smith's release.

Informed Britons said they were preparing for a long "siege" in the belief that only the solution of the larger issues between Japanese and foreigners could end the Anglo-Japanese crisis arising from a Japanese blockade of Tientsin's British and French concessions imposed four days ago.

Food Prices Soar

An air of pessimism and a fatalistic acceptance of their situation was noticeable among foreigners, as food prices soared, a milk shortage caused hardships among children and Japanese urged Chinese to bring independent pressure on the British authorities to accede to the Japanese demands.

In qualified British quarters the view was expressed that a "showdown is coming within a few months, probably involving the Shanghai International Settlement as well as the Tientsin concessions" and that "the times will be difficult, but the chief danger lies in the fact that a grave incident may occur, involving the use of armed force."

WILL HAVE MEMORY ONLY

Detroit, June 17—(CP)— Sean Russell, leader of the outlawed Irish Republican army, has written authorities asking for his prisoner's uniform as a souvenir of the few days he spent in jail here recently for a breach of immigration regulations.

Russell, now free on bond in New York, will have to be content with memories of his Detroit stay because the government will not give prison equipment away.

King and Queen Deeply Touched By Welcome at Newfoundland

St. John's, Nfld, June 17—(CP Cable) — Following is the text of the King's radio address delivered today from here:

It is a great pleasure to me to find myself once again in the capital city of this, the oldest colony in my Empire, where the Queen and I have been deeply touched by the warmth of the welcome given us on all sides from the moment we set foot on shore at Holyrood.

I still cherish the happy memories of my last visit to the island in 1913, when I was a cadet aboard H.M.S. Cumberland, and I have never forgotten the kindness and hospitality which I then received at your hands.

It is with deep feeling that I refer to the part played by Newfoundland in the Great War, the exploits of the Royal Newfoundland regiment and the splendid work of the members of the Newfoundland Royal Naval Reserve during the war, which have a proud place among the annals of the Empire.

I well know that in recent years Newfoundland and, like other parts of the world, has suffered from a period of severe economic stress; but the qualities of courage and endurance which have never failed the people of this country in the past will, I am confident, enable them once more to surmount their difficulties.

I am glad indeed to have this opportunity of expressing to all my subjects throughout the length and breadth of the Island and also those in Labrador my personal interest in their welfare, my deep sympathy with them in the trials which they have had to face, and my appreciation of their loyalty.

May God grant us all peace and prosperity.

Although Halifax was the last place to be visited by the King and Queen during their tour of Canada, it was not by any means the least. Thousands of enthusiastic Nova Scotians gathered in the city to greet the royal couple and to wish them Bon Voyage on their departure for home. During their visit Their Majesties admired Betty, Mary Ann and Mary Lou Salterio, 8-months-old triplets. Proud father Salterio is shown nearly hidden at the left, while Mrs. Salterio is standing beside the Queen. Premier Angus MacDonald may be seen over the King's shoulder.

Hope Abandoned Owing to Depth And Swift Current

Submarine Plunges, Not to Reappear, Off Naval Base in French Indo-China, Official Report Says

RUMORS OF SABOTAGE

Air Exhausted by Early Today is Opinion of French Naval Authorities at Saigon, French Indo-China

Saigon, French Indo-China, June 17—(AP)—An official French Government communique said today 71 officers and sailors were lost aboard the French submarine Phenix which disappeared Thursday off Cam-Ranh naval base.

Death for the men whose number previously was given by officials as 63 was considered "certain", the communique said.

The depth of the ocean and two day's failure to locate the submarine were advanced as reasons for lack of hope. Naval authorities calculated that the Phenix's air supply was exhausted today.

Flags on French naval units were at half-mast and the city went into formal mourning.

'Salary Grab' is Charged To Belleville City Council By Board of Education

Claimed Addition to School Would Not Cost as Much in Twenty Years as Salary of Council Members for That Time

MOTION DEFEATED

Members of Board Defeat a Motion to Accept Remuneration for Services During the Present Year

Belleville Board of Education members at last evening's meeting, almost before the chairman in Committee of the Whole, Trustee F. G. Cushing, had finished reading the recommendation, went on record as unanimously and definitely opposing any effort of the Board to provide salaries or remuneration for Trustees, and took advantage of the occasion to couple their opposition to grants in any civic body with a smarting excoriation of city council members for having voted themselves salaries for regular meetings.

Whether the recommendation by the committee of school management, that the secretary of the Board be asked to write council for authority to grant Trustees the sum of $25.00 per month for services rendered was introduced to the general meeting in full faith of accomplishment, or whether its introduction was to serve merely as an opening for a reply to council's action in salary grant, was an open question it was admitted. But no sooner was its reading completed, than Col. E. A. Geen jumped up with the motion that this recommendation be not carried.

"I'm going to oppose this right from the hilt. I don't believe it is an honorable action for this body like the Board of Education, elected without thought of salary or emolument, to do so. And I don't believe, that any civic body elected to a position of trust should even ask for such remuneration or salary, especially after they have taken office without indicating in any manner they would do so", protested Col. Geen.

Declaring that city council's action was no more nor less than "a salary grab" Dr. J. W. Kinnear also protested the recommendation vigorously.

"The Board of Education has no legal right to accept money for its services this year, but it does have as much legal or moral right as council has had, or the Public Utilities Commission.

"Members of city council were elected by the taxpayers as patriotic citizens, who were to accept office to look after the affairs of their city to the best of their ability without any thought of salaries. When they did vote themselves these salaries, they betrayed a trust.

WESTERN LANDS RECEIVE SOAKING

One Inch and One-Half of Rain Falls at Oxbow, Saskatchewan

Regina, June 17—(CP)— Rains ranging from an inch and a half at Oxbow, in the southeast where it is needed most, to a half inch at Regina, soaked Southern Saskatchewan grain lands yesterday while the Swift Current Creek rose three feet and several small bridges were washed out.

The precipitation was part of rains which were general over Western Canada.

Only areas in Saskatchewan which appeared not to have shared in the moisture were in the northeast, around Yorkton and Canora, and the extreme east, including Moosomin.

At Shaunavon, Assiniboia and Maple Creek, in the southwest, rain which started falling early Thursday evening continued throughout yesterday. Mud roads in these areas were almost impassable.

As Swift Current moisture brought precipitation for the season up to seven inches and put the Swift Current Creek in flood.

General Maurice Gamelin Entrusted With Control in Future European War

(By J. F. Canderson Canadian Press Staff Writer).

London, June 17 (CP Cable) — General Maurice Gamelin, taciturn and brusque Frenchman known to his countrymen as their "second Napoleon," is the man most likely to be entrusted with the supreme control of the British and French armies in any future European war.

This 66-year-old philospher-soldier has been credited with directing two of the most damaging smashes of the Great War, turning the German right wing at the Marne in 1914 and the counter offensive of July, 1918, which led to the Armistice.

During the past year Britain and France have perfected their war plan to remarkable degrees and from experience gained in the early days of the Grreat War, there is no doubt a supreme commander would be appointed.

There was equally little doubt that the Generalissmo would be Gamelin, the most distinguished soldier of France—some say of Europe.

Born in Paris, Gamelin grew up in the shadow of the War Ministry. He entered Saint Cyr—the Royal Military College of France—and today is supreme commander of the French army, navy and air force, holding in his fingers more armed power than any other Frenchman has held since the days of the little Corsican.

Studied From Many Books

As a young cadet, Gamelin attended lectures by Marshals Foch and Joffre and studied every book he could find bearing on Napoleon's strategic genius. He became private secretary to Joffre who spotted the quiet efficiency and and thoroughness which has characterized Gamelin's professional life.

Frenchmen credit Gamelin with suggesting to Joffre the idea of turning the German flank at the Marne. But Gamelin who never has been a great talker declines to discuss it. He became Joffre's Chief of Staff in 1915 and finally was in charge of the counter offensive launched by the French Fifth Army in July, 1918.

After the war Gamelin continued his steady advance by serving in Syria and other places until 1931 when he was appointed Chief of the French General Staff.

He is regarded as that rare creature—a soldier with imagination.

He has conferred many times in recent months with military chiefs of both Paris and London and seems to have the confidence of political and military leaders of both countries.

Drive 26 Miles To St. John's Nfld., As Crowds Acclaim

His Majesty Expressed Hope Times Would Change for Better — Voices Appreciation of Their Loyalty

HEAVY RAIN FALL

Series of Arches Spanned the Route Taken, Each Bearing the Same Legend "Welcome Your Majesties"

(By C. E. A. Jeffery Canadian Press Correspondent)

St. John's, Nfld., June 17 (CP Cable)—King George and Queen Elizabeth rode into the Capital of their Empire's oldest colony today to receive the homage and acclaim of Newfoundland on the last stop of their North American tour.

The Royal visitors rolled into this ancient Capital in a motorcade from Holyrood, 26 miles away, at 10.00 a.m. E.D.T. after a 40-minute drive from that village on Conception Bay. The liner Empress of Britain, which brought them here from Halifax, entered the bay last night.

Smiling and acknowledging the cheers of the crowd with waves of the hand, the Queen wore a periwinkle blue dress with wool coat and hat to match. The King was garbed in the undress uniform of an Admiral of the fleet.

Welcomed at Holyrood

The Royal couple received their first official welcome from Newfoundland at Holyrood where they landed at 8.50 a.m. E.D.T. After a brief reception on shore they boarded cars for the drive here across the Avalon Valley.

Five minutes after Their Majesties came to the gates of the city the King delivered a broadcast address from the entrance. He spoke with feeling of the economic reverses Newfoundland has suffered from a period of severe economic stress; but the qualities of courage and endurance which have never failed the people of this country in the past will, I am confident, enable them to more than surmount their difficulties."

His Majesty expressed his personal interest in the welfare of the island's people and his "deep sympathy with them in the trials which they have had to face, and my appreciation of their loyalty."

Delivered From Pavilion

The address was delivered from a pavilion just inside the city entrance, and right after Mayor Andrew Carnell and others had been presented to the royal couple. From there, the entourage moved on to Government House, where Their Majesties met Sergeant T. Ricketts, who at the time he gained the Victoria Cross in the Great War was the youngest winner of the decoration.

All along the route through the city packed thousands of Newfoundlanders roared a welcome. Fifteen thousand school children

HON. R. J. MANION BERATES SENATE FOR RAILWAY VOTE

Conservative Leader Says it Was a Liberal Trick to Embarrass Party

COL. DREW HEARD

Peterborough, Ont., June 17 (CP) —Unification is another name for amalgamation of Canada's two great railways and the recent Senate vote favoring unification was a Liberal trick to embarrass the Conservative party, Conservative Leader Manion said here last night.

Dr. Manion left today for Toronto after spending yesterday with Col. George Drew, Ontario Conservative leader. Addressing a series of party meetings here Dr. Manion condemned proposals for unification of the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National Railways and berated the Senate for favoring the plan.

CABINET MEMBERS STAY IN LONDON

Keeping in Close Touch With Situation at Tientsin China

London, June 17 — (CP) — The Cabinet put aside the peace of usual weekends in the country today to keep in close touch with the situation in Tientsin where a Japanese blockade, now four days old, threatens British interest.

Although a special Cabinet meeting has been called for Monday, any major development in North China would necessitate an earlier session.

Reports of various governmental departments—including the Board of Trade, which has been working on possible retaliatory measures the past two days—are to be discussed at Monday's meeting. The government as yet has given no definite indication of the nature of such projected measures, but it was believed to be considering denouncing the Anglo-Japanese trade agreement of 1911, which gives Japan most-favored nation treatment.

Hope was held in some quarters that Tokyo might send an explanatory communique which could be discussed by the Cabinet. The Government, meanwhile, stood on its offer of mixed tribunal, including British and Japanese members; a neutral chairman, to consider the dispute over four Chinese, held by the British authorities and accused by Japanese of terrorism.

Since then the situation has widened to include, the foreign office said, a Japanese desire to force Great Britain "to co-operate with Japanese in constructing a 'new order' in the Far East", by abandoning "pro-Chiang Kai-Shek policies.

City and District News

BRILLIANT DISPLAY OF LIGHTNING SEEN

Late strollers of the city last evening were treated to a brilliant phenomena of sheet lightning which danced and flickered boundlessly over the city and district without the usual accompaniment of pealing thunder. The display which commenced just before twelve midnight preceded a fairly heavy thunderstorm which brought rain later in heavy downpour. So heavily charged was the static-filled atmosphere that bluish corona was observed in a distinct aura on the power lines of the street lighting system, a fuzzy haze of light which appeared to encircle the wires.

MEDICAL EXAMINATION SHOULD BE GIVEN CHILDREN BEFORE FALL

During the period between May 25 and June 16 1050 children of Belleville public schools were given physical inspections in school classrooms by the school nurse. Of these, 79 were special physical inspections. During the period nine dental clinics were held in Queen Mary School at which 38 children were given 90 permanent fillings. Only two cases of chicken pox reported as of communicable nature during the month.

Again an urge for parents intending to start children to school in September to have their children examined by their personal physician was made by the school nurse. If this is not possible, these children may be brought by the parents to the office of the nurse at the school before the end of June where a free examination will be made, it was stated.

CHICK HAS FOUR LEGS

A five-day-old Plymouth Rock chick, the proud owner of four legs struts around a small private pen in the yard of Wilfred Marvin, Wellington chicken and bee fancier.

"The little fellow is hitting on all fours" and refuels three or four times a day," Marvin said this morning. "He is healthy and outside of his two extra appendages is perfectly formed. He has the appetite of a normal chicken and apart from a gait that reminds you of a landlubber on his second day at sea, is the same as any other chicken."

The two extra legs, Marvin stated, one of which is normal while the other is slightly smaller, grow from the proper part of the body in a line with other legs. He expressed the opinion that the little freak may have been hatched from a double-yolked egg. The chicken was hatched on the farm of Garnet Taylor, prominent Wellington chicken-breeder who gave it to Marvin.

IMPOUNDMENT OF DOGS ORDERED

Will be Kept Confined as a Precautionary Measure" at Point Anne

Dr. O. J. Reed, Dominion Vetinarian of this city, today ordered the impoundment of the two dogs engaged in a dog fight at Point Anne yesterday, one of which attacked five-year-old Reginald Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bennett, Point Anne, resulting in serious injury to the lad.

Dr. Reed ordered the impoundment of the dogs at Point Anne as "precautionary proceedings" as developments of rabbies sometimes are not outwardly visible until a fortnight after a person has been bitten. The condition of five-year-old Reggie Bennett is reported to be favourable today, but still in a serious condition, Dr. J. J. Robertson, attending physician stated.

Provincial Police in Belleville were acquainted with the fact that Dr. Reed had ordered the impoundment of the two large Great Danes at Point Anne and it was intimated that the canines would subsequently be destroyed at the request of the ownerg of the animals.

EYEGLASS SAVES INJURY TO EYE

Wesley Adams Struck in Face by Nail Protruding From Open Door

The fact that he wore eyeglasses is attributed by Wesley Adams, local fish-dealer, to saving him from a serious eye-injury the other day, when a rusty nail striking his face when he turned from his work, slid off the lens and drove deeply into his nose.

The nail penetrated the flesh through to the nasal cavity inflicting a painful injury. "I might have lost an eye," Adams said today, "had it not been for the fact that I wore glasses". He was assisting in the erection of a summer cottage when he straightened up from sawing a board, and turning quickly struck the nail that protruded from an open door.

The Kingston Army Band is making a return visit to the local Citadel tomorrow, Major Alderman announced today.

Police Blotter

Two twenty-one-year old transients, who gave their names as Bernard Higgins and William Ballam, Oshawa, were apprehended by Canadian National Railway Constable J. Jerome in the Belleville C.N.R. yards last night and found in possession of a portable radio. The youths were held on a nominal charge of trespassing on railway property, after they stated they had found the radio in the 'transient jungle' at Brockville earlier in the day.

The boys were further questioned by Chief Kidd today and later lodged in the county jail on remand.

One of the quietest weeks in the annals of Belleville police was experienced this week when not a single serious crime was reported for investigation. City and district motorists continue to ignore and violate the one hour parking bylaw in vogue throughout the downtown area of the city, with the result police stickers were affixed the windshields of various motor vehicles and a subsequent fine of one dollar paid by the offenders.

Inspector Frank Gardner of the Ontario Provincial Police today revealed he expected Commissioner Williams, head of the O.P.P. to officially visit and inspect the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial. Police early next week.

Open Letter From Board of Education

AN OPEN LETTER OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO THE RATEPAYERS OF BELLEVILLE FROM THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Belleville, June 16

For some years now it has been deemed very necessary that an addition be made to Queen Mary School in order that the pupils there should have proper and ample accommodation. This year the matter was placed before the Council with the request that debentures be issued to the amount of $35,000.00 to cover same. This request was flatly turned down at the last Council meeting on the grounds of economy and all this in view of the fact that some few weeks ago this same City Council made the most gigantic salary grab in the history of Belleville.

Consider these facts please: A few weeks ago a deputation from the School Board appeared before the Council to present their case for this proposed addition and were asked to leave it over for a couple of weeks, which was consented to—yet within a half hour after the School Board members had left the Council Chamber this so-called economy council had voted themselves $5.00 salary per meeting retroactive to January 1st., or a total of over $3900.00 a year which gives us the following picture over a 20-year period or the life of the proposed debenture for the school:

Salaries of Aldermen for twenty years, $61,800.00. (At a minimum).

Cost of school addition and interest over 20 years, $58,500.00.

In other words the Council that night voted themselves a sum of money more than the cost of the school extension, which fact, of course, shows a degree of inconsistency that can hardly be grasped by the ordinary individual.

Why wasn't this salary business put to a vote of the people?

The answer is, of course, they knew is would be overwhelmingly defeated so they therefore slipped it through quickly and quietly — and almost in the same breath say to the School Board "your proposition must be put to a vote of the people on account of the High Tax Rate."

The Board of Education have decided that the above facts and criticisms should be placed before the citizens of Belleville, and are taking this opportunity of doing so in order that you may pass judgment on the sincerity and consistency of the 1939 Belleville City Council.

(Signed)
Belleville Board of Education:
F. R. Wotten, chairman.
Edna Wedden, Asst. Sec'y.

'SALARY GRAB'

"I speak as one who served three years in council," continued Trustee Kinnear, "and I can say right here and now that the members of the Board of Education give more time and thought and energy to the affairs of the city on this Board than members of city council ever did or ever will...."

Trustee Chas. L. Hyde also expressed his complete and full opposition to "any salary grant to any body". He attacked Mayor Bone for the Mayor's recent utterances on several occasions and expressed the hope "that some way will be found to make a check up on these in correct statements of the Mayor."

"I would not accept any remuneration as a member of this Board, no mandate has been given us by the people on it, so how can we do it?" Mr. Hyde asked. "And I would like to state, that I am entirely opposed to the statements our Mayor has been making since he accepted office, statements which are absolutely incorrect, even if the general public does not know it.

"He says (the Mayor) that in Queen Mary School we have 366 fewer children than we had four years ago. A check will show the correct number to be sixteen less. He says the night teachers have been getting double salaries—which they are not. He has said this salary grab does not affect him, yet I took the occasion to visit the city hall this morning and have a look at that salary by-law which states that 'each member of council shall be entitled to receive the sum of five dollars.' Who is wrong?

Cost is $70

"Each meeting now held by city council costs this city seventy dollars," continued Mr. Hyde, warming to his attack on the alleged insincerity of action of council and the Mayor. "He, the Mayor, came to this Board in January, weeping, actually weeping about the poor tax payer and the burden he was carrying. 'The poor burdened tax payer', he said over and over again. Does the action of himself and council lately justify these tears he shed for the poor, burdened tax payer then?

"I can't vote for this (recommendation) nor should anyone else on the board. Let us be sincere. Let us have these statements of Mayor Bone checked. I'm not in favor of any salary grab anywhere. It's getting so that the Mayor is getting a nice thing out of being able to serve the city as Mayor, a very nice thing financially."

Trustee J. W. Deacon declared himself particularly moved over the statement of Trustee Hyde who brought up the subject of the council's economy at a time when the Board had been applying unavailingly, it appeared for the sum of $35,000 for the construction of a new addition for Queen Mary School.

"We feel that council has not played fair on this matter. They, it appears, are able to pass on salaries for themselves, but not for the children of the city, which they direct. I believe it is in order to suggest that this whole thing be brought forcibly to the attention of all the ratepayers of Belleville and see what their attitude on the matter is."

Chairman Russ Wotten told members of the meeting on last Monday evening at which he appeared asking for the grant with which to build the addition. He pointed out council had refused to even listen to his plea for the grant "but in the same breath calmly passed themselves the salary grab which I see by tonight's paper will amount to some $3900 a year in salaries alone"

"I'm getting tired of Mayor Bone who has been holding us on the Board up to ridicule," added Chairman Wotten with considerable heat. "The Mayor has said the city should have representation on the Board to tell us how our money should be spent. Yet he tried on Monday evening to compare the aldermanic salaries with those of the teachers here.

Would be Double-Cross Claim

"Again, in the paper he insists that the Board should take over their own system of collecting taxes and make its own assessments.

"Why, it would be double crossing the people of Belleville for us to even suggest that salaries be given us this year....the year 1940 may be a different thing, but this year we have been elected by the people of Belleville to serve for nothing, to give our best efforts in the cause of the city of Belleville and the education of its younger citizens. There was no thought of pay in our minds when we took office, nor should there have been in the minds of members of council."

Trustee Reg. Moncrieff interjected with the statement he believed it might be a good thing for the school board to make its own assessment and collection of taxes. "We could save the cost of the school addition in one or two years if we did, or even build a new school," he added.

Dr. J. W. Kinnear again asked the privilege of addressing the Board to air a few further thoughts.

"There never should have been any friction between this Board and city council and even though I do not agree with council's action on salaries, I have no personal animosity toward any member.

"However, the first duty of this Board of Education, of any Board of Education, is to supply adequate accommodation for children of the primary and secondary schools. That is the duty, the real duty, which is entrusted to us, and we must not fail the parents or pupils ....whoever heard of any municipality refusing to do this duty? The only excuse for failure in this duty is when the town or city is hopelessly bankrupt.

Don't Understand Workings

"I've sat and listened and watched the last few years," continued Dr. Kinnear, "and I have come to the conclusion that too many of the citizens of Belleville just do not know what it is all about. They do not understand the workings of the different departments of their city.

"I can refer again to Mayor Bone's statement of excuse for the salary grab that much time has been spent by the aldermen on extra work caused by relief and social problems lately and so on. Why, the present council does not know anything about work of this nature. Back in 1929 when relief was being first organized, we of the council then did know something of it. I want to say right now, that the Ontario Mayors' and the Dominion Mayors' Association is a farce from the word 'go'. They never have and never will accomplish one thing. The only way to get any legislation through that is wanted by any city is to have the representative of the riding take it down to Ottawa or up to Queen's Park and have it done in the regular way.

"However, I'm not antagonistic toward Mayor Bone, nor any member of the council. But I do believe the time has come when there must be a check of the irresponsible statements, that have been made. Much has been said about what council has done this year and last year, but what have they done? During my term in council we provided a free Bay Bridge. We sold the gas plant at a good profit. We built the Arena, which has brought money to Belleville. We built the filtration plant and yet the reason Mr. Bone says that salaries should be given is that council does a lot of work...."

"The work is all talk, talk, talk" interrupted Chairman Wotten.

"You're right" nodded Dr. Kinnear, continuing:

Meetings Quite Long

"I can remember, when meetings were so long in city council we took a final vote on the esplanade, for one instance, at broad daylight the next morning after an all night battle," recalled Trustee Kinnear.

"We also put in Dundas Street pavement at a saving of $5,400. We built the Collegiate Institute and paved the city's streets and built two of the best bridges in the Province. Then we had the gas works and waterworks to control. It's now time that the public of Belleville call this bluff about the work that is being done. I'd be the last one to get up and say all this, if we did not get such a raking over here on the Board every time the Mayor wants to get up and give it. Because council this year is not endowed with all the brains in Belleville....members of the Board of Education have their share too."

At this point the motion to ask authorization from the city council for the payment of the sum of $25 monthly for each trustee was put to vote and defeated unanimously.

An open letter from the Board of Education to the citizens of Belleville was then produced by Chairman of the Board, Russ Wotten with a recommendation that this letter be published in the Daily Ontario Intelligencer. (The letter appears in another column of this issue.)

A recommendation of the Special Roofing Committee of the Board to deal with tenders for the reroofing of the Collegiate that the tender of the Howe and Hagerman Company at a price of $2,992 be accepted was passed on by the Board. Work on the roof will be carried out during the summer holidays.

Supervisors Named

Under a recommendation of the Playgrounds Committee the appointment of Wm. A. Bowerman and Donald Grant as supervisors of the city playgrounds at a salary of $45 per month each and the appointment of two feminine assistant supervisors at salaries of $35 per month was confirmed. A suggestion that the old East and West Playgrounds Association be reorganized to supervise instead of the present system and that the grounds advanced by Trustee Moncrieff will be dealt with by the committee.

Resignation Accepted

Regret was voiced by Board members over the loss of Mr. Ross Hunter, school musical supervisor, who has tendered his resignation. This was accepted by the Board but a special letter will be written by the secretary to Mr. Hunter expressing the appreciation of the Board for the work performed by him during his term here. Mr. Hunter has accepted a position in the same capacity at the Ottawa Technical School at a considerable increase in salary.

"It's too bad we here have to lose a man the calibre and worth of Mr. Hunter just because we were too niggardly to pay him a decent salary," commented Trustee Moncrieff. "That is just false economy no matter how you look at it."

Under a motion advanced by Col. E. A. Geen, cadet service in the corps of the Collegiate Institute will in future be compulsory for all pupils except those, whose parents object to such military training. This motion was passed by the Board with the proviso, that these pupils of parents who object be turned over during drill and inspection periods to the school physical instructor for special classes during the period. In the past it has been noted those pupils who have not been members of the unit have interfered with the work of training or parade to a noticeable extent. The suggestion that such training of either nature be inaugurated was made by Principal P. C. MacLaurin in his monthly report. No discussion was involved in the carrying of the motion. A vote of thanks will be tendered by the Board to Dr. Howard for his care and expense in training the corps, following the suggestion and commendation by Trustee J. W. Deacon.

Members of the Board and the general public are invited by Mr. Maybee, musical instructor to attend the series of Open Music Day and Festivals which will be held next Monday from 10 a.m. and 1.45 p.m. at Queen Alexandra School; Tuesday the same hours at Queen Victoria School; Wednesday at King George from 1.30 p.m. and Thursday at Queen Mary at 1.30 p.m.

VILLAGE REEVES GIVEN REBATES ON ROAD WORK

Whole System Explained to County Council by Highway Officials

FEES NOT CHANGED

Peddler Licenses Remain Sam After a Lively Discussion

Village reeves sought the advice of Department of Highways representatives today in an effort to unravel the apparent misunderstanding, that has clouded the County Council session with regard to the payment of rebates on county rates levied for road purposes to villages, where no roadwork has been done by the county.

They were informed by Mr. J. A. McInness, Assistant Chief Engineer of Municipal Roads, who with Mr. H. Woods of the Accounting Dept., Department of Highways and Mr. H. A. Small, district municipal engineer, Brockville, waited on the council, that "villages are entitled to the rebate on their county rate for road purposes, providing the money is spent on approved designated roads within the villages, where no county road work has been done."

All accounts of these monies expended must be returned to the county road superintendent in order that the department subsidy can be obtained. The rebate consists of seventy-five per cent of the county rate paid by the municipality for roads.

However in villages where roads are connecting links between county roads and highways, they are under the jurisdiction of the County Roads Committee, which if it sees fit can do work on the road without the consent of the reeve of the municipality, and deduct the cost from the village rebate.

The discussion arose from a motion of Reeve Dr. S. S. Lumb that the sum of $291.83 be paid the village of Bancroft, being rebate on the 1938 county rate for roads purposes. Mr. McInness pointed out that such motions were unnecessary and rebates should be a part of the Road Committees and Road Superintendent's work.

Peddler's Licenses Unchanged

Considerable discussion ensued following the reading of a by-law affecting peddlers and hawkers licenses within the county. Opinion was fairly evenly divided with a motion to reduce the license fees from $50 for men on foot; $75 for peddlers with ½ ton trucks and $150 for peddlers using trucks over ½ ton, to $30—$30 and $50. respectively, being defeated by an amendment to retain the same license fees by a 16-12 standing vote.

Many suggestions were offered by various reeves for a solution to the problem, that the county is not deriving any revenue from this source. Some members were in favor of a drastic reduction of fees, claiming that the peddlers could not make sufficient money to pay the present amounts; while other reeves stated they were strongly in favor of resolutions petitioning the government to impose stiffer fines on erring peddlers.

Reeve Mawson of Limerick stated that a peddler had been in his operating without a license in his township on three different occasions. He was fined one dollar and costs for each offence, the whole amounting to some thirty dollars. "They would rather be caught and pay a fine, because they are saving money," he said.

"Double the fine for the second offence," suggested Reeve George Jordan.

"We have nothing to do with that," a northern reeve stated.

Reeve Charles Kerr, of Tweed, thought reduction of the fees would not induce peddlers to buy licenses.

Reeve Robson—"Peddlers say license fees of $150 are beyond reach, they are willing to pay $50. They will peddle anyway, so why not get the $50 and let them stay within the law. Our present fees are too high."

At present, peddlers buying County licenses are barred from certain municipalities which have their own bylaws, Clerk Denyes informed Council.

Reeve Kerr — "A resolution recommending penalties be changed increasing fines imposed on offenders, is my idea of a solution."

Reeve Robson—"At present there are no peddlers buying licenses. Lower the fees—a half-loaf is better than none."

Reeve Davis thought more licenses would be bought and more revenue derived if fees were reduced.

Reeve George West was not in favor of lowering the fees. "These men would not operate if it were not paying," he said.

"Peddlers slip into some villages, take an order, and slip to their car to deliver it."

"We have some in Madoc doing this, and there is nothing we can do. I don't think the fees are too high," he said.

Reeve Wm. Linn agreed with Reeve West. "The same thing happens in Marmora," he said.

"Merchants of the county should have some protection against these people," Reeve Charles Rollins told Council.

Defending People

"We mustn't open the door too wide for these fellows, but be careful how we act.

"The law is defending these people in some cases," Reeve Davis said. "We can get more revenue if we lower the licenses and let them stay within the law."

Deputy Reeve Jordan argued that licenses should remain the same and that the law be strictly enforced against these people.

"Taxpayers should report these fellows to the police, and assist in the matter," Reeve George West said.

"The trouble is with the province and I think the only thing we can do is to recommend a change in the statutes," Reeve Dr. Lumb, Bancroft, stated.

"I believe these peddlers are buying this junk and selling it for themselves instead of for manufacturers. Their so called certificates are fictitious. You can call their bluff if you show your teeth," Reeve Spencer, of Frankford, told relating an incident that occurred in his village when a threat of arrest scared three peddlers away.

The motion and amendment followed at the point with members in a standing vote returning the amendment to retain the same license fees by a 16-12 count.

Petition Lieutenant-Governor

Aftermath of the strong criticism levelled at the increasing costs of administration of justice in the county was seen today, when council unanimously passed a resolution to petition the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to commute the fees payable to the Crown Attorney of Hastings County to a fixed annual sum. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, under the Crown Attorney's Act, Ch. 137, Sect. 12, R.S.O., 1937, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may commute fees payable to a Crown Attorney including those received from his office as Clerk of the Peace."

"And Whereas, the total amount of the fee paid to the Crown Attorney of Hastings County to a in 1928 was $3,170.95, the said fees having increased to $8,479.27 in 1928."

"And Whereas the cost of administration in the County of Hastings is much greater than the cost in other counties with a much larger population."

"Therefore, be it resolved that this Hastings County Council in Session, humbly petition the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to commute the fees payable to the Crown Attorney of Hastings County, including those received as Clerk of the Peace, for a fixed annual sum."

"And a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Hon. Gordon Conant, Attorney-General."

MOMENTARY WITNESS

A New York court, probably much to its consternation, got but a short glimpse of Noel Carter, ABOVE, a witness in the U.S. government's case against William P. Buckner, Jr., accused of a $1,000,000 mail fraud in alleged manipulation of Philippine railway bonds. Buckner is charged with having assembled a "beauty lobby" of which Miss Carter was a member, in Washington, and on the day of the trial Miss Carter was sailing for Europe to join a show. After her brief testimony she was whisked away to catch her boat.

FREIGHTER CREW BATTLING BLAZE

Captain Telephones Fire Dept. as Soon as Boat Docks at Chicago

Chicago, June 16 — (AP) — The Freighter Delwarnic slipped into port today with most of its crew of 23 battling a fire in two hatches aft.

The vessel owned by the Canadian Atlantic Transit Company, was commanded by Captain D. P. Cornett, who telephoned the city fire department for aid.

The blaze was reported to be under control within an hour after the fire boat Fred A. Busse arrived at the dock.

The 3,200-ton all-steel steamship carried a cargo of paper, matches, rubber and linoleum from depot harbor, Georgian Bay, Ont. The fire was discovered about 4 a.m. E.D.T., two hours after the vessel cleared from Milwaukee.

Law Society Sends 'Loyal Address' Prepared by Col. W. N. Ponton to the King

Written by a Belleville citizen, a beautifully bound and embossed "Loyal Address" to the King and Queen has been sent their Majesties by the Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada. A resolution of loyal and dutiful greetings which has been prepared by Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., of this city, Registrar of the Society, is accompanying the address.

The resolution in full is as follows:

Osgoode Hall, Toronto,
May, 1939.

To His Majesty The King:
May it please Your Majesty:

We, the Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada, historic in name and in tradition, in Convocation assembled at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and loyal and dutiful greetings by our Treasurer and Secretary, and renew and repledge our allegiance and devotion to Your Majesty, your Crown and person.

There are now in the Province of Ontario 3112 members of the Bar whom we have the honour to represent as their governing body and on their behalf and our own, we bid Your Majesty the warmest welcome to Canada as King and Emperor. We are one through the Throne.

The visit of Your Majesty, accompanied by Her Gracious Majesty the Queen, with charm and personality all her own, has unified and vivified that true Imperial spirit which animates this Dominion — a mari usque ad mare—and in the evolution of which, as a law enforcing, law abiding Nation within the British family Commonwealth of Nations, members of the Judiciary and of the Bar have ever been leaders as exemplifying the true ideals of—

"Keep ye the law, be swift in all obedience;
Clear the land of evil, drive the road and bridge the ford;
Make ye sure that each his own shall reap where he has sown,
By the peace among the peoples, let me know ye serve the let me know ye serve the Lord."

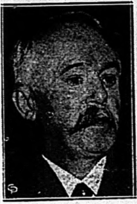
Of this Your Majesty has been the true embodiment and expression. We thank Your Majesty for the opportunity of witnessing to that loyalty of service and trust that together we may be enabled to show the quality of rock from which we were hewn. Pro rege, lege, grege.

Her Majesty The Queen has established a new legal link in our profession by graciously laying the foundation stone of the new building of the Supreme Court of Canada.

We have the honour to be Your Majesty's most humble and loyal subjects and servants.

CAUSE OF CONCERN



Brother of Edouard Benes, former president of Czecho-Slovakia, Vojta Benes, ABOVE, is reported to have fled with his wife across the Polish border, in order to escape arrest by Nazi police. If true, Benes' flight is expected to increase tension between Poland and Germany, already acute over reports that Germany and Hungary are preparing to divide up what little there was left of the former central European republic as an independent state.

CANADA MISSES HER ROYAL GUESTS

Canada misses her King and Queen who started on their return voyage two days ago. So accustomed have the people become to news and photographs of Their Majesties in Canadian settings, except for the crowds which have always gathered when they appeared, that there seems something missing in the life of the people. If the nation's people miss them, those who have been closely associated with them on their rolling palace, the royal train, the Prime Minister and officials, the train crews, the newsmen and newswomen, the R.C.M.'s who have been with them and others, will feel a gap in their experiences, so absorbed has everyone been in those two charming personages, the Sovereigns, who is spite of weariness of long travels were always cheerful and smiling and acknowledging the greetings of their subjects.

Even Their Majesties can never know the full import of their visit, for its records are written on hearts and will be written by the actions of Canadians into history. Canada knows that her influence and her welcome to the Sovereigns will be an enduring inspiration.

So Canada today muses over the royal visitors who have gone away and all their kindnesses and consideration for the Dominion's people.

ROYALTY IN ANCIENT COLONY

There is news again today of King George and Queen Elizabeth, this being the day of their visit, the first visit of British sovereigns, to the first colony of the Empire, Newfoundland. The Ancient Colony is associated with the sea from the first of its history. Its people are descended from the original immigrant fishermen who early came from England, Scotland and France. The population was about 285,675 in 1934. Its capital St. John's has a population of 43,175. Contrary to general opinion, while nearly all the island is rough, only a small portion is mountainous and the elevations are not great. The southwest coastline is in many places precipitous. A few miles back from the ocean there is an uneven tableland. Contrary to general belief the climate is not so severe in winter as in some parts of Canada, the presence of the ocean tending to modify the temperature. The summers are much cooler than in Canada.

There are great paper mills on the island owned by Lord Northcliffe, to supply paper for his large number of newspapers and magazines in England. The country is rich in minerals, and the mines are being gradually made productive.

The government is encouraging agriculture for there are five million acres of farm land. Hardy crops are grown.

This island is en fete today as it greets its King and Queen. Their Majesties enjoyed a drive from Holyrood to St. John's and thence to Portugal Cove where they re-embarked on the Empress of Britain.

It is pointed out that today Their Majesties walked on land on which the Viking heroes had stood in perhaps the eleventh or twelfth centuries, on their voyages west from Greenland. It is believed they knew the island as Markland.

A gap in the Island's history followed before John Cabot sighted Newfoundland in his voyage out of Bristol in 1497. As 16th century exploraton extended the island and its cod fisheries became better known and Basque and Portuguese fishermen made their stations here.

The royal visit marks the first time a British sovereign has come to the Old Colony which Sir Humphrey Gilbert founded in 1583. Their Majesties today hear accents, which carry the Irish brogue, although generations removed from the early settlers who came here from the Old Country.

THE SILVER LINING

One of the sorriest plights in all history was that of the 900 German Jewish refugees who sailed for Cuba on the understanding they received in Germany that they would have a haven there only to find that there had been no such provisions. Then they were told they might have to go back to Germany, which was a blow to them. But at last events are turning in their favor and it is believed that all will be taken in by countries in Europe and given that peace and place of safety from persecution they so much deserve.

Until that good news came, the hopes of the unfortunate refugees were at their lowest.

Today there are nations whose hearts are warm with sympathy for these people without a country, who seek only a place where they may be free from persecution.

Fortunately those who take them in are kindly and the wandering shipload will, it is hoped and expected, find safe places of refuge where they may start to live their lives afresh without fear.

JUNE

The oriole's song in the orchard,
The bob-o-link's over the lea,
The flicker's shrill cry as his nest we pass by
In the trunk of the old apple tree;
The robin's cheering carol,
The warbler's pleasing tune,
The musical sounds with which earth resounds
Proclaim it is June! Sweet June!

The rye in soft undulations
Sways in the fragrant breeze,
The swallows skim o'er the lake's blue brim,
Deep, deep is the shade of the trees!
The cowslips that sprinkle the meadow,
The roses that fade so soon,
The glamor and glow is like youths we know
Speeding by like the days of June.

SHIP OF THE LOST COLONY?

What happened to the colony founded by Sir Walter Raleigh on Roanoke Island in 1587 is one of the riddles of history. The latest clue that may help shed light on the four-century-old mystery is the hulk of an ancient ship dug up in the sand dunes near the historic island. Natives of the area have tentatively identified the hulk as that of a light war vessel of the type developed by Walter Raleigh in the latter part of the sixteenth century.

Certain historic facts about the early attempts to settle Roanoke Island are clearly known. Having obtained authority from Queen Elizabeth to colonize "remote heathen and barbarous lands," Sir Walter dispatched two ships in 1584 to the coast of North Carolina for exploration. After skirting the coast the expedition finally landed on Roanoke Island, where it spent two months.

In 1585, the next year, Sir Walter sent a band of 108 men to begin the colonization of the island. The colony, however, did not fare very well. Before a year was up they were menaced by hostile Indians and threatened with famine. Finally they departed for England. A few days after their departure, however, Sir Richard Grenville arrived with supplies and more colonists. Before returning to England Grenville left on the island a guard of fifteen men and supplies for two years.

After Grenville's return Sir Walter sent another company of ninety-one men, seventeen women and nine children. When they arrived at Roanoke Island they found the fort destroyed and no sign of the fifteen men except a single skeleton. They set about, however, to rebuild the little settlement and establish what they hoped would be a permanent colony.

This group seemed to fare no better than the last. As a result of the threat of war with Spain no English supply ships were permitted to leave home waters for three years. When a relief party finally did appear in 1590 off Roanoke Island it found the settlement again destroyed and no sign of colonists. On a tree near the supply house was carved the word "Croatan." No one knows to this day what fate overcame them.

CURIOUS WAS THE PREAMBLE to the will left by Dr. Richard Clarke Cabot, rich, blue-blooded Social Ethics professor at Harvard, who died last month: "I.... realizing that God has allowed me a life of almost unbroken happiness upon this earth, and that this happiness has been due in no way to any merit of mine, but has been permitted in spite of grievous sins and shortcomings, do now make this, my last will and testament." To friends and servants he bequeathed $200,000; to pet philanthropies about $1,000,000.

TALL STORY

The members of an angling club had gone to a distant part of the country for a night's fishing.

Before setting out for the river they spent an hour or two at the local inn, fortifying themselves against the keen nocturnal air.

At closing time they picked up their rods and sallied forth to the bridge from which they were to angle that night.

They seated themselves, cast their lines over the parapet, and "fished" steadily until the grey dawn was breaking.

Then, with a roar, the first train passed under the bridge.

Lumber operations this season on the Moira River will be the greatest ever known. Owing to the early opening of spring and the recent heavy rains the number of logs that have been brought down and that will yet be forthcoming is enormous. There have been already some 300,000 pieces passed through the boom here and there is a drive of 270,000 pieces on the way down the river. A portion of this drive has been held up for three years, owing to low water. In addition there will be a drive of 140,000 pieces which will reach here later in the season.

A fishing party left here today on the sail boat "Agnes" for the bass and maskinonge grounds.

A new Anglican Church was opened at Marlbank on June 6th. The Rev. J. R. Searson of Tamworth is the incumbent.

Goitre — Simple and Dangerous Types

I was once examining a heavyweight wrestler and noted that both eyes were 'bulging'. I was surprised to see his excellent muscular development and examination of his heart showed a slow pulse. I told him I expected to find a rapid heart beat despite his development as I expected goitre. "Oh" he said, "I had that goitre cut out a couple of years ago. I was thin and nervous. I've put on forty pounds since the operation".

I have spoken before also of a physician whose heart rate dropped from 110 to 72 after removal of a goitre, and he lost much of his nervousness, excitability, and talkativeness.

Perhaps you know an individual who had a goitre—lump in front of his neck—when he was 15 years old, and twenty or thirty years after still has it, and, apparently, has no symptoms. This is because goitres are not all alike; some are innocent or harmless and some must be removed by surgery or Xrays to preserve life.

The simple or innocent type of goitre usually develops between the ages of 12 and 17, at the period of greatest physical development. The only sign of symptom present is the growth or enlargement of the gland; there is no change in the structure or working process of the body. However, at middle age this type may develop into the more serious type.

What causes the simple type of goitre to turn into the severe type resulting in rapid heart beat, nervousness, bulging eyes and loss of weight and strength?

Dr. E. M. Eberts, Montreal General Hospital, who, with his associates investigated and treated 4,000 cases says, in the Canadian Medical Association Journal,

"We do not know positively what starts the dangerous (poison) stage but careful inquiry brings out, in many instances, a history of infection especially from tonsillitis and influenza immediately preceding the onset of the dangerous form of goitre".

The dangerous type very often occurs where there has never before been any appearance of goitre. The individual is of middle age, more frequently a woman (5 to 1).

Fortunately, when nervousness, rapid heart beat, loss of weight, tiredness, are present, physicians suspect goitre and have a metabolism test made. If the body processes are working too fast, rest and iodine are prescribed. If this treatment fails, operation becomes necessary.

Last Survivor of McClure Expedition, Which Searched for Sir John Franklin In Arctic in 1850, Lies in Grave at Ivanhoe

Ed. Note: Travelling from Belleville north to Madoc one passes through Ivanhoe, a small hamlet the centre of a farming community. On the left there is a church; and a little further on, a lone grave in a small enclosure by the roadside near a house. This grave is the last resting place of the former owner of the house and adjoining farmland, who in his early days passed through the experiences related in the story following, as written by Mrs. (Rev.) W. H. Adams.

An Old Story Re-Told

A century ago, the name of Sir John Franklin was honored on both sides of the Atlantic as that of the greatest of all explorers of the Arctic regions. He had spent years in the frozen north, sometimes going by sea along the Greenland coast, sometimes starting from the Hudson Bay Territory and exploring around the Coppermine and Mackenzie rivers. He had mapped out about 1200 miles of the northern coast of North America, with the adjacent islands in the polar sea, thus proving that the long-hoped for North West Passage really existed, as far as the Atlantic side of the continent was concerned; the ice fields, however, forming an impassable barrier to his western progress. Determined to make "one more attempt to pass through the North West Passage," he sailed in command of his final expedition in May 1845. The ships "Erebus" and "Terror" were fitted out by the British government, provisioned for a voyage of three years, and equipped with the most modern scientific instruments of the day. The crews consisted of 138 officers and men. From that dread voyage none ever returned.

After two years without news of the ships, there began to be anxiety in England and expedition after expedition—almost forty in all—were sent out to find news of them; but without success until the mystery of their fate was finally solved by the McClintock expedition in 1857. A small cairn was found in King William Land containing some records which showed that Sir John had died on board his ship in June 1847; and that the starving survivors deserted their ice-enclosed vessels in the following April, making for the Hudson Bay territories, which they were destined never to reach. Following their sad trail, a few relics and several skeletons were discovered. So ended a gallant and tragic story.

Among the various unsuccessful expeditions there was one, commanded by Captain Robert J. McLure, in which we have special interest. It sailed in 1850. In the nineties of the last century there was still a survivor of that expedition living at Ivanhoe, a settlement on the C.P.R., a few miles west of Tweed, Ontario. His name was Henry Gauen. A ship's carpenter by trade, he had worked in the British dockyards and had sailed the seven seas, knowing every hardship of storm and shipwreck; but his chief claim to distinction was that of the four terrible years spent in the Arctic Circle. As the last survivor of the aforementioned expedition the British Admiralty, through the good offices of Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, in 1899 conferred on him a pension of a shilling a day for life. Mr. Gauen had not served long enough in the navy to qualify for a regular pension. He had, however, in his possession the beautiful silver medal presented to those who had engaged in Arctic explorations, from 1818 to 1855, also the published record of the expedition, and copies of sketches made by one of the officers showing the grim desolation of the Arctic wilderness.

Gives Report of Story

The story of the pension got into various papers, and the Montreal Herald asked Rev. W. H. Adams, then of Orono, but formerly of Ivanhoe, who had reported the case to the Admiralty, for a fuller account. What follows is condensed from the article appearing in the Herald of April 1st, 1899.

The McClure expedition, in the two ships "Investigator" and "Enterprise," left Plymouth on January 20th, 1850. They proposed entering the Arctic Ocean from the west differing in this respect from the other expeditions, which had gone either up the eastern coast or overland around the Coppermine and Mackenzie rivers. The "Enterprise", however, failed to effect an entrance into the Arctic regions and returned to England.

We can imagine the voyage of the "Investigator," as under the command of Captain McLure she crossed the Equator in the Atlantic on March 18th., sped through the "roaring forties", rounded Cape Horn about the middle of April and passed the Line in the Pacific on the 15th of June. On August 2nd they saw the first ice, and on the 4th they rounded Barrow Point "the turning point in America." They had on board a Moravian missionary, Mr. Mierching, who at the call of the authorities, had hurried from Saxony and joined the ship at Plymouth just as they were about to weigh anchor. This gentleman acted as interpreter among the Esquimaux whom they met near the mouth of the Mackenzie river. They found these people almost as rude as the Patagonians whom they had seen at the southern extremity of the continent. They would barter a baby for a file or a scrap of old iron! At Cape Bathurst they found some of the natives wearing a blue line over the bridge of the nose. This was a mark of merit among them, and he who wore it was held in great esteem, and allowed to marry an additional wife!

On September 7th the Investigators began to take land in the name of the Queen. Captain McLure landed on the shore opposite Cape Barry and christened it Baring Land, after Sir Francis Baring the First Lord of the Admiralty. They named the coast to the right Prince Albert Land. As they passed up the channel between these two newly-discovered possessions, their observations showed them that they were but sixty miles from Barrow's Strait. If that channel really proved to lead there, then they had discovered the western outlet of the North West Passage. The emotions of the Captain are best expressed in his own words. He wrote: "Can it be possible that this water communicates with Barrow's Strait, and shall prove to be the long-sought North West Passage? Can it be that so humble a creature as I am will be permitted to perform what has baffled the talented and wise for hundreds of years?..........The wisdom of the world is foolishness with Him."

It turned out that this channel, which they had feared might only be a deep inlet, led into Melville Sound at the eastern end of which is Barrow's Strait. They named it Prince of Wales Strait. With high expectations they sailed northeast and were within thirty miles of their goal when heavy ice drifted down and held their ship a prisoner. On October 12th the Captain wrote: "We can do nothing, being regularly beset, but await any favorable change of the ice, which we anxiously look for; knowing that the navigable season for this year has almost reached its utmost limit and that a few hours of clear water will in all probability solve the long sought problem as to the probability of a North West Passage."

Soon the ship was literally lifted out of the water by the mighty ice-pack, and they settled down to pass the winter where the Fates had fastened them. They had unfortunately at this and other times, to throw over board several casks of their salt meat, which had become putrid, methods for preserving food stuffs being then very crude. Still worse, the only firearms they had on board were old flint muskets and these went off with a flash in the pan, so that they could not kill any wild animals.

Prepared for Arctic Night

On November 11th, 1850, the sun set for the long night of the Arctic winter. They devised all sorts of plans to pass the time and one of them always excited Mr. Gauen's humor when he recalled it to mind. It was nothing less than a grinning match and he had vivid memories of the facial contortions of some of the men, particularly of a negro whom they had taken on board at the Sandwich Islands. Their Christmas was a very merry time although they were so far away from both civilization and savage man.

On February 3rd, 1851, the sun rose again and now they made parties for surveying the adjacent lands where they found fossil remains belonging apparently to the carboniferous era. During the short summer, when the sun simply sloped, but never set, poppies and other wild flowers appeared on the hills about them. Their ship was at length set free but much of the ice barrier remained so they were forced to abandon the hope of reaching Barrow's Strait. On August 16th they turned southward so as to sail round Bank's Land. By September 1st winter was upon them again and on the 24th they were forced to put into a bay in Bank's Strait (since also known as McLure's Strait). They named this refuge the Bay of Mercy. There was a sand bar at the mouth, which prevented them from ever getting the "Investigator" out; but if they knew this at the time it was not their most pressing trouble. Their meat supplies had been so depleted that they were now put on two-third rations and the dreadful winter of '51-'52 passed away. In April the Captain and six men went with sledges across the frozen and hummocky ocean to Melville Island, to leave documents at a cairn which had been erected there by members of a previous expedition and which possibly might be visited by others who might find their way into the weary waste. No relief came during the summer, however, and in September '52 the Captain decided that in April of the next year they should form three companies, take what provisions they could on their sledges and set out in various directions to find help or home. The men knew this meant certain death for besides their utter isolation their strength was reduced. They were now practically living on one meal a day—in the morning a cup of the weakest cocoa, and a small allowance of bread, later, half a pound of salt meat with "enough vegetables to swear by" and a little more bread; in the evening, nothing but a cup of weak tea. Mr. Gauen said that one strong man, who was being literally starved on those rations, would often seize the putrid meat as it was being thrown over board and cry because it was so bad that he could not eat it. The ship's doctor, whom they all loved, gave up half his own rations to this particular seaman who in ordinary circumstances needed more food than any of the rest. They all ground the bone which was attached to their rations and gladly consumed it.

Decide to Abandon Ship

On March 3rd., 1853 the travelling parties were told off and it was decided that the ship must be abandoned on April 15th. But on April 7th to them an ever-memorable day. Lieutenant Pim, of the "Resolute" with a dog sleigh and one man in attendance appeared over the ice. The document which the Captain had placed in the cairn had been found and he had been dispatched to their assistance. On June 3rd, 1853, they abandoned the "Investigator," which for two years and a half had been their home.

Trudging over the hummocky ice the party at length reached the "Resolute" and "Intrepid," which seem to have been in the neighborhood of Lancaster Sound. They hoped for a speedy return to England, but in this they were disappointed and for months were again in great peril. They had to leave these vessels in April 1854 and again take to their sledges. Making their way to Beechey Island they found there H.M.S. North Star, and had just got on board her when the "Phoenix" and the "Talbot" hove in sight. A division of officers and men now took place. Also while at Beechey, where we are told that five searching vessels were at that time within a quarter of a mile of each other, Sir John Franklin's first winter quarters were located and the bodies of some of his men disinterred, the Investigators assisting.

They reached Disco in Greenland on September 6th., 1854, and landed in England on the 25th of the same month. The Government made the Investigators a grant of ten thousand pounds as a mark of national approbation. Of this amount about eighty pounds fell to the lot of Mr. Gauen. On their arrival the crew presented the doctor, whom they all loved, with a gold watch costing a hundred pounds.

Settles at Ivanhoe

A brief note must wind up the story. Mr. Gauen later married and came to Canada taking up a small farm at Ivanhoe. He had one daughter who still survives. Singularly modest and retiring in disposition, it was only with difficulty that there was drawn from him this tale of gallant men who had travelled entirely round the two Americas added much to the knowledge of the Arctic regions and finally solved the problem of the North West Passage; meanwhile enduring untold hardships. His story was supplemented from the printed volume in his possession. Needless to say, he was much gratified by the long-delayed recognition of his services; and the pension, for the brief time he received it, added materially to his comfort. He died in July, 1899, aged 77. My husband, Rev. W. H. Adams, visited him in the last weeks of his life and the old hero pressed upon his acceptance the medal, which is still in my possession.

All honor to Peary, Nauseu, Amundsen, Byrd and their companions, who in more recent days have wrested the final secrets from the Polar regions; but let us still award the due meed of praise to those explorers of an earlier era, who without modern equipment (not to mention aeroplanes and radio) and often with inadequate food supplies, dared and suffered so much.

Medal Awarded To Arctic Hero

The medal presented to Henry Gauen mentioned in the accompanying article is of heavy silver, on the one side the head of Queen Victoria with the words "Victoria Regina," while on the other side was the mipression of a sailing ship used in Arctic explorations and at top was the phase "For Arctic Discoveries." This silver medal is now in the possession of Mrs. (Rev.) W. H. Adam, of Orono, Ont.

It is said there are but four medals of the kind issued.

JAMES MILLER

The late James Miller was a son of the late Mr. William Miller and Mrs. Miller. He was born in Waupoos. His wife was the former Miss Nellie Foster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seburn Foster, a prominent Prince Edward County family. He leaves two brothers, George of Picton and John of Waupoos. He was a member of the Anglican Church.

The finding of Miller's body culminates one of the most intense searches for missing persons ever conducted in the southern county. Missing for thirty-six hours before their absence caused any worry on the part of relatives, the two men failed to appear after what was thought to be time for them to return.

Their overturned boat was found enmeshed in fist-nets a mile or two off Waupoos, by a fisherman. No sign of the men was apparent. For nearly two weeks, fishermen, private parties and others searched the waters of the immediate vicinity for the missing men. The lake-bottom was dragged for days while R.C.A.F. planes and provincial police scoured the shoreline and lake surface to no avail. A reward was offered for the recovery of Miller's body.

Council to Pave Gaps in Belleville-Madoc Highway At Approximate Cost, $6,000

Additional $5000 Approved by Dept. for Roads Expenditures — Villages Petition for Equal Rights

"THE NORTH WINS"

Gordon A. Friesen Addresses Council on Indigent Problems at Closing Session

Adoption of the Roads and Bridges report laid over from the previous day, for further discussion, and which included a recommendation that the Standard Paving Company now operating a large road material plant in Huntingdon Township be awarded a contract to pave the two gaps, approximating one and one quarter miles on the Belleville-Madoc highway, featured the final meeting of the regular June session of the Hastings County Council yesterday afternoon.

During the discussion, that followed the motion to adopt the report, County Clerk Erle Denyes informed council that a message had been received from Minister of Highways T. B. McQuesten to the effect, that the Department had approved an additional five thousand dollars expenditure for the county roads and bridges system. This brings the actual appropriation to $80,000 for the current year.

At an approximate cost of six thousand dollars, the two gaps on the Belleville-Madoc Highway approximating one and one quarter miles could be paved, a representative of the Standard Paving Company told council in a brief address. The cost of maintenance for these gaps totalled roughly $800 per year. "That is large interest on an investment of $6,000" Reeve William Lynn pointed out.

The contract would carry a three year guarantee, and payment would be stretched over a three-year period, the representative stated. "It is a local employment proposition as far as laying and trucking goes" he said. Roads in Western Ontario paved with the same material had been laid for ten years with little or no maintenance, he asserted.

Reeve Thomas Fleming, in supporting the recommendation stated that the company had been a source of much appreciated assistance to his township of Huntingdon in that it had helped the unemployment problem. Other reeves supported the recommendation.

The report and recommendation received the unanimous vote of council.

Equal Rights For Villages

Village reeves of the council struck a blow for equal rights with townships and other municipalities following a discussion in camera with Department of Highways representatives, when they passed a resolution that legislature be enacted to give villages a 50 per cent subsidy on all monies spent on government approved streets.

There was little or no discussion following the presentation of the resolution which carried by a large majority. It reads: "That whereas the townships get 50 and 75 per cent subsidy on money expended on approved roads, this county council feels that it is only fair that villages be used alike. Therefore we respectfully request that legislature be enacted whereby villages would get 50 per cent subsidy on all monies expended on government -approved streets, the same to be spent under the supervision of an appointed road superintendent. Copies of the resolution to be forwarded to all County Councils, local members of parliament and the Department of Highways."

"The North Wins"

Reeves of four northern municipalities, Wollaston, Dungannon, Limerick and Tudor and Cashel, joined forces in a successful effort to offset an attempt on the part of the county to delete the twenty miles of road stretching from Jans Corners to Millbridge from the county system and place it back on these municipalities.

The northern reeves appealed rather than argued that it was impossible in view of financial conditions of their municipalities to be able to finance the maintenance of the road. Southern reeves were drawn into the discussion and the appeal of their northern colleagues carried the day, for when Reeve George Jordan, Hungerford, moved that the pieces of road in the northern municipalities remain in the county system, the motion carried by a substantial majority.

Road in Bad Condition

"It is one of the biggest hardships ever imposed on four northern municipalities in Hastings County," was the remark of Reeve Charles Rollins, Wollaston, when discussion on the proposed deletion opened. "This road is in bad condition, is washed out in spots and is more dangerous than passable. Yet it cannot be closed because of families that live on it."

"If this bylaw goes through, it will mean 22 miles thrown back on Tudor in the last few years," Reeve George Sprackett of that township declared. "I don't know how we can handle it in our present condition," he added.

That the county repair these roads this year until the four municipalities involved can get organized, was the suggestion advanced by Reeve Rollins. "If you put these roads on these townships, Limerick, Wollaston, Tudor and Dungannon, it will cripple them," he said.

The county will get no subsidy on monies spent on these roads, but the municipalities can get 70 per cent, Reeve Moore informed council.

"We have no money to spend on these roads, we are trying to pay our writ owing to the county, so please, gentlemen, don't put any other burden on us this year" Reeve Rollins urged.

No money has been spent on these roads during the past four years, it was pointed out. "The county has no money to spend on it this year," Reeve Moore said.

"We are not asking the county to spend a cent, but not to put these roads back on us," Reeve Morrison, Limerick, said.

"If you put this road back, you are going to create a hardship these townships can't carry," Reeve Rollins added.

The county will not be out anything if they let the road remain as is, Reeve George Jordon said, in moving that the pieces of road in the northern municipalities remain in the county system. The motion carried.

G. A. Friesen Heard

An appeal to councillors to carefully study indigent hospitalization cases, and provide legitimate reason before refusal of payment was made by Gordon A. Friesen, Belleville General Hospital Administrator.

"You should be actually thankful that you have such a hospital in the County of Hastings, and not be too pernicity about disputing accounts," Mr. Friesen told council.

He quoted several cases of indigent patients from various municipalities where insufficient information was furnished by reeves.

He asked for more cooperation on the part of county and municipal officials, and urged a more careful study of circumstances surrounding the many cases in which accounts are disputed.

The Belleville General Hospital has an annual payroll of $50,000 and pays $20,800 yearly for farm produce. "Practically all of this money goes back to the county" he said.

Modern Hospital

"You have a model modern hospital and its Board of Governors and others have spent time, money and efforts to give Hastings County an up-to-date institution."

The staff has been increased and many modern improvements have been installed during the last two years. A new wing costing $200,000 will shortly be erected, and will include many modern medical and surgical departments. "We are doing our best to give Hastings a completely equipped modern hospital, and all we ask is a little cooperation in endeavoring to clear these indigent accounts," Mr. Friesen said.

Bylaws

Bylaws receiving their third reading included those "to levy rates on the municipalities for expenditure on roads and bridges for 1939; to levy rates for current purposes; to equalize assessment of municipalities; to authorize the county to borrow money; to provide the cost of secondary education of county pupils attending vocational schools, high schools, and Grade A and B continuation schools; for regulating licensing and governing hawkers and peddlers; to commit persons to the House of Refuge; to govern the weights and loads passing over county roads at certain seasons of the year; and to delete certain roads from the county system."

Special Grants

Going into Committee of the Whole on Ways and Means the council awarded the following grants: $200 to the Township of Monteagle for the purpose of erecting a bridge; $75 to Agricultural Representative Linn Fair, Stirling for junior farmers work; $150 to the Belleville Agricultural Society and $100.00 each to the Hastings County Fairs; $100 special prize money to be awarded to Hastings county cheesemakers at the British Empire Cheese Exhibition to be held in Belleville this year; $100 to the Red Cross Hospitals at Bancroft and Coe Hill; $5 to the Belleville Ratepayers and Trustees Association for expenses of a public-speaking contest; fifty per cent of the cost of two indigents residing with private families in Hungerford Township was ordered paid as was a bill of $989.30 to the Children's Aid Society.

Considerable time was spent in consideration and adjustment of a large number of indigent hospitalization accounts at which Mr. Friesen was present and rendered invaluable aid with suggestions for collections.

At the conclusion of the sitting Warden George Thompson thanked his council for their splendid cooperation during the session. He voiced the hope that good crops would bless everyone, and hoped to see them in good health at the next session.

Council then adjourned to meet in December.

HON. R. J. MANION

Only 26 Senators voted for unification and 21 voted against it, said Dr. Manion. The 21 included seven Conservatives and 14 Liberals.

"But where were the other nineteen Liberal Senators,' Dr. Manion asked. "They were shoved out by their leader, Senator Raoul Dandurand, in order to get rid of them so that the Conservative vote would embarrass me."

The vote of the 25 Senators was an expression of their personal opinions. There was no more reason to heed their vote on the railway question than there would be to heed the vote of any 25 other persons on any question.

"I believe great relief is possible from the burden of railway deficits and I will give a plan for that in the near future," promised Dr. Manion.

Tired of Inactivity

Maximum savings by unification would be $20,000,000 to twenty-five million dollars annually. Half would be saved to the C.P.R. so the net saving to the taxpayers would just be the other half.

The government party today was the "Mackenzie King" party rather than the Liberal party, said Dr. Manion. Many Liberals are tired of a policy of inactivity at Ottawa. Nothing has been done to provide work and wages. In nine years $900,000,000 has been spent on direct relief. Today the Conservative party advocated spending money on public works.

Until his just-ended tour with their Majesties, Prime Minister King had never in the past four years crossed Canada to observe conditions, said Mr. Manion.

Practically everything the Department of National Defence has done for the defence of Canada has been by "propaganda in the newspapers," said Col. Drew. Canada had less than a bow-and-arrow army. There were no arrows.

Referred to Visit

Failure to deal with the unemployment problem left the Federal Government without reason for continuing in office. Democracy could not survive unless parliament faced up to the nation's problems.

At a non-political banquet both Dr. Manion and Col. Drew referred to the royal visit as a builder of national unity.

Col. Drew said reports in the German press indicated doubt was cast there on the warmth of the reception given their Majesties in Canada and the United States.

"If Germany is in any doubt about the warmth of the reception here and in the United States of the King and Queen, as the reports from the German press would indicate, may we suggest that Herr Hitler write and suggest that he pay a state visit to New York.

"Will the American people play and sing Horst Wessel and Deutschland Uber Alles as they did God Save the King and Rule Britannia last Saturday. Take it from me—they won't."

HOPE ABANDONED

Engaged in Naval Exercises

With other French units, the Phenix was engaged in manoeuvres in Cam-Ranh Bay when it plunged and failed to reappear.

The communique:—

"On the morning of June 15, the submarines Phenix and Espoir took part in exercises off Cam-Ranh in collaboration with the Lamotte-Picquet (cruiser) and aviation.

"The Phenix having plunged did not reappear. Search was made immediately with the help of aviation but it was in vain.

"The bottom of the ocean at this point being more than 100 metres, after more than 24 hours of fruitless searching loss of the Phenix and its crew was considered certain."

Disappearance of the Phenix, one of the finest submarines in the French Navy, marked the third great undersea disaster in less than a month. It followed loss of the United States Squalus with 26 lives and the British Thetis with 99.

Even if located, naval authorities expected great salvage difficulties would be encountered. In places the China Sea is more than 300 feet deep.

Swift Currents Block Attempts

Families of the victims were notified yesterday that hope had been abandoned for the crew, commanded by 43-year-old Captain O. M. Bouchacourt.

The area where the Phenix made her last dive was known, but swift currents complicated the problem of naval experts in their attempt to locate the submarine.

"The cause of this catastrophe is still unknown and a commission of inquiry has been formed to discover it. The search continues actively and all means at the disposal of the Indo-China Fleet are being employed."

Phenix On Cruise

Information available in naval circles said the Phenix and Espoir earlier had left Saignon for a cruise toward Hong Kong and Manila, stopping at Cam-Ranh for manoeuvres with other units.

Vice-Admiral Jean Decoux was in command of the hunt for the stricken craft. Warships and tugs from this base went to the scene Thursday but news of the disaster was withheld until all hope was abandoned.

The Phenix was built in 1927. It is of a type heretofore considered one of the most successful submarine styles.

British naval sources in Hong Kong said the French submarine flotilla was carrying out manoeuvres northeast of Sagon before continuing to Hong Kong, where it was due June 20.

The submarine mother ship Medway, only British vessel equipped to lend possible assistance, recently left Hong Kong for Weeihaiwai where she was believed now to be loading provisions for relief of the Tientsin concession blockade.

Hints of Sabotage Heard.

Paris, June 17 (AP)—Hints of suspected sabotage began to creep into sections of the Paris press today as France mourned the disappearance of the 2,000-ton submarine Phenix, with 71 men aboard, off the coast of Indo-China.

Writers in several newspapers asked questions such as: "Can this be the law of averages—that three democracies lose three submarines in less than a month?"

The Communist paper L'Humanite said: "This commands suspicion." It linked three submarine disasters suffered by the United States, Great Britain and France with the loss of the 34,000-ton French liner Paris, which burned April 19 at her Le Havre dock. French authorities have worked on the theory that the fire was set by foreign agents.

Commander's Wife Hopeful.

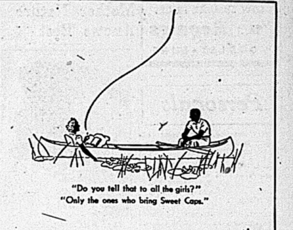
Widows and relatives of the men aboard the Phenix—living mostly in the naval centres of Toulon, Lorient and Brest—received official notices which said briefly: "Submarine Phenix disappeared 36 hours ago. All hope abandoned."

The wife of the commander of the Phenix, Captain O. M. Bouchacourt, still clung to the belief her husband was alive.

"Perhaps all is not lost," she said. "I still believe in my husband and his crew."

News of the disappearance came just after Cesar Campinchi, Minister of Marine, had opened negotiations to purchase ten diving bells from the United States navy. One was used to save 33 from the U.S.S. Squalus, which foundered off Portsmouth, N.H., May 23 with 26 men lost.

There was no official statement on the cause of the sinking, but naval authorities believed there was some accident aboard, perhaps trouble in submerging. The Phenix had left Toulon about four months ago to relieve another submarine.



"Do you tell that to all the girls?"

The Stars Say—

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, June 18

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of thrilling and exciting events, with probably romance and high adventure sparkling in the air. Companionship, courtship and marriage are imminent, but there are some subtle or intriguing angles which may prove sensational or dramatic, or perhaps might have deep mystical significance. All tendencies to extravagance or excess should be moderated.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves engulfed in a year of great adventure or romance, with intriguing elements that may prove to be sensational or mysterious.

A child born on this day may be gracious, companionable, sympathetic and indulgent, although prone to extravagance, sensationalism and excitement.

For Monday, June 19

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a most perplexing one, with one major aspect threatening a stubborn obstacle, impediment or postponement, and others making for decisive movement, initiative and progress. In fact, aggressive measures or changes of an audacious character may be needed to break up static conditions. But use tact, perseverance and patience in dealings with elders or females.

Those whose birthday it is may not be surprised at an adventurous, romantic and happy year, despite some tenacious obstacles, postponements or oppositions to adjust tactfully and patiently. Compromise may prove pleasantly effective.

A child born on this day may be original, independent, studious and subtle, although having a winning and attractive personality.

GILEAD W.M.S.

The June meeting was held at the home of Mr. Ernest Huffman on Wednesday 14th. There was an attendance of twenty-three. The president opened with the call to worship and Onward Christian soldiers was sung. Mrs. Rhoda Huffman read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. W. Clare and Mrs. A. Armstrong led in prayer. Roll call was answered by a verse containing word Praise taken from the Bible.

Business was discussed and collection taken $2.15. Plans were made for the strawberry and ice cream social.

Mrs. Kenneth Leavens then took charge and the following program was given—a solo by Mrs. Wilfred Clare; a reading by Mrs. Jas. Huffman, Strong but too Smart, a temperance lesson; duet by Mrs. Hubel and Mrs. Balcanquel, Mrs. E. Yorke read a portion of the life story of Mrs. Geo. MacDougal a pioneer missionary to the province of Saskatchewan which was very interesting.

The meeting closed by singing, "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me" and the Mizpah Benediction.

Miss Florence Huffman served lunch and a social hour was spent.

Follows Nature's patterns when applying make-up.

By HELEN FOLLETT

NATURE is the greatest complexion artist and the clever make-up specialist endeavors to follow her patterns. Nature brushes on the rosy glow, leaving no sharp outlines. The commercial blush is too often patchy, failing to do a modest fade-away.

If the face is oval, work the rouge in from the far end of the eye to just above the wing of the nose, fill in below until you have formed a crescent. This design is fetching, gives the face a nice radiance, brings out the loveliness of the eyes.

The only time when low-placed blushes are justified is when the chin is pointed and the nose sharp and thin. That trick gives width to the lower portion of the face. Touch the lips with bright pigment; but see that the tone harmonizes with the cheek brightener.

To rouge the centre of hollow cheeks is to make them appear more gaunt. Deep coloring has the effect of a shadow.

An excess of pigment will make fatigue lines more apparent. Go lightly with faint wild rose pink and brush it over the eyelids. A damask lipstick will give a pleasing finish to the cosmetic portrait.

Powders are going rosy to beat the band but will be combined with golden effects as the season advances and the pretty dearhearts get toasted by the sun.

Never has a season brought forth more colorful clothes, and that's another reason why make-up must be subdued. Millinery comes on color mixtures that are enough to make you gasp, frocks are running wild with blends of greens, yellows, purples, all shades of reds and blues. If your clothing carries all the colors of the rainbow, a pale or faintly rosy complexion with lips tinted in a deep fuchsia will be your best bet.

When selecting a frock, wrap the fabric around your neck, close to your face, note the effect upon eyes and complexion. This practice is especially necessary to the woman who has a sallow skin. She should avoid beige and brown tones.

BAPTISIMAL CEREMONY ON VICTORIA PARK ON SUNDAY

Victoria Park will be the scene of an event of unusual interest on Sunday afternoon, June 18th, when the Christian Ordinance of Believer's Baptism will be administered by Pastor E. N. O. Kulbeck of the Evangel Temple. Permission has been given to use the pool where the candidates will be immersed. The service is announced to commence at 2.45 p.m. Mr. Kulbeck states that the service will be brief and so all expecting to attend are advised to come early.

Because of the large numbers which usually attend outdoor baptismal services, arrangements have been made with Chief Kidd for police supervision of traffic, should such be necessary.

Fashion Flashes

(By ALICE ALDEN)

An all-day dress is of dark blue satin dotted all over in white in various sizes. Neck is square, skirt is fairly full. Belt is blue leather.

Under the stars there is magic in white. An exquisite evening frock is of white marquisette, the skirt set with incrustations of white lace. White lace ruffles mark the off-shoulder neckline.

You will be searching for accessories to go with black, blue and white clothes as well as prints. A good choice would be a sailor of rough straw in burnt toast color, the crown band of a deeper tone.

Advice to the Lovelorn

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

Portrait of A "Siren"

It's the old triangle of Girl and Boss. The wife who has seen her home crumble, the future of her children made uncertain, now faces the final tragedy of having her adored husband beg her to divorce him!

She still loves him. Yes! She does not blame him. O, no! It's the girl's fault. The devilish creature of twenty who, with her arts and graces, her magic, has hypnotized "the best man that ever lived into a creature none of us recognize—his children, his wife, even his mother".

My correspondent's letter is long, full of tear blisters, handwriting running up and down the line, dashed off under violent agitation—and through it all, never a word of censure for the husband—no one to blame but the girl.

It's the usual thing, the wife's belief that her husband was more tempted than tempting. Beyond his strength, that wretched girl has played her neat little bag of tricks to a good man's undoing.

But what of the good man? He is older, more experienced, supposed to have more character, and he has everything to lose. She is to blame. This is the wife's version.

But a more cooly critical world sees how merrily the husband plunges down the primrose path, even conveying the impression, sometimes, that he's pulling along the girl after him. Willing as Barkis, if the whole truth were known.

In spite of economic independence, the right to vote—wives accept as gospel the lame excuse of old Father Adam: "The woman Thou gavest me, she did tempt me to eat" No doubt she did. And her great granddaughters to the several thousandth generation, have continued to point out the attraction of apples. But what's the matter with the man? He could pass up apples as readily as he does spinach if he only had the moral courage to do so.

In spite of the maternal element in all wifely love, husbands do not flee temptation; they hot-foot after it. They don't want to be rescued, or have life preservers thrown to them. All they want is an alibi, someone on whom to fix the blame.

This column discussed for several months last year the girl and boss triangle. We published scores of actual letters from girls, wives, and bosses giving every angle of these cases. To sum up, the final verdict of the persons involved was: The man 'I was tempted,' the wife 'he was tempted', and the girl 'I was blamed'.

Probably there is an element of truth in all these findings. A man well along in the fatal forties, with a wife losing her good looks at home, is charmed by the vision of a young slender girl, "a sight to delight in." The girl looks up to her boss as a sort of deity. And there is the fatal magic of propinquity, the overwhelming advantage of being on the spot. Their office interests are mutual.

Now if the man really wanted to flee temptation, he could get the girl another job—but does he? He flies to, not from, temptation. The girl—perhaps it's her first serious love affair. The boss takes on the qualities of a god-like being in her eyes. His greater worldly wisdom impresses her. His authority, his success, the influential people he meets on the same plane. Is it any wonder she falls for him?

Well, that's the set-up. Sometimes a miracle happens, and the man stays by his old home and his old wife. But to hope for the miracle is about all a wife can do.

Menus For the Wedding

At a very early morning wedding, say at eight or nine o'clock, a breakfast menu should be served. For the first course, fruit in some form; slices of melon, iced grapefruit, orange juice. Then, usually eggs—the ever-popular scrambled eggs with thin slices of crisp bacon or tiny sausages, or eggs baked in ramekins. Tiny hot biscuits or rolls, toast, or toasted English muffins. Marmalade or jam of some kind, or guava jelly. And hot coffee.

What is referred to as a "wedding breakfast", although the menu is a typical luncheon menu, is served after a later morning wedding, for example a High Noon wedding or one that takes place before one o'clock. This may be a sit-down meal or a buffet service. If the service is buffet, the table is set as for an afternoon tea, and the wedding cake, if there is no bridal table, is used as the centrepiece. The table flowers are either all-white or white and pink.

The first course might be fruit cocktail or hot or jellied bouillon. Hot dishes appropriate to serve for seated or buffet service are: chicken a la king on toast; lobster or crab Newburg; cream chicken with mushrooms; chickens or shrimp patties; chicken croquettes.

Cold dishes: an aspic of chicken, or any other kind of aspic, such as celery salad in tomato aspic; ham mousse; sliced cold meats with salads or tomato surprise, or deviled eggs or asparagus tips with vinagrette sauce. There is, of course, the perennial chicken or lobster salad. Appropriate relishes should be served. There should be finger rolls (split, buttered; heated), tiny biscuits, thin bread-and-butter sandwiches or sandwiches with simple fillings. The coffee service is usually placed on a side table, as is the champagne or punch or a substitute cold drink.

Dessert is usually ice cream or an ice. This may be served in individual molds in the form of wedding balls, hearts, rings, cupids, roses, slippers, lillies, or fruits and flowers. There are dishes of fancy cake; perhaps little cakes iced in white, or white and pink. Or only the bride's cake may be served with the ice cream. For the table, for decoration as well as taste, are dishes of mints, bonbons, glace nuts, crystallized grapefruit or orange slices, frosted mint leaves and crystal mints, or candy rose petals.

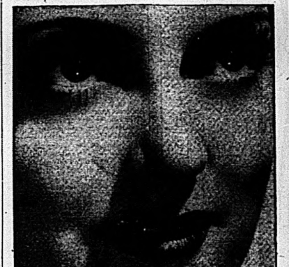
At the afternoon or evening reception the menu may be similar to the menu for the noon wedding breakfast or lunch. Or it may be as simple as you wish, one dish such as chicken a la king with small rolls, or a choice of chicken or lobster salad, with rolls or bread-and-butter sandwiches or assorted sandwiches. Ice cream, bride's cake, and coffee.

After an informal afternoon wedding, tea with coffee as an alternative, and appropriate tea foods may be served; thin sandwiches of assorted kinds, little cakes. After an informal evening wedding, assorted sandwiches, small cakes and coffee may be served.

Courtesy Tip

Do you allow your children to chew with their mouths open? Or do you let them speak when they have food in their mouths? If you do, your guests won't enjoy watching this disagreeable sight. And when your children go a-visiting, I wonder what the mothers and fathers of your children's friends will think about them . . . and about you. No, I really don't wonder. You know, and I know, how they will size you up!

For Brighter Sight



Joy Hodges. . . . . careful treatment keeps her eyes pretty, bright

EYES TIRED at the dinner hour when they should be brightest? That's because you are suffering from fatigue; soul shiners are sympathetic.

Before putting on your new cosmetic face, remove make-up with a cleansing oil or cream, wiping it every bit away. Dip a heavy washcloth in hot water, press to your eyes; repeat half a dozen times. Run to the refrigerator, get an ice cube. Place it in a sauce dish, add a little witch hazel, dip in a piece of gauze and place over the blinkers. While this refreshing pack is getting in its helpful work, lie down for ten minutes.

Get out the massage cream. Dip in the first finger of the right hand, place it on the eyelid close to the nose, sweep outward to the temple where you are to do a few little brisk taps and circles; come back under the eye to the starting point.

Wipe away the cream with the moist cloth that has been used, fluff on powder lightly. With a rouge pad brighten the eyelids. Touch the temples with coloring. A little rosy glow around the eyes gives freshness and sparkle to them.

Touch the eyelashes with mascara, dip the brush in mineral oil and groom the eyebrows. There you are! Happy evening!

To the victim of self-consciousness the frank friend says, "Oh! don't be silly!" which doesn't help at all. Reform is not so easy; it comes through the cultivation of self-respect and a little healthy conceit.

If you suffer from shyness, hand yourself some apple sauce. You are probably just as intelligent as the life of the party that you envy. Think more about other people than about yourself. Don't fancy that they are paying attention to you. You are suffering from social fear; there's no reason why you should suffer torment as all of us are cut off pretty much the same piece of cloth. Even the smartest among us do stupid things, make mistakes.

There's danger in them thar elaborate coiffures that the stylists are offering. They look grand in pictures but they are likely to make one seem overdressed. And being overdressed is to look dowdy.

A mode has been revived that is twin-sister to the pineapple bob that was fashionable a decade ago. The hair is clipped the same length all over the head, about three inches from the scalp. Unless the fairy godmother, gave one homegrown ringlets, there must be a permanent wave.

Strands are separated in squares, rolled up on metal rods and dried. The curls are combed carelessly, not arranged in rolls, and the effect is like that of a small child with naturally curly wool. Very naive, if you ask us, and even if you don't.

It doesn't take an accident or a great fright to start a child stuttering, as it did in my case. Any great emotional conflict or mental strain will do it. Sometimes, however, if the mental strain is removed at once, the speech becomes normal.

I myself have known cases where a left-handed child has begun to stutter because he was compelled to use his right hand. Often the stutter will disappear if the child is allowed to go back to using the left hand. And take my word for it: left-handedness isn't anything like the handicap stuttering is when it comes to getting on in the world. Let me impress on you: if your child is beginning to stutter because of an emotional or mental strain such as this, it must be removed immediately, if he is to be cured.

Often a fright without any injury will break down a child's speech mechanism and make a stutterer out of him. A close friend of mine has a son who stutters. His parents have done everything to cure him, but it hasn't done any good. When this boy was a small child, his parents were crossing the ocean with him. One day, a friend to give the child a thrill, swung him out over the side of the boat. From that day on, the boy stuttered.

Several times I have encountered children who stuttered, I felt sure, because they were punished too often, or too severely. In these cases I attribute the appearance of the defect to fright. Just as was the case of the child I mentioned above, they might never have stuttered at all if the fright hadn't come when and in the way it did.

Many people have this tendency to a defect in speech, but they manage to avoid having it come out into the open. Some people stutter when they are over-tired, but these people don't have the harrowing experiences of the real stutterer who is never free from the fear that a word is going to trip him.

I don't think there is much doubt that the stuttering child is a nervous child. This nervousness he usually inherits from his parents. In such cases, the inevitable nervous environment of his home only adds to his speech defects; if it is at all possible, this child should be sent away for a while. I have known more than one boy to return home cured of stuttering after he had been away to school somewhere.

There is one phenomenon about stuttering that I cannot satisfactorily explain. That is, why are stutterers nearly always boys?

Just look around yourself and see how seldom you find a stuttering girl. Yet with boys it is a common fault. I have heard it argued that girls have an entirely different social outlook on life, and that this is responsible. Perhaps that is right; frankly I don't know.

Mrs. Schurman testified that parties were held in Washington on a week-end in July, 1937, but could only recall the names of two congressmen who attended because "I was bored and retired early."

"TITAN TOWER" by JAMES G. CHESNUTT

"Tonight," Linda told "Mr. Avon," that noon at their lunch time rendezvous, "is the night. The big night."

"Well," Mr. Avon observed, "I must say you don't look too happy about it! Say, young lady, the whole reason for all this is that this is what you think you need to make you happy. You're sure your mind's made up....?"

"It is," Linda said. "If I look preoccupied it's not because I'm not happy over the prospect of my first date with him; it's because—well, because I'm thinking of something else that I learned today."

She weighed the matter of confiding completely in Mr. Avon and telling him her fears about Janice and the other girl's apparent motive for seeking to shunt Linda from her new romance. No, Linda decided. I'm not even sure about Janice in my own heart. Why should I condemn her before someone else? Not, at least, until I've seen for myself....

"Well, Linda," Blaine said, "I know you'll have a simply wonderful time tonight. I'll be thinking of you—and holding a wish. I'll hope that Linda's future is a hundred times happier than her past."

"Thank you, Mr. Avon, you're a grand friend," Linda said, and her eyes told him how much she meant it.

Mr. Avon noted her eyes—bright but very tired—what she needed was a rest.

"Linda," Mr. Avon said, "how'd you like to go out in the country, where it's nice and quiet for a few days—take your boy wilth you? Where there's no one within a couple of miles, except the trout in the stream and the birds in the trees. My little shack in the hills, near Boulder Creek, is yours for a week or so, and the only rent you pay is a solemn promise to rest."

Mr. Avon's face was normally ruddy, but now it was really red. Linda, her back to the direction in which he stared, startled, saw him fumble at the knot of his tie and wondered if he were choking.

It was because her back was turned that Linda could not see Merry Blaine, very sure and poised and smart looking in a swagger black caracul coat. The amused smile on her deftly rouged lips was as pointed as the peak of the black velvet cocktail hat perched with careful carelessness on smartly-groomed blonde head.

Linda couldn't see it, but Merry Blaine's knowing smile, coupled with the stance she adopted, right hand on hip, seemed to say: "Why, FATHER! You old roue!"

Meredith Blaine was just the type who could make an effective entrance. She did so now, with a staged effect calculated to detract no whit from her father's discomfiture.

"Mr. Avon," showing confusion for the first time since Linda had known him, stumbled to his feet as Merry reached the table and Linda saw her for the first time.

"Merry, my dear!" Blaine said, "what a pleasant surprise!"

It was a brave effort, but his face and his tone gave the lie to the words.

His embarrassment might have been that of a father caught by his daughter while acting a generation too young for his age. Or it might have been merely because he feared that his pose of avuncular anonymity was going to end precipitately, and he didn't want to lose Linda's friendship. He had become deeply fond of his new friend.

In his introduction, however, new-friend Linda became old-friend Lind apractically spontaneously.

"Merry," he faltered, "I...... I should like you to know....may I present my old friend, Linda Morton? Linda, this is Miss Blaine, Merry Blaine—old friend of her father's....

"How DO you do, Miss Morton?" Merry's glance of appraisal showed she thought Linda was doing very well, indeed.

The wide blue yes, under perfectly arched brows, were Bill Blaine's eyes—only harder, more calculating.

So this was Bill Blaine's sister, thought Linda. Well, wasn't THAT nice? Merry, this is Linda, the girl I'm going to marry, etc, etc....

"Merry," Linda mused, must be "Meredith," Bill's middle name. Family name, no doubt; oh—VERY family.

The perfectly outlined lips parted again and words came out.

Mr. Avon had said he was a friend of Merry's father.

"Oh, yes," Merry answered archly, "And what is Pop up to now, the dear old scamp? No good, I dare say...."

"He—he's doing as well as can be expected," responded the man in gray, now recovering nicely, sure that Merry wouldn't give him away. "You should see him more often."

"I will," Merry smiled broadly. "From now on I'll see him very often. I'll practically shadow him."

It was all over Linda's head. But then, the head of this tired Linda wasn't being held very high right now.

"Must dash," Merry said. "Cocktailing. Nice to know you, Miss Martin."

Linda wasn't too tired, though, to notice how casual had been Merry's misstatement of her name, on purpose.

After Merry had left, Mr. Avon was his normal, friendly self again, and he gave Linda a warm, sincere handshake as he bade her goodby and wished her again happiness on her venture tonight.

A venture—but neither of them knew it—with Mr. Avon's own son, Bill.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

While Linda and Mr. Avon were enacting their own little lunch hour drama, another denizen of Titan Tower was acting his small drama—alone. He was Steve Hubbard of the basement garage.

Hat off in the sun, Steve was gazing fondly through a show window. The show window and its contents had not attracted a crowd. One out of ten persons who passed, perhaps, would recognize the undramatic instruments displayed therein.

There were protractors and sliderules and scales and drawing-boards and T-squares and gadgets. They were mechanical drawing instruments—the tools of the architect's trade. And there in the middle of minor incidentals, was THE instrument. New, in its pristine mechanical splendor, it was an old friend to Steve.

It was a large device, and intricate and very costly. Steve stood there fully fifteen minutes, as a child stares at a cherished and too-wonderful-to-hope - for toy. He seemed to be trying to memorize every detail as though he wanted to remember it the way it was, in case anything should happen.

Then he withdrew from his pocket a small black bankbook and opened its pages.

"Next week," he said to himself, "we'll have enough. Cash. It's been a long wait, chum.

"On the other hand," he argued, "what do I want with you? Euclid got along all right without you. They didn't need you to build the pyramids or the Acropolis or Notre Dame."

The last words, Steve hadn't realized, were spoken aloud. He resumed his silent soliloquy.

"Why not spend it on something worth while?" he asked. "You'll have to show her some fun to work your way back up to zero in her estimation—and you've got competition, capitalized.

"See here, Steve," he continued, "you're alive, aren't you? Why not act like it—and get some fun out of life while you can?"

There was no way for Steve to know that Linda had spoken practically the same words. Or that she was thinking of Bill Blaine, while Steve was thinking of Linda.

X X X

It was shortly after lunch, when Linda felt considerably freshened from her brief rest, that the flowers began arriving. First came a small, square white box, satin ribbon-tied. In it lay a single bachelor's button, crushed to look as though it had been retrieved from under the wheel of a truck. Linda didn't appreciate its symbolism right off. That came later, when the other flowers did.

There was no card with the wrecked bachelor's button. The florist's delivery boy couldn't say who had sent it.

Forget-me-nots came next, at 2 o'clock. A small, dainty bunch of them, nothing else. No ferns or other spinach. And the card read simply:

"Remember?"

At 3 o'clock, the little old-fashioned nosegay, all bright and fragrant and dressed in a lace dolly, arrived. Linda began to time the hours by the delivery boy. The card this time read: "From day-before-yesterday, for the lady of tonight."

At 4 o'clock, when up came roses—two dozen American beauties—Linda wasn't surprised. It had gone too far for that. But to say that she was confused would be understatement. This card read, more poetically than gramatically:

It's me.
"B. B."

That's when Dr. Thorpe began to notice her confusion, when she went in his office to get an extra vase. After all, you can hide nosegays and forget-me-nots, but you can't stuff two dozen roses in your pocket.

Linda was totally unprepared, however, for 5 o'clock.

There was only one patient left in the office when the 5 o'clock flowers arrived — but that didn't help any. One patient was enough. It had to be the highly irascible Mrs. Wharton and it had to be just while talking to Mrs. Wharton that the flowers came, hurling Linda into confusion.

While Mrs. Wharton sat across the desk from Linda, the now-familiar florist's delivery boy, huffing and panting, arrived to deposit on the desk between them a huge potted gardenia plant, from which flowered exactly eight blooms.

Linda didn't look at the card until later. This time it was a formal engraved card with the name "William Meredith Blaine, M. D." crossed out and the words: "At 8, count 'em, 8—Bill" written in ink.

Linda tried to cover her embarrassment by being very business-like, avoiding Mrs. Wharton's quizzical stare, which seemed to say: "Well, of all things!" Linda fumbled very busily with Mrs. Wharton's history card, trying to appear absorbed in what she saw there.

"Let me see," Linda said, "your pulse was 47—oh, no! Why, that can't be; you'd be....Oh, that's not your pulse. That's your age!"

Dr. Thorpe came into the reception room from his office just in time to see his patient rise indignantly and exclaim:

"Young lady, I KNOW my age! I'm sure I didn't ask YOU...."

After she had left, somewhat mollified by Dr. Thorpe's strategic flattery, Linda's employer turned to her and said, with what was for him unusual severity:

"Miss Morton, if you're going in for gardening perhaps you'd better change your uniform for overalls and sunbonnet. Take a letter! Or, better, take a sedative and go home."

As she beat a retreat, Linda could—at that moment—have willingly stood by and watched Bill Blaine drawn and quartered.

But by the time she had reached home her mood had changed again. Linda raced through dinner, scarcely knowing and caring less what she ate. Mrs. Blauer, who remained to keep Mickey for the evening, had prepared dinner and was feeding the boy.

"Where are you going, mother?" Micked asked solemnly as Linda skipped her dessert and gulped down a cup of coffee. "Can I go too?"

"No, dear," Linda told him. "Mother's going to a party. She'll take you bye-bye later—maybe on a picnic in the park."

After hurriedly kissing him goodnight, Linda gathered a few accessories and dashed for the apartment of Jo and Janice, where her formal and other clothes already had been laid out. Jo, the author of the plot, had paid for her authorship with the loan of her smart cocoa ermine coat, the coat which Jo had said "looks like what I'm not, darn it."

"Hurry, honey!" Janice greeted her at the door. "We won't have time for that special hair-do."

"Don't bother," Linda coolly rejected Janice's offer to help, "I'll take care of it."

Perfectly groomed and coiffed, her nails gleaming in long tapers of natural shade, Linda slipped into the filmy cornflower formal which was her "best."

Her high-piled blonde hair and blue eyes were artfully set off by the blue of the gown, but Jo found something to criticize in the ensemble.

"No, huh-un," Jo said, pursing her lips and shaking her head in disapproval. "Not the rhinestone clip. It just doesn't fit in."

"Here, Linda," Janice, her eyes wide in hurt at Linda's continued rebuffs at her every effort to help, "please, honey, wear it. For me."

She held out a beautiful brooch, exquisitely wrought in old gold, in the centre of which was a tiny porcelain miniature.

"Mother's," Janice said. Both Linda and Jo knew that it was Janice's most prized possession.

Linda smiled her thanks and silently pinned the brooch at her throat, achieving an effect that was totally lovely.

From the dresser, Jo plucked the applicator from a phial and applied a few deft touches to Linda's ears and hair.

"Yum," Jo said. "You're practically resist-proof."

If anything were needed to complete Linda's picture of loveliness, it arrived just at the right moment. It was an exquisite corsage of orchids.

But it was the first imperfect note in a perfect evening. Orchids and cornflower blue were out.

Hmmm, thought Linda, I'll show him!

With what she thought was a meaningful smile, she handed the transparent box to Janice.

"For you, darling," she said sweetly.

And before Janice or Jo could recover she had gathered her billowing skirt about her ankles and dashed back to her own apartment. From a tiny vase on the mantel she took the little bunch of forget-me-nots which Bill had sent to the office at—2 o'clock, wasn't it? And she fastened them in her hair.

Orchids for Janice, she mused: forget-me-nots for Linda.

In her own apartment, where she should have been except for her elaborate pretense, Linda thought again of Mickey. Bent upon kissing him goodnight as he slept, she pushed through the swinging door into the kitchen, from which Mickey's room opened, and was surprised to find the lights ablaze. She was more surprised at the scene which met her eye.

1939 Edition of Official Handbook 'Canada' is Issued

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has recently issued the 1939 edition of the Official Handbook "Canada," in which the review of the country's economic progress and organization is brought up to date. The publication is, in fact, a compendium of information useful alike to business men and the general public.

Production, trade, finance, labour, and transportation, in addition to such subjects as population, health, and education, receive detailed treatment, the weight of emphasis being placed on those aspects which are currently most important.

The Introduction is a short review of data more fully set out in the succeeding chapters, but brought up to the actual time of going to press. This year the Special Article following the introduction deals with The Unemployment Youth Problem—Steps Toward its Solution— The text is freely illustrated and there are six double-page inserts in tone. The Manufactures, Agriculture, Mining, Fisheries, etc. chapters deal with those respective phases of production, and every effort has been made to make the publication useful as well as instructive.

The proposition of handbooks going into financial and business channels was substantially increased last year. The Bureau of Statistics would like to maintain the more balanced distribution so built up, since the publication is designed to fill a distinct need as a reference work in business houses.

A limited number of copies is still available. The low price of twenty-five cents per copy barely covers the cost of paper and press work but has been decided upon in order that the publication might reach as wide a circle as possible. Applications for the book should be addressed to the King's Printer, Government Printing Bureau, Ottawa. Postage stamps are not acceptable in payment.

MASS SLAYER IS GUILLOTINED

Eugene Weidman Tried to Withdraw Head from Block at Last Moment

Versailles, France, June 17 (CP)—Eugene Weidmann, 31 year old mass murderer, falteringly went to his death on the guillotine this morning.

The man who killed the young American dancer, Jean de Koven, and five others suddenly rebelled at death with his head on the block and tried to withdraw.

Weidmann, who a decade ago worked as a farmhand in Saskatchewan, had expressed a desire to die as quickly as possible. In his cell before dawn he calmly wrote eight letters, one to Miss Ida Sackheim of Brooklyn, N.Y., an aunt of Miss de Koven. She accompanied the dancer to the Paris Exposition in 1937. Weidmann lured the girl to his villa where he first robbed her, and then murdered her and buried the body.

Led Murder-for-Profit Ring

As Weidmann was hurried to the guillotine he caught a glimpse of the white-faced throng staring at him and the black-cloaked executioner "Uncle Leopold" Desfourneaux. The execution took 30 seconds—ten seconds longer than "Uncle Leopold's" tutor, the late Anatole Deibler, regularly required.

Weidmann refused the cigarette, traditionally offered a condemned person just before execution, but drank a cup of rum. He had led a "murder for profit" ring operating from a suburban St. Cloud villa. His accomplice, Roger Million, received a commutation to life imprisonment from President Albert Lebrun.

Weidman was deported from Canada in 1930 after serving jail terms for theft and forgery.

WORLD STATE OBJECT OF SOCIETY

London, June 16 (CP) —A new political organization called Fedral Union aimed at founding the world state as a more practical successor to the League of Nations is campaigning for members.

Robert Byron, traveller and architectural critic, one of the union's supporters, described the movement as the only alternative "to dodging in and out of air-raid shelters for the rest of our lives."

He outlined Federal Union thus: "In the present state of communications, anarchy is inevitable until national states, without abdicating their identity, abdicate a part of their sovereignty (in such spheres as armaments and finance) in favor of a federal government composed of deputies who are not nominees of national government but are directly elected by the common citizens everywhere. The aim of Federal Union is to obtain support for this idea at first in Britain, then in other countries."

BOGUS U. S. BILLS LEAD TO ARREST

Armenian Arrested After Struggle With Police on Charge of Passing

St. Catharines, June 17— James Monoogian, 24-year-old Armenian of Niagara Falls, N.Y., was taken into custody here late Friday on charges of passing counterfeit United States $5 bank notes.

Monoogian was arrested after a struggle on King Street, near James Street, with Corporal J. M. Bella of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Bella was struck across the head with a bottle of olives and kicked in the shins before he downed Monoogian in the street. Monoogian will appear before Magistrate J. H. Campbell.

Acting on information that bogus money was being circulated in the uptown business area, Detective James Anderson of the city police investigated, and later was joined by Corporal Bella and Detective William Irwin.

The officers spotted Monoogian on King Street, and the R.C.M.P. corporal followed the suspect into John Balsom's fruit market. After Monoogian handed Mrs. Balsom an allegedly spurious $5 note in payment for merchandise totalling less than $1, Corporal Bella took the suspect into custody.

As they walked from the store, the prisoner is reported to have swung on Bella and kicked him. A scuffle in the store entrance, on the sidewalk, and in the street followed before Monoogian was brought under control. Detectives Anderson and Irwin rushed to Bella's assistance.

Police said that a check-up revealed that counterfeit $5 notes had also been passed at five other fruit markets, while two merchants had refused to accept American money from a man answering Monoogian's description.

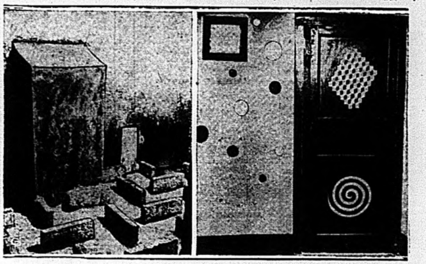
CLAIMED TO HAVE BEEN USED AS TORTURE CHAMBERS



An interior view of one of the so-called "torture" cells found in the Convent Do Los San Juanitas in the Calle Zaragoza, Barcelona, by triumphant nationalist forces of General Franco. Alfonso Laurent Cik, Yugoslav architect, is now on trial in Barcelona, charged with constructing these torture chambers at the request, allegedly, of the Spanish Republican government, which is charged by the nationalist prosecutor with having them built for the purpose of torturing nationalist prisoners. This particular cell, LEFT, was built in such a way that the occupant could neither sit nor lie down owing to the raised cementing of the brick floor. The low ceiling prevented the hapless one from standing and the only seat shown here, a cement block, was too high to permit of any but the most uncomfortable sitting. It is charged that these cubistic patterns, RIGHT would seem to change before the prisoner's very eyes, causing his mind to waver on the brink of reason. It is further alleged the Republicans placed rings in prisoners' eyes to keep them open and in the glare of powerful lights focussed on the interior.

"The Bear Went over the Mountain . . . ."

You remember why, don't you? Certainly. It was "to see what he could see."

And it's for just this same beautifully simple reason that thousands of knowing people run through the advertisements in their daily newspapers.

For, it seems, civilized men and women are seldom satisfied with their lot. In this ever-producing age they have an insatiable appetite for something new which may make life brighter. That something may be an electric razor, or new summer clothes . . . a good book, or a ride in a streamlined train.

So they turn the newspaper pages TO SEE WHAT THEY CAN SEE. There they're able to find what it is, why it is, where it is, and how much it is. And the advertisements say, "Come and get it!"

Yankees and Cardinals Ready For Job of Bringing Boiling Tigers, Giants Under Control

Detroit Has Nine-Game Winning Streak and Giants Eight

DODGERS FOURTH

Atley Donald Given Credit for Seventh Straight Victory

(By Judson Bailey Associated Press Sports Writer).

Baseball's best thermostats, New York Yankees and St. Louis Cardinals, were ready today for the job of bringing the boiling Detroit Tigers and New York Giants under control.

With the Tigers tearing along on top of a nine-game winning streak and the Giants steaming on eight straight, the task of stopping them loomed as a major chore.

Detroit finished its sweep of a four-game series at Boston yesterday by coasting to an 8-7 victory over the Red Sox on a five-run cluster in the fourth. This margin was more than Boston could overcome when the red sockers started socking in the seventh.

The Giants likewise finished their mopping up at Chicago by taking a big early lead over the Cubs and then choking off a three-run flurry in the seventh to win 6-4. A pair of Chicago expatriates, Frank Demaree and Zeke Bonura, accounted for five of New York's runs. Bonura tripled with two on base in the first inning and Demaree singled him home, then doubled two more runs across in the fifth inning.

Cards Stop Dodgers

Their foes in this weekend's feature series have just completed two cooling off assignments. The Cardinals stopped the Dodgers 7-6 yesterday in the marginal game of their series after the Dodgers had spurted from fifth to third place in the National League within a week.

The defeat dropped the Dodgers back to fourth, behind their hated rivals, "them Jints". With Joe Medwick and Don Padgett hitting homers, each with a man on base, Lon Warneke held Brooklyn scoreless for six innings before wilting in the intense heat and Curt Davis managed to stand off a four-run rally in the ninth.

The Yankees stopped a six-game Cleveland winning streak by snatching the last two tussles in their series. On the heels of their 1-0 victory of Thursday the champions captured yesterday's engagement 4-3 by bunching seven of their eight hits in two two-run innings.

Given Credit

Although he didn't finish, rookie Atley Donald got credit for his seventh straight victory. Two of the seven hits he gave were homers by Bruce Campbell and Jim Webb.

Two six-game losing streaks were ended yesterday as Pittsburgh Pirates pounced on Boston Bees 4-2 and Philadelphia Athletics came from behind in the ninth inning to nose out St. Louis Browns 11-10.

Washington Senators evened their four game series with Chicago White Sox by plunging out ahead with four runs in the first inning and staying there. Harry Kelley, who scattered the Sox's 10 hits, was the only hurler in either league to go the route.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia Phillies had an idle day.

JITNEY TOURNEY AT LOCAL RINK

Forty-Eight Players Compete in First Tournament for Season

With 48 players competing on 12 rinks, the opening jitney bowling tournament of the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club players to participate a goodly number of club members were on hand to witness the season's first jitney rinks tournament. These successful jitneys, purely inter-club competition, will be held weekly by the local lawn bowlers throughout the season.

Some outstanding bowling was seen last night, taking into consideration the earliness of the season. The winners of the tournament were: Mrs. Neate, D. Grant, L. Wight, E. Ford, Alf Symons, T. Truman and Harry Thompson. The tournament was conducted on the point plus basis.

Yesterday's Stars

Joe Medwick and Don Padgett, Cardinals—Hit home runs to beat Dodgers.

Frank Hayes, Athletics — Singled with bases loaded in ninth to enable Philadelphia to beat Browns.

Lee Handley, Pirates — Drove in three runs to lead Pittsburgh out of six-game losing streak.

Charley Gehringer, Tigers—Home run in first inning sparked Detroit to ninth straight victory.

Frank Demaree and Zeke Bonura, Giants—Accounted for five of New York's six runs in winning eighth straight at Chicago.

Atley Donald, Yankees — Spaced seven hits against Indians and then singled in one run to record his seventh straight triumph.

WOODERSON TRIES FOR GREAT MILE

English Runner Will Face Four Great U. S. Stars at Princeton

(By Gayle Talbot Associated Press Sports Writer)

Princeton, N.J., June 17 (AP)—Track enthusiasts by thousands poured into this shady university town today, thrilled at the promise of seeing Sydney Wooderson, England's sensational runner, assault his own world record of 4.06.4 for the mile.

Wooderson, making his first appearance in the United States, was due to face four of America's greatest distance stars in the sixth annual Princeton invitation mile on Palmer stadium track, which has come to be recognized as the fastest outdoor running surface in the world.

Opposing the fleet Briton, holder of the unofficial world half-mile three-quarter marks and the recognized mile record, were the veteran Kansas flyer, Glenn Cunningham; Archie San Romani, winner of the event in 1937; Chuck Fenske, former University of Wisconsin ace, and Blaine Rideout, co-captain of North Texas State Teachers College track squad.

They make up a formidable opposition for the noted visitor. All have run the mile under 4.10,

Oswego and Amsterdam, Leaders in League, Score Victories

(By The Canadian Press)

In the heat of a battle for first place, fine performances of other teams farther down the baseball ladder sometimes are forgotten. Once in a while, however, even the top ranking teams have to make way in the news for a lesser contender.

That was the case yesterday as a pair of brilliant performances by Cornwall Bisons all but obscured the dog fight Oswego, Amsterdan and Ogdensburg are waging for first place in the Canadian-American League.

Bisons, getting brilliant pitching from Phil Marchildon and lefty Carr, blanked Utica Braves twice, 5-0 and 3-0, for their most impressive showing of the season. Their batting has been stronger but their defensive play, inspired by the fine hurling, was all but perfect.

Marchildon allowed only three hits as he counted his fourth successive victory and although he gave up five bases on balls errorless support afield kept him out of trouble.

Carr too gave only three hits, struck out 11 and walked four. A five run rally in the fourth inning won the game for Marchildon and home runs by lefty Trumbore and Frank Perkowski aided Carr although a walk followed by Tarlecki's double scored the winning run.

Oswego and Amsterdan continued their neck and neck struggle for first place, both scoring victories. The Nets beat Gloversville 5-3 to retain their slim percentage point lead while Amsterdam defeated Ogdensburg 14-7 to increase their margin over the third place Colts to a game and a half.

Rome pounded out a 9-4 victory over Ottawa in the other game.

About the busiest man in town these past few days is Harry Semark, owner and skipper of the Alaska. Last Wednesday afternoon while manoeuvring for a starting position during the Belleville Yacht Club races, the mainsail of Semark's Alaska caught on a metal sign on the Imperial Oil Company dock and tore the sail the entire length of itself from top to bottom. The Alaska has been showing its stern to all class "A" boats in the bay this season and with the Mikel Cup race being scheduled for Sunday afternoon, naturally Semark is anxious to have his sail repaired in order to enter this annual sailing event. The Mikel Cup sailing race is an open event to any sailing craft in the Bay of Quinte, up to 24 foot deck measurement, with no restrictions on the amount of canvas carried and no handicap or time limit prevails. Entries will be accepted up to starting time and as stated before this race is open to any sailing craft in the Bay of Quinte waters up to 24 foot deck measurements. All classes and descriptions of boats usually star in this free-for-all race, which is held annually off Victoria Park on a Sunday.

Sports writers all over the province are crying the lack of public support afforded team sports in Ontario. Up in Toronto a crowd of 5,000 is only worth slightly over $35.00 when the hat is passed, less than a cent each. The Kingston scribe says they have anywhere up to 2,000 fans at baseball and softball games in Kingston with $15.00 tops in the matter of collections and adds that such 'peanuts' isn't worth the effort of the clubs. Other centres are confronted with the same problem, but it would seem to us that Belleville is the tops when it comes to chiselling in on sports. For instance $8.00 is a big collection over at the Flats during a senior softball game and then the mentors have to entice the patrons with premiums in a draw. Recently the local junior softballers collected less than $4.00 when no draw was offered, so it looks as though Belleville fans will not pay for their sports amusement, unless given a double-dipper in the matter of premiums. On Monday night the baseball team took in exactly $3.00 and as the softballers say—"we can't even pay expenses." If sporting events are worth attending surely they're worth a small donation to help defray expenses, or is Belleville the original "tin-horn-sport" town?

One of the first official moves of newly-appointed Manager Tony Lazzeri was to recall pitcher Phil Marchildon, who was recently farmed out to the Cornwall Bisons. Apparently Lazzeri feels Marchildon might fare better under major league direction and with stronger support, which Lazzeri apparently has in mind. Yesterday the Leafs announced they would farm Bobby Porter out to the Wilkes Barre club of the Eastern League. However, the Syracuse Stars apparently saw something in the Toronto-born Porter as the Stars refused to waive him out of the International League and paid the purchase price for him, sending Porter to Syracuse. Porter is an outfielder.

The Brinton Carpet soccer team of Peterboro won their opening game of the season versus the Deloro "Smelters" in the mining village winning by a 3-1 score recently. Soccer football is played regularly between district clubs along Highway No. 7 for those interested in the Old Country game.

Cec Perdue, Peterboro sports scribe who must be lost these days as he can't direct the occasional blasts towards this corner, was in conversation with J. A. (Pud) Lane, erstwhile secretary of the Oshawa GM-men in the old C.O.B.L. recently and was informed that sports in general are in a bad way in the Motor City, with the possible exception of junior hockey, we hear. Mr. Lane is reported by Cec as saying—"It's terrible not having a ball club in Oshawa, but we'll be back in senior baseball next year battling with the Petes once again." No doubt the Oshawa interests will link up with the present Intercity senior ball loop. As a matter of fact the O.B.A. is seriously thinking of copying a leaf out of the O.H.A. book and classify all senior clubs into one or two groups. Oshawa dropped out of baseball this year, but only after a month's absence have the Motor City mentors apparently realized the folly of their mistake in letting team sports lapse. Baseball seems on its way out in Belleville and once dropped we feel sorry for team sports along the shores of the Bay of Quinte for the future.

As was expected Point Anne and Corbys A.C. won the softball tilts last night, the "cementmen" eking out a 10 to 8 win over the Juniors while Connie Harris pitched three hit ball as Corbys walloped Dracups 11 to 2. The only exciting feature at the Flats came when Umpire Bawden thumbed Art Cole out of the game for arguing too strenuously over a decision, Corbys having the edge all of the way. A fifth inning rally gave the Gaulin-led nine a head start at Ox Point and when the Juniors rallied in the ninth, their efforts fell two short of tying the count. Luffman hurled steady ball to win. There is a rumour rife along the mushball grapevine circuit to the effect the Dracup 'Tiremen' may fold up about Dominion Day, previous to which they may release a catcher, second baseman and pitcher to Corbys A.C. That ought to be great news to the Oilers, or is it? Last night's results made no difference in the league standing.

Did you know that—there seems to be no stopping the Detroit Tigers these days, they've won nine in a row....Ralph "High-pockets" McCabe hurled for Copper Cliff as they beat Creighton yesterday... Tony Paczkowski, former Pony moundsman, is with McIntyre Mines this year along with several other former Kingston players....The local lawn bowlers got away to a fine start with their initial season's jitney last night, 48 bowlers taking part in the affair....The new quarter-mile dirt track constructed by the Quinte Motorcycle Club out at Stoney Lonesome will be ready for introduction to the public soon... ....Incidentally the local motorcycle heads are an industrious and enterprising bunch and deserve much credit for their endeavours ....Their new dirt track was built on instructions from George Pepper from afar over the blue waters of the Atlantic.

CANNIFTON TEAM DOMINATES LOOP BEATING LATTA

Leaders Have Beaten Every Team in League at Least Once

SHANNONVILLE WINS

Juby Earns Shutout Against Foxboro by Well-Pitched Game

Foxboro, June 17 (Special)—The Cannifton nine still continue to dominate the South Hastings League and with thir easy victory over the Latta boys last night have now taken a fall out of the other three entrants in the league to hang up their third straight win of the current season without a single setback. Playing before the home crowd last evening, the league leading Cannifton team shoved the luckless Latta boys further into the cellar when, behind the steady hurling of Lorne Jarrel they nicked the northern lads for their third consecutive loss to win 6-2.

Whatever chances the losers had of taking a fall out of the Cannifton lads were mitigated when N. Hall, their star southpaw hurler, developed a streak of wildness to literally present the winners with several runs as the free passes which were given were invariably followed by timely hitting on the part of the homesters, making no doubt as to the final outcome. Cannifton is now one full game up on the second-place Shannonville team who turned in a sparkling performance on their home diamond last evening to shut out the Foxboro lads and drop them into third place.

Errors Play Part.

Errors played a predominate part in Shannonville's shutout over the Foxboro aggregation last night as the opposing hurlers staged a mound duel in which, all told, only five safe hits were collected off the combined deliveries of Juby for the homesters and Ken Peacock who was tossing them up for the visitors. Foxboro garnered three hits off the shutout hurling of Juby and were in scoring position on two different occasions only to have the pitcher put on the pressure and retire the side without any damage being done. Shannonville were able to only collect two hits off Peacock but errors by his teammates continually put him in the hole to account for every one of the winner's three tallies. Peacock, in addition to holding the opposition to two hits, struck out eight and walked two, while Juby was nicked for three safeties, fanned nine and never issued a single free ticket to first.

Scored In Two Frames.

Shannonville scored all their runs in the first two innings, getting one in the first when the first baseman dropped the throw on Cook's hit to short, with Cook working around to score when the catcher overthrew third in an attempt to nip him off the hot corner. Then, again in the second they scored two more when Spencer heaved a wide one to first on Houston's hit to short with Hill promptly driving him home with a triple to right and subsequently scoring when the catcher dropped a third strike on the next batter and had to toss him out at first.

NO CHANGES IN LOOP STANDING

Corbys Beat Dracups and Cementmen Down Junior Kids

Corby's A.C. and Point Anne "Cementmen" solidified their City Softball League standings as the latter defeated the Citizens Dairy Juniors 10 to 8 at Point Anne while Corby's A. C. downed Dracup's "tiremen" 11 to 2 at Coleman Flats in a duel softball bill last evening.

In defeating the juniors at home Bob Gaulin's "cementmen" continued to dog the heels of the league leading Oilers, remaining only a game behind the leaders, while the Corby's strengthened their third place slot. The loss was the juniors' sixth consecutive and the fifth handed the Tiremen in six starts.

With Connie Harris hurling three hit ball at the Flats for Corby's, his team mates pounded out eight runs in the first four frames to win a rather listless contest. Corby's got two in the second and third and Jimmie Barriage put the finishing touches to matters when he hit a home run with three aboard in the fourth, to clinch matters. Riggs' hit in the third and Sinfield's and Barriage's singles in the eighth were the only semblances of hits registered by the vanquished Tiremen.

Player Ejected.

Art Cole, elongated first baseman for Corby's, was ejected from the game by Umpire Bawden for too severely criticizing a decision to add the only color of the game. All of "Chuck" Barnett's charges hit in the clutches, led by Alex Simpson with four hits and McMartin with two doubles. Harris allowed three hits, struck out four and walked the same number. Dracup was touched for thirteen safeties.

Down at Point Anne the homesters scored five runs in the fifth inning to down the Juniors 10 to 8. The teen aged kids rallied in the ninth to score twice, but could not continue their attack in the clutches and fell short of knotting the count. Luffman hurled for the winners with Lum Carson pitching for the Juniors.

Corby's A.C.—J. Barriage lf, Cy Barriage ss, Kizer rf, Reid 3b, Cole and Miller 1b, Murray 2b, McMartin cf, Simpson c and Harris p.

Score by innings:

Dracups ...... 001 000 010— 2 2 4
Corby's ...... 022 400 30x—11 13 2

Umpires—Ethier and Bawden.

DEFENDING CHAMP STILL IN CONTEST

Jim Boechk of Toronto Plays Gordon Taylor in Semi-Finals

Kingston, Ont., June 17 (CP) — Battle for the Ontario amateur golf championship will be decided over Kingston's golf course today. And defending champion James Boeckh of Toronto York Downs is in the thick of the competition that reached the semi-final stage yesterday.

In the morning, Boeckh clashes with Gordon Taylor, Jr., of Toronto Summit in one bracket and in the other, E. F. Mooers of Kingston Cataraqui encounters brother Don Taylor, also of Toronto Summit. The finals will be played this afternoon.

The defending champion had a full day of it yesterday. After a smashing 4 and 3 win over Joe Thompson of Burlington, he returned to the links to sweep aside Bruce Bradley of Oshawa, 5 and 4.

Gordon Taylor earned his semi-final position by a 3 and 2 win over J. G. (Sonny) Adams of Scarboro, while his brother Don eliminated Mike Haight of Toronto Royal York, 3 and 2. Mooers was given a stiff battle by Jack Nash of London Hunt before he came out on top by a 2 and 1 margin.

Orioles Subdued by Rochester When Raffensberger Allows but Six Hits

No matter how far behind they get, these International League alsorans never seem to stop trying.

Today the last-place Toronto Maple Leafs are 17 games off the pace set by Rochester's Red Wings and Syracuse Chiefs, in the fourth spot, are eight games behind the Wings. Yet their doubleheader last night provided as lively a pair of games as one could wish and, to add conviction to their efforts to get ahead, both announced the acquisition of new players.

Tony Lazzeri, Toronto's new manager who hasn't had a chance yet to see his team in action, recalled young Phil Marchildon from Cornwall of the Canadian-American League to fill one of the pitching spots vacated by an earlier deal. Then Syracuse bought outfielder Bobby Porter, whom the Leafs had sent on option to Wilkesbarre of the Eastern League Wednesday, and promptly sent him against his former teammates.

Porter failed to get a hit in either game as Toronto took the opener 4-2, in a mound duel between Earl Caldwell and Jake Mooty, but his teammates piled up 13 blows to win the second game by the same count.

Elliott Triples.

Each flinger allowed five hits in the opener and the Leafs won in an extra inning when Dick Elliott tripled with one on, then scored on a sacrifice fly. Ex-manager Jack Burns of Toronto belted his fifth homer in five games. In the nightcap Syracuse belted "Pretzel" Pezzullo out in six innings, but the game was close because of Ted Kleinhan's wildness.

Buffalo and Newark also split a doubleheader last night while Rochester swamped Baltimore, 9-0, and Jersey City went 14 innings in the afternoon to take a 10-9 decision from Montreal.

Although limited to four hits by Norman Branch, the Bisons beat Newark in their twilight tilt, 3-2, when Ray Mack doubled in the seventh and was sacrificed home. Al Smith gave Newark six blows. The Bears won under the lights, 13-8, on a seven-run eighth inning uprising started by Tommy Holmes' triple with three on and carried on by Pete Suder's homer with two aboard.

Raffensberger Wins.

Rochester's Ken Raffensberger subdued the Orioles with six hits and eight strikeouts while Sam Narron smacked out four singles for the winners.

Montreal scored six runs in the first inning at Jersey City and collected a total of 18 hits, but the Little Giants matched the big rally in the eighth and went on to win when Sam Nahem uncorked two successive wild pitches in the fourteenth after Ray Honeycutt had singled and had been sacrificed to second.

ORILLIA TERRIERS TAKE BRAMPTON

Three Players Suspended for Activities in California Join Winners

Toronto, June 17 (CP)—The experts are predicting great things for Orillia Terriers in the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Minus three players the calibre of Vern Steggall, Bill Brunskill and Shipwreck Kelly, the former monarchs of Canadian lacrosse have managed to stay in the league van, holding a tie with Hamilton Tigers two points behind St. Catharines.

Thursday the three players came back to help the Orillians defeat Brampton 18-13, forgiven by the Canadian Lacrosse Association for their outlaw activities in California leagues last winter. Moe Thompson and Bill Arthur rejoined the Excelsiors after similar suspensions.

By sticking blanket checks on Bill Isaacs and Bob Jamieson, St. Catharines Athletics halted the five-game march of Hamilton Tigers last night, doubling the score on the Bengals, 18-9. After a 2-2 deadlock in the first quarter, the Mann Cuppers took control to coast home on top.

Tigers christened their new floodlit home Wednesday by taking Fergus 11-8. The field, seating 4,000 people around the largest playing surface in Ontario, ranks with the best outdoor lacrosse plants in Canada.

Notoriously weak on the road, Mimico Mountaineers ran true to form during the week by winning 10-8 at home from Terriers Tuesday and losing 15-12 at Fergus last night. The Thistles earned their tie with Mountaineers in the league's fourth place by refusing to relinquish the lead they earned in the first period.

Ragweed in School Yards Should be Removed Says Nurse

Numbers of Belleville school children allergic to the pollen have been suffering from hay fever, caused by the heavy growth of ragweed in some of the school grounds.

Last evening in her regular monthly report to the Board of Education Miss Earshman urged that something be done about the eradication of this weed which has made rigid growth this year. The request was turned over to the special Sites, Buildings and Repairs Committee for action.

This is the first complaint registered of this nature in the records of the local Board. Pine Street, Queen Mary and King George school grounds have been particularly infested with the weed, it was stated.

WORKER ADMITS KILLING FAMILY

Syracuse Resident Walks Into Police Station and Gives Self Up

Syracuse, N.Y., June 17 (AP) — Chief of Police Thomas Brock of nearby Solvay said last night Boleslaw Waszkiewicz, 45 year old steel worker, strangled his wife and two sons with clothes line and then walked into police headquarters to surrender.

"I've just murdered my family," the chief quoted Waszkiewicz, as saying.

Chief Brock said the bodies of the victims, Mrs. Sabina Waszkiewicz, 42, and the couple's sons, Chester, 19, and Leonard, 9, were found in the family home at Solvay.

William E. Bowers, assistant District Attorney, said Waszkiewicz told him he had intended to kill another son and a daughter, but changed his mind.

"My family and I never had any arguments," Bowers quoted Waszkiewicz as saying. "They were awful nice to me. But I have been nervous for some time, maybe a year."

The prosecutor said Waszkiewicz would be charged with first degree murder.

PLOT DISCOVERED TO KILL CAROL

Six Men Charged With Preparation of Grenades to be Used

Bucharest, June 17—(AP)—Discovery of a plot to assassinate King Carol was announced by police today.

Six men were under arrest charged with preparing quantities of hand grenades for the attempt.

Police said they were identified as members of the outlawed Nazi Iron Guard.

Premier Armand Calinescu, Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu and other members of the government also were reported marked for death by the band.

Investigators indicated the six had been employees of the Bucharest Army Arsenal.

50 Arrests Expected

Police said that a "half hundred" arrests were expected shortly. Scores of detectives started raids on homes of former Iron Guard members. Twenty-two hand grenades were reported discovered in the home of one of the arrested men.

It was the third assassination plot reported against King Carol or members of the government since the first of the year. In January a premature bomb explosion led to the arrest of Iron Guard members whom police accused of plotting to kill Carol. Twenty-five Guardists were arrested early in February.

Arrests Are Surprise

Today's arrests came as a surprise to the capital for the government had boasted that the Iron Guard had been liquidated. The organization, which specialized in anti-semitism and was closely patterned after Nazi German ideas, was outlawed some time ago by the King. Its leader, Corneliu Codreanu, who was known as Rumania's "Little Hitler," and 13 of his assistants were killed Nov. 30, 1938, "while attempting to flee' a concentration camp.

Police said that they believed the alleged assassination attempt had been set for tomorrow.

TENSE RELATIONS

"Once the guns go off ,the diplomatic struggle may end and the plunge toward war started," they said. They added that everyone involved appreciated the risks and had taken all precautions to avoid them.

The British Foreign Office warned in a communique yesterday that "an extremely serious situation will arise" from Japanese persistence in "new demands" and that "the British Government will have to consider what immediate and active steps they can take for the protection of British interests in China."

Additional Conditions.

(The blockade was imposed originally because British authorities refused to hand over to Japanese four Chinese accused by Japanese of killing a Tientsin official. Since then Japanese informants have outlined these additional conditions for settlement of the dispute: strict control of anti-Japanese organizations; cessation of "economic disturbances in North China", delivery of 50,000,000 Chinese dollars (about $6,000,000) deposited in the concession by the Chinese Nationalist Government; unconditional surrender by the British authorities on all issues involved, including "sweeping pledges of future cooperation with Japanese authorities.")

Dispatches reaching Shanghai from Amoy, South China, reported Japan was maintaining a strict blockade of Amoy's international zone, with passage permitted only to those junks which flew a special Japanese flag and were registered with Amoy naval headquarters. Chinese junk owners hesitated to display the flag for fear of reprisals upon reaching Chinese-controlled territory to obtain food supplies.

May Send Destroyer.

It was reported in reliable Shanghai quarters that the British authorities planned sending a destroyer to Peitasho from Weihaiwei within a few days to investigate the status of Britain summering in that North China beach resort. Japanese were understood recently to have taken a census of all foreigners at Peitasho. Britons feared that might foreshadow a possible blockade there.

Eric Mayell, a British newsreel cameraman released after Japanese soldiers had held him prisoner since Wednesday, said he was treated courteously. He signed a statement expressing regret if he had done anything wrong in taking pictures of Japanese near blockaded concessions and promising to ask permission to photograph in the future. Mayell once lived in British Columbia.

LIGHTNING KILLS TWENTY-ONE COWS NEAR STIRLING

Angus Farrell, Rawdon, Loses Fourteen and Percy Utman, Sidney, Loses Seven

WERE INSURED

Stirling, Ont., (Special) — Lightning in one of the worst electrical storms experienced in this district, brought death to twenty-one cattle between midnight and three a.m. today.

Fourteen cows of a herd of forty-five head were killed on the farm of Angus Farrell, 5th. concession of Rawdon, near West Huntingdon, when a bolt struck a tree under which the herd had taken refuge. The loss is the second major one in a year, Farrell having had his barn and crop destroyed by fire last year. The cattle were insured, it is stated.

Seven head of cattle, the property of Percy Utman, 9th. concession of Sidney, also met instant death by lightning while lying beneath a tree to escape the deluging rain that fell. The cattle were insured.

The rain, however, was greatly appreciated by farmers of the district and will bring badly-needed life to crops that were rapidly drying up from lack of moisture.

Shanty Casteen was a sparse, tough, agate-eyed man who first saw the light of day in a shanty on the city dump. Orphaned at the age of six, he became a milk-and-bread-robbing street urchin. Later he was variously and progressively, a pickpocket, burglar—and finally a patient in the Lorraine hospital.

It was there young Dr. Dan Allen performed a miracle of surgery by removing a bullet from the lean fringes of Shanty's heart.

The law had placed the bullet there. It also placed Patrolman Tim Moriarity at the convalescent's bedside. The guard a talkative man, strolled down the corridor for a drink of water one night during the doctor's visit. When he returned, after a protracted give-and-take with the charwoman at the cooler, he found Doctor Allen lying unconscious beside the untenanted bed.

Unconscious and disrobed! Shanty Casteen had garbed himself in the doctor's suit after tapping him on the head with the crank of a bed-raiser! The window at the fire escape was open.

In the days that followed, Shanty thought often of the strong, skilled fingers that had snatched him from the grave. Into his remorse-tortured mind came often the vision of the young medico's dark-haired sweetheart who once had bent pityingly over his bed. She was a great singer, yet Doctor Allen had brought her in to see him —Shanty Casteen!

Shanty somewhere in his misspent career had learned to read. He swore when he saw in a paper that Doctor Allen had been forced by criticism to resign from the hospital. The newspaper also had on its front page the announcement that Miss Elsie Vincent, well-known soprano, had broken her engagement with Doctor Allen and was leaving for the Coast.

And so it come to pass that anger, remorse and sympathy were blended with Shanty's native cupidity as he sat, with three mail robbers in a den on Eighth avenue at 2 a.m.

Four pairs of hands were deftly slitting the canvas sacks and tearing open the envelopes they contained. It had been a special delivery truck. Even intelligent people will send cash through the mails via special delivery—a fact copiously evidenced by the mounting pile of banknotes on the floor.

The name fairly leaped up and smacked Shanty between the eyes! "Dr. Daniel Allen 210 Brighton Place, Apt. C., City." And up in the lefthand corner in the initials "E.V."

With fumbling fingers Shanty tore open the envelope, spread out the scented square, read:

"Dear Dan: This letter will reach you early in the morning. Telephone me at once. I shall wait at the phone. If you don't call, I will take the noon plane for San Francisco. If you call, I'll give up my career—f.ery\ing..."

Shanty tucked the letter back in its envelope and scrambled swiftly to his feet.

"Hey!" rasped Red Grubbin. "Wot's the idee?"

He heard a snarling threat, heard Red's deadly voice commanding him to stop. As he pulled the door open, his progress over the sill was accelerated by the impact of a bullet under the shoulder blade. He did not stop running until he reached a brightly lighted street. "Six blocks," he muttered, reducing his flight to a shuffling walk. "That ain't far."

Tiny stars danced in a black curtain before his eyes but he came finally to a large apartment house. In the lobby he scanned the mail boxes until he found the name of Doctor Allen. With a deep sigh he dropped the blood-stained letter into the slot and rang the bell.

He started back toward Eighth avenue, pressing his hand hard at his side. The blood trickled down the calf of his leg, flowed into his left shoe.

When Shanty came within sight of the alley he saw a police car and a patrol wagon parked at the entrance. The alley was swarming with cops and detectives. Shanty gasped as he saw Red and the two others being hauled to the wagon.

Stealthily he edged around the corner and started back over the route he had traversed. He spat. and saw it was blood. His knees buckled, so that he had to grab hold of a lamp post to keep from falling.

Maybe the doctor would get married and buy a little house in the country. He would need a gardener. Shanty choked and spat again. He would make a good gardener . . ."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was just starting to look comfortable in his private chair after supper and ma said, What's the hardest thing to get rid of, Willyum?

A superiority complex, pop said, and ma said, No, a young insurance salesman. I wish my friends would stop sending their young relatives over to try to sell me things. After all, friendship is one thing and imposition is another, she said.

But often the twain do meet, pop said, and ma said, The latest visitation was a young man in a nice looking tweed suit with a note from Clara Chivers introducing him as her neffew, but my lands we cant afford any more insurance no matter whose neffew comes around.

And that goes for their sisters and their cousins and their ants, pop said. I hope he was gracious about being kicked out again, he said, and ma said, Well I could hardly be abrupt with him. In the first place it's impossible to be blunt with somebody who's talking to you in sort of hushed tones about anything as serious as life insurance with all its worst implications, and in the 2nd place Clara Chivers was one of my bridesmaids. But he just wouldn't take no for an answer, in a nice young tweedy way, I mean, but finely I hit on a master stroke and there was nothing further for him to do but go. I told him that you handle all such matters exclusively and he might as well be talking to a straw in the wind as to me, so he insisted that he would come back this evening to talk to you, ma said.

NINETY FLAVORS
CLARA CHIVERS

Yee gods I'm not home, pop said, and ma said, But I cant very well keep him out because Clara Chivers is coming with him under the guize of a friendly call, she called me up later and said so, so maybe you really had better be out, Willyum.

I'll say I had, the bowling alley calls and I'm answering it's siren voice by way of the secret subterranean passage, I'm not taking any chances, pop said.

Meaning he was going out by the back way, wich he did.

TORONTO STOCKS CLOSE

Toronto, June 17 (CP)—Narrow gains for the senior oils gave the Toronto stock market its only cheerful note in the final session of the week. Other industrials were inclined to softness with the mines and the western oils while volume was decidedly light over the board. Fewer than 150,000 shares changed hands in the two-hour session.

Canadian Car issues were dull like the other steels and fractional declines were boarded by Car Pfd., National Steel Car and Page-Hersey. Except for a point gain for Consumers Gas, Utilities eased off narrowly. Imperial Oil and International Petroleum added ¼ to ⅜.

In slow action losses of 4 to 10 cents were netted by Wright-Hargreaves, Teck Hughes and Perron and other issues off a cent or two were East Malartic, Kirkland Lake and Malartic Goldfields. McIntyre dropped about ¾ and Buffalo Ankerite and Dome closed down ¼ to ½.

Two of the big Base Metal issues, Noranda and Nickel, recovered part of their Friday losses in slow trading and Waite-Amulet registered a minor gain.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, June 17—A fairly good brand of domestic news helped counteract continuance of far eastern tension in today's stock market and leading issues rallied fractionally to a point or so.

Traders inclined to step carefully, though even among the favorites, and the two-hour volume of approximately 200,000 shares was one of the smallest of the year to date. While there were scattered losers at the close, trends generally slanted upwards.

Well on the upside most of the day were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, J. I. Case, Eastern Air Lines, Westinghouse, American Can, U.S. Gypsum, Santa Fe, Great Northern, Standard Oil of N.J., American Smelting and American Telephone.

Dome and McIntyre Porcupine were nicked for fractional losses in the Canadian division. While C.P.R. was a trifle higher. Dominion 4s were in fair demand.

NEW MAURETANIA ENTERS SERVICE

Has the Distinction of Being the Largest Passenger Ship Built in England

Liverpool, June 17 —(CP)— A new Mauretania entered service of the North Atlantic route today to carry on the traditions of her famous namesake. The liner was due to sail at 7 p.m. (2 p.m. EDT) on her maiden voyage to New York.

Slightly larger than the old Mauretania, which was retired from service four years ago, the new vessel is designed as an "in-between' size liner. She displaces 33,000 tons, compared with the 84,000 gross tonnage of the nearly-completed Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mary's 81,235.

She has a speed of 25 knots slightly slower than the old Mauretania which held the blue riband for 22 of the 27 years she sailed the Atlantic. The new ship will make the crossing in 5 1-2 days.

Built by Cammell Laird & Co., of Birkenhead, the 10-deck Mauretania has the distinction of being the largest passenger ship constructed in England. She has an overall length of 772 feet, and her graceful lines are set off by two funnels. Luxurious accommodations are provided in the new ship for 1,500 passengers, divided into cabin, tourist and third class.

Dining rooms, lounges, smoking rooms and bars have been decorated in mellow tones and fine woods and fitted with comfortable chairs of the latest design. In addition, there is a tiled swimming pool with non-lip marble paving, a 1,400-volume library, fully equipped gymnasiums, promenade decks, playrooms for children and dance floors and motion picture theatre for adults. Eleven elevators are provided for passengers and luggage.

CAMPBELLFORD CHEESE GRADE HIGH THIS WEEK

Following the first grading of cheese in the section under the new bonus system, it is estimated that about one-half the factories of Campbellford area this week will receive the bonus with cheese scoring 93 points or higher.

Grading of the cheese was carried out by T. J. Hicks, chief dairy produce grader of the federal department, Ottawa, assisted by H. Kay of the grading staff, Calgary, Alberta, visiting in the district. Mr. Hicks complimented makers of the district, and Mr. Murray, dairy instructor, for the high quality of cheese on the Campbellford board.

There were 432 boxes graded, a smaller number than usual due to the fact that last of the May cheese were boarded this week.

FIRST OF CROP SEEN IN CITY

New potatoes, the first of the season, grown in the garden of Charles Gatcum, Donald Street were brought to the office of the Ontario-Intelligencer today.

The new "spuds" are of exceptionally fine quality, with the largest measuring a little over one and one-half inches in diameter.

Mr. Gatcum harvested the first potatoes of the season on June 4th, he said adding that he thought he had established a record for early production, not only in the city but in the rural areas.

REMOVE DECORATIONS FROM CITY HALL

Coincident with the departure of their Majesties the King and Queen from Canada yesterday, Belleville's Royal regalia which provided such a gay and colorful scene in the downtown areas of the city was taken down yesterday. Firemen commenced the work of stripping the decorations from the city hall early in the afternoon to find much of the bunting and many of the flags torn and wind whipped by their lengthy stay. Today only a few scattered flags in the residential sections, and bits of bunting still drooping from verandahs of homes served to remind Belleville residents of the dressing and decorating completed by citizens for the visit.

SERVICES TO FAIR GIVEN RECOGNITION

Mr. Alex Hume, a member of the Seymour Agricultural Society of Durham County for the past more than fifty years has been honored by the presentation at Campbellford this week of the Ontario agricultural service diploma "for fine services rendered". The diploma, presented to those who have rendered outstanding service in the field of agriculture was given Mr. Hume at a meeting of the society by Past President Ernest McCook.

STRAWBERRIES SELL AT 20c

Good Offering on Market Today Quickly Bought Up —Good Crop Expected

A red wave of new strawberries, coming as it were from the proverbial blue sky, descended on the city market today to be greeted by a surprised buying public, that, however, quickly reacted to the shock and showed their appreciation in a brisk buying splurge that left everyone satisfied.

The fruit, the first of the home-grown products to be offered for market sale this year, appeared to be of fine quality and size, while the price was considered to be a fair indication of the crop. The majority of vendors (and practically every seller on the market had the luscious fruit for sale,) offered their stocks at 20 cents per box during the early hours and while a few that had the choicer qualities held out for this price all day, others dropped their quotations to two boxes for 35 cents.

"The rain did it," a prominent Prince Edward County vendor of strawberries stated. "A week ago I wouldn't have given a nickel for the crop, but the intermittent showers that we have had during the past week, interspersed with some warm sunshine brought the crop to maturity practically overnight."

"However," he added, "there will be plenty of berries, and these prices won't hold up for long."

There was a heavy offering of farm and dairy produce on the market today with prices holding firm at last week's quotations. Eggs were plentiful and sold at 22c and 23c for extra "A" selects, with the slightly inferior qualities going at one cent less. Mediums were offered at 20c and 21c per dozen.

Broiler chickens headed the fowl offering in the inside market, with choice weighty birds selling at $1.25 per pair. Other qualities ranged in price from 65c per pair up. Fowl was quoted from 55c for fair quality birds.

New spring vegetables were plentiful with asparagus, in rapidly decreasing quantities selling a 5 cents per bunch. Quality is not as good as in former offerings, but buying was fairly brisk. Onions, radishes and beet-tops, fresh from district gardens sold at 5 cents per bunch, with large bunches of rhubarb going at the same price.

There were no new potatoes offered, but little change was noted in quotations of last year's stocks. 90-pound bags held firm at $1.25 and $1.35 for choice quality "spuds" with lower grades selling at a few cents less.

Flowering plants and shrubs, and cut flowers added a colorful touch to the greens of the vegetables, and sold at popular prices. Pure-bred Airedale pups offered by a Wellington resident proved popular and four of the little fellows found new homes at a reported price of $12.50 each.

Young pig prices were firm with five and six-weeks old porkers selling at between $6.00 and $8.00 each. Business, however, was anything but brisk.

Fresh lake trout and whitefish with a smattering of pickerel featured the fish display with the former selling at 20 cents per pound. Whitefish was quoted at 18 cents and pickerel at 15 cents per pound.

Provincial Police Confirm Report of Dropped of Missile

Smoke Bomb Fell Three Miles from Prescribed Area — Was Not Highly Explosive

DROPPED BY ACCIDENT

Provincial police of this city detachment making an investigation of the bombing incident at Consecon Point on Lake Ontario last week, as the result of a request by Wing Commander C. McEwen of the Royal Canadian Air Force Base, Trenton, have found that one smoke bomb had been dropped accidental on private property at the Point near the location of several cottages of the fishing colony there.

Provincial Constable W. E. Smith reported he had talked with fishermen there, but none had complained their lives had actually been endangered by the bomb, which fell nearly three miles from the prescribed area of the bombing range. The bomb was not of highly explosive nature, but did contain enough detonating agent to rupture the casing and release the chemicals which provide the smoke. A deep hole was made in the ground, from which location fishermen salvaged a fuse cap of the shell.

OPTIMISM FELT ON POSSIBILITY OF SHOE PLANT

Vice President of Bata Company Interviewed at Toronto on Plans

Reports that five thousand Czechs will settle down near the village of Frankford in the event the Bata Shoe Company erects a shoe manufacturing plant there were labelled today as "ridiculous" by Reeve George Spencer of that village.

"There are plenty of street rumors being circulated and that is apparently one of them", he said.

In the event that arrangements are made by the government to allow the Czech keymen, experts and technicians into Canada so that construction operations can be started, the company will ask that two hundred and fifty of these men be allowed to enter Canada. This number again will in all likelihood undergo a substantial reduction, Reeve Spencer stated.

Negotiations Going on For Some Time

Negotiations with company representatives have been going on for some time, Reeve Spencer stated, and satisfactory progress was made insofar as sites and woodlands were concerned, the reeve stated.

He regretted the possibility that certain restructions imposed by the government might prevent the project from becoming an actual reality. "The benefits to the village and surrounding district will be inestimable, regardless of the fact that the company intends to build a self-contained village in this neighborhood. It means a tremendous boost to business, while farmers will benefit in a manner that will be reminiscent of earlier days".

Officials of the company were very optimistic regarding the proposed location near Frankford, it was stated "It is as nearly ideal for the purpose as any site to be found in Canada" the reeve said.

Key Men Vital

In the Toronto Globe and Mail today appears an interview by Wellington Jeffers, financial editor, with Thomas Bata, vice president of the Canadian Bata, organization. The interview follows:—

The Canadian government is now debating whether or not it will admit into Canada certain key men, mainly engineers, desired by the Bata Shoe Company, world-famous manufacturers and exporters of shoes from Czecho-Slovakia and Great Britain. Thomas Bata, vice-president of the existing Canadian company and a nephew of J. A. Bata who heads both the parent and Canadian companies, said yesterday that the plant would only be built in Canada if these men were admitted, and he added that many of these men would be temporary residents of Canada until Canadians were trained to take their places. They would then return to the parent company.

Asked to comment on reports that other boot and shoe manufacturers in Canada are asking Ottawa not to permit the entry of these key men to Canada on the ground that shoe-making equipment already in Canada is not fully employed at the present time, Mr. Bata said that whatever plant is built initially in Canada will probably have all it can do in the early stages to look after the British Empire business of the English firm. The English plants were established by the company six years ago and have been expanding and going at full capacity ever since, and have now within the British Isles practically all the orders that they can cope with. If the Dominion government allows their engineers and key men entry, it is hoped that the export business developed by the English company will be served from Canada.

The Bata Shoe Company already exports shoes from England to Canada and sooner or later any factories started up here would take care of that business and any other business they could get. The first effort, however, would be after export business. If that business develops as hoped, the initial plant would be increased and more and more employment given to Canadians. The company is seeking no capital investment from Canadians and will invest its own money in the creation of the plant and equipment necessary.

Asked if there is any opposition on the part of unions to the entry of his key men, Mr. Bata stated that he did not want, if it could possibly be avoided, to get into controversy with any class of Canadian citizens, whether manufacturers or unions. He frankly stated, however, that it had always been the policy of the Bata Shoe Company to permit no organization to stand between it and its employees.
